General Comment

There has been increased pressure from NARAL and other Pro-Abortion Political Action Committees who are trying to persuade congress to eliminate the religious exemptions in every possible way. Contraceptives are so widely available through free clinics that forcing religious organizations and or employers to provide access to these is unthinkable. I shouldn't even have to write this comment, it should be generally understood that religion is protected so that their sacred beliefs are not interfered with by the government. Please do not give in to the political pressure by anti-religious establishments.
