Dear Sir(s):

An investigation conducted by this office of Sun Valley Orchards, LLC d/b/a Sun Valley Orchards, relating to the requirements applicable to the employment of H-2A and other workers under the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) as amended by the Immigration Reform and Control Act (IRCA) (8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a),1184(c) and 1186) in Flemington, New Jersey, covering the period from April 13, 2015 through October 10, 2015, disclosed that Sun Valley Orchards, LLC failed to comply with Section 218 of the INA and applicable regulations at 20 C.F.R. As a consequence of these H-2A violations, $369,703.22 in unpaid wages are owed to one hundred and forty seven workers. The specific violations and the wages owed associated with them are set forth in the attached matrix entitled Summary of Violations.

In addition, pursuant to Section 218(g)(2) of the INA and its implementing regulations at 29 C.F.R. Part 501, civil money penalties are hereby assessed in the amount of $212,250.00. The specific violations and the civil money penalties associated with them are set forth in the attached matrix entitled Summary of Violations.

The full amount(s) reflected above $581,953.22 is due and payable within 30 days to "Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor." Payments by certified check or money order should be delivered or mailed to:

U.S. Department of Labor
Wage and Hour Division
The Curtis Center, Suite 850 West
170 S. Independence Mall West
Philadelphia, PA 19106-3317

The fact that the above sanctions/remedies are being imposed for the H-2A violations found at this time does not preclude the taking of other enforcement action as is deemed appropriate by the Department of Labor, or the additional assessments of back wages or civil money penalties for violations of the H-2A provisions found at some future time.. Such other enforcement action may include the pursuit of unpaid wages, injunctive action, specific performance of the work contract, and denial or revocation of temporary alien agricultural labor certification.

The dollar amount(s) reflected above constitute a debt owed to the Federal government. This debt is subject to the assessment of interest, administrative cost charges and penalties in accordance with the Debt Collection Act of 1982, and departmental policies. Interest will be assessed at the Treasury Tax and Loan Account Rate on any balance outstanding from the date of this notice, accruing from the notice date. Administrative cost charges will be assessed to help defray the Government's cost of collecting this debt. A penalty at the rate of 6% will be assessed on any portion of the debt remaining delinquent for more than 90 days. In order to avoid these charges, forward payments to the office listed above by the indicated due date.

You have the right to request a hearing on the determination that any or all of the violations occurred. Such request must be dated and in writing; must contain specific reasons why you believe that the violations for which you have been charged did not occur; and must be received within 30 days from the date of this letter by the Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Room S-3502, Washington, D.C. 20210, with a copy to this office. The procedure for requesting a hearing is provided in Section 501.33 of Regulations, 29 CFR 501. If a request for a hearing is not received within the time specified, the determination of the Administrator shall become the final and unappealable Order of the Secretary.

We would like to call to your attention that when a request for a hearing is filed with the Wage and Hour Administrator, the matter is referred to the Chief Administrative Law Judge. A formal hearing is then scheduled for a final determination with respect to the alleged violations. At such hearing you may, by yourself or through an attorney retained by you, present such witnesses, introduce such evidence and establish such facts as you believe will support your position.

Copies of Section 218 of INA and Regulations, 20 CFR Part 655 and 29 CFR Part 501 can be viewed at www.dol.gov.

Finally, we wish to point out that there may be a question as to the deductibility of civil money penalties paid as a business expense under the Internal Revenue Code. In this regard, you may wish to contact the Internal Revenue Service.

Summary of Violations

Regulatory Requirement Violated	Summary Description	Unpaid Wages Owed	Civil Money Penalty
20 C.F.R. §655.122(d)(1)	Employer failed to provide for or secure housing for those workers who are not reasonably able to return to their permanent residence at the end of the work day, without charge to the worker, that complies with the applicable housing safety and health standards. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the housing facility provided for workers was missing window screens and had screen doors not in good repair contributing to the insect infestation throughout the camp. Several bathroom sinks did not have hot water, refuse containers throughout facility were missing fly tight lids and multiple mattresses used by occupants for sleeping purposes were directly on the floor without a bed frame.	$0.00	$3,600.00
20 C.F.R. §655.122(g)	Failure to comply with "meals" requirement(s). Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the employer failed to provide free and convenient cooking and kitchen facilities to the workers that would enable them to prepare their own meals. The job offers for these contracts specifically stated that these facilities would be provided to workers. When the employer provides a meal plan, the job offer for the contract must state the charge for such meals, including drinks. The job offer for these contracts does not contain disclosure of meal charges and as such all meal and drink charges must be returned to the workers resulting in back wages being due to 147 affected workers.	$234,079.28	$198,450.00
20 C.F.R. §655.122(h)(4)	Failure to provide transportation in compliance with all applicable Federal, State, or local laws and regulations between the worker's living quarters and the employer's worksite without cost to the worker. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that three of the five vehicles used to	$0.00	$7,500.00

	transport workers had insufficient tread on the tires for safe operation and one had a non-functioning rear directional. Additionally, the five vehicles used to transport H-2A and corresponding workers were operated by drivers who failed to possess valid, unexpired driver's licenses recognized by the State of New Jersey for operation of same.
20 C.F.R. §655.122(i)	Failure to comply with the three-fourths guarantee. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that 19 of the H-2A workers on the first contract of 2015 did not meet the ¾ guarantee since they were constructively forced to return home prior to the end of the contract period due to the myriad of misrepresentations on the contract, poor housing conditions, lack of transportation and general mistreatment by the employer and or his farm labor contractor. Additionally, 6 other workers employed in 2015 did not meet the ¾ guarantee based on a review of payroll records.	$135,623.94	$1,350.00
20 C.F.R. §655.122(q)	Failure to comply with requirement to disclose the work contract. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the employer provided a copy of the worker contract that did not contain the actual conditions of employment. The contracts do not address the "meal plan" charges and misrepresent that free cooking facilities will be provided to the workers along with free transportation to purchase food. The kitchen facilities were locked, workers had no access to the kitchen for preparation of meals and transportation to purchase food was not provided.	$0.00	$0.00
20 C.F.R. §655.122(p)	Failure to comply with "deductions" requirement(s). Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the job offer did not specify "all" the deductions not required by law which the employer will make from workers' pay checks. The "meal plan" was not disclosed in the job offer or the contract. The back wages associated with this violation and penalty for same are addressed above in 20 CFR 655.122(g).	$0.00	$0.00

Workers left the job early due to the conditions stated above in 20 CFR 655.122(i) and/or because of misrepresentations by the employer and/or his farm labor contractor.	$0.00	$1,350.00

Re: Request For Hearing Regarding Notice of Determination of Wages Owed and Assessment of Civil Money Penalties, No. 1765359 dated June 22, 2016

Dear Dr. Weil and Ms. Rachor:

Sun Valley Orchards, LLC ("Sun Valley") has retained this firm in connection with the above-referenced matter. Sun Valley requests a hearing as to every factual and legal issue raised by the Notice of Determination of Wages Owed and Assessment of Civil Money Penalties, No. 1765359 dated June 22, 2016 ("Notice").

Sun Valley Orchards is a family farm operated by 4 generations of the Marino family dating back almost 100 years. Sun Valley grows, packs, and distributes fresh market freestone peaches, cucumbers, squash, pickles, peppers, and asparagus on more than 2,000 acres of farmland in Swedesboro, New Jersey. Sun Valley is one of the largest growers, shippers, and packers in New Jersey.

The 2015 growing season was Sun Valley's first in the H-2A program after it was unable to find and hire enough qualified people to perform the seasonal work. For the 2015 season, which was the season giving rise to the current case, the Department of Labor ("DOL") certified Sun Valley for 40 workers for the period of April 13, 2015 to October 10, 2015 and 60 workers for the period of June 1, 2015 to October 10, 2015.

The Wage and Hour Division of DOL (WHD) investigated Sun Valley with respect to the H-2A certifications for the period of April 13. 2015 through October 10, 2015. The WHD Notice dated June 22, 2016 contends the Sun Valley failed to comply with the requirements of the DOL H-2A regulations. The Notice provides few details but has two primary allegations against Sun Valley: (1) that workers were not offered three-fourths of the hours of work as set forth in the job orders; and (2) the workers were provided a meal plan instead of cooking facilities for them to use on their own. The Notice also seeks civil money penalties (CMPs) related to allegations of minor housing and local transportation issues, and claiming that workers were asked to waive their rights under the H-2A program. There are also allegations for which no back wages or civil money penalties are associated in the Notice. In all, WHD seeks $369,703.22 in back wages for 147 workers and $212,250.00 in CMPs.

Sun Valley requests a hearing on every factual and legal issue raised by the Notice. The Notice alleges the violations described above, but fails to identify any of the workers or offer any information that would support those allegations. Sun Valley denies that it committed any of the violations alleged, and will defend itself vehemently against these charges. The allegations are false and the assessment of back wages and CMPs are legally unsupportable and erroneous.

The Notice appears (although it is impossible to discern with certainty, given the lack of information provided) to assess back wages for 100% of the DOL-approved meal rate that the workers paid for the 3 prepared meals per day for 6 months that the workers ate without raising an issue – not the difference between the fair market value of the meals provided and the cost of purchasing their own groceries and preparing their own meals (which would exceed the cost of the actual meals provided). The H-2A regulations absolutely do not require double-payment of this sort – essentially providing 6 meals per day per worker for the entire season. To the extent that the Administrative Law Judge finds any violation of the terms and conditions of the job order regarding meals for workers, the method used by WHD for calculating back wages and CMPs is clearly erroneous.

With respect to the three-fourths guarantee allegations, 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(n) provides that the obligation to offer (or pay for) the hours in question ends if the worker voluntarily terminates employment and the employer reports the early termination to DOL's Chicago National Processing Center (CNPC) and DHS. Here, there were two groups of workers who terminated employment before the end of the period-of-need in the job order. One group left very early in the season, but turned in their employee ID cards and signed documents explaining their reason for terminating their employment early. Sun Valley timely provided the required notice of these departures to CNPC and DHS, as required in the regulations. The workers were not asked to "waive their rights," since they had already decided to terminate their employment voluntarily (at great disadvantage to Sun Valley, which needed a full complement of workers to perform the work on the farm), they were simply asked to execute a document explaining why they had made their decision, as part of Sun Valley's reporting to CNPC and DHS on the voluntary terminations. For workers who terminated their employment late in the season, they had already worked and been compensated for at least three-fourths of the hours offered in the job order. Thus, no back wages (or CMPs) are owed for either group of workers, pursuant to DOL's own regulations.

In addition to the factual and legal arguments set forth above, Sun Valley reserves its right to challenge the June 22 Notice based on all legal grounds available to it. Beyond these arguments, which will establish that Sun Valley has no liability for any of the alleged violations, Sun Valley challenges the calculation and assessment of CMPs. None are warranted because there were no violations, but the amounts assessed are at or near the maximum possible. The Notice offers neither explanation nor factual basis for these calculations. Application of the factors listed in 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(b) for determining appropriate CMPs shows that the CMPs are too high, assuming for the sake of argument, that there is an underlying back wage liability. Sun Valley demands strict proof that the CMPs were properly assessed and assessed in the correct amount.

For all of the foregoing reasons, Sun Valley Orchards denies all of the allegations asserted in the WHD Notice dated June 22, 2016, requests an evidentiary hearing before an Administrative Law Judge on these charges, and demands strict proof of any of the alleged violations and calculation of back wages and civil money penalties.

Sincerely,

Subject: Assessment of Civil Money Penalty for MSPA Violations against Agustine Hernandez FLC dba Agustine Hernandez FLC

Case File No.: 1766737

Dear Mr. Hernandez:

An investigation of your operation under the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act (MSPA) covering the period 04/05/2015 to 10/11/2015 disclosed that you failed to comply with the Act. As a result of these violations and pursuant to Section 503(a) of the Act and 29 CFR Part 500, a civil money penalty is hereby assessed. The specific violation(s) and the amount assessed for the violation(s) is set forth on the attached.

The total civil money penalty assessed is $1,000.00.

The amount is due and payable within 30 days to "Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor". Payment by certified check or money order should be mailed to Northeast Regional Office, The Curtis Center, Suite 850 West, 170 S. Independence Mall West, Philadelphia, PA 19106-3323. The fact that a penalty is being assessed for the MSPA violations found at this time does not preclude the taking of other enforcement action as is deemed appropriate by the Department of Labor, or the additional assessment of a penalty for violations of the MSPA provisions found at some future time.

This debt is subject to the assessment of interest, administrative cost charges and penalties in accordance with the Debt Collection Act of 1982 and departmental policies. Interest will be assessed at the Treasury Tax and loan account rate on any balance outstanding from the date of this notice, accruing from the notice date. This rate is currently 1 %. Administrative cost charges will be assessed to help defray the Government's cost of collecting this debt. A penalty at the rate of 6 % will be assessed on any portion of the debt remaining delinquent for more than 90 days. In order to avoid these charges, forward payment to the Regional Office listed above by the indicated due date.

You have the right to request a hearing on the determination that any or all of the violations occurred. Such request must be in writing; must contain specific reasons why you believe that the violations for which you have been charged did not occur; and must be filed within 30 days from the date of this letter with the Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor, in care of the originator of this letter at the address list in the letterhead above.

Procedure for filing a request for a hearing is provided in 29 CFR 500.212. If a request for a hearing is not received within the time specified, the determination of the Administrator shall become the final and unappealable Order of the Secretary.

We would like to call to your attention that when a request for a hearing is filed with the Wage and Hour Administrator, the matter is referred to the Chief Administrative Law Judge. A formal hearing is then scheduled for a final determination with respect to the alleged violation(s) At such hearing you may, by yourself or through an attorney retained by you, present such witnesses, introduce such evidence and establish such facts as you believe will support your position.

Copies of the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act and 29 CFR Part 500 can be viewed at www.dol.gov

Further, we wish to point out that there may be a question as to the deductibility of civil money penalties paid as a business expense under the Internal Revenue Code. In this regard, you may wish to contact the Internal Revenue Service.

If you need additional information, please contact me.

Sincerely,

Charlene Rachor
District Director

Re: Request For Hearing Regarding Assessment of Civil Money Penalties, No. 1766737 dated August 9, 2016

Dear Dr. Weil and Ms. Rachor:

The Lawrenceville, NJ regional office of the Wage & Hour Division ("WHD") issued the attached notice, dated August 9, 2016 ("Notice") assessing $1,000 in civil money penalties ("CMPs") for alleged MSPA violations against "Agustine Hernandez FLC dba Agustine Hernandez FLC." Mr. Hernandez's employer, Sun Valley Orchards, LLC ("Sun Valley") was the subject of Notice of Determination of Wages Owed and Assessment of Civil Money Penalties, No. 1765359 dated June 22, 2016 ("Sun Valley Notice"). Mr. Hernandez requests a hearing, consolidated with the hearing already requested by Sun Valley, to challenge WHD's assessment of CMPs.

Despite the caption of the Notice, Mr. Hernandez is not a MSPA farm labor contractor ("FLC") and carries no DOL FLC registration. The single charge against him in the Notice claims a "Failure to disclose conditions to workers." Nothing in the Notice identifies the regulation that Mr. Hernandez has allegedly violated, but it appears that WHD is alleging a violation of 29 C.F.R. § 500.75(b), which provides as follows:

> Each farm labor contractor, agricultural employer, and agricultural association which recruits any migrant agricultural worker shall ascertain to the best of his ability and disclose, in writing to the extent that he has obtained such information, to such worker at the time of recruitment, the following information:
> (1) The place of employment (with as much specificity as practical, such as the name and address of the employer or the association);
> (2) The wage rates (including piece rates) to be paid;
> (3) The crops and kinds of activities on which the worker may be employed;
> (4) The period of employment;
> (5) The transportation, housing, and any other employee benefits to be provided, if any, and any costs to be charged for each of them;
> (6) Whether state workers' compensation or state unemployment insurance is provided:
> (i) If workers' compensation is provided, the required disclosure must include the name of the workers' compensation insurance carrier, the name(s) of the policyholder(s), the name and telephone number of each person who must be notified of an injury or death, and the time period within which such notice must be given.
> (ii) The information requirement in paragraph (b)(6)(i) of this section may be satisfied by giving the worker a photocopy of any workers' compensation notice required by State law.

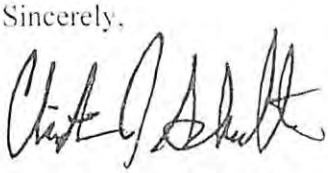
The allegation against Mr. Hernandez in the Notice matches the time frame from the Sun Valley audit by WHD that resulted in the Sun Valley Notice. With respect to the Sun Valley employees covered by that audit – and, presumably, the current Notice - Mr. Hernandez is not a farm labor contractor, he does not employ any of those workers, and he had no duty to make any of the above-described disclosures to those workers. All of the workers are solely the employees of Sun Valley and received MSPA and H-2A disclosures from Sun Valley as part of that employment. The Notice does not set forth: (1) the basis for Mr. Hernandez's alleged duty to make these disclosures; (2) "the extent that he has obtained such information" from Sun Valley; nor (3) that the Sun Valley employees did not receive all of this information from their actual employer, Sun Valley.

Accordingly, Mr. Hernandez respectfully denies any liability in this regard and requests a hearing on every factual and legal issue raised by the Notice. The Notice alleges the violations described above, but fails to identify any of the workers or offer any information that would support those allegations. Mr. Hernandez denies that it committed the violation alleged, and will defend himself vehemently against this charge. The allegations are false and the assessment of CMPs is legally unsupportable and erroneous.

In addition to the factual and legal arguments set forth above, Mr. Hernandez reserves his right to challenge the August 9 Notice based on all legal grounds available to him. Beyond these arguments, which will establish that he has no liability for the alleged violation, Mr. Hernandez challenges the calculation and assessment of CMPs. None are warranted because there was no violation, but the amounts assessed are at or near the maximum possible. The Notice offers neither explanation nor factual basis for these calculations. Application of the factors listed in 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(b) for determining appropriate CMPs shows that the CMPs are too high, assuming for the sake of argument, that there is an underlying back wage liability. Mr. Hernandez demands strict proof that the CMPs were both properly assessed and assessed in the correct amount.

For all of the foregoing reasons, Agustine Hernandez denies all of the allegations asserted in the WHD Notice dated August 9, 2016, requests an evidentiary hearing before an Administrative Law Judge on these charges, and demands strict proof of any of the alleged violations and calculation of back wages and civil money penalties.

Sincerely,



Christopher J. Schulte

NOTICE OF ASSIGNMENT

This matter has been assigned to Theresa C. Timlin, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) of the U.S. Department of Labor, for hearing and decision. All filings in this matter should be addressed to me at the address shown in the letterhead above. Telephone inquiries should be directed to Jacqueline Kaczak, Legal Assistant, at 856-486-3800, Extension 122. When contacting my office, please note that parties, their representatives, or other interested persons must not engage in ex parte communications on the merits of a case with the judge. 29 C.F.R. § 18.14.

ENTRY OF APPEARANCE BY REPRESENTATIVES

When first making an appearance, each representative must file a notice of appearance that indicates on whose behalf the appearance is made and the proceeding name and docket number. Any attorney representative must include in the notice of appearance the license registration number(s) assigned to the attorney. 29 C.F.R. § 18.22(a). An individual who is not an attorney must obtain the presiding judge's approval to serve as a representative by filing a written request to serve as a non-attorney representative that sets forth the name of the party or subpoenaed witness represented and certifies that the party or subpoenaed witness desires the representation. 29 C.F.R. § 18.22(b)(2).

PRE-HEARING PROCEDURE

The following sets the schedule for the pre-hearing procedure:

a. DISCOVERY. A party may seek discovery immediately upon issuance of this Initial Prehearing Order. 29 C.F.R. § 18.50(a)(1). The time for responding to any discovery requests made prior to the initial conference may be extended by the parties in the discovery plan agreed to during the initial conference referenced below. 29 C.F.R. § 18.50(a)(1)(i). Parties must complete all discovery at least 14 days prior the date of the evidentiary hearing. Parties should note that most discovery requests and responses are not filed with the presiding judge until they are used in the proceeding or the judge orders filing. 29 C.F.R. § 18.30(b)(1).

b. INITIAL CONFERENCE. Within 10 days from the date of this Initial Prehearing Order, the parties must meet and confer regarding the matters set forth in 29 C.F.R. § 18.50(b)(2). The initial conference may be held in person, via telephone or video conference, or other means mutually acceptable to the parties. The representatives of record and any unrepresented parties that have appeared in the case are jointly responsible for arranging the conference. For the instant case, the parties will not be required to submit a written discovery plan to the presiding judge.

c. INITIAL DISCLOSURES. Within 14 days from the date of this order, and without awaiting a formal discovery request, the parties must provide to all other parties the documents and information set forth in 29 C.F.R. § 18.50(c)(1)(i).

All disclosures must be made in writing, signed, and served. The parties must supplement the disclosures when required by 29 C.F.R. § 18.53(a). A party must make its initial disclosures based on the information then reasonably available to it. A party is not excused from making its disclosures because it has not fully investigated the case or because it challenges the sufficiency of another party's disclosures or because another party has not made its disclosures. 29 C.F.R. § 18.50(c)(1)(vi).

The initial disclosures are not filed with the presiding judge unless used in supporting a motion or other request, or if the judge orders filing.

d. PRE-HEARING DISCLOSURES AND EXCHANGES. At least 21 days before the date of the hearing the parties must:

(1) Pre-mark and exchange copies of exhibits, along with a preliminary exhibit list. Each page of multi-page exhibits must be numbered. Exhibits must be offered at the hearing. This evidence should not be submitted to the presiding judge before trial. An extra set of exhibits for witnesses to use as they testify must be provided at trial.
(2) Stipulate as to the authenticity and content of all documents which they agree should be made a part of the record. Each of the stipulated documents must be properly marked for identification at the bottom of each page as Joint Exhibit 1, 2, 3, etc., paginated, and either placed in a three-ring binder or be bound together in some other acceptable form. Stipulated joint exhibits are encouraged; such exhibits are to be offered at the hearing unless the presiding judge directs earlier submission.
(3) Exchange preliminary witness lists along with a precise statement of what the testimony of each will prove.
(4) Designate expert witnesses on the witness list, with a brief statement concerning the field of expertise and proposed testimony. Any testifying expert must have submitted a written report, which is to be marked and exchanged as indicated above. 29 C.F.R. § 18.50(c)(2).
(5) Confer on agreed facts and execute "Joint Stipulation of Agreed Facts" as appropriate. 29 C.F.R. § 18.83.

Objections to any of the proposed testimony or documentary evidence exchanged must be filed within 7 days from the date of receipt of the pre-hearing exchange of materials. Failure without good cause to file an objection within the prescribed period may result in a waiver of all objections with respect to the introduction of the testimonial or documentary evidence.

e. PREHEARING STATEMENT. At least 21 days before the date of the hearing each party must complete and deliver to the other parties and the presiding judge a Prehearing Statement containing all the information and the signature required by 29 C.F.R. § 18.80.

MOTIONS AND OTHER REQUESTS FOR RELIEF

All written motions and other requests for relief from the presiding judge, including requests for extensions of time or continuances, must be submitted in motion form, with a caption, and not by letter. The motion or other request must conform to the rules governing captions and other matters of form. 29 C.F.R. §§ 18.33, 18.34 and 18.35.

If the motion is opposed, the motion must contain a declaration that the parties have made a good faith effort but were unable to resolve the dispute giving rise to the motion before filing such motions with the presiding judge. Any motion failing to contain the required declaration may be summarily denied. The declaration is not required for unrepresented parties and for motions specified in 29 C.F.R. § 18.33(c)(3).

Motions for Summary Decision are required to be filed at least 21 days prior to the date fixed for formal hearing. 29 C.F.R. § 18.72.

PUBLIC HEARING

OALJ conducts public hearings. 29 C.F.R. § 18.81. A presumption of public access applies to the entire hearing process. Transcripts and documents filed with OALJ are subject to inspection under the Freedom of Information Act regardless of whether those documents are moved into evidence at the formal hearing. The judge's final decision and selected orders are published on the agency website. Parties are responsible for redacting filings and exhibits as required under 29 C.F.R. § 18.31. Failure to redact or to obtain an order sealing a record prior to filing with the judge may result in waiver of protection from disclosure of information contained in those documents. For good cause, the judge may order protection of material pursuant to 29 C.F.R. §§ 18.85 (privileged, sensitive or classified material) and 18.52 (protective orders). In limited circumstances authorized by law, the judge may close a hearing. 29 C.F.R. § 18.81(a). See also 29 C.F.R. § 70.26(b) (designation of confidential business information at time of submission or reasonable time thereafter).

SUBPOENAS

Requests for subpoenas must be in writing and comply with the provisions of 29 C.F.R. § 18.56. Information about obtaining subpoenas can be found at www.oalj.dol.gov/SUBPOENAS.HTM. Parties, and not OALJ, are responsible for preparing and serving subpoenas upon any witness and for tendering any required costs and expenses.

ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION

OALJ offers two forms of court-sponsored alternative dispute resolution: settlement judges or mediation by a neutral. See 29 C.F.R. § 18.13 (settlement judge rule); Alternative Dispute Resolution Act of 1996, 5 U.S.C. §§ 572 and 573 (agency may appoint employee as a neutral to conduct mediation). For additional information see www.oalj.dol.gov/SETTLEMENT_JUDGE.HTM. Any requests for appointment of a settlement judge or a mediator in this case must be a joint request, submitted in writing to the District Chief Judge at the address and fax number above.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENTS

Any settlement agreement must be filed with the presiding judge for review and approval. 29 C.F.R. § 1982.111(d)(2).

TRANSLATORS AND INTERPRETERS; REASONABLE ACCOMMODATIONS

The parties must advise the undersigned promptly if a translator or an interpreter will be needed at the hearing. Parties may provide their own translator or interpreter or may request provision of a translator or an interpreter by the Department of Labor. Parties needing assistance with translation or interpretation services, or a reasonable accommodation, must inform the undersigned no less than 30 days before the date of the hearing.

LEGIBLE COPIES

The parties are directed to conduct a review of all documents which are to be made a part of the formal record. Any documents received which are not clearly legible will have limited evidentiary value, and may be given no weight.

HEARING EXHIBITS

1. All documentary evidence to be offered at the hearing shall be presented in a bound volume, individually numbered by tab, and sequentially numbered overall in the lower right corner of each page. Each volume shall be limited to approximately 100 pages.

2. Exhibits shall be paginated and marked appropriately as follows: Prosecuting Party - "PX ____" and Respondent - "RX ____."

3. The exhibits shall be accompanied by an exhibit index containing a description of each exhibit by tab number/letter, date and author, immediately followed by a statement of precisely (not generally) what the exhibit proves (if the exhibit exceeds 5 pages, the page(s) on which such proof appears shall be specified, and the relevant material highlighted).

4. Attached to each exhibit containing handwritten or difficult to read entries shall be a typed version of any such entry. A party disagreeing with the interpretation of the entry may submit its own typed version at the hearing.

5. A curriculum vitae or equivalent qualifications summary shall be submitted for any expert witness as part of the documentary evidence. No oral direct evidence on the expert's qualifications will be permitted absent a showing of special need.

6. The parties are encouraged to submit exhibits jointly to the greatest extent possible. Exhibits submitted jointly shall be denominated "JX ____," sequentially by letter (not number). If the parties cannot agree on the content of the index, each party may submit a separate index to the Joint Exhibits in which the party describes each exhibit and states what the exhibit proves, as set forth in subparagraph 3, above.

7. No post-hearing deposition testimony or other evidence of any kind shall be accepted, except for good cause shown and with my specific authorization.

ELECTRONIC AND DIGITAL EVIDENCE

The parties are informed that the hearing room is not equipped for the viewing of evidence in electronic or digital formats. A party who intends to submit evidence in any electronic or digital form must submit three (3) copies to me (in addition to the copy exchanged with opposing counsel) and must coordinate in advance with my office for guidance on readable formats. A party who submits evidence in a non-paper format is also responsible for providing me a means to refer to such evidence during the hearing (e.g., laptop computer).

CONSEQUENCES OF FAILURE TO COMPLY

Failure to comply with the provisions of this prehearing order may result in the imposition of sanctions including, but not limited to, the following: the exclusion of evidence, the dismissal of the claim, the entry of a default judgment, or the removal of the offending representative from the case. 29 C.F.R. §§ 18.12(b), 18.35(c), 18.57 and 18.87.

JOINT MOTION FOR REVISED SCHEDULE

The parties jointly move for a revised discovery and hearing schedule in the above-captioned matter. In the Court's Notice of Hearing and Prehearing Order, issued January 18, 2017, the hearing in this matter was scheduled for February 16, 2017, the pre-hearing conference was set for February 2, 2017, and discovery was to be completed on or before February 2, 2017, among other deadlines.

On January 23, counsel for the parties met and conferred regarding the matters set forth in 29 C.F.R. § 18.50(b)(2), including a discovery plan. At that initial conference, the parties discussed a number of issues that would make the current schedule difficult for both sides to meet. The claims asserted by the Administrator and the Secretary involve multiple alleged areas of liability and approximately 147 workers, the majority of whom live in Mexico, often in rural areas. Additional time is necessary to make arrangements for some of these workers to participate at the hearing. While the Administrator and Secretary are prepared to make their initial disclosures promptly, Respondents require additional time to examine their records particularly because the agricultural operation at issue is shut down for the winter. Respondents need to conduct discovery in order to gather information regarding the Administrator's and Secretary's claims against Respondents, and in order to present a defense to such claims. Moreover, one of the Wage and Hour Division's investigators, who the Administrator and Secretary expect to testify at the hearing, is not available on the scheduled date because his wife has an appointment for a Caesarean section on February 15. While the parties are committed to carrying out discovery in an expeditious manner, we believe we need approximately three and one-half months within which to complete all discovery.

Accordingly, the parties respectfully propose the following revised scheduling order for the Court's consideration.

- Initial disclosures to be exchanged by February 15, 2017
- Discovery to be commenced immediately and completed by May 12, 2017
- Motions for summary disposition, if any, to be filed by May 16, 2017
- Pre-hearing disclosures and exchanges to be made by May 23, 2017
- Pre-hearing statements due May 23, 2017

- Hearing from June 13, 2017 continued through June 16, 2017, as necessary (subject to the Court's availability)

For the foregoing reasons and such others as may appear to the Court, the parties respectfully submit that this Joint Motion for Revised Schedule should be granted.

ADMINISTRATOR'S EMERGENCY MOTION FOR LEAVE TO ADMINISTER OATHS REMOTELY IN DE BENE ESSE DEPOSITIONS

Pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.10(c) and §18.33, the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division respectfully moves for an order permitting the Administrator's counsel to swear in witnesses remotely at a series of video depositions of witnesses in Mexico scheduled to begin April 24, 2017. Given the need to finalize the logistics of these six depositions well before the close of discovery on May 12, the Administrator seeks relief from the Court on an expedited basis. Respondent's counsel has advised that he opposes the Administrator's motion. This motion is supported by the Declarations of Jason E. Glick and Ian Hardy.

BACKGROUND

The claims in this case arise from Respondent Sun Valley Orchards, LLC's employment of approximately 96 H-2A workers in 2015.[1] The Administrator alleges that Sun Valley violated several provisions of the H-2A regulations, including multiple subsections of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122, and 29 C.F.R. § 501.5. In addition to disregarding housing and transportation safety standards, Sun Valley denied workers free kitchen facilities as promised, and instead improperly charged them a weekly fee for meals; sold beverages and other goods at a profit or in violation of state law; terminated or constructively discharged workers without cause; denied such workers the three-fourths guarantee; and improperly sought to have those workers waive their rights.

[1] The Administrator makes this motion in only Case No. 2017-TAE-00003, the H-2A case

To support its claims at trial, the Administrator plans to introduce sworn testimony from former Sun Valley H-2A workers regarding the terms and conditions of employment at Sun Valley in 2015, and the circumstances of their dismissal from Sun Valley. By nature of their recent participation in the H-2A program, this group of workers is transient and lacks permanent ties to the United States, making it difficult to ensure that any worker will be available to testify at the July 2017 hearing, whether in person or from a fixed remote location.

Accordingly, to preserve the testimony of a group of witnesses that the Administrator has reason to believe will be available to testify voluntarily from Mexico later this month, on April 7, 2017, the Administrator noticed de bene esse depositions, to take place remotely from Veracruz or Guanajuato, Mexico, from April 24-26 and May 2-4, 2017. Decl. of Jason E. Glick dated Apr. 13, 2017 (Glick Decl.) ¶ 9. The parties have conferred and agreed regarding many of the mechanics of these depositions, including the use of videoconference software and a simultaneous telephone connection to permit counsel and the parties to participate remotely and avoid travel costs.[2] Id. ¶ 7. However, Respondent has not agreed to stipulate that the oath be against Sun Valley.

[2] Subject to the resolution of this motion, the Administrator anticipates that the witnesses will be located in Mexico with an interpreter and the Administrator's agent who is facilitating deposition space and technology; the court reporter will be present in New York with counsel for the Administrator; and Respondent's officers and their counsel will participate by videoconference administered by a person not physically present with the witness in Mexico, such as the Administrator's counsel. Id. ¶ 10. Instead, Respondent has insisted on strict reliance on inapposite procedures that would effectively thwart admission of highly probative testimony from worker witnesses, given the resulting cost or delay. Such procedures, namely use of a U.S. consular officer to conduct the deposition at great expense and burden to the witnesses, or time-consuming treaty procedures that are unnecessary when witnesses are willing to testify, would unreasonably multiply expenses. Consistent with the applicable rules, the Administrator seeks an order to permit the Administrator's counsel to administer oaths remotely, to ensure that otherwise admissible evidence is available in this proceeding. Such an order would not create any meaningful costs for Respondent, and Respondent would suffer no prejudice.

ARGUMENT

I. This Court Has Discretion to Permit Remote Administration of the Oath.

This Court's discretion to authorize remote administration of a deposition oath stems from three independent sources. First, pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.10(c), the Court may, on notice, "waive, modify, or suspend any rule" regarding deposition procedure "when doing so will not prejudice a party and will serve ends of justice." On the facts discussed throughout this motion, this standard is satisfied. Second, the Court "has all power necessary to conduct fair and impartial proceedings," including to "[r]egulate the course of proceedings." Id. § 18.12(b). Third, the admission of evidence in this case is governed by principles to "ensure production of relevant and probative evidence," id. § 501.34, rather than the Rules of Evidence. Under this standard this Court has discretion to permit the introduction of "uncertified unsworn interview statements."

from New Jersey and Washington, D.C., respectively.

Pegasus Consulting Grp. v. ARB, No. 05-5161, 2008 WL 920072, at *12 (D.N.J. Mar. 31, 2008). Accordingly, the Court has discretion to set the circumstances under which an oath is sworn.

Under this Court's Rules of Practice and Procedure, the parties may also stipulate to procedures regarding the administration of an oath. See 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(5); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 29. For example, during a June 19, 2015 deposition defended by the Administrator's counsel in a case then pending before this Court, the Administrator consented to remote administration of the oath in a video deposition conducted from Canada. Glick Decl. ¶ 8 & n.1.

In the absence of a stipulation or a court order to the contrary, "a deposition must be conducted before a person having power to administer oaths." 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(5)(i). Assuming, as Respondent has argued, that this rule specifies a default procedure requiring a witness to be in the same physical location as the person administering the oath, under the unique circumstances of this case, rigid adherence to this rule poses several problems, and this Court should order an alternative procedure.[3]

II. In this Case, In-Person Administration of the Oath Is Burdensome and Would Not Further the Interests of Justice.

The cost of administering the oath in person in Mexico is prohibitively expensive and would delay these proceedings. One option for in-person administration of the oath is to utilize the services of the U.S. State Department, apparently the only individuals in Mexico "authorized to administer oaths . . . by federal law," see Fed. R. Civ. P. 28(b)(1)(C); Glick Decl. ¶ 11.[4] In [3] Respondent points to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 28(b) as specifying the options. Although the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure are not strictly relevant given clear Rules of Practice of Procedure applicable to discovery generally and depositions specifically, e.g., 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b), this motion discusses Rule 28 in light of Respondent's reliance.

[4] As far as counsel is aware, the only individuals in Mexico empowered to conduct depositions under U.S. federal law are consular officials of the U.S. State Department, absent a stipulation or court order to the contrary. See also Viveros v. Donahoe, No. 10-8593, 2012 WL 12883966 (C.D. Cal. May 22, 2012), at *7–9 (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 28(b)(1)(C)); Decl. of Ian Hardy dated addition to a scheduling fee of $1,283 per deposition charged by the U.S. Embassy, the State Department charges a $309 hourly fee for consular time, a $135 fee for swearing in a witness, and an additional $415 fee for certification of the deposition. Glick Decl. ¶ 12. For six depositions of seven hours, exclusive of any breaks, this amounts to $3,996 per deposition, or a total of $23,976, excluding any travel costs. Id. Although the Embassy has informed the Administrator that it would consider a formal request to waive certain of the fees, the Embassy has discretion to deny such a request. Id.

Even if the Administrator were able to obtain a waiver of certain fees from the Embassy, use of the Embassy's services would not only likely require a delay, but would also hinder the participation of witnesses. First, the Embassy has no personnel available to travel to Veracruz to conduct depositions because of staffing limitations, and has no personnel available to conduct depositions at the Embassy in Mexico City during the dates the depositions are currently noticed. Id. ¶ 13.[5] Because of Mexican federal holidays, the Administrator has been unable to confirm whether it would be possible for the Embassy to assist with depositions during the last available week of discovery, id. ¶ 14, but given the complexity of all of the parties' schedules, the Administrator is concerned about leaving such depositions for the last minute, id. ¶ 15. Second, the Veracruz-based witnesses themselves would be additionally burdened by significant travel time and missing work that would be required for depositions in Mexico City, over four hours away. The burden of traveling to Mexico City raises the considerable risk that they would not be willing to participate. Id. ¶ 16. Third, although a U.S. consulate in Guanajuato may be able to assist with the depositions before May 12 elsewhere in that province (a two hour drive, possibly at additional expense), the Administrator has not been able to confirm that possibility given Mexican federal holidays. Id. ¶¶ 13–14. Given the limited time remaining before the noticed dates of the depositions, and the importance of bringing these issues to the Court's attention promptly, the Administrator submits this motion based on the facts currently available.

Apr. 13, 2017 ¶ 5 (in Mexico, it is nearly impossible to locate officials "authorized under Mexican law to administer a deposition oath," pursuant to Rule 28(b)(1)(C)).

Although Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 28(b)(1) describes other procedures for taking depositions abroad, those procedures would be even more burdensome than the use of a U.S. consular official in Mexico City. Depositions could be taken "under an applicable treaty or convention," or under a "letter of request," but these procedures are ordinarily used for depositions taken without the consent of the witness. Fed. R. Civ. P. 28(b)(1)(A)-(B); Fed. R. Civ. P. 28 adv. cmte. n. (1963). Moreover, they would engender siginificant delay, as cooperation with these procedures by Mexican government officials is untested, and "rarely" "occur[s] in practice," with great uncertainty in the scope of questions that Mexican authorities will permit.[6] See also Societe Nationale Industrielle Aerospatiale v. U.S. Dist. Ct., 482 U.S. 522, 542 (1987) (treaty procedures for international discovery are often "unduly time consuming and expensive" and inconsistent with the "just, speedy, and inexpensive determination" of litigation in U.S. courts). Finally, although Rule 28(b)(1)(D) also permits a deposition to take place "before a person commissioned by the court to administer any necessary oath and take testimony," the Administrator respectfully submits that the logistics would become more challenging to manage if the Administrator were required to hire an additional person in Mexico, such as a court reporter, to be so commissioned. Locating the court reporter in the same room as counsel will facilitate, for example, handling of any exhibits.

III. This Court Should Exercise Its Discretion to Permit Remote Administration of the Oath.

As noted, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 28 provides that, for a deposition taken on notice, the witness and "officer" must be in the same location, regardless of the state or country in which the deposition takes place. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 28(a) (depositions in the United States); id. 28(b)(1)(C). However, that is only a default procedure and the rules expressly permit stipulations to the contrary, Fed. R. Civ. P. 29(a), or orders regarding alternative procedures, whether based on consent or on a showing of specific facts warranting reasonable other arrangements. For example, courts have permitted parties to take depositions abroad via telephone, where the officer administering the oath is located with counsel but not the witness. Avoiding prohibitively high costs is a key factor in favor of such an arrangement. See Hudson v. Spellman High Voltage, 178 F.R.D. 29, 32 (E.D.N.Y. 1998) (permitting remote administration of the oath from New York in depositions to be taken in Canada and California via telephone to reduce costs of litigation); Aquino v. Auto. Serv. Industry Ass'n, 93 F. Supp. 2d 922, 924 & n.2 (N.D. Ill. 2000) (granting application to administer oath by telephone, and noting that "many reasonable parties have agreed to, or courts have ordered, similar arrangements"). Although other courts have declined to issue similar orders, those cases were not decided under this Court's Rules of Practice and Procedure, or did not consider the unique costs here. See, e.g., Kauffman v. Equifax Info. Servs. LLC, No. 14-148, 2015 WL 6142888 (D. Mont. Oct. 16, 2015), at *2 (finding no "special circumstances," on the specific facts presented, to relieve parties from the cost of hiring an official to administer an oath in India). In fact, the Federal Rules themselves contemplate and advocate flexibility in procedure. See, e.g., Fed. R. Civ. P. 29 adv. cmte. n. (1993) ("Counsel are encouraged to agree on less expensive . . . methods to obtain information, as through . . . use of interviews in lieu of depositions, etc."); accord 29 C.F.R. § 18.10(c).

In light of the substantial cost and delay of formal compliance with Rule 28, the Administrator respectfully requests that the Court permit the witnesses at these de bene esse depositions to be sworn in remotely by a person within the United States. Respondent will suffer no prejudice from this arrangement, under the circumstances of this case including the remote audio and video connection through which Respondent's officers and their counsel will have full opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witness and conduct cross examination.

IV. This Court Should Also Exercise Its Discretion to Authorize the Administrator's Counsel to Administer the Oath

The Administrator also seeks leave for the oath to be administered specifically by counsel for the Administrator. This is because in New York, a court reporter (normally a notary public) can only administer an oath if the witness "personally appear[s] before the notary." See Notary Public License Law 16, available at https://www.dos.ny.gov/licensing/lawbooks/notary.pdf; see also In re Napolis, 169 A.D. 469, 471 (N.Y. App. Div. 1915) (prohibiting administration of an oath by phone as a matter of New York notary law). Accordingly, it is practically necessary for some other party, such as Department's counsel, to administer the oath — again, via live audio and video, on a stenographic record, simultaneously recorded via audio and video, in the presence of a court reporter. As noted, the Administrator has in the past consented to a similar procedure.

Respondent has taken the position that administration of the oath by the Administrator's counsel would violate Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 28(c), which absent a stipulation to the contrary, see Fed. R. Civ. P. 29, prohibits a deposition from being "taken before a person who is any party's relative, employee or attorney." Given the opportunity for Respondent to observe and participate in the entire deposition, and the fact that the deposition will be recorded, the Administrator respectfully submits that this limitation — not itself part of the applicable Rules of Practice and Procedure — is not necessary to further the interests of justice in this case. Counsel are already bound by ethical rules to conduct themselves with the utmost integrity, and in New York, there is no independent prohibition against an attorney administering an oath to his client. See N.Y. Exec. Law § 135 (permitting a notary public who is an attorney to administer an oath or affirmation to his client "in respect of any matter, claim, action or proceeding").

Respondent has also raised a concern that an oath taken by a witness in Mexico would have little weight, given uncertain extraterritorial application of U.S. perjury laws. Courts have rejected this suggestion, see Angamarca v. Da Ciro, Inc., 303 F.R.D. 445 (S.D.N.Y. 2012), which is in any event a red herring given that Respondent's proposal that the oath be administered in Mexico would not change the extraterritorial application of perjury laws. What's more, the Administrator's witnesses have all traveled to the United States before pursuant to the H-2A program, and so have shown their willingness to comply with U.S laws and regulations (and may even return to the United States to work again, effectively subjecting themselves to prosecution in the United States). Regardless of where the oath is administered, its administration prior to deposition testimony will "awaken the witness' conscience and impress the witness' mind with the duty" to testify truthfully. 29 C.F.R. § 18.603.

Alternately, the Administrator respectfully seeks leave for the Court to administer the oaths remotely at these depositions. See 29 C.F.R. § 18.12 (permitting Administrative Law Judges to "[a]dminister oaths").

For the reasons stated above, the Administrator respectfully requests that the Court issue an order granting leave for counsel for the Administrator to remotely administer the oath via telephone and video the oath to witnesses testifying at the depositions noticed for April 24-26, May 2-4, and the dates to which those or similar depoisitions may be continued or for such other relief as may be appropriate.

DECLARATION OF JASON E. GLICK PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, Jason E. Glick, declare under penalty of perjury that the following is true and correct:

1. I am an attorney at the Office of the Solicitor, U.S. Department of Labor. I am one of the attorneys who represents the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division and the Secretary of Labor (together, the "Department") in the above-captioned cases.

2. I submit this declaration in support of the Administrator's Emergency Motion for Leave to Administer Oaths Remotely in De Bene Esse Depositions, based on facts known to me.

3. Counsel for the Department have acted diligently in conducting discovery in these cases and have been flexible in accommodating Respondents' requests for extensions.

4. Although the Department was prepared to exchange initial disclosures in late January 2017, the Department consented to Respondents' request to delay the exchange of initial disclosures until February 15, 2017.

5. On February 22, 2017, the Department served document requests, interrogatories, and requests for admission, with responses due March 24. On March 23, the Department consented to Respondents' request for an extension until April 7. The parties continue to confer about the completeness of Respondents' April 7 productions and responses.

6. On March 13, 2017, the Department noticed depositions of Respondents and one of their officers, for April 18–20, 2017. Those depositions are scheduled to proceed next week.

7. On March 28, 2017, my colleague Jacob Heyman-Kantor and I phoned Respondent's counsel, Christopher Schulte, to discuss scheduling of further depositions in this case. Mr. Heyman-Kantor and I explained that we planned to take de bene esse depositions in late April and early May of former Sun Valley workers. We described the logistics we anticipated: the witness and an interpreter in Mexico, and all counsel and the court reporter in New York, with a video and telephone feed to connect all participants. We also advised that before the depositions took place, we would send the credentials of the translator to Mr. Schulte. Mr. Schulte did not raise any objections and requested that the Department make arrangements for Respondents and their counsel to participate from New Jersey and Washington, DC, to reduce costs. The Department agreed to investigate the technological feasibility of such an arrangement.

8. On April 6, out of an abundance of caution and after further researching rules regarding the power of New York notaries to administer oaths remotely, Mr. Heyman-Kantor and I called Mr. Schulte to confirm whether Respondents would consent to Mr. Heyman-Kantor or I administering the oath at the de bene esse depositions, as the Department had consented to an identical request by a respondent in a deposition conducted via video with a witness abroad.[1] Mr. Schulte agreed to consider the issue.

9. On April 7, the Administrator formally noticed the de bene esse depositions that are the subject of this motion.

10. On April 10, after further conferral by telephone, Mr. Schulte stated his opposition to the Department's proposed stipulation regarding oath administration. My understanding is that Respondent opposes any procedure that does not strictly comply with Fed. R. of Civ. P. 28.

11. Based on my research to date, the only individuals in Mexico empowered to conduct depositions under U.S. federal law are consular officials of the U.S. State Department, absent a stipulation or court order to the contrary.

12. Based on that research and communications with State Department personnel in Mexico, the U.S. Embassy ordinarily charges a $1,283 scheduling fee for a deposition, a $309 hourly fee for time traveling to and from a deposition, the same hourly fee for attending a deposition, a $135 fee for swearing in a witness, and a $415 fee for certification of a deposition. There is a formal procedure for a federal agency to request waiver of some of the fees, but the State Department has discretion to deny such a request.

13. My understanding is that due to workload constraints, the U.S. Embassy cannot provide personnel to travel to Veracruz, one of the two provinces in which the prospective witnesses are located; accordingly those depositions would have to be conducted in Mexico City. Moreover, the U.S. Embassy does not have any personnel available in Mexico City to conduct depositions on any of the dates currently noticed. It is possible — but my office has not yet been able to confirm — that a U.S. consulate in Guanajuato may have more flexible scheduling availability.

[1] The deposition was conducted in In re Du Pasquier & Co., No. 2015-LCA-0002, a case later tried before this Court. See Ex. A (a true and accurate copy of the first three pages of the deposition transcript). My understanding is that counsel for the Administrator provided consent for this procedure for administering the oath before the parties went on the record.

14. Because of what I understand to be Mexican federal holidays on Thursday April 13 and Friday April 14 and the U.S. Embassy's closure during this period, my office has not been able to ascertain whether the U.S. Embassy could conduct depositions the week of May 8–12.

15. Because of the May 19 deadline for motions for summary decision, the Department has endeavored to complete the de bene esse depositions by May 4.

16. Based on my own conversations to date with potential witnesses, as well as information provided by those affiliated with the Department based on their conversations with potential witnesses, there is a significant risk that witnesses would be unwilling to travel to Mexico City for depositions. That is, although witnesses are otherwise willing to travel shorter distances to provincial centers with suitable videoconference equipment, the additional time and burden associated with traveling the further distance to Mexico City raises a considerable risk that the depositions would not take place.

17. Mr. Heyman-Kantor and I have conducted multiple successful tests of the videoconference software we plan to use at the de bene esse depositions, and we are prepared to test the software with Mr. Schulte and his clients, including prior to the resolution of this motion.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

EXAMINATION

BY MR. GROBAN:

Q. Mr. Jacquetin, my name is Bob Groban. I'm with the firm of Epstein Becker & Green. And we represent the respondent, du Pasquier, Inc., in this proceeding.

I'm here to take your deposition, which is your testimony under oath. I'm advised by the court reporter that she can't swear you in, in Montreal.

So, do you swear that the testimony you are about to give is truthful?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Okay. The -- have you ever been deposed before?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. Okay. Basically, what I'm going to do is I'm going to ask you some questions. You can -- well, maybe you can't see. There's a court reporter here who is taking down what we say. And I'm going to assume that you understand my questions if you provide an answer.

A. Yes.

Jacquetin

Q. Okay. And if anything is unclear, you let me know.

A. Um-hum, sure.

Q. Okay. Now, the court reporter is writing things down. This isn't being videotaped. So, you can't nod, you can't go "okay" -- I mean, any -- you've got to answer the questions verbally so the court reporter can get that down. Do you understand that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Okay. And we'll be going on for a little bit, so if you need to take a break, just let your counsel know. Finish answering whatever question is on the table and then just let us know if you need to take a break for a minute or two, okay?

A. I will, yes.

Q. Did you review any materials in preparation for your deposition today?

A. I actually received documents that was sent to me last night, the annex that I received by e-mail. This is the only thing that I did receive.

Q. Okay. And those were the documents that we had sent up last night?

Jacquetin

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And did you discuss the deposition today with anyone other than your lawyer?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. Can you tell me what your current position is, where you're currently employed?

A. I'm managing director of Murtti Capital, M-U-R-T-T-I, Capital.

Q. And where are they located?

A. They're located in Beijing, China.

Q. Do they have any offices outside of Beijing, China?

A. No, they don't.

Q. So, you operate remotely?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And what is your position there?

A. I'm a managing director.

Q. Do you have a specific area of responsibility?

A. I'm mainly responsible for origination in terms -- or sourcing deals.

Jacquetin

Those are my responsibilities.

Q. And do you source them in any particular geographic location?

A. Mainly, North American deals, yes.

Q. And what type of deals?

A. Those are small to mid-cap companies that are looking for financing and they're also looking for visibility. So, we organize one-on-one meetings with investors for them. And we do this mainly in Asia.

Q. And are the companies mostly located in North America?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you focus on the national resource area, for example?

A. I do.

Q. Do you have any other areas of focus?

A. I also focus on biotech, life sciences and also companies that are in the energy sector. And also in the information technology sector.

Q. And since November of 2013, how often have you been to New York?

DECLARATION OF IAN HARDY PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, Ian Hardy, declare under penalty of perjury that the following is true and correct:

1. I am the founder, President and Chief Executive Officer of Optima Juris, a U.S. court reporting agency dedicated to providing deposition services for U.S. legal matters abroad.

2. I have over seventeen years of experience organizing depositions throughout Europe, Asia, the Middle East, Africa, Latin America, and Oceania. I regularly consult for law firms, domestic reporting agencies, and in-house legal departments on how to successfully set up and conduct U.S. depositions internationally. I make this declaration based on my experience performing this work, including involvement in arranging approximately 5 depositions in Mexico each year over the past ten years.

3. The U.S. Department of Labor has requested that I provide this declaration regarding Optima Juris's experience with arranging for the administration of the oath for depositions taken in Mexico for U.S. cases.

4. Neither I nor Optima Juris is being compensated in any form for providing this declaration; nor have we been retained by the U.S. Department of Labor to provide any services in this case. My understanding is that the U.S. Department of Labor is seeking to take depositions in a manner that would not involve the services of Optima Juris.

5. Optima Juris has extensive experience organizing depositions in Mexico. In our experience, it is extremely difficult or impossible to retain notaries, court reporters or other officials who are authorized under Mexican law to administer a deposition oath. The difficulties we have faced in attempting to hire such individuals include difficulty in locating notaries who are reliable in scheduling matters, and a lack of professionalism, i.e. a lack of professional experience among notaries to conduct depositions.

6. My understanding is that without some special arrangement, such as a judicial commission, U.S. court reporters generally do not have authority to administer a deposition oath outside the U.S. state in which they are licensed.

7. Although U.S. consular officials are authorized to administer the oath, their services are extremely expensive and in our experience, they have limited availability to assist with this process.

8. Accordingly, as a regular practice, Optima Juris advises its U.S. clients seeking to take depositions in Mexico to attempt to obtain a stipulation from opposing counsel regarding administration of the oath. Generally the person who administers the oath in these cases is the court reporter.

9. When opposing counsel does not stipulate to the court reporter's administering the oath, Optima Juris generally advises its clients to seek an order from the court commissioning a person under Fed. R. Civ. P. 28(b)(1)(D) to administer the oath, such as a court reporter.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my belief and knowledge.

SUN VALLEY ORCHARDS, LLC Respondent	)

RESPONDENT'S OPPOSITION TO ADMINISTRATOR'S "EMERGENCY" MOTION TO WAIVE RULES

Respondent, Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, respectfully submits this Opposition to the "Administrator's Emergency Motion for Leave to Administer Oaths Remotely in De Bene Esse Depositions" (the "Motion"), filed after hours last night.[1] Counsel for the Administrator ask the Court for extraordinary relief - the ability essentially to eliminate the oath requirement at the heart of the deposition process - in order to secure effectively unsworn testimony against Respondent in a foreign language, in a foreign country, by unknown witnesses, without the requisite disclosures, and without following the bare minimum rules of this Court, in particular, and American civil litigation, in general. "Trial by surprise" is not justice.

[1] Undersigned counsel apologizes for any transmission issues with the fax transmission and with the brief nature of the response, but our office is closed today for Good Friday, and this is an attempt to serve an opposition from home on an issue raised several days ago but not brought to the Court until late last night. While the Administrator classifies the Motion as an "emergency" filing, this issue was discussed by the parties days ago, and the only emergency asserted is a scheduling issue of their own creation.

There is a clear method for obtaining the testimony that the Administrator seeks, as the Motion concedes, but Counsel for the Administrator asks the Court to waive those requirements because of the possibility that following the rules that every other litigant must follow might involve cost or effort on the government's part. This request is outrageous and absolutely unnecessary. If the Administrator needs additional time in which to arrange and conduct these depositions, then Respondent is willing to accommodate such a request - as we have already agreed to stipulate to conducting these depositions remotely.

Counsel attempts to portray the Respondent, or at least undersigned counsel, as being obstructionist for not waiving the clear requirements of the Rules and letting the Administrator trample over the fundamental processes for litigation to suit their convenience. The rules are clear and serve a critical function in preserving the fair and just conduct of litigation. They are not to be ignored when they become inconvenient to the government.

BACKGROUND

The Court is already familiar with the Administrator's allegations in this case, so further discussion of them here is as unnecessary as in the Administrator's inclusion of them in the "emergency" motion. Suffice it to say, Respondent will demonstrate to the Court at the appropriate time that the Administrator's allegations are unsupported by the facts of the case, and represent a rush-to-justice and disregard for the facts and law consistent with the current Motion.

In an attempt to "shoot first and ask questions later," the Administrator now seeks to elicit testimony from an undisclosed group of Sun Valley's H-2A employees from the 2015 growing season. The identity of these employees remains a mystery, however, since the Administrator's Notice of Deposition states only that a deposition is scheduled from 10:00 a.m. on April 24, 2017 through April 26, 2017, and again beginning at 10:00 a.m. on May 2, 2017 through May 4, 2017 at one or more locations in Veracruz or Guanajuato, Mexico of "one or more residents of Mexico who worked at Sun Valley Orchards in 2015 on H-2A visas." That notice was dated April 7, 2017, and no further information has been provided to Respondent as to: (1) the identity of the witnesses; (2) the number of witnesses; (3) the identity or qualifications of the proposed interpreter[2]; nor (4) the location or precise dates or times of any of the deposition(s). This violates the notice requirements in 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(1). That rule allows for a notice omitting the deponent's name and address "[i]f the name is unknown," but the Administrator's Motion makes clear that Counsel for the Administrator has held one or more phone conversations with potential witnesses, so the name is clearly not "unknown." See Glick Declaration at ¶ 16.

The Motion does not establish that any or all of the surprise witnesses will actually be unavailable to testify at the hearing before this Court, only that it may be "difficult to ensure" that they will be available. Counsel for the Administrator makes several representations as to conversations with undersigned counsel, some of which are accurate. Undersigned counsel agreed immediately with the proposal to conduct these depositions remotely, raising only the concern with the precise technology with which to do so. During subsequent conversations, while still not identifying the witnesses, interpreter, location, or timing of the depositions, Counsel for the Administrator disclosed that the witnesses would not be testifying before someone administering the oath, as is required in the Court's Rules. See Section 18.64(b)(4)

[2] Counsel for the Administrator references, for the first time in last night's motion, the presence of "the Administrator's agent" at the proposed depositions in Mexico. Motion at FN 2. This was not previously discussed, and this "agent" of the U.S. government who is apparently not a consular employee raises a new concern.

("For the purpose of this section, the deposition takes place where the deponent answers the questions."); Section 18.64(b)(5) ("Unless the parties stipulate otherwise, a deposition must be conducted before a person having power to administer oaths."). Counsel for the Administrator further revealed that the court reporter, to be located in Counsel's office in New York City, was not willing to administer the oath to a witness or witnesses not "before" them, as is required of them as a Notary Public of the State of New York.

Undersigned counsel raised the above-quoted rules and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 28(b) not to obstruct or delay the proceedings, but as setting forth the requirements for taking remote depositions in a foreign country and the multiple options for doing so set forth in the Rules. Counsel for the Administrator argues that "the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure are not strictly relevant given clear Rules of Practice of [sic] Procedure applicable to discovery generally and depositions specifically." Motion at FN 3. Counsel neglects, however, to note that the Rules of Practice and Procedure explicitly state that "The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (FRCP) apply in any situation not provided for or controlled by these rules, or a governing statute, regulation, or executive order." 29 C.F.R. § 18.10(a). The FRCP is not some "out of the box" or irrelevant reference but, rather, the specific source of gap-filling guidance that the Department itself chose in issuing the Rules of Practice.

As set forth above, the Rules of Practice clearly require the administration of an oath to a remote deponent "before" the oath-giver and where the deponent is located. 29 C.F.R. §§ 18.64(b)(4) and (5). There is no specific provision in the Rules of Practice for administering an oath in a foreign country. Thus, under 29 C.F.R. § 18.10(a), the Court looks to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which lay out multiple options for achieving the purpose of the oath with respect to deponents located outside the United States. The Administrator mentions these options, but summarily dismisses them as potentially more difficult to comply with than would be convenient to Administrator's Counsel.

To date, with some undisclosed number of depositions proposed in the coming days of an undisclosed number of undisclosed individuals with an undisclosed interpreter, Counsel for the Administrator would paint Respondent as the villain in this scenario for not immediately acceding to their request to go even further in abandoning the rules. This is no way to conduct litigation and the Court should not approve the Administrator's request.

I. Courts Have Consistently Declined Requests of this Nature

In Loucas G. Matsas Salvage & Towage Maritime Co. v. M/T Cold Spring I, Civ. No. 96-0621, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2415 (E.D. La. Mar. 5, 1997), the court granted a motion to strike a deposition of a deponent located in Poland where the party administering the oath was in New Orleans. The court discussed the multiple options set forth in Rule 28(b) for administering an oath to a deponent located outside the United States and concluded that none of those options had been followed and, therefore, the deposition failed to comply with Rule 28's requirements. Rule 30(b)(7) for remote depositions mirrors 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(4) in stating that a deposition is "taken" where the deponent is located, not where counsel or the court reporter are located. See also Clem v. Allied Van Lines Int'l Corp., 102 F.R.D. 938, 940 (S.D.N.Y. 1980). To be valid, the deponent would have had to have the oath administered in person in Poland. In Matsas, the party opposing the deposition procedure waited until the deposition was completed and moved to strike it later. Here, the issue is raised before either party has incurred the cost of time or money but the outcome must be the same.

The same result was reached in Menovcik v. BASF Corp., Civ. No. 09-12096, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 123858, 2010 WL 4867408 (E.D. Mich., Nov. 23, 2010). Counsel in Michigan proposed to depose a witness in Thailand, administering the oath telephonically from Michigan. The court in Menovcik cites Matsas and concludes that "Case law on this issue, while not abundant, is clear. Rule 28(b) specifically requires that the witness testify 'before' an official, i.e., at the same place as the official, and that the official be authorized to administer oaths where the examination is held." Id. at *14; see also Advani Enters., Inc. v. Underwriters at Lloyds, No. 95 Civ. 4864, 2000 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15421, 2000 WL 1568255 (S.D.N.Y., Oct. 19, 2000) (party proposing deposition "must, therefore, provide to this Court a proposal for compliance with Rule 28(b), which will include necessarily a means by which to place the deponents under oath by a person located in Egypt. Fulfillment of this requirement is a necessary and sufficient condition for the valid telephonic deposition of these two witnesses."); United States v. Ruiz Castro, 92 F.3d 1519, 1533 (10th Cir. 1996), overruled on other grounds by United States v. Flowers, 464 F.3d 1127 (10th Cir. 2006) (denying motion for leave to depose by telephone where its proponent "neither referenced any treaties nor did he state that [the proposed deponent] would testify 'before' a person authorized to administer oaths as described in Rule 28(b).").

Where a government agency seeks the testimony of a foreign deponent, courts have acknowledged the cost of complying with the oath-administration challenges, but ultimately offered other means of obtaining the testimony without waiving the oath requirement. For example, in SEC v. Banc de Binary, 2:13-cv-993, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 34373 (D. Nev., Mar. 14, 2014), Noting that Rule 28(b) requires the party seeking the foreign deposition to make a showing of compliance with that rule, and that doing so in Cyprus, where the proposed deponent was located, would be difficult, the Court's solution was for the SEC to bring the witness to Washington, D.C., where the agency and defense counsel were located, and conduct the deposition there, at the SEC's expense. In that case, the witness was a principal of the defendant, whereas here, the witnesses would presumably be offering testimony favorable to the Administrator and stand to profit from doing so, since part of the Administrator's claim is for back wages. This further tips the balance of equities against granting the Administrator's request here.

As noted in Matsas and Menovcik, the cases on this subject are few but they are consistent. The requirements for conducting a foreign deposition are not expressly covered by the Rules of Practice but are in the Federal Rules, and must be followed, without exception.

II. Administrator Fails to Justify the Request for a Waiver

The Administrator notes the Court's authority to exercise discretion in waiving the Rules of Practice "when doing so will not prejudice a party and will serve the ends of justice." 29 C.F.R. § 18.10(c). Having surprise witnesses give testimony in a foreign country without the proper administration of an oath clearly constitutes prejudice to Respondent and in no way serves the ends of justice. This is not a situation such as a party propounding 26 interrogatories instead of 25 or allowing leading questions during direct examination. As set forth in the cases above, the proper administration of the oath to a deponent is critical to the entire exercise, and not simply an inconvenient formality.

The example offered by Counsel for the Administrator where they had previously stipulated to waiving the requirement is inapposite. In that case, the employer sought to adduce favorable information to support its defense against a wage claim by the government, and the Administrator allowed them to do so. Here, it is the Administrator seeking to elicit testimony to build its claim against the employer. The disparity of resources between the government and private parties and the nature of the audit process further weighs against the requested waiver. The Administrator's investigators had the opportunity to question Respondent's employees, to walk into Respondent's office and review all of the documents there, and now has the resources and manpower to have its own "agents" as well as countless employees of sister agencies on hand around the globe. The requested waiver is bullying, not justice.

Moreover, the Administrator's Motion and supporting declarations at no time state that it would be impossible to comply with the minimum requirements for administering an oath to a foreign deponent. Instead, they recite how it might be difficult and, although the Consulate in Mexico generally waives the fees for conducting depositions in the manner required by the rules, they might not grant such a fee waiver here. While Respondent, and undersigned counsel in particular, appreciates Administrator's Counsel's professionalism and courtesy in this matter to date, they doubt that the Administrator would be willing to allow them to introduce unsworn statements by mystery witnesses in their defense.

As for the proposal to have Counsel for the Administrator administer the oath in lieu of the court reporter or other designated neutral party, this would separately violate the Rules. Specifically, Rule 28(c) expressly forbids the administration of an oath by counsel representing the interests of the deponent: "A deposition must not be taken before a person who is any party's relative, employee, or attorney; who is related to or employed by any party's attorney; or who is financially interested in the action." Counsel for the Administrator is seeking this testimony in support of a claim that, if proven, would result in thousands and thousands of dollars going to each of these witnesses. This is not to impugn the motives of either Counsel or the unnamed witnesses, but is a clear requirement of the rules - with no equivalent provision in the Rules of Practice, the Federal Rule on this issue controls. As far as the assertion that H-2A workers have previously promised to comply with U.S. laws so the parties and the Court should just trust that they will testify honestly and appropriately, even in the absence of the required oath, Respondent made similar promises to the government to participate in the H-2A program (under penalty of perjury by signing Form 9142A, as the Department of Labor requires), but doubts that the Administrator will would simply "take our word for it" that Respondent has complied with the H-2A requirements.

Finally, the Administrator repeatedly refers to Respondent's objection to their waiver request as advocating for "rigid" or "strict" compliance with the rules. Beyond the irony of a law enforcement agency criticizing the entity that it has accused of violating specific rules of a highly-regulated visa program for fussiness about compliance, this position tramples on the centuries-old tradition of testimony under oath. Sworn testimony, particularly where offered in support of a prosecution as it is here against the Respondent farm, must meet the requirements. This is not a situation where "close enough" is good enough. The Supreme Court and Congress, in crafting and approving of the Federal Rules, offer multiple methods for complying with the oath requirement for foreign depositions. The Department of Labor, itself, could have avoided those requirements in the Rules of Practice by developing a less "burdensome" approach. But all three branches of government, in a rare show of unity, have decided that proper administration of a testimonial oath is essential to the integrity of the process and the needs of justice and can only be achieved through the means explicitly laid out in Rule 28(b). Respondent respectfully asks that the Court not accede to the Administrator's request here simply because waiving this essential safeguard might be more convenient.

CONCLUSION

For all of the foregoing reasons, in order to avoid prejudice and to serve the interests of justice, Respondent respectfully urges the Court to deny the Administrator's Motion in its entirety. Respondent would further respectfully ask the Court to require the Administrator to disclose the names and addresses of the proposed witnesses, the name and qualifications of the interpreter, the name and address of any other "agent" who might be in the room with potential witnesses, and a plan for complying with Rule 28(b) before any remote depositions can be noticed. If the Administrator is unable to do so in a timely manner, Respondent asks the Court for a protective order against proceeding with the proposed depositions until the Administrator complies. If additional time is required for the Administrator to take the necessary steps to obtain the information deemed necessary to present its case, then Respondent would consider such a request and accord the courtesy and professional understanding that the parties have shared to this point in this matter.

ORDER GRANTING MOTION FOR LEAVE TO ADMINISTER OATHS REMOTELY IN DE BENE ESSE DEPOSITIONS

This matter involves two actions, one under the Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA") Temporary Alien Employment H-2A visa program, 8 U.S.C. Sections 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a); 1188(c), as implemented by regulations at 29 C.F.R. Part 501; and the other under the safety and health and contractor registration provisions of the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Workers Protection Act, 29 U.S.C. § 1801–1872, and implementing regulations at 29 C.F.R. Part 500. These matters were consolidated for hearing. By Order dated February 7, 2017, the undersigned set the discovery deadline and hearing dates as May 12, 2017 and July 18–21, 2017, respectively.

On April 13, 2017, the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division ("Administrator") submitted an Emergency Motion for Leave to Administer Oaths Remotely in De Bene Esse Depositions. Respondent replied on April 14, 2017 by submitting an Opposition to Administrator's "Emergency" Motion to Waive Rules. The undersigned conducted a conference call with the parties on April 20, 2017, in which she discussed the parties' motions.

The central dispute between the parties involves the mechanics of noticed de bene esse depositions issued by the Administrator to the Respondent on April 7, 2017. The Administrator scheduled the depositions to take place remotely via videoconference from Veracruz or Guanajuato, Mexico, from April 24–26 and May 2–4, 2017. While the parties have conferred and agreed to many of the details of the upcoming remote depositions, Respondent raised a number of objections in its Response and during the April 20, 2017 conference call. Specifically, Respondent argued that: (1) the Administrator failed to comply with 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(1) by failing to disclose the name of known deponents at least fourteen days prior to the deposition, (2) the Administrator's planned presence at and supervision of the depositions by members of the Centro do los Derechos del Migrante ("CDM") would exert inappropriate pressure on the deponents, and (3) the Administrator's request for a waiver of the requirement that a deponent testify in the presence of a person authorized to administer oaths was not justified under 29 C.F.R. § 18.10(c). Upon consideration of the parties' submissions to this tribunal and the April 20, 2017 conference call, the undersigned issues the following rulings.

The Administrator properly complied with the notice of deposition requirements in 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(1). That section requires that reasonable written notice of deposition be given to the opposing party no fewer than fourteen days from the date of the planned deposition. 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(1). If the deponent is "known," the notice of deposition must state the deponent's name and address; whereas if the deponents are "unknown", a party must give only a general description sufficient to identify the particular class or group Id. Here, the Administrator issued a notice of deposition on April 7, 2017, for depositions scheduled to begin on April 24, 2017—giving Respondent seventeen days of notice. In addition, the Administrator identified the class of potential deponents as Respondent's 2015 H-2A workers. During the conference call, counsel for the Administrator stated that he did not know the specific identities of available deponents for the first round of depositions until April 19, 2017, at which time the Administrator turned over those names to the Respondent. Based on this testimony, the undersigned finds that the identity of these deponents were "unknown," and therefore the Administrator's April 7, 2017 notice of deposition complied with 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(1).[1] However, the Respondent also testified that it employed close to 100 H-2A workers in 2015. Given the date the Administrator disclosed the names of its first deponents, Respondent would have only two business days to search its records and prepare for an April 24 deposition. Therefore, to prevent the Respondent from being prejudiced by such last minute notice, the undersigned ORDERS that no depositions shall be conducted in the scheduled April 24–26, 2017 timeframe. Depositions may commence as planned on May 2–4, 2017, but the undersigned further ORDERS the Administrator to disclose the names of its deponents as soon as they are known to give the Respondent adequate time to prepare for the depositions.

[1] Moreover, in light of the government informant privilege applicable to those workers who did speak to the Administrator in connection with this case, the Administrator was understandably reticent to disclose the names of potential deponents before securing their agreement to give testimony.

The Respondent also persuasively argued that the presence of CDM personnel at the remote deposition could exert an improper influence over the deponent workers. The CDM is a independent Mexican workers' advocacy group that helped the Administrator identify potential witnesses in its case against Respondent. In light of these facts, the presence of CDM personnel in the deposition room may impinge upon the veracity of the deponents' testimony. Therefore, the undersigned ORDERS that, while CDM personnel may assist the deponents in travelling to the deposition site and provide technical support for the videoconferencing technology, they shall vacate the deposition room during the time that deponents are testifying.

Finally, the undersigned also finds that the Administrator has shown good cause to waive the ordinary requirement under 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(4)–(5) and Fed. R. Civ. P. 28(b) that a deponent testify in the physical presence of a person having the power to administer oaths. This tribunal has discretion in these cases to permit the introduction of hearsay—including the unsworn statements by the H-2A workers the Administrator seeks to depose. See 29 C.F.R. § 501.34. Therefore, waiving the requirement that a deponent testify only in the presence of an oath-giver will not prejudice the Respondent in this matter. Respondent is free to challenge the probative value of any de bene esse deposition testimony in its brief should it perceive any indicia of untrustworthiness in the deposition procedure, and the undersigned will fairly consider such arguments. Additionally, the Administrator has shown that the potential costs (monetary or administrative) attendant to strict compliance with 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(4)–(5) and Fed. R. Civ. P. 28(b) would not serve the ends of justice in this case, particularly in light of the admissibility of unsworn statements. However, to ameliorate Respondent's concerns with having the Administrator's counsel administer the oath to its own deponents, the undersigned will be available via teleconference to swear in the witnesses. The parties are therefore ORDERED to confer and inform this tribunal of the dates and times of upcoming depositions so that the undersigned can arrange her schedule accordingly.

SO ORDERED.

Re: Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, 2017-TAE-00003; Agustin Hernandez, 2017-MSP-00002

Dear Judge Timlin:

I submit this letter in regard to the Court's April 21, 2017 Order Granting Motion for Leave to Administer Oaths Remotely in De Bene Esse Depositions, specifically the statement on page 2 that "counsel for the Administrator stated that he did not know the specific identities of available deponents for the first round of depositions until April 19, 2017."

My statement during the April 20 conference call was that counsel for the Administrator promptly turned over the specific deponents' names after learning of their availability to be noticed at the noticed time and place. Out of an abundance of caution and duty of candor to the court, I write to clarify that we received the relevant information regarding these witnesses' availability on the afternoon of April 17. Because Mr. Heyman-Kantor and I were then, and continued to be occupied by preparation for depositions on April 18 to 20, on April 19, we provided Respondent with the deponents' names, as well as the interpreters' names, CVs, and information about CDM and its employees.

After receiving information on the evening of April 21 regarding the tentative availability of additional deponents, we provided those potential deponents' names to Respondent on April 22.

Pursuant to the Court's April 21 Order, the parties are in the process of conferring regarding the scheduling of the upcoming depositions and will contact the Court as soon as possible to verify that the proposed dates and times fit the Court's schedule.

Respectfully submitted,

Re: Matter of Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, 2017-TAE-00003
Matter of Agustin Hernandez, 2017-MSP-00002

Dear Judge Timlin:

Respondents submit this letter to clarify, if possible, without taking any more of the Court's time on this issue than is absolutely necessary, the ongoing issue of the Administrator's scheduling and notice of the de bene esse depositions of witnesses in Mexico. The Court's Order issued April 21, 2017 accurately stated the understanding that the Court and undersigned counsel took from the April 20, 2017 conference call – that Counsel for the Administrator had given Respondents the names of some of the witnesses as soon as he knew that they would be available for depositions on the dates selected.

The Administrator's letter brief dated April 24, 2017 makes clear that this was not so. In fact, the names were actually known on April 17, 2017. The "Amended Notice of Depositions" was not provided until April 22, 2017, giving the names of the witnesses but not their addresses, as required in 29 C.F.R. § 18.64(b)(1). Counsel states that he and co-counsel "were then, and continued to be occupied by preparation for depositions" and, apparently, unable to provide the names to Respondents. During that time, however, Counsel for the Administrator spent each of the next three days sitting across a table from Respondents and their counsel, fully aware of the names and dates for the depositions, but choosing not to disclose them until that Saturday, with only partial (non-compliant) disclosure coming after two full days of depositions, on the night of April 19th.

The Court has given the Administrator significant latitude in scheduling and, particularly, noticing these depositions. Administrator's Counsel's honesty in clarifying statements from April 20th is certainly appreciated, if belated. If the Administrator had given Respondents notice of the names and addresses of the witnesses for the May 3, 2017 depositions on April 17th, when the information was fully known to them, that would have been timely under Section 18.64(b). The notice that was actually given on April 22nd, however, did not comply with the Rules. As a reminder, the only source of the urgency to schedule and complete these depositions in this manner is the Administrator's own schedule. All of the issues raised in the parties briefing and the extended conference last week: untimely and/or incomplete deposition notices, concerns with proper oath administration, and involvement of the Centro de los Derechos del Migrante, would be eliminated if the Administrator did not insist on this particular schedule.

Respondents do not wish to delay the proceedings or take up the Court's time, but the ongoing pattern of noncompliance with the Rules of Practice by the Administrator is extremely troubling. The depositions scheduled for next week still do not comply with Section 18.64(b). Respondents reserve their rights to seek appropriate sanctions under 29 C.F.R. § 18.57, but suggest that adjourning the depositions until timely notice can be provided or waiving strict compliance with the "informant's privilege" – particularly where, as here, the "informants" are no longer employed by Respondent Sun Valley and are presently located thousands of miles away in a foreign country – would alleviate some of the prejudice from the Administrator's conduct here and better serve the interests of justice.

Sincerely,

Christopher J. Schulte

In the Matter of: ADMINISTRATOR, WAGE AND HOUR DIVISION, U.S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR Plaintiff v. SUN VALLEY ORCHARDS, LLC Respondent	Case No: 2017-TAE-00003

JOINT MOTION FOR REVISED SCHEDULE

The parties jointly move for a revised schedule in the above-captioned matter, solely with respect to the parties': (1) motions for summary disposition, and (2) pre-hearing disclosures and exchanges. In the Court's Order Granting the Parties Joint Motion for Revised Schedule dated February 7, 2017, the Court set the following dates:

- Hearing dates July 18-21, 2017
- Pre-hearing statements due 30 days prior to hearing (Sun., June 18th)
- Pre-hearing disclosures and exchanges 45 days prior to hearing (Sat. June 3rd)
- Motions for summary disposition 60 days prior to hearing (Fri., May 19th)

As a result of a combination of the de bene esse depositions being moved back and mutual agreements between the parties to extend deadlines to respond to written discovery requests, there are still discovery responses outstanding on both sides, and it will not be possible for the parties to file motions for summary disposition under the schedule set in February.

In the interest of preserving the Court's schedule, however, the parties believe that they can prepare and file motions for summary disposition one week later than originally set, to be received by the Court on Friday, May 26, 2017. In light of the deadlines for responses to those summary judgment motions, the parties also respectfully propose a similar, short extension of the deadline for the parties' pre-hearing disclosures and exchanges, to Monday, June 12, 2017. The pre-hearing statement deadlines and trial dates would not require changing under this proposal.

Counsel for the parties have conferred regarding this proposed change to the Court's schedule and jointly request the relief requested herein. For the foregoing reasons and such others as may appear to the Court, the parties respectfully submit that this Joint Motion for Revised Schedule should be granted.

RESPONDENT'S EMERGENCY MOTION FOR REVISED SCHEDULE

Respondent, Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, moves the Court for a further revision to the briefing schedule for the parties' respective motions for summary disposition in the above-captioned matter. When the parties filed their Joint Motion for Revised Schedule on May 17, 2017, Respondent had not yet received any discovery responses from the Administrator. Ms. Kaczak advised the parties via email yesterday morning that the Court had approved the Joint Motion. Between 7:04 p.m. and 9:36 p.m. last night, undersigned counsel received 40 separate emails from Counsel for the Administrator, including interrogatory responses, responses to requests for admissions, additional exhibits from the depositions of the Administrator's witnesses earlier this month, and more than 3,700 pages of documents, some of which include redactions. The Administrator still has not provided a privilege log for the redactions. Transcripts for the 9 depositions recently completed arrived from the court reporter after the Joint Motion was filed, involving hundreds more pages of material to be reviewed and included in the briefing to the Court.

When counsel for the parties discussed the joint request for a one-week extension, the representation was that there were "no surprises" and that relatively little would be produced. A partial review of these documents this morning reveals that many were not produced with the Administrator's initial disclosures, including a number of redacted witness statements from some of the H-2A workers at issue in the case. It is too early to know, without seeing the privilege log for these documents, whether any discovery issues will require the Court's consideration, but even reviewing the material as-provided will not permit meaningful briefing in the amount of time remaining. Undersigned counsel reached out to Counsel for the Administrator, who advises that it opposes the relief requested in Respondent's Motion but did not give an estimate of when the privilege log might be produced.

Despite having just asked the Court for a one-week change to the briefing schedule, given the timing and volume of this production, Respondent has no choice but to ask for an additional two weeks for the parties to file their motions for summary decision. The current deadline calls for serving the briefs Thursday, May 25th, for delivery Friday, May 26th. Respondent proposes moving that deadline to Friday, June 9, 2017. In the event that the Court agrees to this proposed revision to the schedule, the dates set for pre-hearing statements (June 18th), pre-hearing disclosures and exchanges (June 12th), and possibly hearing (July 18-21) may also need to be revised, but the parties and the Court can address that as needed.

Undersigned counsel regrets having to file two motions within one week on this issue, but the extent of the discovery responses received last night was not anticipated as of the filing of the first request last week. While everyone seeks the timely consideration and resolution of this matter, the interests of justice would be best served by meaningful briefing and the opportunity for disposition of some or all of the claims at issue without a hearing. That would be best served by a brief extension of time in which to assemble the facts of the case and present them to the Court in motions for summary decision.

Counsel for the parties have conferred regarding this proposed change to the Court's schedule and were unable to reach an agreement on the relief requested herein. The Administrator indicates that it will oppose this motion, but Respondent respectfully submits that this Emergency Motion for Revised Schedule should be granted.

Dear Judge Morris:

The above captioned matter is scheduled for hearing before you on June 16, 2017.

Please be advised that we have recently filed a new claim for occupational injuries. The parties agree that the pending claim is not ripe for adjudication at this time.

Therefore, with the consent of my adversary, I respectfully request a remand of the within matter to the District Director for the purpose of joining it with the new matter and hopefully resolving both claims at the district level.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGES
CHERRY HILL, NEW JERSEY

IN THE MATTER OF: Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor, Plaintiff v. Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, Respondent.	Case No. 2017-TAE-00003

ADMINISTRATOR'S OPPOSITION TO RESPONDENT'S MOTION FOR A THIRD EXTENSION TO THE SUMMARY DECISION DEADLINE

The Administrator writes in opposition to Respondent's May 23, 2017 motion for a third extension to the deadline to file motions for summary decision.[1] Respondent's request should be denied because it is unjustified and would potentially require a postponement of the hearing in this case, harming the Administrator's ability to prosecute this matter. Having failed to demonstrate good cause as required under 29 C.F.R. § 18.32(b), Respondent's motion should be denied.

Respondent cannot establish good cause for its request for an extension. The basis for Respondent's extension request, i.e. that it only recently received the Administrator's document production, is entirely a problem of Respondent's own making. Respondent waited to serve all of its written discovery until April 13, 2017, nearly three months after discovery opened in this case. See January 18, 2017 Order (allowing the parties to begin seeking discovery immediately). Because of Respondent's delay, the Administrator's document production was not even due until after the close of discovery, shortly before the deadline to file summary decision motions.[2] If Respondent had all along intended to file a motion for summary decision and wanted the Administrator's document production further in advance of the summary decision deadline, it should not have waited so many months to serve its written discovery.

[1] The summary decision deadline was originally set for January 31, 2017. See January 18, 2017 Order. This deadline has already been extended twice, first to May 19, 2017 (see February 7, 2017 Order), and then to May 26, 2017. See May 22, 2017 Order.

Counsel for Respondent has not identified any problems that he could not have anticipated before his and the Administrator's recent representation to the Court that the parties would be able to "prepare and file motions for summary disposition . . . . to be received by the Court on Friday, May 26, 2017." See May 17, 2017 Joint Motion. Indeed, the last of the deposition transcripts became available on May 12, 2017, and Respondent has known since mid-April, when it finally served its extensive written discovery, that the Administrator's document production was due shortly before the summary decision deadline.[3] Respondent surely must have known that this document production would be significant, given that the myriad violations the Administrator has alleged, including violations of housing, transportation, and wage-related regulations; given that nearly six hundred thousand dollars in back wages and civil money penalties are in dispute in this case; and given the breadth of Respondent's document requests, which sought, among other things, all internal Wage and Hour guidance documents that relate to [2] The Administrator has objected to Respondent's having served these document requests at such a late date. The Administrator nonetheless responded to these untimely document requests in the interest of transparency and disclosure, and to avoid a discovery dispute.

[3] Originally, the Administrator's document production was due May 15, three days after the close of discovery and only four days before summary decision motions were previously due. Extensions resulted in both the document production and summary decision deadlines being pushed back by one week.

the violations in this case and a huge swath of emails, documents, and notes related to Wage and Hour's numerous investigations of Sun Valley.[4]

In any event, Respondent does not have so many documents to review. Much of the Administrator's document production consists of Sun Valley's own records and of draft Wage and Hour documents and guidance materials that were requested but are barely or not at all relevant to this case.[5] The documents produced corroborate the Administrator's allegations that Sun Valley exploited its workers. These documents will certainly not allow Sun Valley to establish that it is entitled to summary decision.

The Administrator will be filing a partial summary judgment motion on the issues about which there are no material disputes of fact. If Respondent's delays in serving discovery prevent it from citing all of the evidence it would like to cite in its summary decision motion, Respondent will have ample opportunity to present this evidence in opposition to the Administrator's motion, or at trial. Respondent's discovery delays do not provide good cause for delaying the schedule in this case or for the consequences that such a delay would have, including (as discussed below) potentially preventing the Administrator from presenting live testimony at trial.

Respondent's extension request would result in the oppositions to summary decision motions being due on June 23, 2017, just 25 calendar days before trial is scheduled to commence on July 18, 2017. See May 22, 2017 Order; 29 C.F.R. § 18.33(d). This two-week delay might (1) prevent the Court from ruling on the summary decision motions before trial, forcing the parties to prepare and present evidence on issues that have been fully briefed and about which there are no material disputes of fact, or (2) cause postponement of the trial. In accordance with your Honor's schedule, the Administrator has planned for witnesses to be available to travel to Cherry Hill, New Jersey for the hearing as currently scheduled and these witnesses may not be available at a later date, particularly if trial is postponed until the fall (given the number of schedules to coordinate). For example, a number of Sun Valley's former H-2A employees are currently in the United States on seasonal work visas, and therefore they could travel to Cherry Hill to testify on July 18-21, 2017 relatively easily. However, their visas will expire in the fall, and they could resign or be let go and have to return home before their visas are set to expire. The more the trial dates are pushed back, the more likely it will be that none of Sun Valley's former H-2A workers will be able to testify in person.

[4] Counsel for the Administrator has never asserted that "relatively little would be produced." Indeed, counsel for the Administrator made no representation regarding the number of pages in the Administrator's then-forthcoming document production.

[5] The Administrator served her privilege log shortly before filing this Opposition. Respondent has not yet served any privilege log or identified any withheld documents, even though such log was due months ago.

For the foregoing reasons, the Court should reject Respondent's delay tactic and deny Respondent's motion.

SUN VALLEY ORCHARDS, LLC Respondent

RESPONDENT'S REPLY IN FURTHER SUPPORT OF EMERGENCY MOTION FOR REVISED SCHEDULE

Respondent, Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, submits this Reply to address a number of inaccuracies in the Administrator's Opposition and to respectfully request that the Court grant a short extension of time in which the parties can file their motions for summary decision. Respondent has demonstrated good cause in support of this reasonable request, under 29 C.F.R. § 18.32(b) – if the Administrator's arguments are so tenuous that they continue to rely on trial-by-ambush tactics, then perhaps the claims against Respondent should be withdrawn.

First, the timing of the Administrator's discovery responses is shared by both parties. If the requests had been served earlier, the responses would have been due earlier. That is obviously true. But if Administrator's Counsel's claim that "Respondent does not have so many documents to review" and that the documents produced have been available all along, then why did Counsel request additional time in which to produce these documents? Respondent's Counsel immediately acceded to this request, not realizing that the Administrator would exploit this professional consideration for litigation advantage. Serving 3,700+ pages of responses after hours, less than 72 hours before a brief needs to be overnighted to the Court does not allow for meaningful review, much less briefing.[1] As for Counsel's references to prior investigations and the exploitation of workers, such petty tactics are beneath even their dignity – the facts of the case will establish that Wage & Hour has attempted to rush through these claims and that Sun Valley has been in full compliance with the H-2A regulations.

As far as the Administrator's claims of prejudice from the proposed revised schedule, this argument lacks any merit. If the Court believes that consideration of the motions for summary decision might avoid the need for hearing on some or all of the issues raised in the Order of Reference, then that supports allowing the parties to brief these issues fully and eliminate some of the expense of trial. The claim that some of Sun Valley's former H-2A employees might not be available is particularly odd, given the Administrator's push to conduct the de bene esse depositions with which the Court is now quite familiar. Although Counsel for the Administrator represented to the Court that conducting these remote depositions was essential to preserve testimony and could not be rescheduled because the deponents had imminent plans to travel to the United States on H-2A visas for the 2017 growing season, not one of the deponents testified that he had any such plans. The Administrator has testimony from 6 of these workers that it could use at trial, making the stubborn insistence on the July trial date even less compelling an argument. There is no proof, much less reason to accept Counsel's unsupported representation that "a number" of trial witnesses would (1) be available to travel to Cherry Hill to testify the week of July 17th and/or (2) not be available at any subsequent date, assuming that an adjournment of that date is even necessary.

[1] The Administrator's Privilege Log arrived only minutes before the Administrator's Opposition – dozens of claims of privilege over 13 single-spaced pages – far too late to permit review, much less challenge. Counsel claims that Respondent's privilege log "was due months ago" but strangely fails to advise the Court that Respondent's responses did not include any redactions or assertions of privilege that would have required a privilege log. The documents is not "overdue," it does not exist.

The Administrator began the investigation giving rise to this action in the early Summer of 2015. Interviews were conducted, records were reviewed, and on-site inspections took place. The Notice of Determination was not issued until June 22, 2016, and while Respondent's Request for Hearing was received on July 20, 2016, the Order of Reference was not filed by the Administrator for another 5 months. Having waited for months and years to bring this action before this Court, the Administrator now has the temerity to claim that a two-week extension is a "delay tactic" that prejudices the ability of the Solicitor's Office to pursue this case.

Respondent respectfully submits that this is absolutely not a delay tactic but, rather, a question of fundamental fairness. Respondent's request is not extreme, but simply an effort to meaningfully brief these important issues. Even a one-week extension, while far from enough to address all of the material provided by the Administrator, would at least better serve the interests of fairness and make proper briefing possible. Adhering to the current schedule would not.

ADMINISTRATOR'S MOTION FOR PARTIAL SUMMARY DECISION

Patricia J. Davidson, Deputy Administrator for Program Operations, Wage and Hour Division of the United States Department of Labor ("Administrator"), by her attorneys, moves for Partial Summary Decision and Order against Respondent Sun Valley Orchards, LLC ("Sun Valley"), a large New Jersey farm. In 2015, Sun Valley hired H-2A and domestic farm workers to work in its fields, promising to provide habitable housing facilities, secure transport, and free kitchen access, among other things. Instead, nearly 150 domestic and H-2A workers arrived to find deplorable housing conditions, unsafe transportation, and unlawful meal deductions, in violation of H-2A program requirements. Because there is no genuine dispute of material fact as to these violations, and for the reasons discussed in the accompanying memorandum of law, the Court should grant the Administrator's Motion for Partial Summary Decision, award $128,130.00 in back wages, and uphold the Administrator's assessment of $198,300 in civil money penalties.

In 2015, Sun Valley promised to provide its workers with a habitable dormitory, secure transport between the housing camp and the various fields, and free cooking and kitchen facilities. Instead, nearly 150 H-2A and domestic workers arrived to work at Sun Valley throughout the season to find deplorable housing conditions, unsafe transportation, no cooking or kitchen access, and unlawful charges for meals. Pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.33 and § 18.72, the Administrator moves for partial summary decision and an order holding, as a matter of law, that Sun Valley improperly: (1) required workers to pay for meals in violation of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p), and (q); (2) housed workers in substandard housing, in violation of § 655.122(d)(1); and (3) transported workers in unsafe vehicles using unlicensed drivers, in violation of § 655.122(h)(4).

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Sun Valley, a large New Jersey farm, employs both foreign nationals working on H-2A visas ("H-2A workers") as well as non-H-2A employees ("domestic workers") as farmworkers, picking asparagus, peppers, and other ground crops. To obtain workers for the 2015 season, Sun Valley certified to the U.S. Department of Labor that it would not charge workers for meals during the 2015 growing season; that it would provide workers with free and open access to a kitchen to prepare their own meals; and that it would comply with all safety and health regulations governing employer-provided transportation and housing. Sun Valley's assurances formed part of the farm's contract with its H-2A workers, and regulations required Sun Valley to follow the same promises with respect to domestic workers.

In violation of its contractual obligations and certifications made to the Department, Sun Valley charged its workers at least $75 per week for meals and barred workers from Sun Valley's kitchen. By failing to disclose the weekly meals fee to workers before they traveled to

New Jersey, Sun Valley deprived them of the opportunity to make an informed choice about whether to accept the job offer. Sun Valley also profited by not undertaking kitchen upgrades that would have been necessary to provide all workers with the promised kitchen access. Moreover, Sun Valley thwarted the Department's ability to review whether Sun Valley's proposed wage (taking into account the meal charges) would adversely affect U.S. workers. Sun Valley also committed numerous housing and transportation violations, including transporting its workers between the dormitory and the fields each day in unsafe vehicles on public highways using unlicensed drivers. Sun Valley's practices not only undercut workers' wages and exposed them to physical danger, but also threatened the integrity of the H-2A program as a whole.

The material facts regarding these issues — the terms of Sun Valley's job orders, Sun Valley's failure to make required disclosures, the deductions for meals that Sun Valley demanded from its H-2A and domestic workers, and the egregious conditions of worker housing and transportation — are not in dispute. Accordingly, the Administrator's motion for partial summary decision should be granted, and the Court should order Sun Valley to pay $128,130.00 in back wages to 94 H-2A workers and 45 domestic workers, and pay $198,300 in civil money penalties.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

To participate in the H-2A program, Sun Valley was required to file two kinds of applications with the Department of Labor: an Application for Temporary Employment Certification (ETA Form 9142) ("TEC") and an Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order (ETA Form 790) ("job order"). 20 C.F.R. § 655.130(a); see id. § 655.121(a). This latter document is known as a "job order" because it is used to recruit both H-2A and domestic workers and describes all "material terms and conditions of employment, including those related to wages, working conditions, and other benefits." Id. § 655.103(b).

Sun Valley filed two sets of applications to hire 100 H-2A workers in 2015, covering overlapping time periods: April 13, 2015 to October 10, 2015, and June 1, 2015 to October 10, 2015. Declaration of Jose Perez, May 31, 2017 ("Perez Decl.") ¶ 6. Each of the job orders represented that Sun Valley would "furnish free cooking and kitchen facilities to those workers who are entitled to live in the employer['s] housing so that workers may prepare their own meals." Id., Ex. C (DOL00272, 279 ¶ 14), Ex. D (DOL00290, 297 ¶ 14). In a separate section of each job order, Sun Valley checked a series of boxes identifying whether certain deductions would be made from workers' paychecks. For the box corresponding to "Meals," Sun Valley checked "No," to indicate that it would not charge for meals. Id. Ex. C (DOL00274), Ex. D (DOL00292) (emphasis added).

Sun Valley owner Russell Marino, Jr., signed both job orders, certifying that the documents "describe[] the actual terms and conditions of the employment being offered by me and contains all the material terms and conditions of the job." Perez Decl. ¶ 6, Ex. C (DOL00276), Ex. D (DOL00294). In the TECs, Sun Valley certified that it would comply with all of the requirements of the H-2A program, including providing housing and transportation compliant with federal, state, and local requirements. Id., Ex. A (DOL01459 ¶ 8), Ex. B (DOL01444 ¶ 8); see Declaration of Jacob Heyman-Kantor dated June 1, 2017 ("Heyman-Kantor Decl.") ¶ 3 and Exs. 1-2 (signed TECs). Both sets of job orders and TECs were approved, and the job orders became the "job offers" pursuant to which Sun Valley hired approximately 147 workers (96 H-2A and 51 domestic workers) during the 2015 growing season. 20 C.F.R. § 655.103(b) (defining "job offer"). Sun Valley did not enter into separate written contracts with its workers. Heyman-Kantor Decl. ¶ 4 & Ex. 3 (Resp'ts' Joint Resp. to First Set of Reqs. for Admis.) ("Sun Valley Admission") No. 3.

On June 22, 2016, the Administrator issued a Determination Letter finding that Sun Valley violated several H-2A regulations during the 2015 growing season, including the meals disclosure, housing, and transportation standards that are the subject of this motion, as well as several violations that will be proven at trial.[1] Respondent timely requested a hearing, and the Administrator referred this case to the Office of Administrative Law Judges on December 23, 2016.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Sun Valley is one of New Jersey's largest produce growers, with about a dozen fields totaling at least 2,500 acres throughout Salem and Gloucester counties.[2] Heyman-Kantor Decl., ¶ 5 & Ex. 4, Deposition of Russell Marino, Jr., Apr. 19, 2017 ("R. Marino Dep."), at 19:23–25, 20:4–6. Sun Valley is owned and operated by four members of the Marino family: Russell Jr., Joe, Harry Jr., and Russell Sr. Sun Valley's management also includes Agustin Hernandez, the farmworker labor supervisor, and a few others who have no contact with farmworkers and run separate parts of the operation, such as the packing house, and shipping and receiving. Id. at 17:5–16, 63:21–65:2.

I. The Marino Family

Of the four Marinos, Russell Jr. and Harry are the only two whose responsibilities touch directly on the farmworkers. Russell Jr. is responsible for irrigation and site planning, and supervises a handful of farmworkers to the extent they assist with irrigation. R. Marino Dep. 21:25–22:3, 24:9–16. Russell Jr. "drive[s] through the fields" on a daily basis. Id. at 26:1–2. In 2015, Russell Jr. was also in charge of the job orders: he "spell[ed] out" their contents, reviewed them for accuracy, and signed them. Id. at 153:11–19, 154:8–156:11.

[1] The issues for trial include Sun Valley's violation of the three-fourths guarantee, 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i), Sun Valley's related interference with workers' rights, 29 C.F.R. § 501.5, and Sun Valley's violations of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p), and (q) for having sold workers beverages, beer, cigarettes, and other items at a profit and/or in violation of state law.

[2] Reorganized as an LLC in 2012, the farm used to operate as "Marino Brothers, Inc." The farm has grown steadily in recent years, but there has been "virtually no difference" in the farm's management structure for some time. R. Marino Dep. 15:13–20.

Harry Marino determines the farm's planting and seeding schedules. R. Marino Dep. 21:22–24, 23:5–13. Harry is also primarily responsible for identifying to which of Sun Valley's dozen fields to dispatch workers on a daily basis. Id. at 60:21–62:8; Heyman-Kantor Decl. ¶ 6 & Ex. 5, Deposition of Agustin Hernandez, Apr. 18, 2017 ("Hernandez Dep."), at 135:21–136:12. Together, Russell Jr. and Harry determine the number of workers to hire each year. Hernandez Dep. 41:5–9.

Joe Marino oversees Sun Valley's sales operations, integrated pest management program, tractor work, and various administrative operations. R. Marino Dep. 21:20–22; Heyman-Kantor Decl. ¶ 7 & Ex. 6, Deposition of Joseph Marino, Apr. 20, 2017 ("J. Marino Dep."), at 17:5–12. Russell Sr., in turn, oversees general operations and the farm's greenhouses. R. Marino Dep. 21:24–25, 22:16–25. Neither Joe nor Russell Sr. directly oversees farmworkers. Id. at 22:11–13, 22:16–23:4.

II. Agustin Hernandez

For more than 25 years, Hernandez has supervised Sun Valley's farmworkers. Hernandez's H-2A and domestic management responsibilities extend across all of Sun Valley's operations where farmworkers have any role. Whereas few of the Marinos make any regular appearance in the fields, Hernandez "supervise[s] everybody in the field." Hernandez Dep. 23:2–3. In Joe Marino's words, Hernandez "is the manager of the help." J. Marino Dep. 49:7–8.

Each day, after Harry Marino determines which fields need attention, Hernandez follows

Harry's instructions and selects the particular workers to dispatch to each field. R. Marino Dep. 60:21–62:8, 23:5–13. Hernandez usually decides when work is finished in the fields each day. Hernandez Dep. 259:8–12. Hernandez also trains and disciplines workers. R. Marino Dep. 28:23–29:6.

Hernandez is the person "most[]" "involved in hiring workers" and is the intermediary between the workers and the rest of Sun Valley's management. Id. at 29:20–22, 36:24–37:16. Practically the only way a worker can ask a question of Sun Valley's management is to ask Hernandez directly. Hernandez Dep. 168:8–13, 170:5–13; R. Marino Dep. 29:23–25. In fact, there would "[n]ever be an occasion for a worker to talk to someone other than Agustin [Hernandez] about a question or a complaint." R. Marino Dep. 30:6–9. Since the farmworkers "don't even know" the Marinos, Hernandez is their point of contact. Hernandez Dep. 168:20–21. Part of Hernandez's job, in turn, is "to inform everything that happens to the farmer, to the owner," i.e. Russell Marino, Jr. and Harry Marino. Id. at 194:1–3.

Hernandez is also "in charge of" Sun Valley's worker housing camp. Id. at 170:11–12, 13:21–25; R. Marino Dep. 27:15–21, 43:5–19. Relatedly, Hernandez is "in charge" of the three daily meals sold to Sun Valley's workers at Sun Valley's kitchen adjacent to the housing camp. Hernandez Dep. 14:1, 50:23–52:21. Similarly, Hernandez oversees the transportation of workers between Sun Valley's housing and the fields, including selecting the workers that drive those vehicles, and cleaning the vehicles. R. Marino Dep. 43:16–18, 45:5–17.

III. Sun Valley's Agricultural Fields and Facilities

In 2015, virtually all of Sun Valley's workers either traveled to the United States on H-2A visas, or from elsewhere in the United States as seasonal workers, and nearly all of them live at Sun Valley during the growing season. These farmworkers primarily spend their time at three locations: (1) the agricultural fields; (2) the farmworker housing facility and adjacent bathrooms; and (3) the separate, nearby kitchen and adjacent dining facility.

Sun Valley's Fields— Sun Valley's dozen fields are located throughout Salem and Gloucester Counties. Perez Decl. ¶ 6 & Ex. C (DOL00288). One of the fields surrounds the worker dormitory. R. Marino Dep. 20:21–24. In that field, workers harvest asparagus, a task that requires workers to "crouch" "all the time" throughout the day. Heyman-Kantor Decl. ¶ 8 & Ex. 7, Deposition of Carlos Cervantes Ramirez, May 10, 2017 ("Cervantes Ramirez Dep."), at 9:14–10:1.

The other fields are various distances from the dormitory, with some fields five to six miles apart from each other. R. Marino Dep. 66:7–10. A number of these fields are at least a ten- to fifteen-minute drive from the worker housing. Most of them require travel on a state highway and other public roads, and Sun Valley's workers were driven on these roads at very high speeds. See Perez Decl. ¶ 18. Workers often spend more than thirty minutes in the buses per day because of travel between fields and back to the dormitory for lunch. See Heyman-Kantor Decl. ¶ 9 & Ex. 8, Deposition of Miguel Angel Elizondo Soto, May 3, 2017 ("Elizondo Soto Dep."), at 31:1–19 (thirty minutes to an hour in travel time per day); Heyman-Kantor Decl. ¶ 10 & Ex. 9, Deposition of Jose Luis Silva Lopez, May 4, 2017 ("Silva Lopez Dep."), at 30:3-31:19 (workers would travel to up to three fields in a single day, and would travel back to the kitchen in the middle of the day for lunch); Hernandez Dep. 137:7–138:6 (it would take "a couple of hours" to walk from the worker dormitory to Sun Valley's furthest field); R. Marino Dep. 21:4–7.[3]

[3] The workers' housing facilities are located at 1321 NJ-45, Swedesboro, NJ 08085, so to drive anywhere workers would have had to drive on Route 45, a New Jersey state highway, among other public roads. See Perez Decl. ¶¶ 10, 18. Sun Valley's furthest field is a fifteen-minute drive from the housing facility, located at the intersection of Burlington Road and Garrison Road in Elmer, New Jersey. Perez Decl. ¶ 6 & Ex. C (DOL00288) (job order listing the locations of Sun

In 2015 through at least early May, there were no bathrooms or porta-potties in the fields available to workers. During their seven-day-per-week, twelve-hour workdays, those workers had to "hold it or run towards the trees" to urinate or defecate in or near the fields, "a complete odyssey." Heyman-Kantor Decl. ¶ 11 & Ex. 10, Deposition of Hugo Leonel Cinta Tegoma, May 11, 2017 ("Cinta Tegoma Dep."), at 9:3–9, 13:5–10; id. ¶ 12 & Ex. 11, Deposition of Hector Mishel Garcia Dominguez, May 10, 2017 ("Garcia Dominguez Dep."), at 10:19–24. According to some workers, there were also times no drinking water was available. Elizondo Soto Dep. 19:8–17; Cinta Tegoma Dep. 13:11–12; Cervantes Ramirez Dep. 12:5–13. Throughout the season, Hernandez also sold beverages, snacks, and other items to Sun Valley's workers at least twice per day, from the back of his truck. Hernandez Dep. 59:15–62:17.

Sun Valley's Substandard Housing Facility—In 2015, Sun Valley's farmworkers lived in a single, sparse housing facility with six bedrooms. Each room had bunkbeds for about twenty to thirty workers. Hernandez Dep. 119:11–18. Sun Valley provided some basic bedding but no pillows. Id. at 112:23–24, 113:6–10. Many flies were present in the dorm facilities throughout the summer. "[T]here were garbage cans very close to the dorm and they would get full of flies and then these flies would end up in our dorms." Elizondo Soto Dep. 30:7–10. Indeed, when Wage Hour Investigators Crudup and Perez entered Sun Valley's housing facilities, they immediately saw flies everywhere, and mosquitos as well. Perez Decl. ¶ 11. As the investigators walked around the facilities they had to constantly swat flies away from their faces. Id..

Adjacent to the dormitory building, Sun Valley provided a bathroom compound for its farmworkers. There was no privacy; the shower area had no curtains, and there were no doors on the toilet stalls. Cervantes Dep. 29:5–23. The bathrooms at the dormitory smelled "horrible:"

> There was shit on the walls and on the toilets like rubbed on the walls – on the toilets. There was toilet paper everywhere, dirty toilet paper everywhere. Some would piss outside of the toilets. In the showers there was even dirt, mud, hair, human hair everywhere. Where you would wash your hands, the sinks were all tarnished. There was also like water everywhere. Water and hair everywhere.

Elizondo Soto Dep. 27:21–28:5.

There was limited hot water in the bathroom; it often ran out given the large number of workers and their shared work schedule, a problem Sun Valley was long aware of but did not "do anything to fix." Hernandez Dep. 115:3–116:13; see Silva Lopez Dep. 29:2–6; Garcia Dominguez Dep. 24:2–6.

Sun Valley's Kitchen— Sun Valley's sole kitchen is a few paces from the dormitory, and there is an adjacent eating area for the workers "in between the kitchen and the bathrooms." Hernandez Dep. 29:7–11, 50:25–51:1, 162:1–9. Sun Valley's workers ate three meals a day in Sun Valley's eating area — for $75 to $80 week — an arrangement that Sun Valley never disclosed to its workers before their arrival. Workers pick up their meals at Sun Valley's kitchen and can also purchase food and beverages there. Id. at 53:7–17. When the kitchen's staff are not cooking worker meals, Agustin Hernandez locks the kitchen, preventing workers from cooking their own food. Heyman-Kantor Decl. ¶ 13 & Ex. 12, Deposition of Dario Morales Acosta, May 3, 2017 ("Morales Acosta Dep."), at 12:5–13:4.

IV. Sun Valley's Undisclosed, $75-$80 Per Week Meal Fee

There is no dispute that Sun Valley did not disclose the meal plan in writing to workers before they arrived at Sun Valley in the job offers as required by the regulations. Perez Decl., Exs. C, D (job orders) (DOL00272, 274, 279, 290, 292, 297); Sun Valley Admission Nos. 1–2 (admitting authenticity of the job orders)). And notwithstanding Sun Valley's assurances in the job orders that the company would provide free cooking facilities to its workers, Sun Valley did not do so either. Hernandez Dep. 96:23–25. Instead, Hernandez barred access to the kitchen and charged nearly all of workers a weekly $75-80 fee for the meals.

Sun Valley held orientations for groups of arriving H-2A workers, at which Hernandez explained, all at once, the availability of worker housing, "rules for the camp," workers' responsibilities in the fields, and the kitchen and the meals. Hernandez Dep. 48:16–49:14, 50:25–51:15; R. Marino Dep. 39:3–42:17, 43:1–4. Hernandez told workers that they were prohibited from cooking in the housing facility, which in any event had no kitchen, and limited electrical supply. Hernandez Dep. 27:9–19, 102:2–5, 122:5–24. As for the meals, in 2015 Russell Marino, Jr. or Hernandez would "explain to the[workers] that [they] get three squares a day." R. Marino Dep. 42:8–14, 43:1–4. As one worker has testified, "[f]rom the moment in which we arrived, [Hernandez] told us we needed to pay 80 U.S. for the meals." Elizondo Soto Dep. 11:2–8.

Sun Valley's workers paid for the meals in cash, the same afternoon that Sun Valley cashed the workers' paychecks, under Harry Marino's supervision. Hernandez Dep. 78:15–19, 79:12–20; R. Marino Dep. 30:21–31:2. When Hernandez kept track of the workers' weekly payments for meals — a recordkeeping practice that Sun Valley directed and monitored — Hernandez did so on payroll printouts provided by Sun Valley's payroll office. Hernandez Dep. 79:21–80:9, 80:19–25, 89:24–90:23, 220:12–221:19, 223:13–17 & Ex. 2. These printouts had the header "Sun Valley Orchards, LLC." Id., Ex. 2 (DOL01368–69).

V. Sun Valley's Transportation of Workers in Substandard Buses Using Unlicensed Drivers

In 2015, Sun Valley transported its workers to the fields using drivers who either had only Mexican driver's licenses or who had no licenses at all. See Perez Decl. ¶¶ 19–20; Hernandez Dep. 123:21–127:22. When Wage Hour Investigators Jose Perez and John Crudup visited Sun Valley on July 22, 2015, they stopped five of Sun Valley's buses before the buses were about to take workers to the fields. See Perez Decl. ¶¶ 18–19. When Investigator Perez asked the drivers and Hernandez for driver's licenses, three drivers presented only Mexican licenses, one of which was expired, and two drivers admitted that they did not have any driver's licenses at all. See Perez Decl. ¶ 19. Investigator Perez took photographs of the Mexican driver's licenses he was shown. See id. & Ex. V.

Hernandez, whom Sun Valley put in charge of determining who drove the buses, admitted that he knew these workers lacked proper driver's licenses. As Hernandez explained at his deposition, early in 2015 he went to ask the drivers if they had licenses, but "[o]nly two of them show[ed] me the license[s] and no, the rest of them, they didn't have anything." Hernandez Dep. 127:18–20; see id. at 127:13–14. Despite this knowledge, Hernandez let the drivers continue driving the buses. Id. at 127:21–22. Indeed, after Investigators Crudup and Perez notified Hernandez that the drivers did not have proper driver's licenses, Hernandez continued to allow these unlicensed drivers to drive the workers to the fields, Perez Decl. ¶ 20. This practice of allowing unlicensed drivers to transport workers is ongoing and longstanding, see infra Section V.B, and it is a problem that Sun Valley was cited for a decade ago. See Declaration of Charlene L. Rachor, June 1, 2017 ("Rachor Decl.") ¶¶ 34–35 (Wage and Hour cited Marino Brothers for the same problem in 2005 and 2006).

In addition to having unlicensed drivers transporting workers, Sun Valley's transportation suffered from at least two other safety defects. First, three of Sun Valley's buses had a tire worn out to the point of having practically no tread, undermining the vehicles' traction and leaving them vulnerable to going off the road or rolling over. See Perez Decl. ¶ 16. Wage Hour took photographs of these tires, documenting that their treads were inadequate. See id., Exs. R–T.

And second, one of Sun Valley's buses had a non-functioning rear directional light. The photograph that Wage Hour took shows that this turn signal was broken. See id. ¶ 17 & Ex. U.

There were apparently other problems with Sun Valley's transportation, which Wage Hour did not observe because when it visited Sun Valley, the farm removed from use two buses that Sun Valley had until then been using "every day." Morales Acosta Dep. 22:18–24:7 (Hernandez "hid" the buses likely because he was concerned that "he was going to be reprimanded" by the investigators).[4] As H-2A employee Dario Morales Acosta explained that these buses were in "very, very bad condition"; and "not in appropriate conditions to transport people." Morales Acosta Dep. 22:20–22, 22:25–23:4. The same worker explained: "[t]he side windows were broken. The seats were torn. The floor was open in some areas and the tires were in bad condition." Id. at 23:9–11. In fact, because of holes in the floor of the bus the employees "could actually see the highway when we were on it." Id at 23:5–16; cf. Hernandez Dep. 267:9–13 (referring to how Russell Marino once told him that to take the workers to an off-site laundry facility, Hernandez should "pick out the best two buses, everything works on them, you know, the lights and brakes," apparently distinguishing theses buses from the unsafe buses that Sun Valley used).

Because Sun Valley's decision to "hid[e]" these buses only came to light during the deposition of Mr. Morales Acosta in early May 2017, Wage Hour did not issue any citations related to the conditions that they were in or the drivers who drove them.

[4] Wage Hour was unable to inspect at least three of Sun Valley's buses until the second day of their inspection. See Perez Decl. ¶ 15. After Wage Hour completed the first day of its inspection, Sun Valley certainly would have had time to hide additional buses from Wage Hour.

ARGUMENT

I. Summary Decision Standard

Summary decision "shall" be granted when there is "no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to decision as a matter of law." 29 C.F.R. § 18.72(a). The standard for granting summary decision is "essentially the same standard governing summary judgment in the federal courts" pursuant to Rule of Civil Procedure 56. Menefee v. Tandem Transp. Co., ARB No. 09-046, 2010 WL 1776980, at *3 (Apr. 30, 2010). All justifiable inferences are to be drawn in favor of the non-moving party. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322–23 (1986); Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 255 (1986). At the same time, "an inference based upon a speculation or conjecture does not create a material factual dispute sufficient to defeat entry of summary judgment." Robertson v. Allied Signal, Inc., 914 F.2d 360, 382 n.12 (3d Cir. 1990).

There is no genuine dispute over the material facts regarding Sun Valley's undisclosed meal plan, closed kitchen, and flagrant safety violations. Sun Valley's managers' own admissions establish that in clear contradiction of Sun Valley's representations in the job offers, Sun Valley, through Hernandez, charged its workers for meals, in violation of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p), and (q). And undisputed evidence makes clear that Sun Valley subjected its workers to substandard housing and transportation conditions — a number of which created serious safety hazards. Given these facts and the Administrator's reasonable calculations of amounts owed, there can also be no genuine dispute regarding the Administrator's assessment of $198,300 in civil money penalties and $128,130.00 in back wages for Sun Valley's myriad violations of the H-2A program rules.

II. Sun Valley's Undisclosed Meal Plan Violated 20 C.F.R. 655.122(g), (p), and (q).

Sun Valley's undisclosed meal plan violated three separate subsections of the H-2A regulations: 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p), and (q).[5] These provisions, independently and taken together, require an employer to provide meaningful access for workers to prepare meals, or to provide meals and disclose any related fees to employees before they accept employment and travel to the agricultural employer. The meal disclosure requirement is so crucial to the integrity of the H-2A program that it appears repeatedly throughout the regulations:

(1) Subsection (g) provides that an H-2A "employer either must provide each worker with three meals a day or must furnish free and convenient cooking and kitchen facilities to the workers that will enable the workers to prepare their own meals." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g). "Where the employer provides the meals, the job offer must state the charge, if any, to the worker for such meals." Id.

(2) Subsection (p) requires that the employer's "job offer must specify all deductions not required by law which the employer will make from the worker's paycheck." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(1). Employers are plainly not required by law to deduct meal charges from employees' wages, and, as discussed below, a charge to a worker that should have been borne by the employer, such as an undisclosed meal charge, is a deduction regardless of whether it is directly deducted from an employee's paycheck, or it is charged to a worker after the worker is paid.

[5] At trial, the Administrator will also prove that in addition to selling these undisclosed meals, Sun Valley also violated § 655.122(g), (p), and (q) by selling soft drinks, energy drinks, beer, cigarettes, snacks, and other items, all at a profit and/or in violation of state law, resulting in additional back wages. As discussed below in Section V.A, these additional violations provide additional bases for the Administrator's civil money penalty assessment.

(3) Subsection (q) reiterates the disclosure requirement: An H-2A employer must provide workers with a copy of the work contract (here, the job offer, since Sun Valley never entered into a separate written work contract with its workers, see 20 C.F.R. § 655.103), at a specified time. For H-2A workers, Sun Valley had to provide that contract "no later than the time at which the worker applies for the visa," and for domestic workers, this contract must be provided "no later than on the day work commences." Id. § 655.122(q). "At a minimum, the work contract must contain all of the provisions required by" § 655.122, including disclosure of any meals deductions.

These regulations, taken together, are crucial to safeguarding the integrity of the H-2A program, and protecting visa and domestic workers alike, all of whom "lead lives especially tethered to their employer" during the contract period. See Rivero v. Montgomery Cnty., No. 16-1186, 2017 WL 1684618, at *14 n.15 (D. Md. May 3, 2017); see also Garcia-Celestino v. Ruiz Harvesting, Inc., 843 F.3d 1276, 1285 (11th Cir. 2016) (noting that the H-2A regulations "ensure minimum working standards, including adequate wages, sufficient benefits, and sound working conditions").

First, the requirement that charges for meals be disclosed to prospective workers is "essential for providing the workers sufficient information to make informed employment decisions," at a meaningful time, i.e. before workers begin employment. Wage and Hour Division Field Assistance Bulletin 2012-3, at 2 (May 17, 2012) (citing 75 Fed. Reg. 6884, 6906 (Feb. 12, 2010)).[6] The requirement that an employer's meal charges also be disclosed in the job offer to "regulatory agencies . . . allows the government to protect the foreign workers against exploitation." In re Global Horizons, Inc., No. 2010-TAE-00002, at 8 (Dec. 17, 2010) ("Global Horizons I"), aff'd, ARB No. 11-058, at 11 (May 31, 2013).[7] Without information about meals deductions to which workers will be subjected, the Department of Labor and state workforce agencies are also left hamstrung in their duties to "assur[e] that Congress' prohibition of preferential treatment for [H-2A] workers is enforced."' In re Global Horizons, Inc., No. 2010-TAE-00002, at 2 n.7 (OALJ Dec. 13, 2011) ("Global Horizons II").

The history of the H-2A program and predecessor agricultural guestworker programs provides additional context for the strict meal charge disclosure requirements. Prior to the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA), regulated employers had no choice between providing meals and kitchen access; they were required without exception to provide temporary foreign farmworkers with meals, and as now, were permitted to charge a reasonable amount — provided that the job offer disclosed the charge. E.g., 43 Fed. Reg. 10,315 (Mar. 10, 1978) (updating the default amount of the permissible charge). Following Congress's enactment of IRCA, the Department amended the H-2A regulations to require an employer either to provide meaningful kitchen access or to provide meals at a reasonable and disclosed cost. 52 Fed. Reg. 20,496, 20,514 (June 1, 1987). Now that prospective H-2A and domestic workers may choose between employers, some of whom provide free kitchens and some of whom provide meals (whether or not at a charge), it is all the more important that H-2A employers give applicants a meaningful opportunity to evaluate such "material" differences in the "terms and conditions" of [7] See also Registration of Interstate Farm Labor Contractors, S. Rep. 88-202, at 3 (1963) (citing U.S. Department of Labor survey finding widespread abuses directed toward migrant agricultural workers including "misrepresentation of . . . anticipated earnings; [and] overcharging for groceries or meals").

prospective employment. See 75 Fed. Reg. 6884, 6906 (Feb. 12, 2010) (emphasizing the "critical" importance of accurate disclosure in the job offer).[8]

A. Sun Valley Violated § 655.122(g) by Neither Providing Adequate Cooking Facilities Nor Properly Disclosing the Meal Plan.

1. Sun Valley Did Not Provide Its Workers with Free and Convenient Kitchen and Cooking Facilities.

There is no material dispute that in 2015, Sun Valley entirely failed to "furnish free and convenient cooking and kitchen facilities to the workers that [would] enable the workers to prepare their own meals." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g). Russell Marino, Jr. has even admitted that the job orders were "inaccurate" insofar as they claimed that workers would have such kitchen access. R. Marino Dep. 156:15–158:13.

Workers could not store groceries in Sun Valley's kitchen because the refrigerators were full of the supplies Hernandez used to prepare meals — "there[wa]s no extra room." Hernandez Dep. 96:18–22. Outside of mealtime, the kitchen was locked. Morales Acosta Dep. 12:5–13:4. The only exception was that workers could enter the kitchen in the evenings solely to purchase additional items from Hernandez or others working in Sun Valley's kitchen. Silva Lopez Dep. 20:3–17. Sun Valley's workers were prohibited from cooking in the worker housing camp, for safety reasons, Hernandez Dep. 101:4–7, 102:2–5, nor would the power supply support major appliances, id. 122:5–123:14.[9] Nor was there any meaningful alternative to Sun Valley's meal plan. As Hernandez explained at the workers' orientation, the choice was between "paying the kitchen" the weekly fee, or to "get food from outside." Id. at 29:7–13; see id. 51:4–12 ("[E]very time I told them, anybody don't like, don't want or don't like [it], don't want to pay or don't like the food, they are free to eat outside or to order a delivery meal. It's up to them. They got that option."). Given Sun Valley's relative geographic isolation, and workers' lack of transportation,[10] eating out was also not a meaningful option. In the end, only four workers managed to prepare their own meals, beginning about a month before their departure from Sun Valley, in a dangerous arrangement inside the crowded worker dormitory.[11] Because these workers "were not allowed to go to the kitchen" to prepare food, they managed to purchase a hot plate, at their own expense, and they cooked canned food since they had no access to Sun Valley's refrigerators. Elizondo Soto Dep. 11:21–12:19, 14:18–15:4.

Because Hernandez denied workers access to Sun Valley's kitchen in 2015, workers could not "cook their own meals in the kitchen," and none did. Hernandez Dep. 96:23–25, 99:19–24. Although Russell Marino, Jr. testified that he occasionally saw "guys in there making grilled cheese or whatever" after all the other workers ate dinner (but not at any other times), R.

[9] Indeed, Hernandez warned workers not to plug too many devices into outlets, because the circuit would break. Id. at 122:5–123:14.

[11] As Hernandez explained, "there wasn't enough room for everybody to cook." Hernandez Dep. 51:1–2. "[I]t's a mess. It can't be." Id. at 27:21–22.

Marino Dep. 92:4–25, that is the only testimony of any workers supposedly ever using the kitchen to prepare food.[12] At the same time, the undisputed evidence is that these workers were actually prohibited from doing so: Hernandez testified that the workers could not cook in Sun Valley's kitchen, Hernandez Dep. 96:23–25, and Russell Marino could only "assume" that Hernandez "would accommodate" workers if they wanted to cook, R. Marino Dep. 91:15–21. Sun Valley did not actually require that Hernandez provide open kitchen access. R. Marino Dep. 93:12–94:3. Such speculation does not create a genuine factual dispute. See Robertson, 914 F.2d at 382 n.12.

Even if, as Russell Marino testified, he occasionally saw a worker make a grilled cheese sandwich after dinner — notwithstanding Hernandez's prohibition on such use of the kitchen, his monopolization of the kitchen to prepare three daily meals, and Hernandez's own testimony that workers could not use the kitchen — such occasional use does not create a material dispute regarding Sun Valley's failure to comply with 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g).

First, there is no evidence that Sun Valley's workers used the kitchen to prepare any food other than these few sandwiches, or at any times other than 7:00pm or 8:00pm, "well after the guys have been home and they've eaten supper." R. Marino Dep. 92:10–21; see id. at 92:22–25 (Russell Marino, Jr. frequented the kitchen during lunch but never saw workers cooking then).

Second, such limited access simply does not comply with the regulation. As noted, for Sun Valley to comply with § 655.122(g) by providing kitchen access as promised in the job offers, Sun Valley had to furnish "convenient cooking and kitchen facilities to the workers that [would] enable the workers to prepare their own meals." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g) (emphasis added). "Something is 'convenient' if it is '[a]ppropriate or favorable to one's comfort, purpose, or needs.'" Reed v. Chase Home Fin., LLC, 893 F. Supp. 2d 1250, 1257 (S.D. Ala. 2012) (quoting Webster's New College Dictionary 252 (3d ed. 2008)). "Enable," in turn "is defined as 'to make possible, practical, or easy.'" Murphy v. Millennium Radio Grp., No. 08-1743, 2015 WL 419884, at *5 (D.N.J. Jan. 30, 2015) (quoting Webster's Third New International Dictionary 745 (1986)). There is nothing convenient about Sun Valley monopolizing the kitchen to prepare meals three times a day, and at best leaving a handful of workers to use the kitchen after dozens of other workers finish dinner — and without anywhere to refrigerate any groceries. Nor would such an arrangement "make [it] possible, practical, or easy" for any meaningful number of workers to prepare any food at all. Cf. Reed, 893 F. Supp. 2d at 1257. As Russell Marino, Jr. himself explained, the kitchen at Sun Valley was not "big enough for that to happen." R. Marino Dep. 157:3–4. In fact, Sun Valley admits that the job offers were "no[t]" "accurate" in regard to kitchen access, and that it was an "oversight" on Sun Valley's part to state that workers had kitchen access. Id. at 156:22–157:9, 158:7–9.

2. Sun Valley Did Not Properly Disclose the Weekly Meal Charges.

Nor can there be any dispute that Sun Valley's workers were charged for meals, without the "job offer . . . stat[ing] the charge." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g). As a result, Sun Valley did not comply with the other half of Subsection (g).[13]

As noted, Sun Valley's 2015 job orders falsely stated that Sun Valley: "[will] furnish free cooking and kitchen facilities . . . so that workers may prepare their own meals." Perez Decl. ¶ 6 & Ex. C (DOL00272, 279), Ex. D (DOL00290, 297). And the job offers represented that there would be "no" deduction for meals. Id., Ex. C (DOL00274), Ex. D (DOL00292). Although Sun Valley indicated that it would make deductions from workers' wages for "articles which the Worker has voluntarily purchased from the Employer," see id., Ex. C (DOL00282 ¶ 18(A)), Ex. D (DOL00300 ¶ 18(A)), even assuming that any workers' meals purchases were voluntary, this general disclaimer does not override the failure specifically to disclose the meal plan. In fact, the court in Global Horizons I rejected the very argument that a job offer's "general" disclosure of "deductions expressly authorized by the worker" was sufficient to put workers on notice of meal charges specifically. Global Horizons I, No. 2010-TAE-00002, at 8. Under such circumstances, any later assent by workers to meal charges "is irrelevant to liability").[14]

[13] As discussed below, there can be no dispute that Sun Valley is liable for the meal charges paid by Sun Valley's workers to Agustin Hernandez, Sun Valley's manager and crew leader. See infra Section II.C.

Accordingly, Sun Valley is liable pursuant to § 655.122(g) for neither providing workers with free and appropriate kitchen facilities, nor properly disclosing the meal plan in the 2015 job offers, and therefore owes employees the amounts deducted as back wages.

B. Sun Valley Violated §§ 655.122(p)(1) and (q) by Charging Workers For Meals Without Disclosure in the Job Offer.

Any deduction an H-2A employer makes from a worker's salary must be disclosed in the job offer. § 655.122(p)(1). Because Sun Valley's weekly meal charges were not properly disclosed, Sun Valley also violated § 655.122(p)(1).[15]

[14] For that matter, the regulation that sets a default cap on the amount an employer may charge workers for meals also provides no safe harbor for Sun Valley's liability, as that regulation only governs charges for meal plans that are properly disclosed in the job offers. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.173; 80 Fed. Reg. 9482 (Feb. 23, 2015) (permitting H-2A employers to charge $11.86 per day for meals in 2015 provided that "the job offer must state the charge, if any").

[15] 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(2) also prohibits, among other kinds of deductions, those that "include[] a profit to the employer to any affiliated person." At trial, the Administrator intends to introduce evidence that Hernandez sold snacks, soft drinks, beer, cigarettes, and other items to Sun Valley's workers at a profit.

As longstanding caselaw and Department guidance make clear, an employer's charge to a worker is a "deduction" regardless of whether the employer holds funds back from a paycheck, or receives a cash payment from the worker some time after the worker is paid. See Wage and Hour Division, Field Assistance Bulletin 2012-3, at 1 (May 17, 2012) ("[T]here is no difference between deducting a cost directly from a worker's wages and improperly shifting a cost that should have been borne by the employer to the employee."); Arriaga v. Fla. Pac. Farms, L..L.C., 305 F.3d 1228, 1236 (11th Cir. 2002); 29 C.F.R. § 531.35(b) (FLSA regulation); 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(2) (incorporating by reference into H-2A regulations FLSA standards for permissibility of deductions); see also Wage and Hour Division, Field Assistance Bulletin 2011-2;[16] Wage and Hour Division, Field Assistance Bulletin 2009-2, at 2.[17] Sun Valley therefore cannot insulate itself from liability by pointing to the fact that Sun Valley's workers paid cash after receiving their paychecks.

For substantially the same reasons, Sun Valley's failure to disclose the meal charges in the job offers constituted a violation of § 655.122(q)'s requirement that Sun Valley provide all workers with a "copy of the work contract" that "contain[ed] all of the provisions required" by other subsections of § 655.122. Sun Valley entered into no other written contracts with its workers other than the job offer. See Sun Valley Admission No. 3. Since those job offers did not disclose the meals charge, Sun Valley did not provide its H-2A or domestic workers with a complete work contract as required by C.F.R. § 655.122(q).

C. Hernandez Administered the Meal Plan and Charged Workers for Meals on Sun Valley's Behalf.

Agustin Hernandez was Sun Valley's employee and therefore its agent, making his actions regarding the meal plan and otherwise all attributable to Sun Valley.

Under the law of agency, a principal is liable on a contract made by the principal's agent if the agent has actual or apparent authority. See Restatement (Third) of Agency ("Restatement") § 6.01; Ramos-Barrientos v. Bland, 661 F.3d 587, 601 (11th Cir. 2011) (H-2A case relying on the Restatement); Arriaga, 305 F.3d at 1242; Burlington Indus. v. Ellerth, 524 U.S. 742, 775 (1998). An agent has actual authority "when, at the time of taking action that has legal consequences for the principal, the agent reasonably believes, in accordance with the principal's manifestations to the agent, that the principal wishes the agent so to act." Restatement § 2.01. And an actor has apparent authority to act on a principal's behalf when "a third party reasonably believes the actor has authority to act on behalf of the principal and that belief is traceable to the principal's manifestations." Id. § 2.03.

Hernandez had both actual and apparent authority to act on Sun Valley's behalf, and particularly to provide and charge workers for Sun Valley's meals in 2015. As an initial matter, Hernandez was Sun Valley's "general agent" and had "ongoing" authority to act on Sun Valley's behalf" in all manner of Sun Valley's affairs. Restatement § 2.01 cmt. d. As Russell Marino, Jr. summarized the point, "[i]t just goes without being said" that Agustin is part of Sun Valley's "management," and a "respected employee." R. Marino Dep. 64:23–65:2, 181:12–17.[18] As noted, see supra Facts Section II, Hernandez's authority extended not only to supervising workers on the fields in a daily basis and running the housing camp, but also organizing worker transportation and providing meals.

[18] Should Sun Valley argue that Hernandez is an independent contractor rather than an employee and agent, that argument would be spurious. Not only does Hernandez have no other job, R. Marino Dep. 59:22–24, he has not held another job in his entire life, having spent the last 27 years working for Sun Valley. Hernandez Dep. 156:11–14. During the winter of 2015 when Sun Valley did not require Hernandez's labor-management services, Hernandez collected unemployment benefits based on his employment at Sun Valley. Id. at 155:18–156:4. Sun Valley also provided Hernandez with sick time. Id. at 160:19–20. Sun Valley's policy was to reimburse him for his expenses, id. at 153:24–154:17, and Hernandez did not personally own any tools that he used in the course of his work for Sun Valley, R. Marino Dep. 59:25–60:3. The farm deducted taxes and issued a W-2 that "cover[s] all of his earnings" R. Marino Dep. 60:4–14. There can be no question that Hernandez was Sun Valley's employee and therefore the company's agent. See

Actual Authority—Sun Valley made Hernandez's actual authority to charge for meals in 2015 clear when Russell Marino, Jr. told Hernandez "that we can, you know, keep the way we were doing, you know, charging the guys, collecting from the guys," Hernandez Dep. 27:22–24, and that Hernandez would become "in charge" by assuming responsibility for paying the kitchen workers and for informing Sun Valley's workers of the meal plan, id. 27:24–28:7. Marino and Hernandez had this conversation to discuss whether Sun Valley should make any changes in its longstanding meal plan prior to Sun Valley's first-time participation in the H-2A program in 2015. Id. at 27:9–28:11.

By confirming that Sun Valley's meal plan would continue as it had for years, Marino "manifest[ed]" his intent that Hernandez continue to provide and charge workers for meals on Sun Valley's behalf. See Restatement § 2.01. In fact, Sun Valley's meal plan arrangement in 2015 was nearly indistinguishable from the farm's longstanding practice of charging workers for meals — making the failure to disclose the fee in the job offer even more deceptive. Since approximately 1996, Sun Valley and its predecessor, Marino Brothers, have prepared three meals a day for workers, in Sun Valley's kitchen. Hernandez Dep. 29:21–30:3; R. Marino Dep. 77:1–6. Through 2015 and beyond, Sun Valley owned most of the cooking equipment, including all five refrigerators, both freezers, and the stove. Hernandez Dep. 55:20–56:10, 57:11–18. Sun Valley paid the electricity and gas bill for the kitchen, even though the kitchen electricity and gas were separately metered. Hernandez Dep. 57:5–10; R. Marino Dep. 181:4–9. Sun Valley also paid for any kitchen repairs. R. Marino Dep. 174:6–10, 181:9–15.

Sun Valley's owners also oversaw the meal plan. Harry Marino approved the meal plan arrangement at its outset in 1996. Hernandez Dep. 30:16–23. When the Wage and Hour Division determined in 2013 that Sun Valley overcharged for the meal plan in violation of the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act and in excess of the farm's actual costs, Sun Valley agreed to pay back wages to workers. Rachor Decl. ¶ 33. In 2015, Russell Marino, Jr. set a limit on the amounts that Hernandez charged, pursuant to regulations setting default caps on meal charges,[19] and prohibiting profits from meal charges. Compare Hernandez Dep. 31:6–32:9, with R. Marino Dep. 77:11–78:4, 79:5–17. Russell Marino, Jr. also ensured that Hernandez attended U.S. Department of Labor compliance meetings regarding these regulations. R. Marino Dep. 79:13–80:21. Moreover, Sun Valley "told Agustin that he should keep his receipts" to document the costs of the meal plan." Id. at 84:16–19. Russell Marino, Jr. gave Hernandez these instructions because Marino understood that the meal plan was something "that Sun Valley Orchards offer[ed] the men on behalf of Sun Valley Orchards." R. Marino Dep. 99:13–15.

The "only difference" Sun Valley made to the meal plan in 2015 (beside selling the meals not only to domestic workers but also to H-2A workers) was that Hernandez, instead of Sun Valley as a corporation, paid the kitchen staff. Id. at 85:22–25. "Other than that, nothing changed," and in all other respects, Russell Marino, Jr. told Hernandez to "keep the way we were doing, you know, charging the guys, collecting from the guys" for meals. Id. at 85:25; Hernandez Dep. 27:23–24; 28:12–21, 158:6–9.

[19] As discussed above, these caps are relevant only when a meal plan is properly disclosed. See supra n.14.

When Hernandez then informed Sun Valley's workers about the meal plan at Sun Valley's orientation and charged Sun Valley's workers for the meals, there can be no question that he did so "in accordance with [Russell Marino's] manifestations to [Hernandez], that [Sun Valley] wishe[d] Hernandez so to act." See Restatement § 2.01; Hernandez Dep. 29:7–13.

Moreover, given Sun Valley's obligation under the H-2A program either to provide workers free and open kitchen access (which Sun Valley did not), or to provide meals (which Sun Valley did, albeit at an undisclosed charge), Sun Valley is liable under § 655.122 for the amount of the meal charges. This is because an "agent has actual authority to take action designated or implied in the principal's manifestations to the agent and acts necessary or incidental to achieving the principal's objectives." Restatement § 2.02(1). Hernandez understood that the H-2A program required Sun Valley to take steps to provide meals or kitchen access one way or another, Hernandez Dep. 27:13–28:11, so when Hernandez acted to provide the workers for the meals, he did so "to achiev[e]" Sun Valley's "objectives." And even if it could somehow be argued Sun Valley did not intend for Hernandez to charge the workers on its behalf, Sun Valley created actual authority in Hernandez to do so through its "acquiescen[ce]" in Hernandez's conduct, given its knowledge throughout 2015 that Hernandez charged the workers. R. Marino Dep. 79:5–12; see id. at 57:3–8 (Sun Valley has never intervened to correct any problem with Hernandez's management of the farm). See, e.g., Restatement § 2.02 cmt. f; Ramos-Barrientos, 661 F.3d at 600. Moreover, the discretion that Sun Valley gave Hernandez to run the kitchen is consistent with the discretion Hernandez had to carry out his other management responsibilities on behalf of Sun Valley, with little ongoing supervision from the rest of Sun Valley's management. R. Marino Dep. 46:1–11, 55:12–57:5 (given Hernandez's long tenure, Sun Valley rarely has to give Hernandez instructions on how to supervise workers).

Apparent Authority—Alternately, under principles of apparent authority, Sun Valley is also responsible for meal charges levied by Hernandez. Restatement § 2.03. Russell Marino testified that he attended the orientation at which Hernandez explained the meal plan. R. Marino Dep. 40:15–17. Marino ate at the worker dining facility on a regular basis — where workers ate the meals that Hernandez and his staff prepared and charged the workers for. Id. at 26:4–5. Sun Valley's workers signed a "Sun Valley" payroll form when Hernandez collected the weekly cash charge for the meals. Hernandez Dep. 79:21–80:9, 220:3–221:19, 223:13–17 & Ex. 2. On these facts, no worker could reasonably conclude that when Hernandez charged for the meals, he was doing so outside of the scope of his authority to act on Sun Valley's behalf.[20] And under the same agency principles, Sun Valley is liable for the actions undertaken by Hernandez through his apparent authority to act on Sun Valley's behalf. Restatement § 6.01.

The conclusion as a matter of law that Sun Valley "provide[d]" and charged for the meals, 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), is compelled by these undisputed facts. For that reason, Sun Valley's unsupported denial that "Sun Valley" sold or provided meals to workers creates no genuine dispute of material fact. In particular, it cannot be disputed that Hernandez had both actual and apparent authority from Sun Valley to "provide[]" the meals" on Sun Valley's behalf, and to charge for those meals, see 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), and that Sun Valley is therefore liable for the unauthorized and undisclosed charges, see Restatement § 6.01.

[20] Marino's manifestations to Sun Valley's workers were consistent with Sun Valley's approval of Hernandez's preparation of, and charges for, the meals. Accordingly, the facts in Ramos-Barrientos and Arriaga are inapposite. In those cases, the Eleventh Circuit found no apparent authority in particular actors because there was no reason to believe that the "authority given to a party to conduct certain administrative tasks implicitly conveys authority to a third party to charge fees for assistance with those tasks." Ramos-Barrientos, 661 F.3d at 601. Here, Marino testified that he was present when Hernandez explained the meal plan its charges and provided the meals to the workers. Marino ensured that Hernandez had instructions on "how much to charge the workers." R. Marino Dep. 79:5–12. There can be no question that Hernandez had authority not only to provide the meals but to charge for them.

III. Sun Valley's Unsafe Transportation and Substandard Housing Violated 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(d)(1)(i) and (h)(4).

There can be no material dispute of fact that Sun Valley violated housing and transportation standards, as the evidence of these unsafe and noncompliant conditions comes either from Sun Valley's own admissions, or from Wage Hour's in-person observations, which are documented with photographic evidence. Each of Sun Valley's transportation and housing practices not only left workers' health and safety at risk, but also directly violated the transportation and housing regulations that are part of the H-2A program that Sun Valley committed to comply with when it applied to sponsor H-2A workers.

Sun Valley's Transportation Violations—First, Sun Valley has admitted that it used a number of unlicensed drivers to transport workers during the 2015 growing season. See, e.g., Hernandez Dep. 127:13–22. Sun Valley cannot dispute that in 2015, two of Sun Valley's drivers had no licenses of any kind, two had only Mexican licenses, and a fifth had only an expired Mexican license. See Perez Decl. ¶¶ 19–20 & Ex. V (photographs of Mexican driver's licenses). Sun Valley's use of drivers without proper licenses is not only dangerous, but also plainly violates the law. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(h)(4) ("employer-provided transportation must comply with all applicable Federal, State or local laws"); N.J. Stat. Ann. § 39:3-10 ("No person shall drive a motor vehicle on a public highway . . . unless the person . . . is in possession of a . . . driver's license"); N.J. Admin. Code § 13:21-13.2(a) (requiring drivers of migratory farm workers to have a driver's license issued from a province of Canada or from a state, territory, or federal district within the United States); N.J. Stat. Ann. § 39:3-10.18a ("owner of an autobus shall not knowingly allow, require, permit, or authorize an operator of an autobus to operate the vehicle without a valid commercial driver license").[21]

Second, as documented in Wage Hour photographs, Sun Valley transported workers using buses that had worn-out tires, increasing the chances of an accident and violating the prohibition on tires that lack tread configurations or "have any other defect likely to cause failure." See 29 C.F.R. § 500.105(b)(3)(v);[22] Perez Decl. ¶¶ 15–16 & Exs. R–T.

And third, as also documented in Wage Hour photographs, Sun Valley transported workers in a bus that had a non-functioning rear directional light, in violation of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(h)(4), which requires that "employer-provided transportation must comply with all applicable Federal, State or local laws"; see N.J. Stat. Ann. § 39:3-61(a) (requiring on the rear of every vehicle two turn signals). See Perez Decl. ¶ 17 & Ex. U.

Sun Valley's Housing Violations—Sun Valley was properly cited for two categories of housing violations. First, there is the lack of proper screen doors, window screens, and lids on garbage cans (all documented in Wage Hour photographs) that likely led to the fly and mosquito infestation. See Perez Decl. ¶¶ 11, 12a & Exs. G–I (photographs showing that numerous garbage bins, adjacent to worker housing and full of discarded soda and beer cans, had no lids); id. ¶ 12c & Ex. L–M (photographs showing dormitory doors not fully closing); id. ¶ 12b & Exs. J–K (photographs showing bathroom window not properly covered by a screen); id. ¶ 12c & Exs. N–P (photographs showing screen doors not in good repair).

Sun Valley's failure to provide lids for the garbage cans adjacent to worker housing, screen doors that properly closed, and screens on the dormitory bathroom window, plainly [21] As discussed above, Sun Valley hid two of its buses from Wage Hour, so no citations were issued for those buses. See supra Facts Section V; Morales Acosta Dep. 22:18–24:7.

[22] 29 C.F.R. § 500.105(b)(3)(v) is incorporated into the H-2A program by reference. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(h)(4).

violated the rules of the H-2A program. See 20 C.F.R. § 654.414(a) ("fly-tight, clean containers . . . shall be provided adjacent to each housing unit for storage of garbage"); id. § 654.408(b) ("All screen doors shall be tight fitting, in good repair, and equipped with self-closing devices."); id. § 654.408(a) ("All outside openings shall be protected with screening").[23]

Second, Sun Valley's practice of having one or more workers sleep on mattresses directly on the floor, also documented in Wage Hour photographs, violates the requirement that "[s]leeping facilities shall be provided for each person. Such facilities shall consist of comfortable beds . . . or bunks, provided with clean mattresses." See 20 C.F.R. § 654.416(a);[24] Perez Decl. ¶ 13 & Ex. Q (photographs showing worker slept on a mattress directly on the floor).

IV. The Undisputed Facts Demonstrate that Sun Valley Owes $128,130.00 in Back Wages to Its H-2A and Domestic Workers For Improperly Deducting $75-80 Per Week For Meals From Workers.

Sun Valley's H-2A and domestic workers were required to pay a weekly fee for meals each week they worked in 2015, with the exception of a handful of workers who managed to opt out of the meal plan, and about nine others whom Hernandez favored and permitted to eat for free.[25] Hernandez himself testified that the weekly deduction was $80 each week in 2015, an [23] These regulations apply to Sun Valley because its housing was built before 1980. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(d)(1)(i) (providing that employer-provided housing must meet OSHA safety standards as stated at 20 C.F.R. § 654.401); id. § 654.401(a) (employer-provided housing built before April 3, 1980 must comply with the standards set forth in in 20 C.F.R. Subpart E—Housing for Agricultural Workers, i.e. 20 C.F.R. §§ 654.400-654.417); Sun Valley Admission No. 27 (admitting that the worker dorms were constructed before April 3, 1980)). Some of the regulations in 20 C.F.R. §§ 654.400-654.417 were amended in 2016. See 81 Fed. Reg. 56,439 (Aug. 19, 2016). All citations in this memorandum are to the version in effect in 2015.

[24] Sun Valley may argue that its housing was inspected by a local or other government agency before the start of the 2015 growing season. But the conditions of Sun Valley's housing at an earlier date does not create a genuine dispute. Proof of Sun Valley's non-compliance with the housing safety regulations during the growing season and at the time of Wage and Hour's investigation is all that is needed for summary judgment.

[25] Hernandez also waived the fee for Russell Marino, Jr. when Mr. Marino occasionally ate amount that Hernandez collected from workers in cash each week. Hernandez Dep. 27:9–28:9; id. at 79:12–14. Hernandez provided copies of his records of meal charges to Wage and Hour Division investigators, corresponding to several weeks during the 2015 growing season. Id. at 89:7–13; Perez Decl. ¶¶ 8, 25.

Where, as here, an H-2A employer unlawfully deducts money for meals not disclosed in the job offer, the entire amount must be returned to the workers as back wages. This follows directly from the structure of the H-2A regulations, which strictly prohibit any undisclosed deductions (so long as those deductions are not required by law). 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(1) ("The job offer must specify all deductions not required by law which the employer will make from the worker's paycheck."). This was precisely the remedy awarded in Global Horizons, the only other case of which the Administrator is aware in which a respondent was cited for a failure to disclose meal charges. See Global Horizons II, at 2 (citing 20 C.F.R. § 655.102(b)(13) (2005) (substantially identical pre-2010 H-2A regulation)) (awarding back wages in the full amount of deductions not disclosed in the job offer, for not only weekly meal charges, but also damage to housing); Global Horizons I, at 4. The court specifically rejected the argument that back wages should be awarded in any amount other than the full deductions, or take into account the cost or fair market value of the meals. See Global Horizons II, at 2 n.7. In fact, any result other than a full return of the undisclosed deductions would eliminate any incentive for an H-2A employer to disclose mandatory deductions, as the regulations require disclosure regardless of whether there is also proof that the employer profited. Compare 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(1) (prohibiting undisclosed deductions without regard to the reasonableness of those deductions), with id. § 655.122(p)(2) (separately prohibiting deductions from which the employer or an affiliated person profits); see also Seasonal Ag Servs., Inc., No. 2014-TAE-00006, at 3 (awarding back wages in the full amount of undisclosed deductions pursuant to § 655.122(p)(1)).

Based on records Hernandez provided to the Wage and Hour Division, as well as interviews conducted with Sun Valley's H-2A workers from the 2015 growing season, the Administrator calculated back wages as follows for Sun Valley's unlawful meals deductions in violation of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p), and (q). Perez Decl. ¶¶ 25–34 & Ex. X (Wage and Hour Division Back Wage Computations for Improper Meal Charges).

The Administrator reviewed Sun Valley's 2015 weekly payroll records, which list each worker who worked each week (and was paid for that work) during 2015. Perez Decl. ¶ 26. Based on these records, the Administrator determined that in addition to Hernandez, 148 workers worked at Sun Valley during the 2015 growing season for at least one week.[26] Id. Next, for each of those 148 workers, the Administrator listed, by date, each workweek that a worker worked at Sun Valley in 2015. Id. ¶ 27.

Then, for all weeks during the 2015 growing season, the Administrator calculated $75 in back wages per week per worker, except that for the weeks ending June 23, June 30, and July 7, the Administrator calculated $80 per week in back wages. Id. ¶¶ 25, 28, 30. The Administrator determined these weekly $75–80 amounts based on Hernandez's statement to the Wage and [26] The Administrator included both H-2A and domestic workers in these back wage calculations, because all of Sun Valley's domestic workers were corresponding workers within the meaning of 20 C.F.R. § 655.103, as they performed the same duties as Sun Valley's H-2A workers. R. Marino Dep 65:8–11. Accordingly, Sun Valley was required to pay the domestic workers the same wages as the H-2A workers, and was prohibited from making any deductions from domestic workers that it could not make from H-2A workers (with the exception of payroll tax deductions). See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(a) ("The employer's job offer must offer to U.S. workers no less than the same benefits, wages, and working conditions that the employer is offering, intends to offer, or will provide to H-2A workers."); id. § 655.122(p)(1) (prohibiting all undisclosed deductions except those "required by law"); cf. 26 U.S.C. §§ 3121(b)(1), 3306(c)(1)(B) (specific tax withholding exclusions for H-2A but not domestic workers).

Hour Division that "[t]he meal plan is $75.00 per week," except that "$80.00 was charged for 2 weeks only." Perez Decl. ¶¶ 24–25, 28 & Ex. W (DOL00189) (July 22, 2015 Hernandez signed statement). The Administrator determined that these two $80 weeks were the weeks ending June 23 and June 30 based on Hernandez's handwritten tallies of worker meals payments for the weeks ending June 23 and June 30. Perez Decl. ¶¶ 8, 25, 28 & Ex. F (DOL01369, DOL01380).[27] The Administrator also used $80 per week for the week ending July 7 as a reasonable reconstruction of damages given the totality of Sun Valley's workers' statements, and the limited information in the records provided by Hernandez. Perez Decl. ¶¶ 25, 28.

Finally, the Administrator reduced the back wages for the small number of workers who did not pay meal deductions for certain periods, according to information provided by Hernandez. Id. ¶ 31. Two H-2A workers and seven domestic workers did not pay for meals at any point during the 2015 growing season, apparently because they were either members of Hernandez's family or were given free meals in exchange for additional work they performed for Sun Valley. For these nine workers, based solely on Hernandez's representations of the waived meal fee, the Administrator reduced to zero the back wages corresponding to meals. Id. Additionally, the Administrator reduced the back wages for the three workers who cooked canned food on a hot plate inside the housing dormitory for several weeks (the weeks ending July 7 through August 7) instead of participating in the meal plan. Id. ¶ 32. The Administrator made this reduction even though these employees were forced into this makeshift, unsafe arrangement after being denied free and open kitchen access. Id.

[27] Hernandez's "usual practice" in 2015 was to cause "notes" to be made "about the total amount that [he] collected" from Sun Valley's "workers in cash for the meals at Sun Valley." Hernandez Dep. 218:16–23. For example the handwritten note "16 x 75" during a week in April 2015 indicates that "there were 16 guys" that paid "[$]75" for meals. Id. at 218:7–15 & Ex. 1 (DOL01212); see Perez Decl. ¶ 8 & Ex. F (DOL01212). The handwritten note "98 x 80 = 7,840.00" means "98 guys pay [Hernandez] $80. [Hernandez] collect[s] from them $7,840." Hernandez Dep. 222:22–223:4 & Ex. 2 (DOL01369); see Perez Decl. ¶ 8 & Ex. F (DOL01369).

The Administrator's calculations were eminently reasonable and conservative. The Administrator only calculated back wages for weeks that workers were on Sun Valley's payroll, even though workers were present at Sun Valley and paid for meals in other weeks. Id. ¶ 33. For instance, at the beginning of the season, workers arrived early and paid for meals before they began working. This is true of a group of approximately 18 workers who left Sun Valley in early May, who were present at Sun Valley for about two weeks or longer, but for whom the Administrator calculated only $75 in back wages per worker. Perez. Decl. Ex. X at 47–50 (rows 378–94, 404–05, 423–42, 460–70). Similarly, when on occasion workers were sick, and accordingly did not work and went unpaid, the Administrator did not calculate back wages for these workers, Perez Decl. ¶ 33, even though there is reason to believe they continued paying for meals. Moreover, the Administrator calculated that Sun Valley charged workers $75 most weeks for meals, whereas Hernandez's deposition testimony was that the charge was $80 in all weeks in 2015. Hernandez Dep. 28:8, 52:18–21.

In total, Wage Hour calculated that $128,510.00 in back wages are due to 139 H-2A and domestic workers for unlawful meals deductions. Perez. Decl. ¶ 34 & Ex. X.[28] In this motion, the Administrator moves for summary judgment as to $128,130.00 of those back wages.[29] These [28] The Administrator's Back Wage Computations for Improper Meal Charges summarize approximately 700 pages of Sun Valley's payroll records. See Fed. R. Evid. 1006 (permitting the use of a summary to prove the content of voluminous writings). If the Court wishes to review these records, the Administrator will make them available to the Court.

[29] At the time of the investigation, Wage and Hour learned from Hernandez that a total of four workers cooked inside the dormitory using a hot plate. From the information provided by Hernandez, Wage and Hour determined the names of three of those workers, and accordingly excluded corresponding weeks from the back wages calculated for those three workers. Perez calculations are based exclusively on undisputed facts of the workers' weeks worked and reasonable calculations of the amounts paid for meals each week. Accordingly, the Administrator's back wage assessment should be upheld.[30]

V. The Administrator's Assessment of $198,300 in Civil Money Penalties (CMPs) Should Be Upheld.

At the time of the CMP assessment, for non-willful violations Wage and Hour could assess $1,500 in civil money penalties for "[e]ach failure to pay an individual worker properly or to honor the terms or conditions of a worker's employment required by . . . the regulations. . . ." See 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(a), (c) (2016). In determining the amount of penalty, the mitigating factors that may be considered include, but are not limited to (1) previous history of violations, (2) number of workers affected by the violations, (3) the gravity of the violations, (4) efforts made in good faith to comply, (5) explanation from the person charged with the violations, (6) commitment to future compliance, and (7) the extent to which the violator achieved a financial gain. Id. § 501.19(b).

In assessing CMPs, "the Administrator is vested with enforcement discretion and is able to consider the totality of circumstances in fashioning an appropriate remedy for a violation." In re: Overdevest Nurseries, LP, 2015-TAE-00008, at *18 (OALJ Feb. 18, 2016) (H-2A case)

Decl. ¶ 32. The fourth worker's name was not clear, and Wage and Hour could not match it with the payroll records provided from Sun Valley. See id. The fourth worker has now been identified, having testified on May 3, 2017 at his deposition. See Elizondo Soto Dep. 11:21–12:17. Accordingly, the Administrator does not move for summary judgment as to $380 of the back wages originally calculated for Mr. Miguel Angel Elizondo Soto ($75 x 4 weeks, plus $80 x 1 week), corresponding to the same five weeks that Wage Hour already excluded from back wages for the other three workers who cooked in the dormitory. See Perez Decl., Ex. X at 63 (rows 871–79).

[30] The Administrator has also calculated additional back wages for Sun Valley's having improperly sold beverages, beer, cigarettes, and other items at a profit and/or in violation of state law. 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p), (q). The Administrator will prove these additional violations and back wages at trial.

(relying on U.S. Dep't of Labor v. Kutty, ARB No. 03-022, ALJ Nos. 2001-LCA-10 to 25 (May 31, 2005)). While the Administrator is generally entitled to deference in assessing CMPs, administrative law judges retain the authority to increase the amount of CMPs assessed. See In re: Overdevest Nurseries, LP, 2015-TAE-00008, at *18 n.14.

As discussed below, the Administrator considered all of the facts of this case and appropriately applied these mitigating factors when she assessed CMPs for Sun Valley's myriad violations. Accordingly, her decision is entitled to deference and should be upheld.

A. The Administrator's Assessment of $187,650 in CMPs for the Meals Violations Should Be Upheld.

In assessing CMPs for Sun Valley's meals violations, the Administrator began with $1,500 in civil money penalties for each of the 139 workers owed back wages for meals payments and purchases of beverages from Sun Valley at a profit or in violation of state law.[31] Rachor Decl. ¶ 8.

Second, the Administrator determined that it was appropriate to calculate the civil money penalties for the violation of § 655.122(g) on a per-worker basis, given (1) the large number of workers affected; (2) the significant amount of undisclosed charges faced by the workers each week as a result of Sun Valley's undisclosed meal plan; and (3) the nature of the violation. Id. ¶¶ 9–11. The Administrator found that it was proper to proceed in this manner on two independent grounds: the undisclosed meal plan, and also the unlawful sales of beverages. Id. ¶¶ 9–11.

Next, the Administrator considered all of the factors listed above in light of the facts in this case, and reduced by 10% each mitigating factor that was applicable — namely factor (1).

[31] The Administrator also calculated civil money penalties owed for an additional eight workers who paid for beverages and other items (but not meals) sold by Sun Valley at a profit and/or in violation of state law. Rachor Decl. ¶ 8. Those civil money penalties are not the subject of this motion.

For that factor, previous history, the Administrator reasoned that even though Sun Valley had previously been cited for violations in connection with its meal plan pursuant to MSPA, Sun Valley had not previously been found to be in violation specifically of the H-2A regulations. Id. ¶ 12.

The Administrator found that the other mitigation factors were inapplicable, as there were a large number of workers affected by the violation, id. ¶ 13; the unlawful meals deductions resulted in low-wage workers being denied significant wages promised in the job offers, id.; Sun Valley had made no effort to comply with the applicable regulations, had no reasonable explanation for the violation and was not committed to future compliance, id.; and Sun Valley achieved a financial gain by avoiding the substantial costs that would have been involved in modifying its kitchen facilities to permit workers the kitchen access as promised in the job offers, id.

Finally, the Administrator determined that it would be duplicative to assess additional civil money penalties for the violations of 655.122(p) and (q). Id. ¶ 14.

The Administrator's assessment of $187,650 in civil money penalties for meals violations was well-founded. Sun Valley benefitted financially from perpetuating its longstanding meal plan in 2015. Sun Valley avoided incurring expenses for constructing kitchen facilities that would have been necessary to actually provide free and open kitchen access to all workers under the H-2A regulations. What's more, relevant to Sun Valley's noncompliance, Sun Valley has now admitted that its job offers continued to be "very inaccurate" with respect to disclosure of the meals deduction arrangement into 2016. R. Marino Dep. 160:19–161:24. Moreover, the Administrator's assessment is consistent with the Global Horizons case, in which the ALJ declined to assess civil money penalties. In that case, the workers specifically requested that the employer provide a meal plan, after they arrived at a farm. At the time the Respondent in that case submitted the job offer, there was no meal plan in place, and in fact the Respondent provided meals for no charge for the first two meals. Global Horizons II, No. 2010-TAE-00002, at 12. In contrast, Sun Valley had a longstanding meal plan at the time it submitted the job orders, and Russell Marino, Jr. personally reviewed that false job order before signing it. R. Marino Dep. 153:11–158:14. Accordingly, Sun Valley's failure to disclose the meal plan, and its false statements directed both at the workforce and state and federal agencies, merit penalties.

In the alternative, the Administrator's assessment of $187,650 in civil money penalties is independently supported by Sun Valley's additional violations of § 655.122(g) and (p), for sales of soft drinks, beer, cigarettes, and other items to Sun Valley's workers at a profit and/or in violation of state law, as the Administrator will prove at trial. As noted, the Administrator determined not to assess additional civil money penalties for these additional violations, even though penalties could have been assessed twice. The Administrator's decision to exercise her discretion to combine the penalties for these violations further supports the reasonableness of the $187,650 penalty assessment. See Rachor Decl. ¶ 9. Nonetheless, should the Court defer consideration of some portion of the civil money penalty assessment as to the meals violations to trial, the Administrator intends to present further evidence supporting the penalty assessment based on these additional violations.[32]

[32] These additional violations further distinguish the facts relevant to the decision in Global Horizons not to assess civil money penalties for the violation of § 655.122(g) under difference circumstances in that case.

B. A Significant Fine Is Needed for Sun Valley's Transportation Violations, Including Sun Valley's Longstanding and Ongoing Practice of Using Unlicensed Drivers to Transport Workers.

The Administrator also reasonably calculated $4,500 in CMPs for Sun Valley's having drivers without valid licenses transport well over 100 workers seven days a week throughout the entire growing season. Rachor Decl. ¶ 16.

First, the Administrator began by assessing $1,500 for each of the five buses driven by a driver without valid and proper licenses. Id. ¶ 17. She then reduced this amount by 40% because Sun Valley had no prior H-2A violations (factor 1); promised to come into compliance (factor 6); did not achieve a financial gain (factor 7); and transported only fifteen workers in each vehicle, so there were only fifteen people affected by each violation (factor 2).[33] Id. ¶ 18. The calculations the Administrator performed were as follows:

> 5 violations (one violations for each vehicle)
> x $1,500 (allowable CMPs)
> x 0.60 (40% reduction based on 4 mitigating factors)
> = $4,500.00 in CMPs

Id. ¶ 20.

The Administrator's approach in assessing CMPs for drivers who lacked proper licenses was reasonable and even lenient. Sun Valley's use of unlicensed drivers in 2015 was the result of the company's ongoing practice of selecting agricultural workers to drive the buses, without regard to whether the workers had driver's licenses. Hernandez Dep. 124:8–130:23. As Hernandez candidly explained, at the beginning of each season "when a group of guys come and we need drivers, I ask the guys who has [a] Mexican driver's license[s] or who is a driver, experienced driver and they drive. I let them drive." Hernandez Dep. 124:10–14 (emphasis added). "Since the beginning" of his employment at Sun Valley more than 25 years ago, Hernandez regularly told the rest of Sun Valley's management of his difficulty finding licensed drivers among Sun Valley's farmworker pool, and that there was "nobody with a New Jersey license," so Sun Valley determined that there was not "another option" but to select unlicensed drivers. Id. at 125:5, 130:15–16, 22. In both 2005 and 2006, Marino Brothers, Inc. even paid fines to the Wage and Hour Division after being cited for allowing unlicensed drivers to transport workers, years during which, as in 2015, Hernandez oversaw Sun Valley's worker transportation. Rachor Decl. ¶¶ 34–35.

[33] She found mitigating factors 3 (gravity of violation), 4 (efforts to comply), and 5 (explanation of the violation) inapplicable. Id. ¶ 19.

And Sun Valley's practice of allowing unlicensed drivers to transport workers has continued to the present day, 2017:

> Q. Who drives the vehicles this year at Sun Valley?
> A. This year, right now, I got three, three drivers. I got my son, who he has a New Jersey license. And I got another two guys that drive the vans. But to tell you the truth, I haven't asked them if they have – I know them from – I don't know if they still got them. They still got their license or not, I don't know.
> Q. Where do you know them from?
> A. Not in Mexico, but from here. They have been coming for the past two years.
> Q. Have you asked them to show you their driver's licenses?
> A. No, I haven't. I haven't thought of that.
> Q. Did you ask them to show you their driver's licenses in a previous year?
> A. No. I just know that they are good drivers.

Hernandez Dep. 125:14–126:9 (emphasis added).

In light of Sun Valley's outrageous actions, the Administrator would have been well within her discretion not to apply several mitigating factors. For example, the Administrator did not have to apply mitigating factor 1 (prior H-2A violations), as Sun Valley was surely aware beforehand that drivers need licenses to drive and had been previously cited for this very violation before it sponsored H-2A workers. See Rachor Decl. ¶¶ 18, 34–35. In light of Sun Valley's ongoing use of unlicensed drivers, the Administrator certainly would have been justified in not reducing CMPs under factor 6 (commitment to compliance).

In fact, the Administrator would have also been justified in assessing CMPs on a willful basis, i.e. commencing with $5,000 per vehicle violation. See 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(c)(1) (willful CMP assessments). This is because Sun Valley's longstanding and ongoing practice of assigning agricultural workers to drive their coworkers to the fields, regardless of whether they have valid driver's licenses, and despite Sun Valley's having previously been cited for driver's license violations, could easily be described as a knowing or reckless violation of the requirement that drivers have licenses, i.e. a willful violation. McLaughlin v. Richland Shoe Co., 486 U.S. 128, 133 (1988) (establishing in the FLSA context that willfulness is shown if "the employer either knew or showed reckless disregard for the matter of whether its conduct was prohibited") (emphasis added).

A significant fine is needed to cause Sun Valley to re-think its transportation practices and either verify that drivers actually have valid licenses, or specifically hire people to drive workers to the fields. Sun Valley was using large school buses to take workers on state highways and other public roads on a daily basis. Yet Sun Valley failed to take basic steps to protect worker safety. Indeed, Sun Valley's recklessness puts its entire workforce in danger.

Accordingly, as to Sun Valley's driver's license violations, the Administrator's imposition of CMPs was reasonable. In fact, the Court would be well within its discretion to impose a higher CMP assessment.

For Sun Valley's other transportation violations, the Administrator reasonably calculated $3,000 in CMPs using the following method, Rachor Decl. ¶¶ 21, 25: she began with $1,500 for each of the three buses that had tires with worn out treads, and $1,500 for the one bus that had a non-functioning rear-directional light. Id. ¶ 22. She then reduced this amount by 50% based on mitigating factors 1 (lack of previous H-2A violations), 2 (only fifteen workers affected per bus violation), 3 (gravity of violation—most of the tires had sufficient tread and most of the lights were functioning), 6 (commitment to future compliance), and 7 (financial gain achieved) applied. Id. ¶ 23. This method was reasonable and is entitled to deference.

C. The Court Should Uphold the Administrator's Assessment of $3,150 in CMPs for Sun Valley's Housing Violations.

For Sun Valley's housing violations, the Administrator started by determining that CMPs should be calculated on a per-requirement basis, also beginning with $1,500 in CMPs for each violation. Id. ¶¶ 26–27. In other words, the Administrator started with $1,500 for the missing bathroom window screen, $1,500 for all of the screen doors that were not in good repair or did not close properly, $1,500 for the garbage cans that lacked lids, and $1,500 for the workers who slept on mattresses directly on the floor. Id.

Next, the Administrator reduced these CMPs by a total of 30% based on the following applicable mitigating factors: 1 (lack of history of H-2A violations), 6 (commitment to future compliance), 7 (no financial gain achieved). Id. ¶ 28. She also reduced CMPs by an additional 10% because no workers received a communicable disease from the insect infestation, and the worker(s) who slept on the floor wasn't in immediate danger of significant harm.[34] Id. Finally, for the mattress violation, the Administrator reduced the CMPs by an additional 30% because very few workers were affected (factor 2), the violation was not so serious (factor 3), and the farm had made some minimal efforts to comply (factor 4). Id. ¶ 29. In total, the Administrator calculated $450 in CMPs for the mattress violation, and $2,700 for the screens and garbage cans violations. Id. ¶¶ 31–32.

[34] Having many flies and mosquitos in one's living quarters is potentially dangerous, as these insects can carry communicable diseases. Thus, the Administrator did not apply mitigating factor 3 (gravity of the violation) to the violations for lack of garbage can lids, proper screen doors and window screens. Id. ¶ 30.

As to each category of violations that is the subject of this motion, the Administrator's CMP assessment was properly within the statutory and regulatory authorization and was derived with due regard for the totality of circumstances. The Administrator has concluded that $198,300 in civil money penalties is necessary to penalize Sun Valley and deter it and others from exposing their employees to unsafe working conditions and from using the H-2A program to take advantage of workers. As the Administrator's determination is appropriate under the relevant statutory and regulatory requirements, it is entitled to deference. Overdevest Nurseries, LP, No. 2015-TAE-00008, at *18. Thus the Administrator respectfully requests that the Court affirm her CMP assessment and order Respondent to pay this penalty in full.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Administrator respectfully requests that the Court grant her Motion for Partial Summary Decision, uphold her Determination and order the Respondent to pay $198,300 in civil money penalties to the Administrator and $128,130.00 in back wages to the Administrator for distribution to Sun Valley's H-2A and domestic workers.

IN THE MATTER OF: Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor, Plaintiff v. Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, Respondent.	Case No. 2017-TAE-00003

DECLARATION OF CHARLENE L. RACHOR

I, CHARLENE L. RACHOR, declare under penalty of perjury that the following is true and correct:

1. I make this Declaration based on personal knowledge of the facts and circumstances relevant to this matter and based on my review of the Wage Hour Division's official investigation file. If called, I would testify to the facts provided herein. I submit this Declaration in support of the Administrator's Motion for Partial Summary Decision.
2. I am employed by the U.S. Department of Labor, Wage and Hour Division, as the District Director of the Southern New Jersey District Office. My duty station is the Southern New Jersey District Office, which is located at 3131 Princeton Pike, Building 5, Room 216, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648.

3. The primary duty of my position is to oversee investigations of businesses to ascertain whether businesses covered by various federal labor statutes, administered and enforced by the Wage and Hour Division, are in compliance with the statutes and their supporting regulations.

4. One of the statutes that the Wage and Hour Division administers and enforces is the Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA"). That Act allows, among other things, eligible businesses to petition to hire non-immigrant workers in agricultural labor or services of a temporary or seasonal nature. To hire a non-immigrant worker, the employer must submit an Application for Temporary Employment Certification ETA-Form 9142 (the "TEC") and an Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order ETA-Form 790 (the "job order"), commonly referred to as a job order.

5. On July 8, 2015, my office initiated an investigation of Sun Valley Orchards, LLC's ("Sun Valley") compliance with the INA.

6. Upon review of the investigation file compiled by Investigator Jose Perez and applicable regulations, I assessed $212,250.00 in civil money penalties (CMPs) against Sun Valley for violations of the H-2A provisions of the INA in the 2015 growing season. I understand that the Administrator is currently moving for partial summary judgment as to $198,300 of those CMPs. I calculated those CMPs as follows:

$187,650 CMP Assessment for Undisclosed Meals Charges and Improper Charges for Other Items

7. I calculated $187,650 in CMPs for Sun Valley's unlawful and undisclosed meals charges from, and improper sales of beverages and other items to, 139 of Sun Valley's workers, in violation of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g). I reviewed the factors in 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(b) and used the following method:

8. I began by assessing a $1,500 civil money penalty for each of the 147 workers owed back wages for meals payments and/or beverages purchases. Of those 147 workers, 139 workers purchased meals from Sun Valley at some point during 2015.

9. Any of Sun Valley's improper charges pertaining to meals, beverages, or other items, carry penalties, and I could have assessed additional penalties for each of those violations. However, I decided that it was appropriate to combine the penalty assessment, and to assess $1,500 per worker regardless of whether a worker was owed back wages only for meals payments, or also for beverages, or for both.

10. I assessed the CMPs in this way, regardless of whether a worker was owed back wages for meals payments, for beverages, or for both, because all of these 147 workers were regularly paying money back to Sun Valley, contrary to the job orders and in violation of the regulations. Although some workers paid back more wages to Sun Valley because they were on the meal plan longer, or were sold more drinks while working in the fields, I determined that a single uniform CMP assessment would be appropriate.

11. This initial per-worker assessment, at $1,500 per worker, was appropriate due to the egregious nature of the violation, and the large number of workers affected by the violation, the substantial amount of the undisclosed charges to the workers in each workweek as a result of the undisclosed meal plan, and the inflated prices at which Sun Valley sold substantial numbers of beverages.

12. I then reduced the CMPs by 10% because Sun Valley had no prior H-2A violations, and in fact had not participated in the H-2A program before 2015 (factor 1).

13. I did not apply mitigating factor 2 because a large number of workers were affected by the meals violation, or mitigating factor 3, given the corresponding large back wage liability. As for mitigation factor 4, I determined it was not applicable because Sun Valley knew well in advance of the workers' arrival at the farm that the farm's standard operation involved a weekly meal plan in which workers were effectively required to participate; in light of that, Sun Valley made no good faith attempt to comply with the meals disclosure requirement. Nor did I reduce the CMPs for factors 5 or 6, because Respondent did not provide an adequate explanation for this violation at the final conference, nor did Respondent commit to future compliance. I also did not apply factor 7 because Sun Valley gained financially from its meals disclosure violation by avoiding costs that would have been necessary to modify its kitchen facilities to provide the promised free and open kitchen access for workers to prepare their own meals (as well as profit from the sales of beverages and beer).

14. Finally, I concluded that it was appropriate not to assess additional CMPs for Sun Valley's violations of §§ 655.122(q) and 655.122(p), since CMPs were already calculated on a per-worker basis for the 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g) violation and these violations were all of the same type.

15. Accordingly, the CMP calculation I performed for the meals violations was:

$1,500 (allowable CMPs per worker) x 0.90 (10% reduction based on 1 mitigating factor)
= $1,350.00 in CMPs per worker

$4,500 CMP Assessment for Transporting Workers Using Drivers Without Valid Licenses

16. I calculated $4,500 in CMPs for Sun Valley's having drivers without valid licenses transport workers. I used the following method to arrive at this amount:

17. I began by assessing $1,500 for each of the five buses driven by a driver without a valid license.

18. I then considered the factors in 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(b) and reduced this amount by 40% because Sun Valley had no prior H-2A violations (factor 1); promised to come into compliance (factor 6); did not achieve a financial gain (factor 7); and transported only fifteen workers in each vehicle, so there were only fifteen people affected by each violation (factor 2). In other words, I applied a ten percent reduction to the CMP base amount for each of the four applicable mitigating factors.

19. I did not apply mitigating factor 3 (gravity of the violation), because transporting workings using unlicensed drivers is a serious violation. I did not apply mitigating factor 4 (efforts to comply), because having licensed drivers was in Respondents' control and they could have required drivers to have valid licenses. Nor did I apply factor 5 (explanation of the violation) because Respondents failed to provide an adequate explanation for this violation.

20. The CMP calculation I performed was as follows:

5 violations (one violation for each vehicle)
x $1,500 (allowable CMPs)
x 0.60 (40% reduction based on 4 mitigating factors)
= $4,500.00 in CMPs

$3,000 CMP Assessment for Transporting Workers in Unsafe Vehicles

21. I calculated $3,000 in CMPs for the deficiencies in Sun Valley's buses. I arrived at this number using the following method:

22. I began with $1,500 for each of the three buses that had a tire with worn out treads, and $1,500 for the one bus that had a non-functioning rear-directional light.

23. I then reviewed the factors in 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(b) and reduced this amount by 50% based on mitigating factors 1 (lack of previous H-2A violations), 2 (only fifteen workers affected per bus violation), 3 (gravity of violation—most of the tires had sufficient tread and most of the turn signals on the buses were functioning) 6 (commitment to future compliance), and 7 (no financial gain achieved).

24. I did not apply mitigating factors 4 (efforts made to comply) or 5 (explanation given), as the Sun Valley could have changed these worn-out tires and fixed the rear-directional light, and did not give any adequate explanation for why it had not done so.

25. The CMP calculation I performed was as follows:

4 violations (one for each bus with a worn-out tire, and one for the bus with the broken rear-directional light)
x $1,500 (allowable CMPs)
x 0.50 (50% reduction based on 5 mitigating factors)
= $3,000.00 in CMPs

$3,150 CMP Assessment for Substandard Housing

26. I calculated $3,150 in CMPs for Sun Valley's (1) not providing screens for the bathroom windows; (2) having screen doors that were not in good repair or didn't close properly; (3) not providing lids on many of the garbage cans located adjacent to the worker housing; and (4) having worker(s) sleep on mattresses directly on the floor. I arrived at this number using the following method:

27. I started with $1,500 for each of the four housing violations listed above. This resulted in a total base amount of $6,000.

28. I then reviewed the factors in 29 C.F.R. § 500.19(b) and reduced these CMPs by 30% based on the following applicable mitigating factors: 1 (lack of history of H-2A violations), 6 (commitment to future compliance), 7 (no financial gain achieved). I also reduced CMPs by an additional 10% because no workers received a communicable disease as a result of Sun Valley's violations, and the worker(s) who slept on the floor was not in immediate danger of serious harm.

29. In addition, for the mattress violation, I reduced the CMPs by an additional 30% because very few workers were affected (factor 2), the violation was not so serious (factor 3), and the farm had made efforts to comply (factor 4). Thus for the mattress violation, I found all mitigating factors applicable except for the factor 5 (explanation given), as Sun Valley did not provide any adequate explanation for this violation.

30. For the screen doors, garbage lids, and window screen violations, I did not apply factor 2, as the entire workforce was affected; factor 3, as Sun Valley's violations resulted in a fly and mosquito infestation in the dorm that could have made workers sick; or factor 4, as Sun Valley had not previously made serious efforts to prevent these problems.

31. The CMP calculations I performed for the screen door, window screen, and garbage lid violations were as follows:

    3 violations
    x $1,500 (allowable CMPs)
    x 0.60 (40% reduction based on 4 mitigating factors)
    = $2,700.00 in CMPs

32. I performed the following CMP calculation for the mattress violation:

    1 violation
    x $1,500 (allowable CMPs)
    x 0.30 (70% reduction based on 7 mitigating factors)
    = $450.00 in CMPs

Prior Investigations of Sun Valley

33. According to the investigation file in this case, maintained in the ordinary course of business by the Wage and Hour Division, in June 2013 Sun Valley paid $6,237.70 in back wages for violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act and Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act, caused when Agustin Hernandez charged Sun Valley's farmworkers excessive prices for weekly meals (as well as beverages).

34. According to the same investigation file, a Wage and Hour investigation of Marino Brothers, Inc. in 2005 found that one of the drivers who operated a mini-bus to transport Sun Valley's workers had a Mexican license that was expired. The same investigation found that another driver, who operated another of the mini-buses on public roads, had only an expired license.

35. According to the same investigation file, another Wage and Hour investigation of Marino Brothers, Inc. in 2006 found that three of the company's drivers, who transported workers in vans, had no licenses at all. A fourth driver had only a Mexican license. According to the investigation file, Hernandez was aware in 2006 that some of the drivers did not have valid licenses, and Russell Marino, Jr. assured that he would meet with Hernandez to "put a stop to the unlicensed drivers immediately."

36. According to the same investigation file, although a Wage and Hour investigation of Sun Valley in 2013 did not uncover any transportation violations, Sun Valley did not have any vehicles in operation to transport workers at the time of the investigation, because Sun Valley's workers were at the time working in fields within walking distance of the housing camp.

DECLARATION PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, JOSE PEREZ, declare under penalty of perjury that the following is true and correct:

1. I make this Declaration based on personal knowledge of the facts and circumstances relevant to this matter and based on my review of the Wage Hour Division's official investigation file. If called, I would testify to the facts provided herein. I submit this Declaration in support of the Administrator's Motion for Partial Summary Decision.
2. I am employed as an investigator by the U.S. Department of Labor, Wage and Hour Division. My duty station is the Southern New Jersey District Office, which is located at 3131 Princeton Pike, Building 5, Room 216, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648.
3. The primary duty of my position is to conduct investigations of businesses to ascertain whether businesses covered by various federal labor statutes, administered and enforced by the Wage and Hour Division, are in compliance with the statutes and their supporting regulations.

RECEIVED

4. One of the statutes that the Wage and Hour Division administers and enforces is the Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA"). That Act allows, among other things, eligible businesses to petition to hire non-immigrant workers in agricultural labor or services of a temporary or seasonal nature. To hire a non-immigrant worker, the employer must submit an Application for Temporary Employment Certification ETA-Form 9142 (the "TEC") and an Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order ETA-Form 790 (the "job order"), commonly referred to as a job order.
5. On July 8, 2015, I was assigned to investigate Sun Valley Orchards, LLC ("Sun Valley") to determine whether the firm was in compliance with the INA.
6. As part of my official duties as a Wage and Hour Division Investigator, I reviewed (among other documents) Sun Valley's TECs for the periods of April 13, 2015 to October 10, 2015, and June 1, 2015 to October 10, 2015, true and accurate copies of which are attached hereto as Exhibits A and B; and Sun Valley's job orders for these same periods, true and accurate copies of which are attached hereto as Exhibits C and D.
7. During the course of the investigation, Sun Valley gave me copies of its payroll records for the 2015 growing season; a sample of true and accurate copies of some of those records are attached hereto as Exhibit E.
8. As part of my investigation, I met with Agustin Hernandez, Sun Valley's crew leader and field boss. He provided me with records regarding meals provided to Sun Valley's workers in 2015. A true and accurate copy of a sample of these records are attached hereto as Exhibit F.

9. I also interviewed several of Sun Valley's workers from the 2015 growing season and met with one of Sun Valley's owners, Russell Marino, Jr., and Sun Valley's bookkeeper, Lisa Justice.

Sun Valley's Substandard Housing

10. On July 21, 2015, Wage Hour Investigator John Crudup and I travelled to Sun Valley to inspect the company's worker housing facility located at 1321 Route 45 South, Swedesboro, NJ 08085.

11. Upon entering the housing facility, I immediately saw flies everywhere, and mosquitos as well. In fact, there were more flies inside the dormitory and bathrooms than there were outside. As I walked around the housing facility, I had to constantly swat flies away from my face.

12. During my inspection, I observed the likely causes of the infestation:

    a. Many of the garbage cans around the worker housing did not have lids. Exhibits G, H, and I are true and accurate photos that I took of these lidless garbage cans.

    b. A window in the dormitory bathroom had no screen. Exhibits J and K are true and accurate copies of photographs I took of this screenless bathroom window.

    c. A number of screen doors were not tight fitting or were in need of repair. Exhibits L, M, N, O, and P are true and accurate copies of photographs I took of these screen doors. Exhibits L and M show screen doors that do not close all the way by themselves. Exhibits N, O, and P show screens doors that have holes in them and are damaged.

13. During my inspection of the worker housing I also observed two mattresses lying directly on the floor. At least one of these mattresses was being used by a worker as his bed. This was apparent because on top of the mattress was a pillow and disheveled sheets, and lying around the mattress was a worker's belongings. Exhibit Q is a true and accurate copy of photographs I took of the mattress on the floor with a pillow and recently slept-in sheets, surrounded by a worker's belongings.

14. Right after I inspected the housing, I notified Russell J. Marino Jr. of the above problems, and he promised to fix all of them.

Sun Valley's Unsafe Transportation

15. On July 21, 2015, Investigator Crudup and I also inspected two school buses that Sun Valley Orchards was using to transport workers from the housing facility to the fields. The next day, we inspected three other school buses that Sun Valley Orchards was using to transport workers. (We weren't able to inspect these three buses the day before because they were being used in the fields on that day, far away from where we were conducting the housing inspection.)

16. Investigator Crudup and I visually inspected Sun Valley's buses, and observed that three of them had tires with completely worn-out treads. Having worn-out treads left the vehicles with insufficient traction and at risk of rolling over or veering off the road. Exhibits R, S, and T are true and accurate photos of the tires with worn-out treads. These photos show how tires on each of these three buses were rubbed down to the point where they were entirely bald in the one area of the tire that touched the ground, with the grooves practically gone on that part of the tire.

17. Investigator Crudup also sat in the driver's seat and tested the buses' lights as I watched. The glass covering one of the buses' rear directional lights was missing or broken off, and when Investigator Crudup tried to turn it on, the light would not work. Exhibit U is a true and accurate photograph of this light, which shows that one of the rear directional lights is broken.

18. On July 22, 2015, after we finished inspecting Sun Valley's buses, we watched as the workers boarded the buses to leave the fields, and we followed the buses as they drove back on public roads to the worker housing. The speed limit on these roads was about thirty-five or forty miles an hour; I drove within the speed limit but could not keep up with Sun Valley's buses, and I estimate that they were driving at least fifty miles per hour.

19. After the workers ate lunch and boarded the buses to return to the fields, but before the buses departed the eating area, I asked supervisor Agustin Hernandez for the bus drivers' licenses. Mr. Hernandez walked over to the bus drivers and came back with three Mexican drivers' licenses, one of which had expired on November 29, 2014, almost a year earlier. I then spoke directly to the bus drivers, two of whom acknowledged that they did not have drivers' licenses. Exhibit V consists of true and accurate photographs of the three bus drivers' Mexican driver's licenses that the drivers provided me that day. Page 1 of Exhibit V shows that that one of these licenses expired before the start of the 2015 growing season.

20. I told Mr. Hernandez that his drivers did not have proper licenses, but he did not remove the drivers from the buses. Indeed, shortly after I told him this, I watched as the same drivers — those with only Mexican licenses and those with no licenses at all — drove the workers to the fields.

21. During the course of my inspection of Sun Valley's premises, I informed Agustin Hernandez and Russel Marino Jr. of all of the vehicle safety deficiencies described above.

22. On February 16, 2016, I participated in a final conference with Sun Valley. During this conference, Russell J. Marino, Jr. promised to fix the defective rear directional light, ensure that only licensed drivers drove the workers, and have the buses inspected regularly.

Calculation of Back Wages Owed for Improper Meals Charges

23. Based on interviews with Sun Valley's employees and conversations with Agustin Hernandez and his spouse Elia Pinon, and Sun Valley's April and June 2015 job orders, I determined that Sun Valley's workers did not have access to a kitchen at Sun Valley to prepare their own meals, despite contrary statements in the 2015 job orders.

24. A true and accurate copy of Agustin Hernandez's July 22, 2015 interview statement, taken by Investigator Crudup, is attached as Exhibit W.

25. From the same statements, conversations, and documents, as well as records provided by Hernandez regarding meals, I determined that Sun Valley's workers paid $75 for meals most weeks during the 2015 growing season, and $80 during other weeks. In particular, based on the limited records that Sun Valley provided me, my understanding is that Sun Valley's workers paid $80 per week for the weeks ending June 23 and June 30. See Ex. F, the handwritten tallies at the bottom of DOL01369 and DOL01380. Since many workers indicated that they paid $80 throughout the entire time they worked at Sun Valley, but Hernandez's records did not indicate the price of meals during many weeks, I determined that $80 was also an appropriate reconstruction of the amounts paid by Sun Valley's workers for meals in an additional week, namely the week ending July 7.

26. To determine the amount of back wages that Sun Valley owed for the improper meal charges, I reviewed the payroll records Sun Valley produced during the investigation. Specifically, I reviewed the records with the heading ""Payroll Run Inquiry – Check View" for each week during the 2015 growing season. From those records, I identified 148 workers listed during at least one week, in addition to Agustin Hernandez.

27. For each of those 148 workers, I transcribed the number of weeks (noted by the last date of the workweek) that the worker appeared on Sun Valley's 2015 payroll.

28. I calculated $75 in back wages for undisclosed meals deductions for each worker for each week — except for the work weeks ending June 23, June 30, and July 7, 2015. For workers on the payroll in those weeks, I calculated $80 in back wages for each worker for each week. See supra ¶ 25.

29. For example, as shown in Exhibit X, H-2A employee Francisco J Pinon Rangel worked at least some hours at Sun Valley during each of the 16 weekly payroll periods ending between April 21 and August 7, 2015. Accordingly, for each of the 3 weeks ending June 23, June 30, and July 7, I determined that Sun Valley owed Mr. Pinon Rangel $80, or a total of $240. For each of the other 13 weeks, I determined that Sun Valley owed Mr. Pinon Rangel $75, or a total of $975. In total, Sun Valley owes Mr. Pinon Rangel $1,215.00 for unlawful and undisclosed meals deductions from the 2015 growing season. A true and accurate copy of the computations I performed with respect to back wages owed for meals is attached hereto as Exhibit X.

30. I performed the same calculation described above for each of Sun Valley's workers based on the weeks the worker appeared on Sun Valley's ""Payroll Run Inquiry – Check View" and related payroll records.

31. Next, I excluded from these initial computations the two H-2A and seven domestic workers whom Agustin Hernandez informed me did not have their pay deducted for meals during the 2015 growing season. These workers are: Armando Rodriguez Jaimes, Armando Guillen Segovia, Baltazar Arias, Frediberto Villasenor, Omar Pinon Roque, Octavio Vargas Vargas, Felix Arturo Hernandez Hernandez, Jose L Pinon, and Brian H Hernandez. In other words, I calculated that no back wages were due to these workers for weekly meals deductions during 2015.

32. I also reduced the back wages for three workers who cooked for themselves inside Sun Valley's worker housing camp during five weeks, the workweeks ending July 7 to August 7, 2015. These three workers are: Gustavo Cuellar Romero, Pedro Zavala Almanza, and Rodrigo Raya Tapia. During the investigation, I learned that there was a fourth worker who also cooked for himself during the same weeks, but I was not able to match his name to the payroll records.

33. I did not calculate back wages for meals for workers during weeks they did not appear on the payroll, regardless of the reason. This was so even if the reason the worker did not work was that he was sick, and continued to live at Sun Valley. For example, I did not include Dario Morales Acosta in the back wage computations for meals during the weeks ending June 23, June 30, or July 7 because Sun Valley's payroll records indicated that Mr. Morales Acosta did not work during those weeks.

34. Using the calculation method described above, I determined that Sun Valley owed its H-2A and domestic workers $128,510.00 in back wages, solely with regards to charges for weekly meals in 2015. Of that total, Sun Valley owes its H-2A workers $68,380.00, and its domestic workers $60,130.00.

35. I believe these computations are reasonable and conservative regarding the amounts that Sun Valley deducted from its workers for the weekly meals fee in 2015.

I declare pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746 under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Executed on this 31th day of May 2017.

No deduction not required by law will be made that brings the worker's hourly earnings below the statutory federal or state minimum wage. There may be deductions that reduce your pay below the stated contract wage; but will not reduce your pay below Federal or State Minimum Wage, whichever is higher. FICA, State and Federal taxes will not be deducted from those worker's wages that are working under a temporary, agricultural visa, unless it's discovered it is required or if the worker request withholding.

B) Employers guarantee to offer employment for the hourly equivalent of 3/4 of the workdays of the total specified period during which the work contract and all amendments thereof are in effect, beginning with the first workday after the workers' arrival at the assigned Grower's farm, ready, willing, able, and eligible to work and ending on the expiration date specified in the work contract and all extensions thereof or upon the termination of this employment as provided below. For purposes of this guarantee, a "workday" consists of seven hours Monday-Friday and five hours on Saturday. The worker is not required to work on his Sabbath or on federal holidays

If the worker at the conclusion of his work agreement has been afforded less employment opportunity than required under this provision, the worker will be paid at his average hourly rate for the hours, in addition to those actually offered, up to the hourly equivalent of the guaranteed number of days. In determining whether the guarantee of employment has been met, any hours which the Worker fails to work during a workday, when the Employer offers him the opportunity to work, and all hours of work actually performed shall be counted toward meeting this guarantee.

C). This employment guarantee shall be terminated before the end of the Period of Employment if the services of the workers are no longer required for reasons beyond the control of the Employer due to fire, frost, flood, drought, hail, other Act of God (AOG) which makes fulfillment of this contract impossible. (CO will be notified and employer will seek approval for AOG's) In such cases, the employer will make efforts to transfer workers to other comparable employment acceptable to workers. If such transfer is not effective, workers will be returned at Employer's expense to the place from which Worker, without intervening employment, came to work for employer. In the event of such termination, the 3/4-guarantee period ends on the date of termination. The guarantee shall be void from the beginning should the Worker voluntarily abandon this employment before the end of the contract period or in the event the Worker is terminated for a lawful job-related reason, and the employer notifies the NPC, and DHS in the case of an H-2A worker, in writing or by any other method specified by the Department or DHS in a manner specified in a notice published in the Federal Register not later than 2 working days after such abandonment occurs and this will relieve the employer from subsequent transportation and subsistence costs and the 3/4th guarantee.

D). The payroll period shall be weekly. Workers will be paid weekly with a 1 week holding period.

E). Employer will provide a worker referred through the SWA Interstate System forty (40) hours of work for the week beginning with the anticipated date of need, unless the employer has amended the date of need by notifying the local employment service office at least 10 working days prior to the original date of need. If the employer fails to notify the order-holding office, then employer shall pay an eligible worker referred through the interstate clearance system $11.29 per hour for the first week, starting with the original anticipated date of need. 40 hrs x $11.29 = $451.60 gross (before taxes). The employer may require the worker to perform alternative work if the guarantee cited in this section is invoked. If the worker fails to notify the order-holding office of his continuing interest in the job no sooner than nine working days and no later than five working days before the date of need, the worker will be disqualified from the above-mentioned assurance.

F). The Employer will furnish to the worker, on or before each payday one or more written statements showing the worker's total earnings for the pay period, his hourly rate or piece rate (if applicable); the hours of work which have been offered to the worker, the total hours actually worked by the worker, beginning and ending times, an itemization of all deductions made from the worker's wages; the worker's net pay; the employer's name, address and IRS identification number. Subsistence reimbursement shall be ~~$11.59~~ $11.86 per day, without producing documentation of actual expenses, or will otherwise be paid as per 20 CFR 665.122(h) only to those employees who are eligible under the H-2A program regulations for subsistence pay. If the grower reimburses the worker prior to the 50% date, and the worker is terminated for cause or abandons prior to the 50% date, the grower reserves the right to recapture that reimbursement.

If the subsequent employer has not agreed to provide or pay for the worker's transportation to the subsequent place of employment, the Employer will provide or pay for the transportation and subsistence to the subsequent place of employment in lieu of providing or paying for such expenses from the place of employment to the place from which the worker departed to work for the employer. If the subsequent employer has agreed to provide or pay for the worker's transportation and subsistence to the subsequent place of employment the Employer will not provide or pay for such expenses. The Employer reserves the right to arrange charter or other return transportation. Workers eligible for this benefit who do not wish to avail themselves of employer arranged return transportation would be provided their outbound transportation and subsistence by check. If a worker choses to not use the employer arrange transportation then they will only be reimbursed for the transportation not included in the employer arranged (Mexican transportation, border crossing and daily subsistence.) In those circumstances, the grower will distribute the checks, as soon as all work is completed, as determined by the employer, and the worker is ready to depart. Workers may select any means of transportation home they choose, however, the reimbursement is limited to the most economical and reasonable common carrier transportation cost for the distance involved. If such transfer is not effective, workers will be returned at Employer's expense to the place from which Worker, without intervening employment, came to work for employer. In the event of such termination, the 3/4-guarantee period ends on the date of termination. The guarantee shall be void from the beginning should the Worker voluntarily abandon this employment before the end of the contract period or in the event the Worker is terminated for a lawful job-related reason, and the employer notifies the NPC, and DHS in the case of an H-2A worker, in writing or by any other method specified by the Department or DHS in a manner specified in a notice published in the Federal Register not later than 2 working days after such abandonment occurs and this will relieve the employer from subsequent transportation and subsistence costs and the 3/4th guarantee.

D). The payroll period shall be weekly. Workers will be paid weekly with a 1 week holding period.

E). Employer will provide a worker referred through the SWA Interstate System forty (40) hours of work for the week beginning with the anticipated date of need, unless the employer has amended the date of need by notifying the local employment service office at least 10 working days prior to the original date of need. commission based on the type, quantity and quality of the fruit after pick out. The workers get paid $11.29 or paid by commission / crew piece rate. Normally everyone makes $11.29, rarely they make more. I control the work in the fields, but Russ Jr. tells me what fields to pick. Harry Merino also tells me where to go and what to pick. We pick peppers, pickles, cucumbers, squash, egg plants and peaches. I provided disclosure forms to both H-2A and domestic workers when they first arrived, about 40 or 50. I did not provide the groups that arrived later. The workers began to arrive in March, they were trimmers. The H-2As arrived in April. The first group of H-2As were all picking Asparagus. Some did not like the work, so about 19 left after 1 1/2 weeks. The transportation was paid when they arrived, but they paid their own transportation back, but I am not sure where they went. The domestic workers drive up from Florida on their own. The H-2As arrive on a big bus from Mexico. We provide transportation to wash clothes at no charge. Saul Sanchez drives the bus. He has a Mexican driver's license. No transportation is provided to go shopping or buy food on their own. The kitchen is closed. Workers do not have access to kitchen to cook and store food. There are currently 4 H-2A workers that did not participate in the meal plan. I found out yesterday that they were cooking in their room who works 5 hours a day. I am also responsible for the housing. Everyone is provided bed sheets There are no problems in the camp that I am aware of. There is always cool drinking water in the field with cups. The port a Johns are serviced once a week, every Thursday. I put a roll of toilet paper in the camp bathrooms once a week, but normally they take the paper with them when they use the facility. As far as drinks sold, I would say about 3 to 4 a day on average. Probably only 60 to 70 people buy drinks in the field.

I have had the above statement read to me and it is true and correct.

RE: Sun Valley Orchards LLC

Dear Sir/Madam:

Your application seeking temporary labor certification under the H-2A temporary agricultural program has been certified. On March 3, 2015, this office accepted for consideration an application from you requesting H-2A temporary labor certification for 40 Farmworkers and Laborers, Crop, Nursery, and Greenhouse job opportunities. In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) § 655, Subpart B, it has been determined that a sufficient number of able, willing and qualified U.S. workers have not been identified as being available at the time and place needed to fill all of the job opportunities for which certification has been requested and that employment of the H-2A workers will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of workers in the United States similarly employed.

Therefore, the Department grants certification for 40 Farmworkers and Laborers, Crop, Nursery, and Greenhouse job opportunities. You must comply with all assurances, guarantees and other requirements contained in Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655, Subpart B and 20 CFR § 653, Subpart F.

Upon receipt of this notification, you will need to submit to the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) California Service Center the I-129 Form that is required in conjunction with an H-2A application. The USCIS petition can be obtained at http://www.uscis.gov.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The employer must sign and date the ETA Form 9142 prior to submission to USCIS California Service Center.

Enclosed is a bill for fees assessed for the H-2A certification. Non-payment or untimely payment may be considered a substantial violation subject to the procedures in Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.182.

Important Reminders:

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.120(b), if the prevailing hourly wage or piece rate is adjusted during a work contract, and is higher than the highest of the AEWR, the prevailing wage, the agreed-upon collective bargaining wage, or the Federal or State minimum wage, in effect at the time the work is performed, the employer must pay at least that higher prevailing wage or piece rate upon notice to the employer by the Department. The Department posts all current prevailing hourly wages and piece rates to the Department of Labor's Agricultural On-Line Wage Library (AOWL). You are encouraged to visit the AOWL website at http://www.foreignlaborcert.doleta.gov/aowl.cfm for the updated wage rates.

- You must continue to cooperate with the State Workforce Agency (SWA) by accepting all referrals of eligible U.S. workers who apply (or on whose behalf an application is made) for the job opportunity until the end of the recruitment period as set forth in Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.135(d). The end date of your obligation to consider all referrals under the 50 percent rule is calculated by the SWA based on the date the H-2A worker departed for the employer's place of business, which is assumed to be three days prior to the first date of need. However, if the H-2A worker will not depart for your place of employment three days prior to the first date of need, Departmental regulation 20 CFR § 655.135(c) requires you to inform the SWA in writing of the new expected departure date.

- You must update and maintain the recruitment report throughout the recruitment period including the 50 percent period as specified in Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.156(b). This supplement to the recruitment report must meet the requirements of Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.156(a)(1)-(4). The employer must sign and date this supplement to the recruitment report and retain it for a period of no less than three (3) years. The supplement to the recruitment report must be provided upon request.

- You are also reminded that in accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.122(n), the termination of workers for cause and abandonment of the job by workers are to be reported in writing to the Department and to the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) within two (2) business days of the termination or discovering abandonment. To make compliance with this requirement simple and fast, the employer may e-mail the notification directly to the Chicago NPC using TLC.Chicago@dol.gov. Your requests will be handled as expeditiously as possible. Employers without internet access may also send written notification by facsimile to (312) 886-1688 (ATTN: H-2A Abandonment and Termination) or U.S. mail to the following address:

  U.S. Department of Labor
  Employment and Training Administration
  Office of Foreign Labor Certification
  Chicago National Processing Center
  11 West Quincy Court

Chicago, IL 60604
ATTN: H-2A Abandonment and Termination

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.135(i), employers must inform H-2A workers of the requirement that they must leave the United States at the end of the period certified by the Department or separation from the employer, whichever is earlier, unless the H-2A worker is being sponsored by another subsequent employer.

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.122(q), employers must provide to H-2A workers no later than the time at which the workers apply for the visa, or to workers in corresponding employment no later than on the day work commences, a copy of the work contract between the employer and the workers in a language understood by the worker as necessary or reasonable. For H-2A workers going from an H-2A employer to a subsequent H-2A employer, the copy must be provided no later than the time an offer of employment is made by the subsequent H-2A employer.

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.135(l), employers must post and maintain in a conspicuous location at the place of employment, a poster provided by the Secretary of the Department of Labor in English, and to the extent necessary, any language common to a significant portion of the workers if they are not fluent in English, which sets out the rights and protections for workers. A copy of the poster is available at http://www.dol.gov/whd/resources/posters.htm.

- Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.180, allow the Department to conduct audit examinations of certified H-2A applications. The applications selected for audit will be chosen within the sole discretion of the Department. If your certification has been selected for audit, you are reminded that you must submit the documentation requested in the audit letter within the specified timeframe. Failure to comply with the audit process may result in a finding by the Certifying Officer to revoke the labor certification and/or debarment of the employer from future filings of H-2A temporary labor certification applications. Additionally, the audit findings and underlying documentation may be provided to the Department of Homeland Security or another appropriate enforcement agency. Referrals of any findings that an employer discouraged an eligible U.S. worker from applying, or failed to hire, discharged, or otherwise discriminated against an eligible U.S. worker, to the Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, Office of Special Counsel for Unfair Immigration Related Employment Practices.

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.170, employers may request to extend (by more than two (2) weeks) the period of employment on certified H-2A applications in writing, to the Chicago NPC. The employer may e-mail the request directly to the Chicago NPC using the address:

TLC.Chicago@dol.gov, with the words "H-2A Extension Request" contained in the subject line of the e-mail. Employers without internet access may send a written request by facsimile to (312) 886-1688 (ATTN: H-2A Extension Request) or by U.S. mail to the following address:

OFLC Certifying Officer

GENERAL CONDITIONS APPLICABLE TO ALL CROPS: Fieldwork begins at assigned time shortly after daylight. Work may be performed during light rain and in high humidity and in temperatures ranging from 110+ degrees to below 20 degrees F. Workers will perform the majority of tasks standing in the upright position and can expect to stand on their feet for extended periods of time. Some tasks, however, require workers to perform activities on their feet in stooped or crouched position for long periods of time. Workers will supply their own work clothes. All the tasks in this Job Description constitute one (1) job; the employer may assign workers to different tasks on any day or to multiple tasks during the same day in the sole judgment of the employer. Workers may be required to perform work, on the farm, that is incidental to farming the crops listed in the application, such as performing hand cultivation tasks, packing, weeding or hoeing, cleaning and repairing farm buildings, grounds, set up and move equipment, cleaning and maintaining drip irrigation systems, , weeding, etc. This is a very demanding and competitive business in which quality specifications must be rigorously adhered to. Sloppy work cannot and will not be tolerated.

Full Crop Commitment: This is regular work, seven hours per day, Monday-Friday, and five on Sunday for the full remainder of the period of employment. The worker agrees to work for assigned employer(s) whenever work is available during the full remaining period of employment even though work may be slack at times. The worker understands that if the worker quits or is terminated for cause prior to the end of the period of employment, the worker will not receive the 3/4 guarantees discussed below and will not receive certain transportation reimbursements discussed below. Excessive tardiness and/or absences will not be tolerated and will result in termination.

Daily individual work assignments, crew assignments, and location of work, will be made by and at the sole discretion of the farm manger and/or farm supervisor as the needs of the farming operation dictate. Workers may be assigned a variety of duties in any given day and/or different tasks on different days. Workers will be expected to perform any of the listed duties and work on any crop as assigned by the worker's supervisor.

Harvesting specifications, in particular, can change from time to time during the season due to crop or market conditions, even on the same crop. Workers will be expected to conform to the specific instructions given for each day's work.

The farm owner/supervisor or a designated employee will provide instructions and general supervision. However, field workers will be expected to perform their duties in a timely and proficient manner without close supervision.

Other Conditions of Employment: A). Discipline and/or Termination: Employer may discipline and/or terminate the worker for lawful job-related reasons and so notify the Job Service local office of the termination if the worker: a) refuses without justified cause to perform work for which the worker was recruited and hired, b) commit serious act(s) of misconduct or serious or repeated violation(s) of Work Rules c) fails after completing the training period to perform the work as specified in Item F-5 and Attachment, d) malingers or otherwise refuses without justified cause to perform as directed the work for which the Worker was recruited and hired; e) provides other lawful job-related reason(s) for termination of employment, f) abandons his employment; g) fails to keep up with fellow workers. h) falsifies identification, personnel, medical, production or other work related records, i) fails or refuses to take a drug test, or j) commits acts of insubordination, k) the employer may terminate the worker (foreign or domestic) with notification to the employment service if employer discovers a criminal conviction record or status as a registered sex offender that employer reasonably believes, consistent with current law, will impair the safety and living conditions of other workers. Reason beyond employer's control" includes termination of workers, if he not a U.S. worker because a U.S. worker makes himself available for the job under DOL's 50% rule. Workers must notify the employer prior to voluntarily terminating their employment. All wages due will be forwarded to the last known address for Workers that leave without providing notice. It is imperative that workers provide a complete and accurate address to the employer no later than the first day of employment. These employers have a no complete, no rehire policy. Termination for lawful job related reasons before the specified ending date listed in this application will disqualify the employee from future employment opportunities with this employer. Workers who abandon their employment without notice during the period covered by this work agreement will be disqualified from future employment opportunities with this employer. Voluntary resignation before the specified ending date listed in this application may disqualify the employee from future employment opportunities with this employer. For workers who resign their employment voluntarily, the employer will consider and evaluate special circumstances and hardship cases on a case-by-case basis. Employees, without exception, are required to notify appropriate supervisory staff prior to voluntarily terminating their employment to be considered and eligible for exemption to the no complete - no rehire policy.

Workers are guaranteed that their total earnings will be at least equal to the AEWR of $11.29 per hour for all hours worked in a pay period. If a worker's total earnings in any pay period in which the worker has worked at a piece rate are less than the AEWR of $11.29 for all hours worked in the pay period, the employer will increase the worker's pay to the guaranteed minimum of $11.29 per hour for the total hours worked in the pay period.

Due to weather and crop conditions, the employer reserves the right to temporary increase the listed piece rates, or add a piece rate. The employer also reserves the right to completely do away with the piece rate all together to ensure a quality product and fair earnings. Employer reserves the right to add a piece rate, with notification to workers, prior to adding the rate.

18. More details concerning pay: Employer reserves the right to pay higher than the stated wage rate to any worker foreign or domestic. This is not promised or guaranteed. The decision to pay above the stated rates will be made by the employer, at their sole discretion, and will be based on factors including the recipients' performance and tenure.

Training: There will be a short demonstration period (up to 1 hr.) to familiarize workers with job specifications, to demonstrate proper methods and other crop specific issues. The employer will not provide separate formal orientation or training periods for each different crop or each different type of task or job assignment covered within the job description. After completion of the training period the employer will expect all workers to possess the skills to work in the production of the crops above. For purposes of this section seven or more hours will be considered one day.

NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL CONSULTANTS LLC
H-2A CONSULTING SERVICES, AGENCY REPRESENTATION AND INDEMNIFICATION AGREEMENT

This H-2A Consulting Services, Agency Representation and Indemnification Agreement (the "Agreement") entered into by and between National Agricultural Consultants LLC (the "Agent/Consultant"), an agricultural labor consultant and agent with an expertise in the H-2A Governing Regulations at 20 CFR § 655 in its entirety and the U.S. DOL ESA Wage and Hour H-2A enforcement regulations at 29 CFR § 501, in the state of and under the laws of North Carolina and Sun Valley Orchards, a fixed site agricultural producer(s)/employer(s), by definition at 20 CFR 655.103(b) in the state of NJ (the "Agricultural Employer, 'AGER' ") who is a client of the Consultant.

WHEREAS, the Agent/Consultant is qualified and capable as an Agent/Consultant of rendering agent and consulting services, certain specific administrative services, and other limited services (necessary to assist facilitation of the AGER in obtaining domestic and/or supplementary foreign workers to participate in the H-2A program (8 USC 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a); 8 USC 1188) ("H-2A workers") to meet the AGER's seasonal agricultural labor requirements; and

WHEREAS, the AGER acknowledges, understands and agrees that it is personally and solely responsible for compliance with all applicable farm employee labor and employment laws and provisions of the H-2A program, including the application for Temporary Employment Certification, the Clearance Order, and the Worker Agreement; and

WHEREAS, the AGER desires to avail themselves of the Agent and Consulting services, administrative services, and other limited services provided by the Agent/Consultant in order to secure domestic and/or supplementary foreign workers to meet the AGER's seasonal agricultural labor requirements for the calendar year beginning January 1, 20 15;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the payment(s) made by the AGER of the established dues, admission fees and other assessments and such costs as are charged/assessed from time to time for providing the services requested by the AGER, and for other good and sufficient consideration, including the mutual promises contained in this Agreement, pursuant to the applicable requirements of 20 CFR § 655. The Agent/Consultant will provide Agent and Consultative services to represent, prepare and/or assist the AGER, as necessary, to interact with all appropriate government agencies involved in the H-2A program application processes, including but not limited to US Department of Labor ("DOL"), US Department of Homeland Security ("DHS"), US State Department("DOS"), and the respective State Workforce Agency(s) ("SWA"). The parties hereto further agree as follows:

A. The Consultant's Obligations

(1) The Agent/Consultant, with input and review from AGER, will prepare and submit to the AGER to review, modify, approve, and/or execute, and authorize submission to the applicable government agency for processing, all forms and documents, required, pursuant to applicable laws and DOL, DHS, and State Department regulations, to obtain US workers and/or H-2A workers from the Republic of Mexico. The AGER provides explicit authorization to Consultant to prepare all necessary forms and documents, with emphasis added, for the Consultant to populate and prepare the I-129 petition on behalf of the AGER who will then review, modify, approve, execute and submit, or authorize submission, to U.S. CIS per the petition filing instructions.

(2) The Consultant, on behalf of the AGER, will provide certain administrative supportive services associated with the domestic recruitment requirements established by DOL regulations. Such tasks shall be limited exclusively to preparing the ETA 790 Form and attachments, subject to review, modification, approval, and execution by the AGER, and to be submitted by the AGER, or authorize Agent/Consultant to submit, in order to list the domestic job order with the appropriate State Workforce Agency ("SWA"), preparing ad copy for the AGER to review, modify and authorize the Agent/Consultant to place advertisements in newspapers on behalf of the AGER as directed by DOL, providing certain supportive services to AGER when/if needed by AGER to prepare AGER to properly interview and document US referrals made directly to the AGER from a SWA, and preparing and submitting to AGER for review, approval, execution and submitting, or authorization for Agent/Consultant to submit, the necessary recruitment report with DOL. The AGER agrees that it, solely, is soliciting employees as required by the Federal Regulation and the AGER has reviewed the required ad and approved the content before Agent/Consultant submits it to the newspaper for print on behalf of AGER. The AGER and DOL determine, solely and exclusively, the terms and conditions disclosed in the ad, when and where it is placed. By preparing ad copy for AGER consideration and authorization, the Agent/Consultant IS NOT performing or engaging in MSPA related Farm Labor Contracting activities such as soliciting. I, the AGER, am exclusively soliciting employees for myself as required by Federal law.

(3) The Agent/Consultant will maintain, or, assist the AGER to maintain contacts that may be needed, from time to time, by the Agent/Consultant or AGER, either directly or through its designated representatives, with SWA's, DOL, DHS, and DOS; and, other state and federal governmental agencies, and government contractors acting on behalf of or performing administrative actions on behalf of government agencies necessary to effectuate the successful administrative participation in the H-2A program and for other purpose(s) described in this Agreement.

(4) The Agent/Consultant has not sought or received payment of any kind from any employee subject to 8 USC 1188 for any activity related to obtaining the H-2A labor certification in compliance with 20 CFR § 655.135(j).

(5) The Agent/Consultant, who IS NOT an attorney and is not providing legal advice to the AGER, MAY, under the limited terms of this agreement, act as the agent of the employer, with any government or private entity, as necessary to assist the employer with participating in the H-2A program. This document IS NOT, nor should it be construed, as a Power of Attorney, limited or otherwise. The AGER acknowledges understanding and agreement that they should always consult with a qualified attorney to have all of their legal questions answered, if any.

B. The Agricultural Employer's Obligations

(1) The AGER agrees to comply timely with all reasonable policies, procedures, and schedules established by the Agent/Consultant which it considers essential for the proper operation of the program to obtain domestic workers and/or H-2A workers, successful participation, and to promote compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

(2) The AGER acknowledges that it is familiar with the regulations and requirements of the H-2A program and agrees to comply with all of the terms and conditions of employment described in the AGER's Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order, ETA Form 790 and attachments, and Application for Temporary Employment Certification, ETA 9142 and attachments, (collectively the "Job Order") and with the agricultural work agreement, which describes all the material terms and conditions of employment and that is entered into with both U.S. and H-2A workers by the AGER. The AGER agrees to comply with all obligations imposed on the AGER as an employer of domestic and/or H-2A workers found in applicable law and regulations, including without limitation, those at 20 CFR Part 653 (DOL Interstate Clearance Order regulations); 20 CFR Part 655 (DOL H-2A Regulations); 29 CFR Part 501 (DOL Wage and Hour Enforcement Regulations); and applicable provisions at 8 CFR Parts 214, 215, and 274a (DHS regulations); and to always cooperate with all government agencies with jurisdiction. The AGER agrees to comply with ALL applicable laws and relevant regulations and specifically, but not limited to, 20 C.F.R. 655.120(wages), 122(content of job offer), 135(assurances and obligations), 153(contact former US workers), 155(referral of US workers), 167(document retention requirements) of the H-2A regulations.

(3) In particular, but not limiting the foregoing, the AGER agrees a) to pay their worker's required wages and benefits; b) to make only those deductions from their worker's paychecks that are required by law and only those deductions allowed by law; c) to provide housing as required by law that meets all applicable standards in effect at the time of occupancy; d) to timely reimburse required transportation and daily subsistence costs; e) to provide written detailed wage statements of their worker's total earnings, start time and stop time, nature of work each day, hourly rate and/or piece rate of pay, the hours of employment which had been offered to their worker, the hours actually worked by their worker, and itemization of all deductions made from their worker's wages and, if piece rates are used, the units produced daily, the AGER's name, address and Federal Tax Identification or Social Security Number; f) to terminate their worker only for lawful job related reasons; g) to secure and maintain workers' compensation coverage for each worker for the entire period of employment, with no lapses in coverage; h) to employ any qualified US worker(s), or to interview and hire any qualified US worker(s) who applies directly to the AGER in accordance with the applicable regulations at 20 CFR 655; i) that the Consultant and the AGER are not and shall not be joint employers with respect to any of the AGER's employees. The Agent/Consultant does not exercise any control over any of the AGER's employees and does hold any indicia of employment with respect to the AGER's employees. The AGER is the sole and exclusive employer.

(4) The AGER agrees to pay timely any judgment or penalty entered against the AGER and arising out of the AGER's violation of its obligations under applicable law or regulation, and to indemnify and hold harmless the Agent/Consultant and any of its other AGER Clients for such judgments or penalties and any attorneys' fees and costs incurred by the Agent/Consultant or other AGER Clients in defending against such alleged violation. The AGER acknowledges that the laws and regulations governing the employment of domestic agricultural workers and H-2A workers are subject to disputed and differing legal interpretations in various jurisdictions. Therefore, the AGER agrees that in matters in which a claim is made or litigation is instituted against the Agent/Consultant, the Agent/Consultant may exercise its discretion a) to settle such matters on behalf of the Agent/Consultant and the AGER on terms it deems appropriate; b) to litigate such matters; and c) to determine whether such settlements, judgments, penalties, costs and attorneys fees will be borne by the AGER out of whose alleged action or inaction the claim was based or, what amount, if any, will be borne by the Agent/Consultant and/or shared among its other AGER Clients. The terms of this Paragraph B.(4) survive any future separation from AGER and the Agent/Consultant by the AGER and the term of this Agreement.

(5) The AGER agrees to pay the Agent/Consultant any assessment levied by the Agent/Consultant as the AGER's share of legal and any other expense or liability incurred by the Agent/Consultant in defending, prosecuting or settling any disputes relating to an application for H-2A certification, claim, litigation, or administrative complaint or appeal, whether or not arising out of claims against the AGER or arising out of the fault of the AGER, in accordance with a formula approved by the Agent/Consultant. The terms of this paragraph B.(5) survive any future separation from AGER and the Consultant by the AGER and the term of this Agreement.

RE: Sun Valley Orchards LLC

Dear Sir/Madam:

Your application seeking temporary labor certification under the H-2A temporary agricultural program has been certified. On April 23, 2015, this office accepted for consideration an application from you requesting H-2A temporary labor certification for 60 Farmworker and Laborer, Crop, Nursery, And Greenhouse job opportunities. In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) § 655, Subpart B, it has been determined that a sufficient number of able, willing and qualified U.S. workers have not been identified as being available at the time and place needed to fill all of the job opportunities for which certification has been requested and that employment of the H-2A workers will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of workers in the United States similarly employed.

Therefore, the Department grants certification for 60 Farmworker and Laborer, Crop, Nursery, And Greenhouse job opportunities. You must comply with all assurances, guarantees and other requirements contained in Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655, Subpart B and 20 CFR § 653, Subpart F.

Upon receipt of this notification, you will need to submit to the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) California Service Center the I-129 Form that is required in conjunction with an H-2A application. The USCIS petition can be obtained at http://www.uscis.gov.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The employer must sign and date the ETA Form 9142 prior to submission to USCIS California Service Center.

Enclosed is a bill for fees assessed for the H-2A certification. Non-payment or untimely payment may be considered a substantial violation subject to the procedures in Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.182.

Important Reminders:

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.120(b), if the prevailing hourly wage or piece rate is adjusted during a work contract, and is higher than the highest of the AEWR, the prevailing wage, the agreed-upon collective bargaining wage, or the Federal or State minimum wage, in effect at the time the work is performed, the employer must pay at least that higher prevailing wage or piece rate upon notice to the employer by the Department. The Department posts all current prevailing hourly wages and piece rates to the Department of Labor's Agricultural On-Line Wage Library (AOWL). You are encouraged to visit the AOWL website at http://www.foreignlaborcert.doleta.gov/aowl.cfm for the updated wage rates.

- You must continue to cooperate with the State Workforce Agency (SWA) by accepting all referrals of eligible U.S. workers who apply (or on whose behalf an application is made) for the job opportunity until the end of the recruitment period as set forth in Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.135(d). The end date of your obligation to consider all referrals under the 50 percent rule is calculated by the SWA based on the date the H-2A worker departed for the employer's place of business, which is assumed to be three days prior to the first date of need. However, if the H-2A worker will not depart for your place of employment three days prior to the first date of need, Departmental regulation 20 CFR § 655.135(c) requires you to inform the SWA in writing of the new expected departure date.

- You must update and maintain the recruitment report throughout the recruitment period including the 50 percent period as specified in Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.156(b). This supplement to the recruitment report must meet the requirements of Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.156(a)(1)-(4). The employer must sign and date this supplement to the recruitment report and retain it for a period of no less than three (3) years. The supplement to the recruitment report must be provided upon request.

- You are also reminded that in accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.122(n), the termination of workers for cause and abandonment of the job by workers are to be reported in writing to the Department and to the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) within two (2) business days of the termination or discovering abandonment. To make compliance with this requirement simple and fast, the employer may e-mail the notification directly to the Chicago NPC using TLC.Chicago@dol.gov. Your requests will be handled as expeditiously as possible. Employers without internet access may also send written notification by facsimile to (312) 886-1688 (ATTN: H-2A Abandonment and Termination) or U.S. mail to the following address:

ATTN: H-2A Abandonment and Termination

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.135(i), employers must inform H-2A workers of the requirement that they must leave the United States at the end of the period certified by the Department or separation from the employer, whichever is earlier, unless the H-2A worker is being sponsored by another subsequent employer.

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.122(q), employers must provide to H-2A workers no later than the time at which the workers apply for the visa, or to workers in corresponding employment no later than on the day work commences, a copy of the work contract between the employer and the workers in a language understood by the worker as necessary or reasonable. For H-2A workers going from an H-2A employer to a subsequent H-2A employer, the copy must be provided no later than the time an offer of employment is made by the subsequent H-2A employer.

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.135(l), employers must post and maintain in a conspicuous location at the place of employment, a poster provided by the Secretary of the Department of Labor in English, and to the extent necessary, any language common to a significant portion of the workers if they are not fluent in English, which sets out the rights and protections for workers. A copy of the poster is available at http://www.dol.gov/whd/resources/posters.htm.

- Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.180, allow the Department to conduct audit examinations of certified H-2A applications. The applications selected for audit will be chosen within the sole discretion of the Department. If your certification has been selected for audit, you are reminded that you must submit the documentation requested in the audit letter within the specified timeframe. Failure to comply with the audit process may result in a finding by the Certifying Officer to revoke the labor certification and/or debarment of the employer from future filings of H-2A temporary labor certification applications. Additionally, the audit findings and underlying documentation may be provided to the Department of Homeland Security or another appropriate enforcement agency. Referrals of any findings that an employer discouraged an eligible U.S. worker from applying, or failed to hire, discharged, or otherwise discriminated against an eligible U.S. worker, to the Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, Office of Special Counsel for Unfair Immigration Related Employment Practices.

- In accordance with Departmental regulations at 20 CFR § 655.170, employers may request to extend (by more than two (2) weeks) the period of employment on certified H-2A applications in writing, to the Chicago NPC. The employer may e-mail the request directly to the Chicago NPC using the address:

the specified ending date listed in this application will disqualify the employee from future employment opportunities with this employer. Workers who abandon their employment without notice during the period covered by this work agreement will be disqualified from future employment opportunities with this employer. Voluntary resignation before the specified ending date listed in this application may disqualify the employee from future employment opportunities with this employer. For workers who resign their employment voluntarily, the employer will consider and evaluate special circumstances and hardship cases on a case-by-case basis. Employees, without exception, are required to notify appropriate supervisory staff prior to voluntarily terminating their employment to be considered and eligible for exemption to the no complete - no rehire policy.

Workers are guaranteed that their total earnings will be at least equal to the AEWR of $11.29 per hour for all hours worked in a pay period. If a worker's total earnings in any pay period in which the worker has worked at a piece rate are less than the AEWR of $11.29 for all hours worked in the pay period, the employer will increase the worker's pay to the guaranteed minimum of $11.29 per hour for the total hours worked in the pay period.

Due to weather and crop conditions, the employer reserves the right to temporary increase the listed piece rates, or add a piece rate. The employer also reserves the right to completely do away with the piece rate all together to ensure a quality product and fair earnings. WHEREAS, the Agent/Consultant is qualified and capable as an Agent/Consultant of rendering agent and consulting services, certain specific administrative services, and other limited services (necessary to assist facilitation of the AGER in obtaining domestic and/or supplementary foreign workers to participate in the H-2A program (8 USC 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(a); 8 USC 1188) ("H-2A workers") to meet the AGER's seasonal agricultural labor requirements; and

WHEREAS, the AGER acknowledges, understands and agrees that it is personally and solely responsible for compliance with all applicable farm employee labor and employment laws and provisions of the H-2A program, including the application for Temporary Employment Certification, the Clearance Order, and the Worker Agreement; and

WHEREAS, the AGER desires to avail themselves of the Agent and Consulting services, administrative services, and other limited services provided by the Agent/Consultant in order to secure domestic and/or supplementary foreign workers to meet the AGER's seasonal agricultural labor requirements for the calendar year beginning January 1, 20 15

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the payment(s) made by the AGER of the established dues, admission fees and other assessments and such costs as are charged/assessed from time to time for providing the services requested by the AGER, and for other good and sufficient consideration, including the mutual promises contained in this Agreement, pursuant to the applicable requirements of 20 CFR § 655. The Agent/Consultant will provide Agent and Consultative services to represent, prepare and/or assist the AGER, as necessary, to interact with all appropriate government agencies involved in the H-2A program application processes, including but not limited to US Department of Labor ("DOL"), US Department of Homeland Security ("DHS"), US State Department("DOS"), and the respective State Workforce Agency(s) ("SWA"). The parties hereto further agree as follows:

A. The Consultant's Obligations

(1) The Agent/Consultant, with input and review from AGER, will prepare and submit to the AGER to review, modify, approve, and/or execute, and authorize submission to the applicable government agency for processing, all forms and documents, required, pursuant to applicable laws and DOL, DHS, and State Department regulations, to obtain US workers and/or H-2A workers from the Republic of Mexico. The AGER provides explicit authorization to Consultant to prepare all necessary forms and documents, with emphasis added, for the Consultant to populate and prepare the I-129 petition on behalf of the AGER who will then review, modify, approve, execute and submit, or authorize submission, to U.S. CIS per the petition filing instructions.

(2) The Consultant, on behalf of the AGER, will provide certain administrative supportive services associated with the domestic recruitment requirements established by DOL regulations. Such tasks shall be limited exclusively to preparing the ETA 790 Form and attachments, subject to review, modification, approval, and execution by the AGER, and to be submitted by the AGER, or authorize Agent/Consultant to submit, in order to list the domestic job order with the appropriate State Workforce Agency ("SWA"), preparing ad copy for the AGER to review, modify and authorize the Agent/Consultant to place advertisements in newspapers on behalf of the AGER as directed by DOL, providing certain supportive services to AGER when/if needed by AGER to prepare AGER to properly interview and document US referrals made directly to the AGER from a SWA, and preparing and submitting to AGER for review, approval, execution and submitting, or authorization for Agent/Consultant to submit, the necessary recruitment report with DOL. The AGER agrees that it, solely, is soliciting employees as required by the Federal Regulation and the AGER has reviewed the required ad and approved the content before Agent/Consultant submits it to the newspaper for print on behalf of AGER. The AGER and DOL determine, solely and exclusively, the terms and conditions disclosed in the ad, when and where it is placed. By preparing ad copy for AGER consideration and authorization, the Agent/Consultant IS NOT performing or engaging in MSPA related Farm Labor Contracting activities such as soliciting. I, the AGER, am exclusively soliciting employees for myself as required by Federal law.

(3) The Agent/Consultant will maintain, or, assist the AGER to maintain contacts that may be needed, from time to time, by the Agent/Consultant or AGER, either directly or through its designated representatives, with SWA's, DOL, DHS, and DOS; and, other state and federal governmental agencies, and government contractors acting on behalf of or performing administrative actions on behalf of government agencies necessary to effectuate the successful administrative participation in the H-2A program and for other purpose(s) described in this Agreement.

(4) The Agent/Consultant has not sought or received payment of any kind from any employee subject to 8 USC 1188 for any activity related to obtaining the H-2A labor certification in compliance with 20 CFR § 655.135(j).

(5) The Agent/Consultant, who IS NOT an attorney and is not providing legal advice to the AGER, MAY, under the limited terms of this agreement, act as the agent of the employer, with any government or private entity, as necessary, to assist the employer with participating in the H-2A program. This document IS NOT, nor should it be construed, as a Power of Attorney, limited or otherwise. The AGER acknowledges understanding and agreement that they should always consult with a qualified attorney to have all of their legal questions answered, if any.

B. The Agricultural Employer's Obligations

(1) The AGER agrees to comply timely with all reasonable policies, procedures, and schedules established by the Agent/Consultant which it considers essential for the proper operation of the program to obtain domestic workers and/or H-2A workers, successful participation, and to promote compliance with applicable laws and regulations.

(2) The AGER acknowledges that it is familiar with the regulations and requirements of the H-2A program and agrees to comply with all of the terms and conditions of employment described in the AGER's Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order, ETA Form 790 and attachments, and Application for Temporary Employment Certification, ETA 9142 and attachments, (collectively the "Job Order") and with the agricultural work agreement, which describes all the material terms and conditions of employment and that is entered into with both U.S. and H-2A workers by the AGER. The AGER agrees to comply with all obligations imposed on the AGER as an employer of domestic and/or H-2A workers found in applicable law and regulations, including without limitation, those at 20 CFR Part 653 (DOL Interstate Clearance Order regulations); 20 CFR Part 655 (DOL H-2A Regulations); 29 CFR Part 501 (DOL Wage and Hour Enforcement Regulations); and applicable provisions at 8 CFR Parts 214, 215, and 274a (DHS regulations); and to always cooperate with all government agencies with jurisdiction. The AGER agrees to comply with ALL applicable laws and relevant regulations and specifically, but not limited to, 20 C.F.R. 655.120(wages), 122(content of job offer), 135(assurances and obligations), 153(contact former US workers), 155(referral of US workers), 167(document retention requirements) of the H-2A regulations.

The Agent/Consultant does not exercise any control over any of the AGER's employees and does hold any indicia of employment with respect to the AGER's employees. The AGER is the sole and exclusive employer.

(4) The AGER agrees to pay timely any judgment or penalty entered against the AGER and arising out of the AGER's violation of its obligations under applicable law or regulation, and to indemnify and hold harmless the Agent/Consultant and any of its other AGER Clients for such judgments or penalties and any attorneys' fees and costs incurred by the Agent/Consultant or other AGER Clients in defending against such alleged violation. The AGER acknowledges that the laws and regulations governing the employment of domestic agricultural workers and H-2A workers are subject to disputed and differing legal interpretations in various jurisdictions. Therefore, the AGER agrees that in matters in which a claim is made or litigation is instituted against the Agent/Consultant, the Agent/Consultant may exercise its discretion a) to settle such matters on behalf of the Agent/Consultant and the AGER on terms it deems appropriate; b) to litigate such matters; and c) to determine whether such settlements, judgments, penalties, costs and attorneys fees will be borne by the AGER out of whose alleged action or inaction the claim was based or, what amount, if any, will be borne by the Agent/Consultant and/or shared among its other AGER Clients. The terms of this Paragraph B.(4) survive any future separation from AGER and the Agent/Consultant by the AGER and the term of this Agreement.

(5) The AGER agrees to pay the Agent/Consultant any assessment levied by the Agent/Consultant as the AGER's share of legal and any other expense or liability incurred by the Agent/Consultant in defending, prosecuting or settling any dispute relating to an application for H-2A certification, claim, litigation, or administrative complaint or appeal, whether or not arising out of claims against the AGER or arising out of the fault of the AGER, in accordance with a formula approved by the Agent/Consultant. The terms of this paragraph B.(5) survive any future separation from AGER and the Consultant by the AGER and the term of this Agreement.

Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the document provided as Exhibit B is a true, accurate and complete copy (including any attachments or appendices) of the Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order (ETA Form 790) signed by Russell Marino, Jr. on December 22, 2014, for the period of employment of June 1, 2015 to October 10, 2015 and filed with the U.S. Department of Labor by Sun Valley.

Response to Request for Admission 2:

Admitted.

Request for Admission 3:

During 2015, Sun Valley did not enter into any written contract regarding terms or conditions of employment with its domestic workers or H-2A workers, apart from the documents attached as Exhibit A and Exhibit B.

Response to Request for Admission 3:

Admitted in part, denied in part. Respondents deny that the documents provided as Exhibit A and Exhibit B are written contracts with Sun Valley's domestic workers or H-2A workers. Respondents admit that no written agreement was entered into between Sun Valley and its domestic workers or H-2A workers for the 2015 season.

Request for Admission 4:

Sun Valley is the successor in interest to Marino Brothers, Inc., a/k/a Marino Brothers.

Response to Request for Admission 4:

Admitted in part, denied in part. Respondents admit that Sun Valley shares some common ownership with the entity known as Marino Brothers, Inc., a/k/a Marino Brothers, and Sun Valley currently operates the farming operation formerly known as Marino Brothers. To the extent that this Request for Admission calls for a purely legal conclusion or implies any particular legal conclusion as a result, such a conclusion is denied.

Request for Admission 5:

During 2015, Sun Valley was an employer of each of the workers listed in Exhibit B of the Administrator and Secretary's Initial Disclosures dated February 15, 2017.

Response to Request for Admission 5:

Admitted to the extent that not all of the workers listed were employed for the entire 2015 growing season, but all were employed for at least part of 2015.

Request for Admission 6:

Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the documents found at Exhibit C are true and accurate copies of payroll records that were created and maintained by Sun Valley in the regular course of business.

Response to Request for Admission 6:

Admitted, to the best of Respondent's knowledge, information and belief.

Request for Admission 7:

During 2015, Sun Valley did not maintain any documents, apart from those found at Exhibit C, concerning the number of hours of work offered each day in 2015 to each of its domestic workers and H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 7:

Admitted in part, denied in part. The records at Exhibit C are complete payroll records, as such, but there are additional documents, provided herewith, reflecting the voluntary resignation of several Sun Valley employees that concern the number of hours of work offered to its H-2A workers (Exhibits 3 and 4.1-4.11).

Request for Admission 8:

During 2015, Sun Valley did not create or maintain any documents concerning the reasons any of its domestic workers and H-2A workers worked fewer hours than the number of hours of work offered in the work contract in 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 8:

Denied. Sun Valley created and maintained the payroll records found at Exhibit C. Sun Valley also created or maintained records reflecting the decision by 19 H-2A employees to terminate their employment voluntarily in May 2015 and others to do so later in the season. Such records are provided herewith and in response to the Administrator and Secretary's Document Requests. (Exhibits 3, 4.1-4.11).

Request for Admission 9:

Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the documents found at Exhibit D are true and accurate copies of records concerning charges for weekly meals paid by Sun Valley's domestic workers and H-2A workers in 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 9:

Admitted in part, denied in part. The documents found at Exhibit D appear to reflect amounts paid by some of Sun Valley's workers, but these amounts were not paid to Sun Valley.

Request for Admission 10:

During 2015, apart from those found at Exhibit C and Exhibit D, Sun Valley did not maintain any documents concerning the amount of or reasons for any and all deductions from any domestic worker or H-2A worker's wages between April 8, 2015 and July 21, 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 10:

Denied. Sun Valley did not make any deductions from any domestic worker's wages during this time period. Additional documents exist reflecting Sun Valley's expenses for operating its kitchen facilities (Exhibit 5), but those expenses were not part of any deduction from workers' wages.

Request for Admission 11:

During 2015, Sun Valley charged its domestic workers (including migrant agricultural workers) and H-2A workers a weekly fee for meals.

Response to Request for Admission 11:

Denied. Sun Valley did not charge any of its workers a weekly fee for meals.

Request for Admission 12:

During 2015, Sun Valley's weekly meals fee was $75 in some weeks and $80 in all other weeks.

Response to Request for Admission 12:

Denied. Sun Valley did not charge any of its workers a weekly fee for meals.

Request for Admission 13:

During 2015, Sun Valley did not furnish free cooking or kitchen facilities to its domestic workers (including migrant agricultural workers) or H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 13:

Denied. Sun Valley denies this Request inasmuch as it maintained cooking or kitchen facilities at all times during 2015. Sun Valley further does not admit that any of its domestic workers were migrant agricultural workers, nor that any of its domestic or H-2A workers ever requested to use such facilities. Sun Valley's employees, both domestic and H-2A, purchased and ate meals prepared for them by a third party, apparently without complaint.

Request for Admission 14:

During 2015, Sun Valley did not offer to provide free transportation to any store for domestic workers (including migrant agricultural workers) or H-2A workers to purchase groceries.

Response to Request for Admission 14:

Denied. First, Sun Valley denies that it had any obligation under the H-2A rules or any other provision of law or regulation to provide such transportation to local domestic workers. Sun Valley further does not admit that any of its domestic workers were migrant agricultural workers, nor that any applicable workers were denied transportation to any store.

Request for Admission 15:

Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the documents found at Exhibit E are a true and accurate copy of Sun Valley's records of Sun Valley's costs in providing food and beverages (including three daily meals) to its domestic workers (including migrant agricultural workers) and H-2A workers between April 8, 2015 and July 21, 2015, to the best of Sun Valley's knowledge, information and belief.

Response to Request for Admission 15:

Denied. Respondents object to this Request because it fails to meet the basic requirement that requests be simple, concise and state facts singly. This request requests admissions of multiple separate sets of facts. Without waiving the foregoing objections, Respondent denies that the documents found at Exhibit E are a true and accurate copy of Sun Valley's records on this issue. The documents found at Exhibit E reflect expenses to Sun Valley in the form of a refrigerator and the cost of setting up the kitchen, but the remaining expenses for groceries were for Agustin Hernandez and not Sun Valley. Sun Valley further specifically denies that it provided food and beverages or daily meals to its domestic workers beyond paying for the kitchen facilities at the farm and paying the utilities as reflected in Exhibit 5.

Request for Admission 16:

Sun Valley did not maintain any documents, apart from those found at Exhibit E, concerning the cost of food, beverages, or other items that Sun Valley sold or re-sold to its domestic workers and H-2A workers between April 8, 2015 and July 21, 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 16:

Denied – see response to Request for Admission 15. By way of further response, Sun Valley did not sell or re-sell any food, beverages, or other items to its workers. The groceries reflected in the receipts included in Exhibit E were not "re-sold" to Sun Valley's employees but were used by Agustin Hernandez to prepare hot meals for employees.

Request for Admission 17:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold soft drinks to its domestic workers.

Response to Request for Admission 17:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks to its domestic workers.

Request for Admission 18:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold soft drinks to its H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 18:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks to its H-2A workers.

Request for Admission 19:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold soft drinks to its domestic workers at a profit to Sun Valley.

Response to Request for Admission 19:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks to its domestic workers.

Request for Admission 20:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold soft drinks to its H-2A workers at a profit to Sun Valley.

Response to Request for Admission 20:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks to its H-2A workers.

Request for Admission 21:

During 2015, Sun Valley was not licensed to sell beer.

Response to Request for Admission 21:

Admitted in part and denied in part. Sun Valley did not hold any specific license to sell beer but denies any inference that any such license was required, nor that this has any relevance to the issues raised in the Department's determination letter or Order of Reference for this matter.

Request for Admission 22:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold beer to its domestic workers.

Response to Request for Admission 22:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell beer to its domestic workers.

Request for Admission 24:

During 2015, Sun Valley was not licensed to sell cigarettes.

Response to Request for Admission 24:

Sun Valley's housing facility at 1321 Route 45 in South Harrison Township, New Jersey, was constructed prior to April 3, 1980.

Response to Request for Admission 27:

The housing facility described was on the property when Sun Valley acquired it, but to the best of Sun Valley's knowledge and information, the Request is admitted.

Request for Admission 28:

During 2015, Sun Valley transported its domestic workers and H-2A workers in vehicles operated by drivers without valid licenses or permits to operate vehicles in New Jersey.

Response to Request for Admission 28:

Denied. On information and belief, Sun Valley and its employees complied with all applicable laws and regulations. Sun Valley is not in possession of the licenses or permits of such drivers at this time.

Request for Admission 29:

In early August 2015, Sun Valley terminated more than 40 H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 29:

Sun Valley objects to this Request as unnecessarily vague as far as "early August" but admits that it terminated a number of H-2A workers in August 2015, after more than three-fourths of the hours in the job order had been completed, based on a poor pepper harvest and a decreased need for labor.

Request for Admission 30:

In early August 2015, Sun Valley terminated more than 40 H-2A workers without cause.

Response to Request for Admission 30:

See response to Request 29.

Request for Admission 31:

Notwithstanding extraneous markings, Exhibit F is a true and accurate copy of a document that Sun Valley provided to approximately 45 H-2A workers on or about August 8, 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 31:

Admitted.

Agustin Hernandez

Request for Admission 1:

At all times during 2015, Hernandez was registered with the U.S. Department of Labor as a farm labor contractor.

Response to Request for Admission 1:

Denied. Mr. Hernandez was registered with the State of New Jersey as a crew leader, and a copy of his 2015 license from the State is provided as Exhibit 8, but on information and belief, he was not registered with the U.S. Department of Labor as a farm labor contractor.

Request for Admission 2:

Hernandez recruited migrant agricultural workers to work at Sun Valley during 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 2:

Denied. Mr. Hernandez did not recruit migrant agricultural workers to work at Sun Valley during 2015. In 2015, Sun Valley employed local workers, H-2A workers, and domestic workers who had worked at Sun Valley in previous seasons and returned on their own.

Request for Admission 3:

Exhibit G is a true and accurate copy of a document that Hernandez posted at or near 1321 Route 45, South Harrison Township, New Jersey in 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 3:

Admitted in part and denied in part. The Request is improperly vague as to place and time but, to the extent that it can be answered, Mr. Hernandez admits posting this document.

Request for Admission 4:

Hernandez did not disclose in writing to Sun Valley's migrant agricultural workers that Sun Valley would charge those worker a weekly fee for meals in 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 4:

Denied. Sun Valley did not charge any workers a weekly fee for meals in 2015. As such, no such disclosure was required or appropriate.

Request for Admission 5:

In 2015, Hernandez was not licensed to sell beer.

Response to Request for Admission 5:

Admitted in part and denied in part. Mr. Hernandez did not hold any specific license to sell beer but denies any inference that any such license was required, nor that this has any relevance to the issues raised in the Department's determination letter or Order of Reference for this matter.

Request for Admission 6:

In 2015, Hernandez was not licensed to sell cigarettes.

Response to Request for Admission 6:

Admitted in part and denied in part. Sun Valley did not hold any specific license to sell cigarettes but denies any inference that any such license was required, nor that this has any relevance to the issues raised in the Department's determination letter or Order of Reference for this matter.

RUSSELL MARINO, JR., having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Mr. Marino, good morning.

A. Good morning.

Q. Do you understand that you are under an oath and must answer my questions truthfully and to the best of your ability?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you understand this is the same oath that you would take in court?

A. Yes.

Q. So my name is Jacob Heyman-Kantor I'm here with my co-counsel, Jason Glick and I'm an attorney with the US Department of Labor, Office of the Solicitor and we represent the administrator of the Wage and Hour division in the matter of Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, 2017-TAE-00003. And we also represent the Secretary in the same matter of Agustin Hernandez, doing business as Agustin Hernandez information is in there somewhere. That was requested at some point.

Q. Are you familiar with a company known as Marino Brothers Corporation?

A. That was formed first before Sun Valley.

Q. When was that formed?

A. Early eighties. So I didn't know that you were aware of that. Marino Brothers was formed prior to Sun Valley. We kind of formed other companies, so Sun Valley was probably formed in the early 2000s.

Q. What's the difference between Sun Valley and Marino Brothers?

A. Now, I mean there is no difference. Virtually, no difference. There's just legality. Mostly legality, we were just, it was recommended that we kind of split everything up and an LLC formed to be protected.

Q. What was the form of Marino Brothers?

A. I'm sorry?

Q. What was, what -- was the corporate structure of Marino Brothers Corporation?

and then you have Marino Brothers land and that's all the land that we farm or rent, own, whatever. So that's just how it's broken down.

Q. Actually, I may know less about corporations than you, I would think. So what are the percentage of ownership interest in Sun Valley Orchards?

A. There's four of us, we each have 25 percent.

Q. Who are the four?

A. Myself, my brother, my father and my uncle.

Q. And what are their names?

A. Joe Marino is my brother. Russell, Sr. is my father. And Harry, Jr. I guess is my uncle.

Q. Okay. And who owned Marino Brothers Corporation?

A. My father and his two brothers.

Q. One was Harry Marino?

A. Yes.

Q. And who was the other brother?

A. Sebastian.

Q. Do you belong to any work-related organizations outside of Sun Valley Orchards?

document from the Internet. It is from the United States Department of Agricultural and if you look on the last page, it says Russell J. Marino, chairperson. Is that your -- from you or your father?

A. I believe it's my father. I assume it's my father, but without reading the document, I don't know what it's for. It's definitely not me. I would assume it's my father.

Q. It says on the first page, Farm Service Agency New Jersey. Do you see that?

A. FSA, yes, it's definitely my father.

Q. Do you know what he does in connection with this group?

A. No.

Q. All right. You can give that back to me. Thanks.

So I'll ask you a little about the farm itself. So what's the farm like? How many fields does it have? How big is it?

A. We farm almost, we farm about 2500 acres. We're spread out through two counties, Gloucester and Salem County. The number of farms, I don't know that. I can -- I'd have to think about that. But we're spread out nonetheless. I don't know what else --

Q. Do you have more than ten fields would you say?

A. Yes.

Q. And are there dorms where people live on the farm?

A. We have one dormitory for labor.

Q. How many rooms are in the dormitory?

A. Including the kitchen and the bedroom, seven rooms maybe. Let me see. No. Maybe eight.

Q. Is it normally loud near the dormitories?

A. No.

Q. There aren't a lot of tractor noises?

A. No, no.

Q. How close are the fields to the dorms?

A. There's an asparagus field surrounding the dormitory.

Q. Any other fields?

A. No, it's right off of, off of a highway, Route 45, so it's just surrounded by the one farm.

Q. How far are the furthest fields from the dorms?

A. Ten, 15-minute ride.

Q. And who is in the management at Sun Valley Orchards?

A. In whole, as a whole?

Q. Yes.

A. All four of us collectively. And we each have our own individual responsibilities.

Q. So it would be yourself, your brother, Joe Marino, your father, Russell Marino, Sr. and your uncle, Harry Marino, Jr.?

A. Yes.

Q. Anyone else?

A. No.

Q. And what are your different roles?

A. My brother is primarily sales, IPM, Tractor work. My Uncle Harry, he directs the crew each day. He's in charge of the planting schedules. My father is in charge of greenhouses. And I do, I fill in all the other blanks. I irrigate. I set everything up. Any designs, irrigation designs, things like that, site planning, all that stuff.

Q. So you said Joe Marino does sales, IPM, tractor work, anything else?

A. I'm sure he does a million other things as we all do. I mean I can't explain every little thing that we do each day. But yeah, I'm sure there's other things that he does. I'm sure there's other things that I do.

Q. Does he do other things in connection with agricultural workers?

A. No.

Q. What's IPM?

A. Integrated pest management.

Q. And you said your father, Russell Marino, Sr. works with greenhouses. Does he do any other significant tasks?

A. Significant, every little aspect is significant and again, I'm sure he does other things as well. I mean I don't know to how much -- he runs for parts. Picks somebody up if they need to be picked up, brings us back, move things, help us move things around, just things along those lines.

Q. Does he do anything in connection with the domestic workers or the H-2A workers who work on the farms?

A. No.

Q. Now, you said your uncle, Harry Marino, Jr., directs the crew and is involved in planting. I'm sorry, can you say that again?

A. Planting, all the seeding, because we propagate everything. He does the seeding schedules, the planting schedules in fields and he's in direct contact with Agustin every day to direct the crew.

Q. And you said you were involved with -- I'm sorry, does Harry, Jr. have any other tasks?

A. Again, I'm sure he does. I couldn't begin to list them all.

Q. And the ones you listed are his biggest tasks?

A. Yes.

Q. And you said you've -- you're involved in irrigation design, set up and site planning. Any other tasks?

A. Again, a million other tasks that I can't even begin to list.

Q. But these are the three biggest ones?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Are you involved working -- do you have any tasks related to working with the domestic agricultural workers, H-2A workers?

A. Every day.

Q. What do you do with them every day?

A. Anything that has to do with those things that I -- if we have to do pipework, lay plastic, cultivate, set the irrigation pumps, construction lines and anything. I work directly with the help every single day. I always have at least two to eight guys with me throughout the day.

Q. And what did you mean by set up?

A. Like bringing it back from where we store everything in the wintertime back out to the fields. Irrigation pumps obviously go by the ponds and things like that. The field designs like how they're laid out. Just things along those lines.

Q. What's site plan?

A. If we're putting up more here by the pond. I mean and I drive through the fields. I do all the irrigation, all the irrigating, feeding. So yeah, I see the guys all the time. I eat lunch with them sometimes at the camp. Yeah, I just -- I'm very involved with the labor.

Q. And so typically how much time are you per day, are you in the fields with the workers?

A. Whatever a workday may consist of. I'm usually, usually I'm, I mean it's every day all day long throughout the day. Again, I work closely with the guys every single day. I don't know, whatever a workday may consist of.

Q. Is it typically more than several hours per day?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you go into their dorm rooms?

A. No.

Q. Never?

A. No.

Q. How often do you go in the kitchen?

A. Once a week.

Q. And why do you do that?

A. Again, if I'm eating lunch with the guys, how you get your lunch, you go in.

Q. You'll eat with the workers once a week?

A. Yeah, roughly.

Q. Do you interact with the workers in the evenings?

A. No.

Q. On the weekends?

A. No.

Q. Everything you've told me is about interacting with the workers, going to the fields, the bedrooms, the dorm rooms, the kitchen, is that all this true for 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. Does anyone from management go into the worker bedrooms?

A. No.

Q. So how do you check that the bedrooms are adequate?

A. That's Agustin's responsibility. That's one of his responsibilities. I just assure that everything is inspected and cleared prior to the help showing up.

Q. When is that?

A. That's usually two weeks prior to their arrival date.

Q. So when in 2015 was that?

A. I don't know. Off the top of my head, I don't know.

Q. Could it have been in March of 2015?

A. Usually the camp inspection is in March, because I know that's usually when the water testing is.

Q. In 2015, you may have gone there in March and might not have gone into the dorms again for many months?

A. Correct.

Q. Who supervises the workers in the fields?

A. Agustin.

Q. And anyone else?

A. If we are running through a field, my uncle and I, if we see something out of sorts, at any time we do if we need to.

Q. Is Agustin the main supervisor?

A. Yes.

Q. And if a worker needs to be instructed on how to do his job, who does that instruction?

A. Agustin.
Q. And if a worker -- who would be involved in disciplining a worker?
A. Discipline? I mean short answer, I guess it would be Agustin, not that we ever had to do that, not that I know of.
Q. If a worker were going to be fired, who would fire the worker?
A. Ultimately, I guess me.
Q. Can anyone else fire a worker?
A. Legally, I think any of us could, any of the owners could, I believe so. If it's done in the proper manner.
Q. Could Agustin?
A. Could he? Legally, I'm not sure. I would not give him that -- it would depend on the situation.
Q. Has he ever fired a worker?
A. He probably has.
Q. Who is involved in hiring workers for the fields?
A. Mostly Agustin.
Q. If a worker has a question or complaint, who would they raise that with?
A. Primarily Agustin.

Q. And by the way, when I'm referring to a worker, a worker in the fields, I'm referring to the H-2A workers or the domestic workers doing similar work. Is that clear?

A. I understand, yup.

Q. And would there ever be an occasion for a worker to talk to someone other than Agustin about a question or a complaint?

A. No.

Q. How often do the workers in the field interact with people other than Agustin at the farm?

A. I don't know.

Q. How often do workers in the fields bring -- have a discussion about work issues with -- strike that.

All right. Who pays the workers in the fields?

A. So my uncle does every Friday at the camp.

Q. Is this Harry Marino, Jr.?

A. Yes. We have a secretary that does payroll in her office and my uncle physically sees that every man gets their check and signs their check on a three-by-five, each man has workers.

THE WITNESS: On H-2A, we don't have control over that. You can't -- I don't think you can. As far as the domestics go, if we have return workers that, you know, inquire or they are looking to come back, then they have to go through a process.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. What's the process?

A. Again, it's advertised on how to do it. There's a number to call. You make an appointment for an interview. Get a copy of the contract and go from there.

Q. And are workers ever rejected who want to work at Sun Valley Orchards?

A. They can be if they're not qualified.

Q. Has Sun Valley Orchards ever rejected workers who want to work in the fields?

A. I can't think of a direct instance that they were.

Q. And so for the non-H-2A workers, they're all interviewed at the farm?

A. In Mexico.
Q. Okay. The none H-2A --
A. I'm sorry the non-H-2As, yes.
Q. Who interviews them?
A. Agustin, because he speaks Spanish better than I do.
Q. Will anyone else meet with the non-H-2A worker during this interview process?
A. If need be, I will.
Q. Do you typically meet with them?
A. No.
Q. So typically, when a non-H-2A worker is hired, they just meet with Agustin?
A. Typically.
Q. Is that true for 2015?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, the H-2A workers, you say they interview in Mexico, who do they interview with?
A. I believe the company's name is CSI.
Q. Do you know what that stands for?
A. I forget. No, I don't. I forget.
Q. How does Sun Valley arrange for, you know, come to hire CSI?

hiring, is that all true for 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. So I would like to ask you a little bit about when the workers arrive at the farm. So what happens when the workers first arrive?

A. Well, they have what I like to say, what I like to call orientation of some sort. They're trained on, what's it called, safety and things like that around the farm. There's a video. They sign a roster that they were presented the video, that they understand everything on the video. The H-2A workers are, it's usually the day they arrive, they all go to the Social Security office, get a Social Security number.

They are then, then they come to our office and they're all, they all have a photo ID worker card that's clipped on their shirt and that's how they're identified every day. That's how they're clocked in each day for payroll. So yeah, they're all input into the system. They get their picture taken. They get their ID card. They go back to the camp. And they start work the next day after that usually. If there's -- if there's work.

Q. And that orientation process you described is for both non-H-2A and H-2A workers?
A. Yes.
Q. So you said "they," so you run the orientation or does someone else run it?
A. Agustin usually plays the video for them.
Q. And the video is about safety?
A. Mostly on the farm and just safe agricultural practices.
Q. And so we talked about the videos, anything else in the orientation?
A. No.
Q. Is anyone else from management present in the orientation?
A. Sometimes I may be there.
Q. Anyone else from management?
A. No.
Q. What about your Uncle Harry?
A. No.
Q. Just basically the video, they sign the roster after watching the video, is that it in the orientation?
A. Yes.

Q. Are they told anything about work hours?
A. That's all explained in the contract.
Q. So no?
A. No.
Q. Are they explained anything about housing?
A. If need be, if there's questions.
Q. Who would explain that?
A. Most likely, Agustin.
Q. Who else might explain it?
A. Maybe myself.
Q. And anything explained about meals?
A. That's in the contract as well.
Q. Anything said at the orientation about meals?
A. If there's a question.
Q. Who would explain that?
A. Agustin.
Q. Anyone else?
A. Maybe myself.
Q. And is everything you just said true for 2015?
A. Yes.

Q. So what would be said by either yourself or Agustin about housing at the orientation?

A. If the guys had any questions on as to where they're staying, where the bathrooms are, things like that, just answer any questions that might come up.

Q. And what would be said by either you or Agustin about meals?

A. I mean unless there's a question, I mean just explain to them that you get three squares a day and I don't know, just, I don't know what would need to be said. I couldn't even think if there has ever been a question.

Q. Would you explain the cost?

A. No, because again, that's in the contract.

Q. All right. Well, let's talk a bit about Agustin Hernandez. That's who we have been talking about a little bit already. So what are Agustin's duties?

A. Primarily labor, obviously.

Q. Can I just interrupt you for one second?

A. Sure.

Q. Everything you were telling me about this orientation, setting up the orientation, was that all true for 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. So let's go back to Agustin, we were talking about his duties.

A. Yes, primarily labor, obviously anything that may be associated with the labor. His responsibilities mainly would be to make sure things are going correctly in the field as far as harvesting, whether it be any kind of maintenance in the field, you know, pulling weeds, things like that. Thinning, you know, anything that the help may be doing as far as their jobs.

Also he takes, we, he assumes responsibility to keep the vehicles clean, swept out. Keep the camp clean. The kitchen is immaculate. The bathroom is clean. When I say he's responsible, he may dictate or I mean delegate to another worker to do those things, make sure that the bathrooms are transported from farm to farm or field to field, wherever they need to be. Water is in the field.

And I assume what you're really

A. Sometimes.
Q. What does he do with that?
A. He may have to drive one of the buses.
Q. And who else would drive the buses?
A. The other workers that are assigned as drivers for the buses.
Q. How are they assigned?
A. Well, they have licenses, if they know how to operate a vehicle. You know, they're kind of -- I believe that's part of the orientation, I guess you could say, to determine who is going to be operating the vehicles.
Q. And who chooses who is going to operate?
A. Agustin.
Q. So we've got supervises the workers in the fields, keeps the vehicles, camp, kitchen clean, transporting the bathrooms, water and workers, doing the meals, any other tasks?
A. Again, I'm sure there are.
Q. Are those the biggest tasks?
A. Yes.

Q. And how is he assigned those tasks?
A. How does he or how is he?
Q. How is he?
A. I guess collectively through my uncle and myself and he's been with us for so long, he just, he knows how we operate and how we do things.
Q. But at some point, someone in Sun Valley management instructed him to do these tasks?
A. Sure.
Q. How is -- is there anything else about his duties that should be mentioned?
A. I don't think so.
Q. How is Agustin paid?
A. Through us every week.
Q. How much is he paid?
A. I don't know that. It's whatever, the amount of work he's done that week, he's paid for his time and his -- I don't know the answer to that.
Q. Well, do you know like his rate of pay?
A. It varies. It's based on pack-out and performance of what he does in the field.

Q. Is that the same rate that he's paid during the growing season?

A. Yes.

Q. So he's paid the same hourly rate from February all the way to October?

A. Yes. I'm sorry. Yes.

Q. And then on top of that, when the field workers arrive, he's also paid an extra amount based on the amount of packages that his crews bring in?

A. Correct.

Q. What instructions has Sun Valley Orchards given Agustin in terms of having to do his job?

A. Again, he's been with us for so long, it kind of goes without being said. It's kind of one of those things. But at some point, yeah, I'm sure it was all spelled out and explained to him 25 years ago.

Q. Who likely would have explained that?

A. At that time, most likely my father, but collectively probably him, the owners at the time.

Q. Have you ever had to explain to him how to do something?

A. I'm sure I have.

Q. And what kinds of things does Sun Valley management tell Agustin in terms of how to do his job?

A. Just how we would like things harvested, you know, we explain to him how we package things, so he understands how to harvest. We explain to him how we can sell certain products and how they have to appear or be packed out to be able to make it a marketable product. I don't know. I mean again, it just kind of, he kind of sees it, the gist of everything. He's one of the team players that he just sees the big picture and he understands. He has been there so long.

Q. And what instructions has Sun Valley management given him about how to supervise workers?

A. I don't know that I can say. I mean it may vary. I haven't had to do that for quite sometime, because again, his time that he has been there. We kind of, we respect how he conducts himself and how he would, he likes things done in the field, on the field level.

So we kind of, we let him police that. And if we see a problem, then we intervene.

Q. Have you ever intervened with a problem, has Sun Valley ever intervened?

A. No.

Q. Has Sun Valley Orchards ever considered disciplining him or firing him?

A. No.

Q. Has Sun Valley Orchards ever considered hiring another supervisor to supervise the workers in the fields?

A. No.

Q. What would be grounds for firing Agustin?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Speculation. You can answer, if you know.

THE WITNESS: Anything, any kind of criminal act against the company. Drugs. Just any kind of abuse, things along those lines.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. What if he yelled at workers, would that be cause for discipline?

MR. SCHULTE: Same

whole line. We are talking about something that's complete speculation here. There's no facts of any of this.

THE WITNESS: Yeah, can I just say I don't know. I don't know.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. What if he were selling beer at Sun Valley Orchards?

A. That's kind of the same angle, I think. If he was selling beer at Sun Valley Orchards? I believe that's between him and the help.

Q. So you wouldn't have a problem with that. You wouldn't tell him to stop?

A. I wouldn't encourage him to do it.

Q. Would you tell him to stop?

A. If it got out of hand.

Q. What does that mean?

A. If it got to the point where my workers couldn't work, and that's never happened.

Q. Does Agustin work for any other employers?

A. No.

Q. When he works for Sun Valley

Orchards, does he bring any of his own equipment?

A. No.

Q. And when Sun Valley Orchards pays him, does Sun Valley Orchards take out taxes?

A. Yes.

Q. Take out Social Security?

A. Sure. Whatever is required by law.

Q. Does Sun Valley Orchards give him a W-2 at the end of the year?

A. Yes.

Q. Does that W-2 cover all of his earnings?

A. Sure.

Q. Including the hourly rate that he's paid?

A. Yes.

Q. Including the amount he earns off the packages?

A. I'm sure it does.

Q. I want to talk a little bit more about your uncle, Harry Marino, Jr. So you said he directs the crew. What does that involve?

A. Well, basically, again, he, every day, he speaks with Agustin and if it's not clear where to pick up where we left off the day before, he'll explain to him, he'll lay out the day and Agustin will disperse a crew accordingly.

Q. Will he tell Agustin which fields the workers should be working in?

A. Well, not the individual workers, he would leave that to Agustin, so no.

Q. So Harry will say, for example, we need workers to be in these different fields. He'll identify the fields that workers need to work in?

A. Yes.

Q. And will he state how many workers need to go in the fields?

A. He may.

Q. So he might say we need 20 workers to go to field X?

A. Correct.

Q. And does Agustin have, does Agustin have to follow those directions?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So Harry, when does he have this conversation, Harry, with Agustin?

A. Prior to the beginning of the workday. Maybe quarter of six in the morning, whatever, whenever time we're starting.

Q. And how many days a week does this conversation happen?

A. Most likely seven.

Q. Seven days? Yes?

A. I'm sorry, yes, yes.

Q. Does Harry have any other interactions with Agustin regularly?

A. No.

Q. Does Harry do anything else in terms of directing the workers?

A. No, usually, no.

Q. You said Harry is involved in setting the planting schedule.

A. Yes.

Q. What does that involve?

A. On how we schedule the actual plantings in the field, when we begin and where it's going to be planted. What's going to be planted, different varieties, things of those nature -- of that nature.

Q. Let me actually back up. In terms of directing, how does he know which set of fields the workers do?

A. Again, he has been doing it all his life and he'll know what crop needs to be harvested first depending on what the weather may be. He may assume it might rain tomorrow or the next day, so he'll direct to go here first to be sure that that gets harvested, because that's more ready than say field Z. So he might do field X first. And it's just kind of an experience kind of thing where he'll take a visual and that's how he bases his decision.

Q. So will he drive out into the fields to observe?

A. Yes.

Q. And does Agustin ever disagree with Harry's decisions?

A. No.

Q. And now, earlier, you referred to, you have not talked about -- when you talk about management, you've talked about the owners of Sun Valley. Is there anyone who is not an owner who is also in management at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Just a few other employees. They're employees, no ownership whatsoever, but they've shown responsibility and yes, they're in management.

Q. What are their names?

A. Dominic Marino. Monica Constantino. And I think that's generally it.

Q. What does Dominic Marino do?

A. He runs the packing house.

Q. Anything else?

A. Again, an array of -- a plethora of many other things.

Q. Does he doing anything involving workers in the fields?

A. No.

Q. What about Monica Constantino?

A. She also helps in the warehouse, shipping and receiving. Nothing with the labor.

Q. And is Dominic Marino is a relation?

A. He's my son.

Q. Why don't you refer to Agustin Hernandez as being in management?

A. And I'm sorry, and Agustin as well.

It just goes without being said, yes, Agustin as well.

Q. I want to talk to you in a little more detail about the workers in the fields. So in 2015 -- actually, let me back up. Is everything you just said true for 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So in terms of what the workers in the fields do in 2015, did the H-2A and non-H-2A worker do the same tasks?

A. Yes.

Q. And would the workers be sent to multiple fields at once?

A. At once or in one day?

Q. In one day.

A. Yes.

Q. How many fields?

A. It would vary. Four, maybe five throughout the day, depending on where stuff is located and where we planted things that year. Each year is different. And each day is different.

Q. What would be the most number of fields you might have workers on in one day?

A. Four to five I would say.

Q. And how far apart are these fields from each other?

A. Some of them may be in close proximity to each other. Again, depending on the -- what the actual product may be, what's in season right then. Again, it varies.

Q. What would be the furthest that let's say one worker might be working from another worker in the fields on a given day?

A. Five, 6 miles.

Q. And are there different, are there different like crews would you say, like workers who typically work together at different fields?

A. Yes. Generally, the men police that themselves and they'll more or less form crews themselves, not themselves, but some men prefer working, they may be family, friends, things of that nature, where they would tend to want to work together as a group.

Q. And Agustin will decide which workers go to which fields?

A. Sure. If they request that, then that's absolutely, it just makes for, you know, no animosity, stuff like that.

Q. All right. Let's talk about the actual meals. So what is the arrangement? How do workers eat?

A. They're offered a meal plan for their breakfast, lunch and dinner that they can participate in or they can choose not to. Yeah, I mean that's pretty much the gist of it I guess.

Q. Who offers the meal plan?

A. Agustin does.

Q. And how much does he charge for it?

A. Again, I believe that varies, I don't know the exact answer to that. I know it's a weekly charge and whatever the -- what's it AR or AWR, whatever that acronym is, it never exceeds that. It's usually well below that.

Q. Are you referring to the adverse effect wage rate?

A. So I guess it's not that. There's a number that they determine, it's, I don't know what it is right now, what the current, I believe it's 12 something or 11 something per day and it's under that. Always is. He knows he cannot exceed that.

Q. How does he know that?
A. He's told, I tell him. Because each year, I believe it changes almost every year, I believe.
Q. So you tell him each year what the new rate is?
A. Yes, I'm sorry.
Q. And did you tell him that in 2015?
A. I'm sure I did.
Q. At the beginning of the season?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you remember in 2015 when you had this conversation with him?
A. No.
Q. And what else did you say to him other than that maximum rate?
A. Nothing.
Q. And what other things -- scratch that. And you said you eat there once, you typically eat there once a week?
A. Maybe a little bit less than that, but typically.
Q. And how much does he charge you?
A. Normally nothing.
Q. Anyone else from Sun Valley management eat there?

A. No.

Q. Why do you eat there?

A. Comradery with my men.

Q. And how does Agustin determine how much to charge the workers other than going below that maximum rate?

A. He bases it on his cost of buying the supplies, what it costs to prepare it, and there's no profit made and he can't lose money. There's no profit made. So that's what it's based on.

Q. How do you know there's no profit made?

A. I make sure he knows -- he knows the laws. He goes to meetings with me. He knows the laws.

Q. So you've told him that you can't make a profit off this?

A. Yes. And he's been told that at meetings and he understands that.

Q. What meetings are these?

A. Labor meetings that are held throughout the different counties that, you know, prior to the season beginning and there's meetings held.

Q. So he -- these are meetings with the US Department of Labor?

A. Yes.

Q. And he will come to those meetings?

A. Yes.

Q. Will he come with people from Sun Valley management?

A. With me.

Q. And he did this in 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you ask him to come with you to this meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. Why, why did you ask him to come with you?

A. Because he's directly responsible for that.

Q. What do you mean for that?

A. For the meals. I want him to be aware of the rules and regulations.

Q. So how do you -- is he paid during the time that he comes to the meeting?

A. No.

Q. When does the meeting take place?

A. Yes. And he, yes, he keeps all his receipts, yes.

Q. And Sun Valley management has asked him to do that?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that you who asked him to do that?

A. Yes. It's brought up at the meetings that should there be an issue or a question, that's going to have -- that's required. That's the first thing they're going to ask for.

Q. And that is the meetings with the US Department of Labor?

A. Yes.

Q. So in addition to that, there have been other times when you told him, when you told Agustin that he should keep his receipts?

A. Yes.

Q. And has Sun Valley, anyone from Sun Valley Orchards asked to look at those receipts?

A. No.

Q. Never?

A. I don't think so. I haven't.

Q. Okay. So it seems like we have three things now, don't make a profit, don't sell the meals for more than a certain amount, keep your receipts. Is there anything else besides that that Sun Valley Orchards has told him to do with respect to the meals or the kitchen?

A. Just -- no, I don't think so.

Q. It seemed like you were about to say another thing.

A. No, I think that's it.

Q. Now, when did Agustin start being in charge of the kitchen?

A. 2015. Prior to that, he was still in charge of the kitchen, however, we -- yeah, 2015 that he was fully in charge of the kitchen.

Q. And why the change?

A. It just felt like us -- we had nothing to do with it anyway, so we just let him assume all responsibility.

Q. So what was it like before 2015?

A. The only difference was we paid the cooks. That is it. They got a paycheck from Sun Valley. Other than that, nothing changed.

Q. So if workers did not want to eat, did not want to participate in the meal plan, how would they -- what would they do?

A. I guess they would prepare their own food.

Q. And how would they do that?

A. However you prepare food I guess. We were, we're required to bring them to town once a week, which we do. And they can purchase food that way, I would assume and take it upon themselves to pay way more than 11 bucks a day to eat. I'm not sure why they would do that, but I guess they could do it that way.

Q. And could they cook in the kitchen?

A. We would accommodate, he would accommodate, if need be.

Q. How do you know that?

A. I guess I don't know anything for sure, but I mean I would assume that he would. He would accommodate however need be.

Q. I mean did you ever tell him or did anyone at Sun Valley ever tell him that he needs to allow the workers to cook on their own in the kitchen?

A. No.
Q. So why do you think he would accommodate them?
A. Because I've seen guys in there before, you know, I'll get done some days relatively late and I'll be going through just passing through and I may peek in and I'll see guys in there making grilled cheese or whatever.
Q. What time is this, what time of day?
A. It varies. Like 8:00 o'clock. 7:00 o'clock, well after the guys have been home and they've eaten supper. I've seen that in instances.
Q. 7:30 p.m.?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you ever see them cooking at other times in there?
A. No, because again, I'm always working.
Q. You eat lunch once a week there, do you ever see them, workers cooking on their own during lunchtime?
A. No.

Q. Have you ever talked to workers about whether they use the kitchen to cook on their own?

A. No.

Q. So you were saying that workers can be, get transported outside of Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. Let me, let me -- so Agustin basically had complete control over what happened in the kitchen?

A. Yes.

Q. So if he wanted to prevent a worker from cooking there, he could?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection, speculation. Go ahead, if you know.

THE WITNESS: I would assume so.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. I mean would Sun Valley do anything to stop him from doing that?

MR. SCHULTE: Again, same speculation.

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Who would know?

A. It would be me. I don't know if -- that's never been an issue, so I don't know what the situation would involve.

Q. So you're saying that Sun Valley Orchards provides free transportation to workers once a week; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that during 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. For the entire growing season?

A. I believe so.

Q. Did they do that, did Sun Valley Orchards do that in 2014?

A. No.

Q. So when did it first start?

A. Fifteen.

Q. When in 2015?

A. I'm not sure of that. I could look at our records, because we, obviously, we get charged for when they provide that service.

Q. A bus company provides the service?

A. Yes.

Q. What's the name of the bus company?

A. B.R. Williams.

Q. B.R. Williams?

A. No.
Q. Do you know if Agustin kept receipts for these items?
A. I don't know.
Q. So you told him to keep receipts for the meal purchases?
A. Yes.
Q. But did you tell him to keep receipts for these purchases?
A. No.
Q. Why not?
A. Because by law, I'm required to keep the receipts for the meal plan that I provide, that Sun Valley Orchards offers the men on behalf of Sun Valley Orchards.
Q. So Sun Valley Orchards offers the meal plan, but not --
A. We offer it in the contract. It's known to them that we will, Sun Valley Orchards as a company has the means to provide a meal plan.
Q. And that is true for 2015?
A. Yes.
Q. So the guarantee is that Sun Valley Orchards in 2015 -- okay. Scratch it. I got

Q. Do you know about that document?
A. Yes.
Q. What was your role in creating that document?
MR. SCHULTE: Not even an objection, if we can clarify, he wasn't creating the form, is there a particular document that you're asking about?
BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:
Q. The ETA 790 job order for the 2015 growing season, did you have a role in completing the contents of those documents?
A. Yes.
Q. What was your role?
A. Spelling out I guess the way we farmed, what we farmed, how we farm it and how we harvest it, how we take care of it and I did that collectively with Theresa.
Q. Did anyone else at Sun Valley Orchards have a role in filling out that form?
A. Not directly filling it out, but there was discussions between my uncle and I.
Q. Harry Marino, Jr.?
A. Yes.

Q. Did he give you a recommendation about how to fill out the form?
A. No.
Q. What were the discussions about generally?
A. The wording. The commodities. The one-on-job descriptions, things of that nature.
Q. And then you had a conversation on the phone with Theresa?
A. Yes.
Q. This is Theresa Ward from the NAC?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you actually, do you personally type into the form or did Theresa do that?
A. No. I probably scratched down a few things on paper handwritten or I might have even, probably handwritten or maybe e-mail and just suggestions and then her with her experience doing this for so long, she came back with a few suggestions and between the two us, we ironed out a final ETA.
Q. Did you review the entire, and I'm speaking now, we're speaking now about both job orders that were effective for the 2015 season.
A. Yeah.

Q. So --
A. They should have been almost identical, right? I believe they were.
Q. I don't remember but. So you had a conversation, there were some things you wanted in there and she typed it up and she sent it back to you; is that correct?
A. Uh-huh. Yes.
Q. And then did you review the document?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it all accurate?
A. There was most likely a few changes I wanted to make and then she made them and then, like I said, we probably -- it probably went back and forth a few times until we came up with a document that we were both satisfied with.
Q. And then you signed the document?
A. I don't think I signed that document particularly. But there is a signature page saying, stating that I reviewed the whole contract and like the whole, everything from soup to nuts and the whole packet that she puts together. That the addresses of each farm were correct, that the contract, all that stuff, there's a signature page for that that I reviewed and approved everything, so yes, I did.

Q. You did review it before signing it?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And at the time, did everything look accurate to you before you signed it, the forms?

A. Yes.

Q. And now in hindsight, were those forms accurate?

A. As far as job description and all?

Q. Were there any details in the job order for 2015 that now you think are inaccurate?

A. The -- I don't know what you call it, the clause, there was a portion of it that I don't know if it was clear on the use of the kitchen and the meal plan.

Q. And what was inaccurate about that?

A. Now it's all cleared up. It could have been skewed or misinterpreted that the guys were going to be just generally free-for-all in the kitchen, 100 guys making their own meals, when you could never have that. You could never build a kitchen big enough for that to happen. It's more spelled out. It's much more clear.

Q. And how did that -- why were the 2015 job orders written that way?

A. I don't think there's a particular reason. I just think it was an oversight.

Q. And that part of it, was that description about the kitchen and the meals, was that written?

A. That was revisited and reworded, but everything else in there is pretty much verbatim the same as it was.

Q. And what prompted you to or Sun Valley to reword that?

A. This problem.

Q. You're referring to the US Farm Labor investigation?

A. The lawsuit, yeah. Because of some miswording, we're all here today, a misunderstanding. Whatever you want to call it. Oversight.

Q. Do you think the wording in the 2015 job orders was misleading?

A. Do I think that directly? At the time, I didn't. Again, it was an oversight.

Q. What do you think now?

A. And that was the first time I ever had to do that. What do I think now? Hindsight is 20/20 as to what I think now. Do I think it's accurate as I sit here right now, no, that's why I changed it.

Q. So in hindsight, you think that the job orders for 2015 were inaccurate with respect to the kitchen and meal plan?

A. I guess you could say that, yes.

Q. I would like to introduce what -- can we mark this as Exhibit 12?

- - - - -

(ETA Form 790 Bates DOL01466 to 1485 marked R. Marino Exhibit 12 for identification.)

- - - - -

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Take a look at that document and tell me if you recognize it. These documents are Bates stamped DOL01466 through DOL01485.

A. This is a new contract, this is the the amount of money per day, those first few sentences are also accurate for the 2015 growing season?

A. Yes. Should have been. I know it wasn't worded that way.

Q. The 2015, the job order for 2015 should have been worded this way?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, here it says, and directly after that it says, "Workers will sign a payroll deduction authorization." Do you see that?

A. Uh-huh. Agustin doesn't do that. When they pay up, and they pay for the meal plan, they sign a roster and I believe he gives that to Lisa and she has those on file somewheres in the office in a filing cabinet somewheres.

Q. So after the 2015 growing season, workers paid for their meal plan through a payroll deduction?

A. Oh, no, no, no. No, they sign -- I'm sorry, I misheard you or misinterpreted what you said. Where is that?

Q. Fourth line down from the top.

Q. Does Sun Valley receive any money for the meals?
A. None whatsoever.
Q. Do you profit from that at all?
A. None whatsoever.
Q. If anything, are there expenses that Sun Valley incurs relating to the kitchen?
A. Yes. There's cooking gas, heating fuel, electric, things of that nature, repairs if need be.
Q. Do you separately pay Agustin for running the kitchen?
A. No.
Q. And does his pay vary based on whether workers chose the meal plan or not?
A. No.
Q. You talked about domestic workers applying for the job. If a domestic worker called the phone number that's listed on the 790 to apply, what would your practice be?
A. Just follow the protocol of the hiring process. Schedule an interview or however it's spelled out in the contract and how we would go about doing that.
Q. And do you prepare a recruitment camp. It's our well. You know, we're going to house people in it and I -- we just take it upon ourselves to pay those.

Q. Is the bill separated between the charges for the kitchen versus for the other parts of the farm?

A. Yes. It has got its own electric meter. It's got its own fuel tank, it's own gas tank. When the plumber or electrician, whoever, carpenter comes to do repairs, they state it on there what it's for.

Q. Do you ever ask -- did Sun Valley Orchards ever ask Agustin Hernandez to reimburse it for these expenses?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. He's a respected employee and out of good faith I guess, just doing the right thing.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: That's all I have.

BY MR. SCHULTE:

Q. Last round. In here, in the 2016 order that we talked about before, it says employers will furnish three meals a day, is

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Good morning. My name is Jason Glick. With me today is Jacob Heyman-Kantor and we represent the Secretary of Labor in the case called in re: Sun Valley Orchards, 2017-TAE-00003. And we represent the administrator of the Wage and Hour Division in the case called in re: Agustin Hernandez, 2017-MSP-00002.

Mr. Hernandez, as I'm sure Mr. Schulte has explained, I'm going to ask you some questions today. And it's very important that you respond verbally so that the court reporter will be able to record your answers.

A. Yes. Yes, I did.
Q. Who did you prepare with?
MR. SCHULTE: Objection.
Assumes facts not in evidence.
BY MR. GLICK:
Q. Did you prepare for this deposition with anybody else?
A. No, but the lawyer.
Q. Did you review any documents in preparing for the deposition?
A. No.
Q. In 2015, did you work for Sun Valley?
A. Yes.
Q. What kind of work did you do for Sun Valley?
A. I do, I'm a crew chief and my job is to make sure everything gets done right with the workers in the field. I'm in charge of that.
Q. And what does being a crew chief involve?
A. In the field, showing the guys, teaching the guys how to do jobs, how to work. And at the camp, make sure everything is okay.

The meals, like I -- I'm in charge of that too.

Q. Is there anything else that your work at Sun Valley in 2015 involved?

A. No, other than that, no.

Q. Were you involved in arranging the transportation of Sun Valley's workers between the camp and the fields?

A. No. Well, there is the vans from the company, the buses from the company and I taught them how to use them and I, I send them to the field. That's it.

Q. Were you involved in distributing paychecks to Sun Valley's workers?

A. No. No.

Q. Were you involved in hiring Sun Valley's workers?

A. No. No, the H-2A workers, no.

Q. Any other workers?

A. They, they called me and to, to, I don't know if it's called to hire, if it's called, they make me hire the guys, but they sometimes, most of the times, they call me to look for an opportunity to come. And I make a list of the guys I want or the guys I pick and then I hand it to the office and they send it

Like supervising is like 100 percent. Because I supervise everybody in the field. It's my job.

Q. Do you also spend time making sure the camp at Sun Valley is okay?

A. Yes, because I go back and forth. The fields are close by and I go back and forth.

Q. Do you spend more time making sure the camp is okay?

A. No. No. I spend more time in the fields.

Q. What does keeping -- what does making sure the camp is okay involve?

A. It looks clean, to be clean. Outside, outside the trash, especially the bathrooms, because there's a lot of people in the bathrooms. It's a mess. So I have to, I have to leave one of the guys, one of my workers, they stay every morning, you know, to clean it up. And then I come to supervise and then I come back to the field.

Q. What camp is that?

A. What camp, the one we have on Route 45, 1321 Route 45.

A. I don't remember. It's a long time ago. About every year he told me that. Maybe, I don't know, since he start to be more focused on the job, he was like, I don't know, maybe ten years ago.

Q. Was anyone else from Sun Valley involved in determining who drove the vans?

A. No.

Q. And in 2015, were you in charge of meals at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you tell me about that?

A. Yes. When, when I knew that the H2 workers they were going to come to work. I talked to Russ about that, how we want to charge them. Because I hear in other camps that they got their own little camps, you know, and they cook their own meal. But like in this company, we have only one big kitchen. So, so for everybody to go and cook in that same facility is not, you know, it's a mess. It can't be. So he told me that we can, you know, keep the way we were doing, you know, charging the guys, collecting from the guys, but he told me to make, to be in charge for that and like

I, I talked to the guys about that when they first came, about, you know, everybody go in one kitchen and you know, it's not possible for them to cook everybody. So I hire the cookers, you know, the cookers in there and they, everybody agreed. They thought that was a good idea. And we, we keep, we kept doing that. So I, I charge, we charge -- I charge $80 a week. I collect the money from them. And then I am in charge for buying everything and pay the cookers.

Q. Did the meal plan work the same way in 2014?

A. Yes. No. No, no. The 2014 behind, they -- almost the same, but they pay less, because the company pays, used to pay the cookers, two persons in the kitchen. So they pay, they pay less money. They pay less money. But I was in charge for buying, went to the grocery store and you know, supply, buy all the supplies.

Q. When did the meal plan at Sun Valley start?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection to calling it a meal plan at Sun Valley.

THE WITNESS: I have been in the kitchen for quite a bit years and I have been doing like that every year. So it has been like, I don't know, over ten years.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. How did that arrangement start?

A. Again, since we start to get a lot of people, they didn't have the facilities to, for everybody to cook, so we have only one big kitchen. And always I talk to the guys about, you know, getting, getting, paying the kitchen or they can, you know, get food from outside.

Q. Did you discuss that arrangement with any of the Marinos?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Harry, Russ.

Q. Was that Russ?

A. Russ, Jr.

Q. When did you have that first conversation?

A. A long time ago. I think we started, we opened the kitchen, first opened the kitchen like in 1995 or six. I don't remember. Since we start doing that, you know, for the guys to pay, to pay me, to pay us -- to pay me for to cook the meals, a long time ago.

Q. And in those conversations with Sun Valley with the Marinos about the meal plan, what did you discuss?

A. Nothing, just about how much I was going to charge and that's it.

Q. Did they tell you that you should charge the workers?

A. No.

Q. Did you ask if you could charge the workers?

A. No, no, I didn't ask. I know that I have to collect the money to buy food.

Q. Who decided that there would be a charge to the workers for the meal plan?

A. Who decided? I think me. It was me, I talked to them and we both agree and I charge the guys.

Q. Who did you talk to?

A. I think at that time, it was Harry I think. Harry Marino.

Q. Did you talk about how much to charge the workers?

A. No. I told them how much I was charging, but I never, you know, because this is how, how the expenses work, you know, like I buy everything and then it's more or less about how much it comes to.

Q. How is the amount of the meal plan charge determined?

A. Based on how much I spent in the grocery store and how much I'm paying the cookers. And then Russ Marino, he give me, I don't know what you call it, it's a limit that I don't -- we don't have to pay -- they don't have to pay more. It was a limit of the money, I don't know if you understand. It's a limit. And based on that, you know, it's more or less what it comes to.

Q. Tell me about that limit.

A. Russ Marino showed me one -- some notice from, I don't know where he got it, it says, like it's a rule or like a law or, I don't know. The workers don't have to pay more than 80, I think he said 80, $83 per week or so much per meal.

Q. When did Russell Marino show you that notice?

A. Last year.
Q. In 2016?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Before 2016, did any of the Marinos tell you that there was a limit on how much the workers could be charged for meals?
A. No, no, before 2016 and 2015, no, it was in 2015 he give me that notice. But before, no. Before '15, no.
Q. In 2015, about how many hours a day did you spend at Sun Valley doing work related to the meals?
A. I don't know, I go back and forth. Maybe, when I was busy, maybe a couple of hours. And when I was not at work, I was in the kitchen. Like when it's slow or it's raining or I don't work, I spend the day in the kitchen.
Q. Whom did you recruit to work at Sun Valley in 2015?
MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Facts not in evidence. Object to the form. You haven't shown that he recruited anybody.

only like, only I put for me, I put only at that time, I remember I think 15, like ten or 15 guys. The rest of the guys, the agency in Mexico sent the group of guys.

Q. For the non-H-2A workers at Sun Valley in 2015, did someone keep track of how many people there were?

A. Yes, them, Russ Marino and Harry Marino.

Q. Do you know how they kept track?

A. I think they, they got everything, their computers, the computers in the system.

Q. Were there workers who called you in 2015 whom you told not to come?

A. No.

Q. Were there workers at Sun Valley in 2015 who you hired in a previous year?

A. There were regulars, we're talking

Q. In 2015, did you help any workers travel to Sun Valley from anywhere outside of New Jersey?

A. No.

Q. How many groups of H-2A workers came to Sun Valley in 2015?

A. Two. One in April and one in June, two groups. But then the first group, they came in April. They didn't like the job and they quit, 19 guys. And then they let, they left us. And he told me that he talked to Theresa and they replace the guys, they make another order, so they came in like at the end of May. They came another group, different, so there was two groups I guess.

Q. When the first group arrived at Sun Valley, who told them about the housing?

A. When they -- when they -- when they work here, when they get, when they all here, I talk to them and I told them about the facilities and all that. I explain.

Q. What did you tell the group of H-2A workers who arrived in April 2015 about the housing?

A. That we had the rooms that if it's -- we have bunk beds, showed them the bathrooms. The kitchen, I told them about the kitchen, about the meals. I told, I explained to them everything. What we were going to do, cutting asparagus.

Q. Did you explain anything else to them?

A. Just the rules for the camp, nothing else.

Q. What were the rules of the camp?

A. Not to, not to keep problem, they have to go to bed early, so the guys can rest. No problems. You know, rules. Keeping the bathrooms clean. Rules.

Q. What did you tell the workers who arrived at Sun Valley in April 2015 about the work hours at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.
Q. What did you explain?
A. That we were going to work by the hours and the hour increase, 11.66 at the time.
Q. Did you tell them how many hours that they would work a day?
A. Yes, yes. I told them that too. I told them that we can work up to ten, 11 hours a day, but they, sometimes they, some of them, they don't want to work. They just let me know, then they'll stay in the camp. And sometimes, we were slow. Sometimes we, work a couple of days, sometimes three hours, sometimes, you know, up to ten, 11 hours a day.

A. No. I told them the same thing.
Q. What did you tell the H-2A workers in 2015 about the meals?
A. Same as I say before, that we have only one big kitchen. There wasn't enough room for everybody to cook. The cookers, the person in charge, you know, to cook the meals and they say yes. And but I told them like every time I told them, anybody don't like, don't want or don't like, don't want to pay or don't like the food, they are free to eat outside or to order a delivery meal. It's up to them. They got that option.

Q. When did you explain all this to H-2A workers?

A. When they come. As soon as they come. 2015 and 2016, this year, we have the first group, first two groups they came and I told them the same thing.

Q. Did you explain anything differently in 2016 than 2015?

A. It's in the morning, we got coffee and bread. And before we go to work. And at lunchtime, at 12:00 o'clock, and in the afternoon, when they come at 5:30, 6:00 o'clock, it depends on what time we come, we finish. So it's two meals and one breakfast.
Q. Where is the breakfast served?
A. At the camp before we leave.
Q. And what about the other meals?
A. At camp.
Q. So --
A. Sometimes, we got a farm far away, but we have all conditions there and we have tables and you know, to eat and we, I bring the food there.
Q. So when the workers in 2015 paid $80 a week for meals, that covered the breakfast, the lunch and the dinner?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you provide food to Sun Valley's workers other than those three meals?
A. No. No meals, no other meals before that, before that.

Q. Did you sell any other food to Sun Valley's workers in 2015?

Q. What about the blender?
A. The blender?
Q. Is there a blender in the kitchen at Sun Valley?
A. Yes.
Q. Who owns the blender?
A. I think, I guess the guys, because I bought it with the, you know, when I collect the money, you know, little things that I need in the kitchen, I bought it from the Sun Valley.

A. Yes.
Q. How much did they cost?
A. Seventy-five cents.
Q. How many days a week did you sell pastries to the workers in the fields in 2015?

A. It depends. Maybe five times, sometimes six. It depends on how long we work.

A. Yes, yes.
Q. And those sodas weren't included in the $80 a week charge for the meals?
A. No.
Q. And what about the pastries that were sold in the fields for 75 cents, were those included in the $80 a week charge?
A. No.
Q. What else was not included in the 80-dollar a week meal charge?
A. What is not, nothing, no.
Q. What time during the day did you sell the sodas in the fields to the workers?
A. Usually around 8:30 or 9:00 o'clock.
Q. 8:30 or 9:00 o'clock in the morning?
A. In the morning, yes.

Q. What other times?

A. Sometimes when it's too hot, when it gets too hot, around 3:00 o'clock. Break time. We got a break time, 15 minutes break time. We got 8:30 or 9:00 o'clock, we have a 15-minute break. And 3:00 o'clock, we got another 15-minute break.

Q. How often did the workers in fact take the 8:30 or 9:00 a.m. mid-morning break?

A. Like I said, it depends on the -- how long we're going to work, depending on the weather. But it's almost, let's say almost every day.

Q. And what about the 3:00 o'clock break, how often did the workers in fact take that break in the fields in 2015?

A. Almost every day.

Q. Were there any times that the workers took breaks in the fields that you didn't provide sodas for sale?

A. Yes.

Q. When?

A. When they -- when I -- when I working with a group, and there's another group in another farm, they just take the break by

A. No. No, I don't think so. No.
Q. When did they pay you?
A. Some of them, they pay me at the end of day. And some of them, they pay me when the paycheck, when they get the check, paycheck.
Q. Did they pay you, for the workers that paid you after they received their paycheck, in 2015, did they pay you cash?
A. Yes.
Q. Did they pay you cash after they received their paycheck?
A. Yes, after they receive their paycheck.
Q. How did the workers in 2015 cash their paychecks?
A. Okay. Harry Marino come to the camp and he make us sign the receiving check, some signature check. I don't know, however you call it and they got the check and they sign it and they hand it to me, they hand the check to me. And I go, I go to the bank and I cash the check. The office at Sun Valley, they send, they e-mail to the bank, they make it easy. They send the list to the bank so when

I'm -- when I go for the pile of checks, they got the envelopes with the money. You know, with everybody's name. They check and they, I get all the envelopes and I bring it to the camp. When they finish, I hand the checks to everybody.

Q. Did you ever remove any money from the envelopes before giving the checks to the workers?

A. Never, never, never, no. I never do that. I never did it. I never would, no.

Q. How did the workers pay the $80 weekly fee for the meals?

A. Cash.

Q. When did they pay the cash?

A. On Friday, Friday. Friday afternoons.

Q. What day of the week did the workers receive the cashed Sun Valley checks?

A. Friday, Friday afternoons.

Q. Did you keep track of the workers that paid the 80-dollar weekly fee?

A. Yes.

Q. How did you keep track?

A. Okay. They send me a list from the office. It says a list of all the workers we have. It says meals and they have transportation. And then every, every one of them that they pay me, they look for their name and they sign.

Q. And what does it mean when they sign?

A. That they paid, that they pay. That they have paid the meal.

Q. Why did you keep track of that?

A. Because it's a requirement, the Department of Labor asks for that.

Q. How do you know it's a requirement?

A. Because -- well, because I think we had to -- they had to have a proof that they pay and they received the meal. It's like saying that he pay you and he's receiving the meal. He's received the meal during that week.

Q. Who told you to keep track of that?

A. Sun Valley.

Q. Who at Sun Valley?

A. Russ, Russ Marino, Russ, Jr.

Q. When did he tell you to keep track of that?

A. In '15.

A. They say that, I don't know. For me, I can't take the Monster. It's bad for my heart I know. My stomach doesn't take it. I hear sometimes the guys say they are starting to feel bad from the Monster, heartburn. I don't know. I don't know.

Q. Do you still have the lists from 2015 of the workers who signed for having paid the $80 a week for their meals?

A. I don't, I don't have it. But I think this guy, the inspector, he's a Spanish guy, he took a copy of everything. When he came to the camp, he took a copy of everything.

Q. Did Sun Valley make any copies of the records before the inspector took them?

A. I'm not sure.

Q. Did you ever give any of those signature records to Sun Valley?

A. No. In the '15, I know this guy, the Department of Labor, he took them all. Then he brought, he brought them to me, back to me, but and -- yeah. No. No. I think they'll have it. Somebody will have it.

Q. In 2015, did Sun Valley ever check whether you were keeping records of the workers who paid for the meals?

A. They asked me a couple of times, yes, they asked me. But I didn't, they didn't see --

Q. What did they ask you?

A. If I, if I have every, if I was keeping everything on track, if I was keeping everything track of everything. And I said yes.

Q. Who asked you?

A. Russ Marino.

Q. Was that Russell Marino, Jr.?

A. Junior, yes.

Q. Anyone else?

A. No.

Q. When did he ask you?

A. I don't remember. It was 2015.

Q. How long after he originally told you that you should keep those signature lists did he ask you whether you were keeping them?

A. I think two months later I think he asked me.

Q. And any other times?

A. No, I don't remember. I don't remember. Maybe, maybe not. I don't know. I they, we trust, I don't know, they ask me, but only a few times.

Q. How much extra space was there in the refrigerators for workers to store food?

A. Almost none. I got everything filled with -- there's only a little bit of space sometimes.

Q. So if more workers wanted to store sodas or food in the fridge, would they have been able to?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Speculation. He specifically said that nobody else asked to.

THE WITNESS: I don't know. If everybody asked me for it, I don't know what I would do.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. How much extra room was there in 2015 in the fridge?

A. There's no extra room. I got, in the five refrigerators, I got my stuff, the stuff there from the kitchen.

Q. In 2015, could workers cook their own meals in the kitchen?

A. No.

you explain to me the workers who help in the kitchen, what the arrangement is?

A. Okay. It's not an arrangement. It's help that I give it to them and they give to me. After they finish work, say we finish at six, they come and they come to the kitchen after they get -- everybody eats, and they help me to wash, to do the dishes. This is what they help. You know, I have three guys.

Q. Who pays the workers who help in the kitchen?

A. Me.

Q. How do you pay them?

A. Cash.

Q. In 2015, which workers participated in the 80-dollar weekly meal plan?

A. The H2 guys and the regular guys, whoever.

Q. And did any H-2A workers cook on their own in the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Did any domestic, did any non-H-2A workers cook on their own in the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Is there anyone who didn't send some guys to Mexico, because we didn't have enough job for everybody. We sent a group of guys and this is when they call the Department of Labor I guess and this is when it was all this problem of them cooking in their bedrooms. It can't been done in their bedroom, because it's not clean or I don't know.

Q. Were there any workers who you -- strike that. Were there any workers who you denied permission to participate? How many workers didn't participate in the meal plan in 2015?

A. Three.

Q. Did anyone else ask permission not to participate in the meal plan?

A. No, nobody else.

Q. When did you find out that they weren't participating in the meal plan?

A. Like I say, the first guy I found out about the second week. And the second guy, a few days later.

Q. The second week of what?

A. It was June. I think it was June. Since they go here, the first guy, since he go here, he never bought, he never paid the kitchen, the meal in the kitchen.

Q. Do Sun Valley's rules permit a worker to cook in the housing camp?

A. We didn't know, this is not allowed to cook in their bedrooms. We didn't know and they didn't know.

Q. Where did those workers store their groceries?

A. I don't know. I never went to the bedroom. I never did. But they say that they have on the -- they had, they had just a little bit, I guess, they have a little, I don't know how you would call it, a little, like a table or I don't know. I don't know. I never went to them. I never went inside.

Q. Did workers store any of their groceries in Sun Valley's refrigerators?

A. No.

Q. Other than sodas, did workers store anything in Sun Valley's refrigerators?

A. No.

Q. How much do you pay the people who work in the kitchen at Sun Valley?

A. Okay. In 2015, I pay to my wife, I think it was 600 a week. 600. And to the sinks broken. The -- what do I say -- the -- I don't know, the doors, the screens, the screen door is broken. I fix that or I send somebody to fix it.

Q. When did that happen in 2015?

A. It was in June, July.

Q. Was it after the US Department of Labor came to visit the house in 2015?

A. After the state department came, yes. Before they, the fellow inspector came, and before, yeah, yeah, in between, yeah.

Q. When in 2015 did the state department inspector come to inspect the housing?

A. The beginning of April. First week of April I think.

Q. Were there mattresses in the worker housing camp?

A. There are mattresses, yes. Every bunker has -- every bed has their own mattress.

Q. Who bought the mattresses?

A. Sun Valley.

Q. Were there pillows?

A. No pillows.

Q. Were there sheets?

A. Sheets, yes. Cover mattress and blankets.

Q. There were blankets in the worker housing in 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. Did workers have to buy their own pillows in 2015?

A. I guess, yeah, because Sun Valley didn't -- don't provide pillows. Just the pillows.

Q. What else did Sun Valley provide for the housing?

A. All the tools that we need to work, like knives, sometimes gloves. The blankets and the mattress cover.

Q. Did workers have to buy anything on their own?

A. Whatever they need I guess, yes.

Q. What did the workers buy on their own?

A. Their clothes. Their personal items. I don't know.

Q. Who bought the toilet paper?

A. I provide them with the toilet paper. I got a dispenser, back in 2015, I

A. No, the guys will tell me if there is hot water or not.

Q. In 2015, did the workers tell you that there wasn't hot water?

A. They told me, but only when, only when, the pump that we have doesn't fit, you know, when everybody comes, like 100 guys, everybody comes and this, we had like 15 showers, everybody in one shower is not enough and the hot water runs out, you know, rapidly. So they say it's cold, but there's nothing we can do about that.

Q. In 2015, how often did that happen?

A. Every couple of months did I hear that. After that, the guys knew, they have, not everybody have to enter, they go, they see 20 guys are running to the showers, they wait. So they, you know, give it some time for the pump to work.

Q. What time did the workers shower in 2015?

A. Usually after, after work, maybe say around six, five. Five, 6:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

Q. Did the workers shower before work?

A. I don't know.
Q. Was 2015 the first year that there were problems with enough hot water at Sun Valley?
A. It's always the same problem.
Q. Has Sun Valley done anything to fix the problem?
A. To tell you the truth, I didn't say -- I don't remember if I say something to them. I don't remember.
Q. Did you do anything to fix the hot water problem?
A. No.
Q. When you entered the bathrooms in 2015, did you inspect whether the windows had screens?
A. In the bathrooms?
Q. In the bathrooms, yes.
A. Yes. And I know we have three windows that they don't have the screen doors, so they don't -- if they open, if they open it, it doesn't have the screen doors.
Q. How long have those windows not had screen doors?
A. Since they built it.

Q. When you entered the worker housing camp in 2015, did you ever see a fridge?

A. I think once, I think once I saw, you know, a fridge, a little fridge.

Q. Where was it?

A. What?

Q. Where in the housing camp was it?

A. One of the bedrooms. It was one of the guys for one of the bedrooms, where the guys are staying.

Q. How many bedrooms are there in the housing camp?

A. Six.

Q. How many worker beds are there in each bedroom?

A. There's 26, 28, 30, 30 and then 33. There's four of 30 beds and two of 20 something.

Q. When you entered the worker housing, would you visit all of the bedrooms?

A. Not very often. Like I say, only when I need to speak to someone in specific or I'm looking for someone.

Q. In 2015, did you enter all of the different worker bedrooms at some point?

A. The June, June group.
Q. How many workers were in that group?
A. I think 20.
Q. Were there electrical outlets in the bedrooms of the worker housing?
A. Yes.
Q. About how many?
A. The outlets, they have plenty and every time I go and I tell them not to overcharge them, over-plug, you know, plug different stuff.
Q. What would the workers plug in?
A. Because they have fans. They have air conditioners -- I mean fans. They have the radio. I don't know. They have a lot of things.
Q. Did they have anything else?
A. I don't know.
Q. What kind of problem was there if the workers plugged too much into the outlets?
A. The cable can overheat and it can burn and inside, we have the breaker, breaker box and it trips.
Q. Did that happen in 2015?

A. Yes.
Q. How many times?
A. Only one, one time, two times, I remember.
Q. What does it take to fix that?
A. I just go to inside and I push the breaker and that's it.
Q. What about before 2015, was there a problem with workers over-plugging devices?
A. Always the same problem, but only one or two times, once or twice a year. Because now many, after that, they know, they don't have to plug, you know, a lot of things into one outlet.
Q. Does Sun Valley have rules about what workers can plug in, in the dorms?
A. No, no.
Q. Do you set rules about what the workers can plug in the dorms?
A. No, no.
Q. The buses that the workers rode from the housing camp to the fields in 2015, who owned those vehicles?
A. Sun Valley.
Q. Who paid the insurance on the vehicles?

A. Sun Valley.

Q. Were you involved in the use of those vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Did you drive those vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Did you assign people to drive the vehicles?

A. Like I said at the beginning, when a group of guys come and we need drivers, I ask the guys who has the Mexican driver's licenses or who is a driver, experienced driver and they drive. I let them drive.

Q. If someone -- in 2015, did workers show you a Mexican driver's license?

A. Like two of them that I remember.

Q. Was that enough for them to be permitted to drive the vehicles?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did they show you anything any other licenses?

A. No.

Q. Did you permit them to drive the vehicles?

A. Yes.
Q. Did Sun Valley know that those workers were driving the vehicles?
A. Well, when they told me about that, I said there's nobody with a New Jersey license, so somebody has to drive the vans. So.
Q. Did Sun Valley know who was driving those vehicles?
A. No.
Q. Other than those two workers, who else drove the vehicles in 2015?
A. Nobody. Nobody.
Q. Who drives the vehicles this year at Sun Valley?
A. This year, right now, I got three, three drivers. I got my son, who he has a New Jersey license. And I got another two guys that drive the vans. But to tell you the truth, I haven't asked them if they have -- I know them from -- I don't know if they still got them. They still got their license or not, I don't know.
Q. Where do you know them from?
A. Not in Mexico, but from here. They have been coming for the past two years.

Q. Have you asked them to show you their driver's licenses?

A. No, I haven't. I haven't thought of that.

Q. Did you ask them to show you their driver's licenses in a previous year?

A. No. I just know that they are good drivers.

Q. What about last year, who drove the vehicles at Sun Valley?

A. Different guys. I don't remember.

Q. Did they show you their driver's licenses in 2016?

A. Only a couple of them.

Q. Did they -- who was in charge of deciding who drove the vans in 2016?

A. That would be me.

Q. And what about in 2017, who was in charge of deciding who drove the vans?

A. That would be me.

Q. Before 2015, who was in charge of deciding who drove the vans?

A. It's me. I'm in charge of the camp.

Q. Did Sun Valley ever tell you what kind of license was required before someone drove other workers in a van?

A. Yes.

Q. Who told you?

A. Russ. Russ, Jr.

Q. What did he say?

A. That we need drivers with a New Jersey license.

Q. When was this conversation?

A. Before the, before the first group of H-2A arrived in 2015.

Q. Was it in 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you say in response?

A. That I was going to, I was going to talk to them and ask them. If they have any kind of license. Only two of them show me the license and no, the rest of them, they didn't have anything.

Q. And how did you respond?

A. They drove. They drove it.

Q. In early 2015, you had a conversation with Russell Marino, Jr. about the driver's licenses. And that was before the H-2A workers arrived?

A. Yes, a little bit before, yes.

Q. Did you tell Russell Marino, Jr. that you had problems in the past finding workers with a New Jersey license?

A. Yes.

Q. What did he say?

A. What can we do? We can do nothing.

Q. What did you understand him to mean?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection, speculation.

THE WITNESS: I didn't say anything.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Did you understand what Russell Marino, Jr. told you?

A. Yeah, I understood that he asked me for, to look for -- that we need the guys with a license. But then I couldn't find any license, I didn't have any guys with a New Jersey license, so I let drive the vans, two guys that I knew they were drivers.

Q. Did Russell Marino, Jr. know that there were people driving the vans who didn't have New Jersey licenses?

A. I don't know. I didn't never said nothing to him.

Q. Did anybody at Sun Valley know that there were people without -- excuse me. Did anyone else at Sun Valley know that there were people without New Jersey driver's licenses driving workers in vans in 2015?

A. I guess. I don't know. I say no.

Q. Before 2015, did anyone from Sun Valley give you instructions about who was permitted to drive vans between the housing camp and the fields?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Could you please answer verbally?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. When was that?

A. Before 2015?

Q. Yes.

A. Just it was a long time ago when we started to work in the fields and when they start to buy the vans, they told me. I was like 30 some years old.

Q. Who was it that told you something about the vans?

A. Harry Marino.
Q. What did he tell you?
A. They were going to get vans, but we got to be careful and we have to look for guys with a license or experienced drivers.
Q. Did he say that if a driver had experience, they didn't need to have a license?
A. I don't understand.
Q. Harry Marino told you that you should look for drivers with licenses or experience?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Was it enough for someone to have experience, but not a license?
A. Oh, I think I didn't have another option.
Q. When was the first time that you told someone from Sun Valley that you had difficulty finding workers who had New Jersey driver's licenses to transport workers at Sun Valley?
A. Since the beginning. Since the beginning, 27 years ago.
Q. Did you tell someone at Sun Valley every year about this?

was at the camp and I saw the van coming and I saw a couple of guys standing.

Q. What did you do?

A. I told them. I went right there and I told them that is not allowed. Not permitted.

Q. How many people were riding in the vehicle --

A. Two, at that time, it was only two guys.

Q. How many people were sitting in that vehicle?

A. I don't remember it was, if it was a small van or a big van. I don't remember.

Q. Were people standing in that van because there wasn't enough space to sit?

A. No. Because they were coming, other vans empty, there was, they just step in and the guys are like that. Sometimes they just go.

Q. How did you decide which fields to send workers to?

A. I don't decide. Harry Marino decide.

Q. Does anyone else decide where to send workers to work in the fields?

A. Russ, Jr.

Q. How did they tell you about their decision where the workers should go?

A. Depending on what we're going to pick, he told me we need so many guys to do the job. Bring me three guys. Or bring 20 guys. The rest of the guys, send them to do this job. They decide.

Q. So they decide what crops need attention?

A. Yes, uh-huh.

Q. Do you have a role in deciding that?

A. No, no.

Q. Do you decide when crops should be picked?

A. No.

Q. Do you decide when crops should be planted?

A. No.

Q. How far is it from the housing camp to the furthest away field?

A. It's a 15-minute drive.

Q. What about the closest camp, how far is that from the worker housing? I'm sorry, the closest field, how far is that field from the working housing?

A. Five minutes.

Q. Five minutes by driving?

A. Driving, uh-huh. Very close.

Q. The field that is a 15-minute drive away, is it possible to walk from the housing camp to that field?

A. It's possible, but they're not going to walk for a couple of hours.

Q. It would be a couple of hours walk to walk from the furthest field to the worker housing?

A. Uh-huh, yes.

Q. How often did workers work in that particular field?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. Did they work there ever in 2015?

A. In 2015, I don't remember anybody who walked from the field to the house.

Q. It would be a very long way to walk?

A. It's two hours, yes.

Q. Did some workers work in that far away field in 2015?

A. Yes, we have vegetables there, yes, in that part.

Q. What crops were grown there in 2015?

A. Peppers, cucumbers, pickles.

Q. If a worker wanted to leave the field after working for eight hours in a day, how could they get back to the housing?

A. Okay. There is two ways. When, because they had told me, I have been through that a lot of times. If some guys want to quit at lunchtime, I got my truck, my personal truck, that is not a farm truck, it's my truck, we run the food there. And if there are two or three guys that they don't, they want to stop at lunchtime and they ask me, they tell me, they come to me and say, I want to stop, because I don't feel good or whatever, I let them drive in the -- on the back of the truck with a camper, with a camper.

Q. And you would drive the workers?

A. No, my wife. I mean, I would drive, no. My wife is driving my truck, because I have to stay in the field.

any expenses for work equipment?

A. No.

Q. Did you have any expenses in 2015?

A. Not at the camp, I don't think so. I'm not sure.

Q. What about before 2015, did Sun Valley reimburse you for any expenses?

A. No, because all, when there was something wrong, they hired people to fix it.

Q. In 2015, did you have to pay out of pocket to fix anything at Sun Valley?

A. Yes, but little things. Little things. I wasn't worried about that. Little things like screen doors, five dollars. Like light bulbs, ten dollars. Little things, but not much. And I never, I never say nothing to them.

Q. You never asked Sun Valley to reimburse you?

A. No.

Q. Did Sun Valley have a policy about whether they would reimburse you?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did they ever tell you that they would reimburse you for expenses?

A. Yes.
Q. What did they tell you?
A. That if I spent on some fixes, bring the tickets, they will reimburse me.
Q. Who told you that?
A. Russ Marino, Jr.
Q. When did he tell you that?
A. It was a long time ago, before '15, a long time ago.
Q. Did Sun Valley's policy about reimbursement change after you had that conversation?
A. I don't know.
Q. Did Sun Valley ever tell you that the policy had changed?
A. I don't know. No, they don't, they didn't.
Q. In early 2015, was there a time where you weren't doing pruning work?
A. After, after the first week of April, we, we finish with the pruning. We did something else.
Q. When did the pruning start in 2015?
A. The beginning, like March 15th.
Q. Who assigned you to do the pruning in March 2015?

A. Harry, Harry Marino.

Q. Did he decide how much work you would do?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he decide when you did the pruning work?

A. Yes.

Q. Before March 15, 2015, did you do any work for Sun Valley between January 1st and March 15, 2015?

A. January 15, no.

Q. Did Sun Valley pay you anything in January or February 2015?

A. No.

Q. What about before March 15, 2015?

A. No.

Q. Where were you living between January and March 2015?

A. I was living at my home and I was, I went to Mexico for vacation for six weeks. I came back and I was collecting, I started to collect, not -- I mean for a few weeks for, I don't know, I don't remember, three, four weeks, three weeks, I went to Mexico, I came back and I was collecting unemployment.

Q. Were you collecting unemployment in relation to your work at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. In 2015, did you work for anyone other than Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. In 2014, did you work for anyone other than Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. When was the last time you worked for anyone other than Sun Valley?

A. I never, I never, I never worked for anybody else other than Sun Valley.

Q. Was there ever a time where Sun Valley paid you money that they didn't deduct taxes from?

A. No.

Q. Why did the kitchen workers start to be paid by you instead of Sun Valley?

A. Okay. When they make the change to H-2A workers, they told me the rules was going to change. Everything was going to change. And they were -- they didn't want to be involved with the kitchen anymore. This is all that. But the type of work, we used to cover the pickles and they decided not to cover anymore. Why the decision, I don't know, because they was -- they were spending more money then.

Q. And did anything else change about the kitchen in 2015 other than who paid the workers in the kitchen?

A. No, no.

Q. Did the people who worked in the kitchen change in 2015?

A. Change? I don't know what, change, change?

Q. Were the people who cooked in the kitchen the same people in 2015 as they were in 2014?

A. Yes.

Q. How did you decide to pay them?

A. Cash.

Q. Did you pay them the same amount they were paid the year before?

A. No, it was a little bit, a little bit less.

Q. Did Sun Valley change the way it paid you in 2015 compared to 2014?

the workers?

A. We talk a little bit about that, but it was about what was going to change, that they were paying two persons in the kitchen, in 2015, they were not going to pay anymore. That's what we discussed.

Q. Did they tell you that there were things that weren't going to change?

A. No.

Q. Does Sun Valley give you vacation time?

A. No.

Q. Is there a policy about when you can take time off at Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. Was that the same in 2015?

A. Yes, sir. It has been the same since I have been with them.

Q. Does Sun Valley give you sick time?

A. When I'm really sick, yes.

Q. What happens in terms of your pay if you are sick?

A. If I sick for a day, I never been sick for more than a day, all day. When I -- I manage the hours, so either one I can, I can

A. Call them eating room or I don't know, because it's in between the kitchen and the bathrooms with the roof.

Q. If I say eating area --

A. Eating area.

Q. -- will you understand I'm referring to the place where the workers ate the three meals a day in 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there posters in that eating area about any laws?

A. Yes.

Q. How many posters?

A. There was one on each side.

Q. What did the posters say?

A. On the laws, requirements of the safety things, the H-2A laws. All kind of information.

Q. Did you put up any of those posters?

A. No.

Q. Did you fill out any information on those posters?

A. I remember one time they asked me to translate, to write in Spanish. I did once,

Q. Has anyone else filled out an application for a Farm Labor Contractor license saying that you will hire H-2A workers?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever signed an application that says you will hire H-2A workers?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. In 2015 when workers had a question, who would they ask a question?

A. To me.

Q. Would they ask anyone other than you?

A. No. Only when they start to get tired of the job and they start to complain, that I'm talking about the April group, 19 guys, they start to get mad and they start to get tired or do that job, and they quit on me. They didn't want to keep working. They went to the house and they asked me to talk to my boss to tell them. They told me, tell your boss, because we don't even know them. This is when Russ, Jr. and Joey came to the camp to talk to them is the only time somebody has done.

Q. Other than that time, were the workers at Sun Valley able to ask questions

Q. Any other times that the workers asked you to ask permission for the Marino brothers for something?

A. No.

Q. If the workers wanted something changed, they had to ask you?

A. I think they would. I think they can ask me.

Q. Could they ask anyone other than you?

A. Maybe like I'm in charge of the camp, maybe I would think that they can ask me. And I will ask the farmers to come and we discuss whether, you know, whatever they want to change. I don't know.

Q. Other than the 19 workers who asked to speak to Russell Marino, Jr. and Joey Marino, were there other times in 2015 when workers asked something to be changed?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. When the workers asked to speak to Russell Marino, Jr. and Joey Marino on this particular occasion, these 19 workers, what happened?

A. Well, when he came, he was very talking about quitting. My job is to inform everything that happens to the farmer, to the owner.

Q. And the owner is who?

A. Russ Marino and Harry Marino.

Q. Were there other times in 2015 when groups of workers left the farm for some reason?

A. That year, later, with the second group, yes.

Q. What happened?

A. It was in June, July, August, I think it was in August, I think. I don't know how many acres, but a lot of acres of peppers, they got diseased and we lost them. So they decide that we got too many guys in the camp for the work, the work coming ahead. So they decide to send 44 guys back to Mexico.

Q. Who decided that?

A. Harry and Russell Marino.

Q. How did you find out about that decision?

A. They told me.

Q. What did they say?

A. That we were running out of work,

Q. Did anyone else at Sun Valley keep these kinds of tallies?

A. I don't remember if I hand it to the office, but I don't, I'm not sure. I don't think so. I don't think. But the Department of Labor saw all this.

Q. In Exhibit 1, I would like to call your attention to a line about halfway down the page that looks to me that it says 16 x 75. Do you see that line?

A. Oh yes. Sixteen times 75.

Q. Why did you write that on Exhibit 1?

A. Because I think there were 16 guys, they pay me 75, how much I collect from them.

Q. In 2015, was it your usual practice to make notes about the total amount that you collected from the workers?

A. Yes.

Q. And those notes reflected the total amount you collected from the workers in cash for the meals at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. What do the lines on Exhibit 1 mean below the 16 times 75?

- - - - -

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. I'm showing a document that has the letters at the bottom DOL01368 and the second page DOL1369. Mr. Hernandez, I'm going to refer to this document as Exhibit 2. Do you understand?

A. Yes.

Q. And I'll just note that this is another document previously attached to our Request for Admission as one of the pages in Exhibit D. Mr. Hernandez, do you recognize Exhibit 2?

A. Yes.

Q. How do you recognize Exhibit 2?

A. Because this is the list that they start to hand me when the H-2A workers came, they start to hand me this list. So they sign, it's the form I was talking about earlier, when they sign, they pay me. They sign and they pay me. They sign and they pay me.

Q. So you recognize Exhibit 2 because Sun Valley gave you lists of the workers each week and this is one of those lists?

A. This is one of the lists and I know a lot of names from here, these names, yeah.

Q. And you used Sun Valley's lists of workers to keep track of which workers paid for the meals in 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. How did you use Exhibit 2 to keep track?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. He didn't say he did.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Mr. Hernandez, did you tell the workers to sign Exhibit 2?

A. Yes.

Q. And what did you tell them?

A. This is a requirement just to make sure to prove that they pay and they get the meal. By signing this, they, they are agreed that they received the meal and they pay. They receive the meal and they pay.

Q. If a worker didn't sign Exhibit 2, what would you do?

A. Like in this case, like some guys in blank, some guys, they don't pay me, because they help me in the kitchen and I help them out with that. And in other cases, like in other cases, I didn't put over here. But in some cases, some of the guys, they leave and the name keeps getting there and they don't sign, because they are not working there.

Q. Mr. Hernandez, on Exhibit 2, I would like to call your attention to a column on the right side of the page, handwritten numbers, I see the number 60 written to a name, a signature that looks to me like Ricardo Arias. Do you see the number 60?

A. Yes.

Q. What do the numbers in that column of numbers mean?

A. That I didn't do it. I have no idea.

Q. Do you recognize the handwriting of those numbers?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Is there any other handwriting on Exhibit 2 that you don't recognize?

A. No, just those numbers.

Q. At the bottom of the second page of Exhibit 2, where it says 98 times 80 equals 7,840.00. Do you see what I just read?

A. Yes.

Q. What does that phrase on Exhibit 2 mean?

A. It's 98 guys, 98 guys pay me $80. I collect from them $7,840.

Q. On Exhibit 2 is 98 times 80 equals 7,840, is that your handwriting?

A. No, it is not.

Q. Do you know whose handwriting it is?

A. It could be my wife, because she help me to do some math, sometimes when I'm too tired. It could be.

Q. Were there weeks in 2015 at Sun Valley where you did not have the workers sign forms like Exhibit 2 to indicate that they paid for the meals?

A. No, every week they signed them.

Q. And do those forms look like Exhibit 2?

A. Yes.

MR. GLICK: If you could mark this as Exhibit 3, please.

- - - - -

(Photographs marked Hernandez Exhibit 3 for identification.)

Q. In 2015, were there differences in the work that the H-2A workers and the non-H-2A workers did?

A. No, everything is the same. Was the same. No differences.

Q. And in 2015, when workers had to take a van back from the fields at the end of the day -- let me rephrase that question. In 2015, who decided that it was the end of the workday in the fields?

A. Most of the time, it's me. Other times, it's Harry Marino. And other times, a few times, is when we finish, we have to finish one field and that's it. Whatever the hours, but when we have a lot of work, I always say till five, to 5:30 call them up.

Q. Could the workers decide that they want to work longer than you tell them to?

A. Not usually. By the end of the day, they are dead. They are tired. All they want to do is go home.

Q. Did ever any workers in 2015 ask to keep working at the end of the day after you called the end of the day?

A. No. Not that I remember.

Q. So the bus company didn't start providing transport to the laundromat until 2016?

A. I think. I'm not sure. I don't remember they start at the end of '15, I'm not sure. But last year, just the whole year.

Q. Where is the laundromat that the bus took workers in 2016?

A. In a town called Bridgeton, Bridgeton, it's like 15 miles away from the camp. And the guys like it there, because there's more Hispanic stores, they wire the money and they like it there and they ask to go there.

Q. In 2015, how did workers at Sun Valley do laundry?

A. Like I said, I send them, I send them in the vans, buses a few times and the other van, they didn't, I offered them and they, they went like, we don't, we don't drive. We don't drive the buses that far away and they wanted to go that far away. They look for something, a different transportation. I don't know how they did it, but they stopped asking for that service.

Q. In 2015, did Sun Valley's workers use Sun Valley's buses?

A. Yes, sir, a few times.

Q. Sun Valley, in 2015, Sun Valley's workers used Sun Valley's buses to travel to the laundromat?

A. Yes, a few times.

Q. Who arranged that?

A. I asked Russell Marino, Jr. if it's okay to do that, he said yes, just to check, to pick out the best two buses, everything works on them, you know, the lights and brakes and all that and then I sent them.

Q. Were there other buses where the lights didn't work?

A. Not, it's more, everything works, but the older buses are older. They look ugly on the road.

Q. Did the brakes on the other buses work?

A. Yes.

Q. Who drove the buses to take the workers in 2015?

A. A couple of guys that had the Mexican licenses.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Marino.

A. Good morning.

Q. Thank you for bearing with us this morning as we resolved some of these matters, I appreciate you coming here today.

As I previously introduced myself, my name is Jason Glick. I represent the Secretary of Labor in Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, case number 2017-TAE-00003. And I represent the Administrator of the US Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division in a case called in re: Agustin Hernandez, case number 2017-MSP-00002.

And we're here today for the deposition of both yourself, Mr. Joseph Marino, and of the corporation, Sun Valley Orchards, LLC.

As I'm sure your counsel has explained, I'm going to ask you questions

Q. Were your responsibilities at Marino Brothers the same as your responsibilities at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. What do you do at Sun Valley?

A. Sales and administrative.

Q. Anything else?

A. I work. Yes, I work, things on the farm. Things, various things that need to be done on the farm, tractor work, any work, anything that needs to be done. I'm primarily, I'm in sales and administrative.

Q. About what percent of your time at Sun Valley do you spend on sales and administrative work?

A. It depends on the time of year.

Q. In 2015, about what percent of your time did you spend on sales and administrative work?

A. It depends on the time of the year.

Q. How would you break down the year?

A. There's the summer season when we're in harvest and the majority of my time is spent in sales. Then there is postharvest and pre harvest where I might be spending most of the ground every day, every day, every day, every day. You've got to cut it. There's nobody there to do it. So that's how that went.

Q. Who first told you that some of the workers were having issues?

A. I think Agustin. Agustin is the manager of the help. He went and told my uncle and I think my brother that these guys are not happy. They don't like the work. They don't want to do it. They want to go home. Well, then I find out, what do you mean they want to go home, they just got here. So we all went over to talk to them to see what it is that we could do to make it work and they just, they said no. My brother even explained to them, you know, we understand, it's not about pride. It's not about anything else. Just, you know, can you, nope, they didn't want to do it. They wanted to go home.

Q. Who did you first learn about the situation from?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Was it your uncle?

A. I don't remember. I don't know. I

A. A bit over one month and a half.

Q. What did you do after that month and a half?

A. Some of the coworkers got together and bought a little grill and I saw that they were able to do their own cooking in that grill, so I joined them.

Q. Where did they use the grill?

A. Inside the room.

Q. Was this in the room where you slept or a different room?

A. Yes, in the room where we had our bedroom because we were not allowed to go to the kitchen.

Q. Why weren't you allowed to go in the kitchen?

A. Agustin had his business in the kitchen. His business was the store and we were not allowed to go into the kitchen.

Q. How do you know you weren't allowed to go in the kitchen?

A. A few coworkers and I asked him once if we could go into the kitchen and fix us our dinner and he said no because that's where he has his store and we should not go into the kitchen.

Q. Could you store your food in the kitchen?

A. No. We couldn't access the kitchen.

Q. So, what kind of food did you -- were you -- did you eat after that month and a half?

A. We would eat beans, chicken, rice, zucchini, eggplant, eggs.

Q. I'd like to talk to you about during that first month and a half -- rather, I'd like to talk to you about, was Agustin selling anything other than the meal plan?

A. He would sell soda, Red Bull, Monster.

MR. SCHULTE: Sorry to interrupt. Are you getting kind of a cross signal on the line, too, or is that just here? It sounds like there's another call in the background.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: No, we're not. We're fine here.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Yeah, we're fine here, too.

MR. SCHULTE: It's just me. Okay, then. Carry on.

A. Repeating his answer, he said that he would sell Red Bull, Monster and orange soda and he also sells or sold beer, Caguana. Caguana, it's like a large beer.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Now you're gone? Can you hear me?

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Yes.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: We can't see you. We can only see Mr. Schulte.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Let us try to fix this.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Okay. We can see you. We're fine. If you can hear me.

Q. Let me just back up a moment. Where did you -- you said you purchased some food. Where did you store the food that you purchased outside -- that you purchased outside of Sun Valley?

A. The supermarket at the office.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Let me explain as the translator. In Mexico the store is sort of 7-11 and all those types of stores are called Oxxo, O-X-X-O. So, he's referring to the stores like convenience stores in the United States as Oxxo, even though they're not called that way here. His answer is that he would go to the supermarket or to the Oxxo.

Q. What I meant to ask is, where did he store the food? Where did they store the food that they bought?

A. Just in boxes.

Q. Where did you store the boxes?

A. Next to our beds.

Q. You stored chicken in the boxes?

A. No. It was usually canned food so that it would not go spoiled.

Q. Was the chicken in a can?

A. Yes, chicken in a can, beans in a can.

Q. Okay. Thank you.

I'd like to get back to what I was asking you about just before. So you were saying that Agustin sold orange soda, Red Bull, Monster and beer. Anything else?

A. No, that would be it.

Q. Did he sell anything aside from drinks, items other than drinks?

A. He would sell chips, cookies. I think that's it.

Q. What kind of soda did he sell?

A. Orange soda, Coke, Pepsi. I think he also sold Pepsi. I also believe there was like a grape soda.

Q. How much did he charge for these drinks?

A. One dollar for the soda. The canned Coke, one dollar. Red Bull and Monster, 1.50. And if you wanted to have a beer, Caguana would cost 5 U.S. I don't remember how much he would charge for a six-pack of beer.

Q. So, you recall it was $5 for a single beer?

At the dining room we had to buy soda or something because there was no water or anything else and we'd have to purchase soda. So we bought the soda from Agustin for our dinner, mainly to hydrate so that we would be ready to work for the following day.

Q. Thank you. I'd like to go through each of these times. At your first break, your first five-minute break, would you typically purchase a Red Bull or Monster?

A. Yes, because at that time when we were working with cucumbers or with pickles, we didn't -- there was no water around. So, we needed to hydrate. That's why we bought it and drank it. So, we bought either a Monster or a Red Bull or the sandwich that he had.

Q. Was the sandwich included in the meal plan or was that an additional cost?

A. No, we needed to pay it. It had an additional cost.

Q. How much was the sandwich?

A. 1.50.

Q. In a typical week, how many breaks -- how many short breaks would you have in the afternoon?

elsewhere.

Q. When did they start buying them from elsewhere?

A. That was towards the end. At least that's what I would observe. I wasn't drinking a lot. I would buy approximately two beers a week.

Q. So, how many weeks were left in the season when people started buying beer elsewhere?

A. That was like the last week.

Q. Where did Agustin sell the beers from?

A. Right there in the store in the diner -- in the dining room. He had it there in the fridge.

Q. How far was the dining room from where you slept?

A. Five to 15 meters away. It was right there in the building where we were staying.

Q. I'd like to ask you briefly a little bit more about the bathrooms. Can you tell me anything else about the bathrooms?

A. There was shit on the walls and on the toilets like rubbed on the walls -- on the toilets. There was toilet paper everywhere, dirty toilet paper everywhere. Some would piss outside of the toilets. In the showers there was even dirt, mud, hair, human hair everywhere. Where you would wash your hands, the sinks were all tarnished. There was also like water everywhere. Water and hair everywhere.

Q. I'm sorry, there was -- just to clarify, there was human -- was there human feces in the bathroom, on the bathroom?

A. Yes. From the very first time we arrived at the field, the bathrooms were under this condition. We took on the initiative to clean them and this was a completely useless effort because they did it again.

All the people who were working there on contract felt that we would get sick working in those conditions, so we decided to clean the bathroom. We told the foreman about the situation. He talked to the undocumented workers and asked them to please be more clean, but it was useless. They kept doing the same thing. So, we ended up just giving up. They weren't paying attention, so we just gave up.

Q. Are you referring to non-H2A workers?

A. Yes.

Q. Why did they do this?

A. It was mainly people from Michoacan.
Q. Why did they do this?
A. I don't know. Maybe it was their style. I really don't understand why they would do it. It was their way of doing things.
Q. Did the non-H2A workers share your bathroom or did they have other bathrooms?
A. No, we all had to share the same bathrooms.
Q. Did Agustin ever clean the bathrooms?
A. No. Well, towards the end when the inspectors came.
Q. Did anyone else at Sun Valley ever clean the bathrooms?
A. No.
Q. Did the bathrooms smell badly?
A. Horrible.
Q. What about the dorms? What were the dorms like?
A. It was the same case. The mattresses were all stained. They had a very bad affect. They looked very bad. There was actually an outbreak of measles and I got sick.
Q. Anything else remarkable about the dormitories?

A. I think that was all.

INTERPRETER JENKINS: I would like to make a correction. It was not measles. It was chicken pox.

A. There is also, there were garbage cans very close to the dorm and they would get full of flies and then these flies would end up in our dorms.

Q. All right. Thank you for telling me that. I'd like to move on and talk a little bit about transportation.

How would you get from the dorm to the fields?

A. We had these type of vans that we used as transportation.

Q. What were those vans like?

A. They were like micros where you could fit 20 people in them. I don't have the exact number or I don't remember how many people could fit in what they call micro -- microbuses.

Q. What condition were the buses in?

A. Inside these vans or these microbuses, there was a lot of dirt.

Q. How much time would you spend in these vans each day?

A. Every day.

Q. Can you estimate how much time; ten minutes, an hour, three hours?

A. It would depend in which field you were going to work at. It could be from 15 minutes to 30 minutes.

Q. And that's total per day, 15 to 30 minutes?

A. What do you mean?

Q. Fifteen to 30 minutes, is that the total round trip travel or is that just one way?

A. Fifteen minutes there and 15 minutes back, depending on where the field is. There was another field that was farther away and it took us 30 minutes to get there and another 30 minutes to get back.

Q. During the course of 2015, did you ever leave the farm?

A. Only when I got chicken pox. I mean I was staying. I was sleeping in the fields, but since I had fever, I could not go to work. And I would like to clarify that during this time I was no one could go in.

EXAMINATION OF JOSE LUIS SILVA LOPEZ

Q. Did anyone ever open up the kitchen after it was closed for the evening?

A. Sometimes he would leave his brother-in-law in charge of the kitchen.

Q. What did Agustin's brother-in-law do?

A. He would sell them.

Q. Did he open up the kitchen again?

A. Yes. Or he would leave it open and he would close it later.

Q. When Agustin's brother-in-law left the kitchen open, could you use the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. Because we were not allowed to go into the kitchen to cook or to do anything.

Q. Did you buy beer from Agustin?

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you repeat that for me, please?

Q. Did you buy beer from Agustin?

A. Sometimes in the afternoon.

Q. About how often?

A. About three days a week.

Q. Was it more on some days than other days?

Q. What time of day did the water tend to -- did the hot water tend to run out?

A. After work in the afternoon we'd go get a shower and the people who were the last to take the shower wouldn't get any hot water.

Q. Did that happen to you that you didn't get hot water to take a shower?

A. Yes.

Q. How often did that happen to you at Sun Valley in 2015?

A. Around five times.

Q. Were there sinks in the bathroom at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there hot water in those sinks?

A. I think so.

Q. Was there always hot water in the sinks?

A. No.

Q. When wasn't there hot water in the sinks?

A. When everybody would take showers and the hot water would run out.

Q. Did that ever happen to you that there was not hot water in the sink?

A. Well, we didn't use the sinks much.

Q. Now I want to ask about the transportation to the fields. Did you ride vehicles to get between the dormitory and the fields at Sun Valley?

A. Yes, we would take a bus.

Q. Did you take a bus every day?

A. Yes.

Q. How long would you ride on that bus in a typical day at Sun Valley?

A. It wasn't much. It was only like five or ten minutes. The field that was furthest away would be between 15 and 20 minutes away.

Q. That amount of time, was that one way or round trip?

A. Only one way.

Q. How many trips a day would you take between the dormitory and the fields?

A. Sometimes it would be up to three trips a day because we would be moved from one field to another.

Q. Did you ride the buses from the fields back to the eating area for lunch?

A. Yes. We would be taken back to the kitchen that was right there in the fields and that's where we would be taken to have lunch.

Q. So, in the morning would you ride on the bus to get from the dormitory to the field?

A. Yes.

Q. And then would you ride the bus back from the field to lunch?

A. Yes, in the company bus.

Q. What would be the next time you rode on the company bus in a typical day after lunch?

A. Well, lunch would be over at 1:00 and at 1:00 we'd go back to the field.

Q. Would you go back to the fields on the company bus?

at some point?
A. Yes.
Q. When was that?
A. Can I check the date? 03:53PM
Q. Just to the best of your recollection.
A. 2015.
Q. At what time during the year?
A. The month was May.
Q. How many months did you work there? 03:53PM
A. Less than a month. Two or three weeks.
Q. Other than those two or three weeks in May of 2015, have you worked for Sun Valley Orchards at any other time?
A. No, that was the first time. 03:54PM
Q. When you worked at Sun Valley, were you on an H2A visa?
A. Yes.
Q. How did you find out about the employment opportunity working with Sun Valley Orchards? 03:54PM
A. There's an office that hires people so that they can work in the United States.
Q. Where is that office?
A. It's located in this city, the City of Poza Rica. 03:55PM

Q. Anything else?

A. No, because it was the season for asparagus.

Q. Did you have -- were there bathrooms in the fields? 04:01PM

A. No.

Q. So how did you relieve yourself?

A. It was a complete odyssey. We had to either hold it or run towards the trees. 04:02PM

Q. Was there water in the fields?

A. No, there wasn't any water.

Q. All right. Let me change the subject a little bit and talk about food. How did you eat at Sun Valley? 04:02PM

A. Mr. Agustin would sell us food.

Q. Did he sell you a weekly meal plan or food by the item or how was that arrangement?

A. It was a weekly arrangement. We had to pay for our meals weekly. 04:03PM

Q. Did Agustin sell anything else to the workers?

A. Yes. He would sell soda, Red Bull, Monster, beer, bread, milk, water and coffee.

Q. Can you repeat that list? I didn't quite 04:04PM

A. They just took us to the field. That was it.

Q. During your time at Sun Valley, did you ever leave the farm? 04:30PM

A. Yes, but I had to pay to go out.

Q. Who did you have to pay?

A. We had to pay to worker -- I'm not sure if he was a cousin or a relative of Agustin.

Q. How much did it cost? 04:31PM

A. At that time I think I paid $15.

Q. How many times did you leave Sun Valley during your course of employment?

A. I think that it was twice.

Q. Sorry. How much was it the two different times? How much did you have to pay? 04:31PM

A. I think that the first time I paid $10 and the second time it was 15. And it was the same thing for washing clothes. If I wanted to wash clothes, I had to pay so they would take me to the laundry. So I decided to wash my clothes by myself in the field? 04:32PM

Q. I'd like to talk to you a little bit about the end of your employment with Sun Valley.

EXAMINATION OF DARIO MORALES ACOSTA

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. My name is Jacob Heyman-Kantor. I am an attorney for the plaintiffs. With me today is Jason Glick. He's also an attorney for the Department of Labor. We represent the Secretary of Labor in the matter of Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, 2017-TAE-00003.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you repeat

Q. Why did you participate in the meal plan?

A. Because we didn't have a place to cook for ourselves.

Q. Why didn't you cook in the kitchen?

A. The kitchen was closed as soon as the others ended eating.

Q. Why didn't you cook when others were eating?

A. Agustin's wife was the one that did the cooking and we were not there -- just a few of the workers were there.

Q. Why didn't you cook for yourself?

A. We didn't have a place to keep it. For example, we didn't have a refrigerator and we did not have a range or stove.

Q. Why couldn't you store food in the refrigerators there?

A. Because they kept the key to themselves and they didn't let us use the key.

Q. Who is they?

A. Agustin's relatives, Agustin himself, his wife and a nephew.

Q. Are these people who worked in the kitchen?

A. Yes.
Q. You mentioned a key. What is the key to?
A. The main door to the kitchen.
Q. How much did you pay for meals?
A. 100 U.S. per week.
Q. What did you drink in the fields?
A. During the light breakfast in the morning, sometimes Gatorade or a soda.
Q. What did you drink in the fields?
INTERPRETER GARCIA: You want me to repeat the question?
MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Yes, please.
A. They brought water from the kitchen to give us some in the afternoon.
Q. What else did you drink during the course of the day?
A. Sometimes at dinner, one beer.
Q. Did you drink anything else during the course of the day?
A. No, that's it.
Q. Where did you get the soda, Gatorade and beer?
A. Agustin sold them.
Q. Did he sell any other drinks?

mean an inspector from the Department of Labor?

MR. SCHULTE: Same objection. Just ask him if he knows. Don't tell him the answer that you want him to give.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: You're making a speaking objection now.

Q. Did you mean inspector or did you mean investigator or did you mean something else by surveyor?

A. I think they were inspectors because they paid attention to the dorms, to the field and the transportation units.

Q. Do you know why Agustin didn't sell beer when the inspectors came?

A. I imagine because he did not have a permit or a license to sell it.

Q. Did Agustin do anything else differently when the inspectors came?

A. He did not sell beer. And of the transportation units that were usually used, there were two that were in very, very bad condition. Those two transportation units were not used when the inspectors were there.

Q. Do you know why those weren't used?

A. Maybe because he was going to be reprimanded because the transportation units were not in appropriate conditions to transport people.

Q. Were those transportation units buses or vans or cars or something else?

A. Buses, two buses, the small ones.

Q. What was wrong with those buses?

A. The side windows were broken. The seats were torn. The floor was open in some areas and the tires were in bad condition.

Q. When you say the floor was open in some areas, do you mean there were holes or something else?

A. Yes, there were like two holes. You could actually see the highway when we were on it.

(Interpreter Garcia was relieved by Interpreter Jenkins.)

Q. How often, if ever, during the 2015 growing season were those buses used to transport workers to the fields?

A. The first month and a half they were using them and then they weren't using them.

Q. At what point did they stop using the transportation?

A. It's when the surveyors or inspectors started to visit us.

Q. How often during that first month and a half did they use those two buses that they hid from the inspectors?

A. Every day. It was continuous.

Q. Just to recap, did you work at Sun Valley during any year other than 2015?

A. No. Only in 2015.

Q. So, everything that you're telling me about; the beer and the cigarettes, the drinks, the transportation, all of that, what year are you talking about?

A. Yes.

Q. In a typical day, how much time were you in a bus?

A. Thirty minutes in the morning, 25 minutes in the afternoon.

Q. In a typical week, how many days of the week did you go on a bus?

A. Four days out of the week.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: One second. Mr. Schulte, we don't see you in the video. Are you still on the line?

RESPONDENT'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

Respondent, Sun Valley Orchards, LLC ("Respondent" or "Sun Valley"), by and through undersigned counsel, moves for Summary Decision and Order against the Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor ("Administrator"), on all counts. The Administrator contends that, for the 2015 growing season, Sun Valley violated multiple H-2A program requirements. There is no genuine dispute of material fact that Sun Valley complied with all H-2A program requirements and, further, that the Administrator has failed to establish any violations of those requirements. Instead, the facts demonstrate that the Administrator's case involves outrageous overreach and seeks hundreds of thousands of dollars from a family farm based on requirements that do not exist: free cold beer, full employee choice over work assignments, and repayment for meal and food purchases from third parties. Sun Valley fully complied with its duties under the H-2A program and respectfully submits that there is no genuine dispute of material fact that it has done so. Accordingly, Respondent moves for Summary Decision for the reasons set forth in the accompanying memorandum of law, asking the Court to dismiss the Administrator's claims in their entirety.

Respondent, Sun Valley Orchards, LLC ("Sun Valley" or "Respondent"), respectfully moves this Court for summary decision in its favor as to all counts of the Complaint, pursuant to 29 CFR § 18.72 of the Rules of Practice for Administrative Hearings Before the Office of Administrative Law Judges. There is no genuine dispute as to any material facts, and Respondent is entitled to decision as a matter of law. The Administrator seeks to collect $376,697.61[1] in back wages and $212,250.00 in civil money penalties ("CMPs") on multiple theories, each of which lacks merit and will be discussed below.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The claims made by the Administrator involve the 2015 growing season, the first year in which Sun Valley participated in the H-2A temporary non-immigrant agricultural visa program. The two largest claims raised by the Administrator involve an allegation that Sun Valley failed to comply with the "meals" requirement (20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g)), and failed to comply with the three-fourths guarantee (20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i)). The "meals" claim totals $432,529.28, of which $234,079.28 constitutes "back wages" and $198,450.00 as CMPs. This is, by far, the largest claim in the case, with the second largest being $135,623.94 in back wages and $1,350.00 in CMPs for the three-fourths guarantee allegation. Three other allegations involve claims for CMPs only: housing conditions ($3,600), local transportation ($7,500), and "coercion to waive rights" ($1,350). Each claim by the Administrator will be addressed in turn below, but Sun Valley asserts in the strongest possible terms that none of these claims is supported by the undisputed facts of the case and each claim should be dismissed.

From the Administrator's claim for "back wages" and civil money penalties, an outsider would think that this case involved rampant human trafficking and systematic exploitation of workers – the nearly $600,000 sought is nearly double the award in the 2005 Global Horizons case, 2005-TAE-00001, and more even than the 2010 Global Horizons case, 2010-TAE-00002. Global Horizons is widely considered the "worst of the worst" for H-2A employers, with a litany of different violations and workers held in sub-human conditions. If Global Horizons' punishment was $346,809.30 in back wages and CMPs for the 2005 case and $522,510.64 for the 2010 case, then the Administrator must believe that Sun Valley is even more monstrous, right? Certainly, that is how the Solicitor's Office will try to portray them. As with most things, however, truth is far less dramatic and far simpler than fiction. This case is a pure example of prosecutorial overreach and not some boogeyman employer. There is a massive difference between being held in human bondage and wishing for easier work or access to cold beer at "cost."

This case involves a family farm using the H-2A program for the first time and employing a new set of workers. The main claims break down as follows:

- A group of 19 H-2A workers were not happy that the work harvesting asparagus, which they admit was disclosed in the job order, was more difficult than anticipated, and delivered an ultimatum to Sun Valley that they wanted to do different jobs or they would return home to Mexico. They chose, as a group, to return home after working for a week to a week-and-a-half, leaving Sun Valley in the lurch for their asparagus harvest. Most of the three-fourths guarantee claim arises from these workers who voluntarily departed shortly after arriving at the farm.

- The remaining three-fourths guarantee claim arises from a particularly rainy period in the summer of 2015, which caused Sun Valley's pepper crop to fail. Without a crop to harvest, there simply was not enough work for the entire crew, so Sun Valley calculated the number of hours already worked by its H-2A employees, and sent home approximately 44 workers who had already met their three-fourths guarantee target. The Administrator does not appear to challenge the reason for the termination, but simply attempts to offer a different calculation of hours.

- The bulk of the Administrator's claim rests on payments made by the workers to Agustin Hernandez, who wears two hats in this case. He acted as a "crew leader" for Sun Valley with respect to helping train the workers and tracking their work in the fields. Completely outside the employment relationship with Sun Valley, however, he also sold prepared meals, drinks, and other items to workers, at their discretion. No money was ever deducted from workers' paychecks, no money ever went to Sun Valley, and no one at Sun Valley directed or otherwise controlled these sales. For purposes of the H-2A employment relationship between the workers and Sun Valley, the payments by the workers to Mr. Hernandez were no different than workers buying meals from a McDonald's or drinks from a Wawa or a ShopRite. Even if Sun Valley had any legal liability for these third-party purchases, the Administrator does not seek to recover Mr. Hernandez's profit (not one cent of which went to Sun Valley), but the full amount of the payments ($234,079.28) plus nearly $200,000 in CMPs. This is both legally unsupportable and completely outrageous.
- Apart from the absence of a cognizable legal theory for recovering any of the amounts paid to Mr. Hernandez for the 3 meals that he provided to the workers each day, the Administrator has somehow concluded that the workers were entitled to completely free soft drinks, energy drinks, sports drinks, and cold beer on demand, at "cost." Not surprisingly, this six-figure claim finds no support whatsoever in the H-2A regulations.

- The remaining claims involve relatively smaller CMP amounts, each of which will be discussed below, and each of which should be dismissed.

At most, this case involves misunderstandings by some of the new H-2A workers about their employment with Sun Valley. But even viewing the facts through the worst-case prism, this is not the monstrous employer that the Administrator attempts to portray here, and pursuing nearly $600,000 in recovery from them will destroy a family farm and a legacy of honest hard work built over generations. Sun Valley Orchards and the Marino family respectfully ask the Court to look past the overheated and intended-to-outrage language from the Administrator and consider the testimony of the workers themselves and the pure facts of the case, and then to dismiss these claims and allow this farm to put this nightmare behind it and go back to producing food.

I. Introduction

A. Background

Sun Valley Orchards is a family farm operated by 4 generations of the Marino family, dating back almost 100 years. Sun Valley grows, packs, and distributes fresh market freestone peaches, cucumbers, squash, pickles, peppers, and asparagus on approximately 2,500 acres of farmland in Salem and Gloucester counties, near Swedesboro, New Jersey. Deposition of Russell J. Marino, Jr. ("RM")[2] at 19. Brothers Russell J. Marino, Sr. ("Russell Sr.") and Harry Marino, Jr. formed Marino Brothers in the early 1970s to operate the family farm, and changed the name to Sun Valley in 2012 when two of Russell Sr.'s sons, Joe Marino and Russell J. Marino, Jr. ("Russell Jr."), became partners in the company. Those four are the current owners of Sun Valley, assisted in the packing house by Russell Jr.'s son, Dominic Marino. Russell Sr., Harry, Joe, and Russell Jr. are the managers and make all executive and operational decisions for the farm – staff-level employees assist with bookkeeping, packing/shipping, and crew-level direction of the field workers.

B. Kitchen, Meals, Drinks, and Housing

Sun Valley operates a housing site for its non-local workers (H-2A or remote U.S.), including sleeping facilities, a dining room, and a large kitchen with two stoves, two freezers, a microwave, and five refrigerators that Sun Valley has provided. AH 54-56. Sun Valley pays 100% of the utilities for the kitchen – gas, electricity, and water. AH 57; Exhibit R1[3] (paid utility bills).

> We provide the facility and we have nothing to do with it after that. It's not our – it's not – it's nothing to do with us.
> ...
> We provide free housing and we provide a kitchen. Pay all the utilities and that's it.
> ...
> I think we bought everything, the stoves, we – we provided all that.

JM at 34-35. Mr. Marino later added to this testimony by reiterating that:

> And I do want to clarify the question about the food and kitchen stuff. The reason the answers are no, because we are not involved, never have been involved in anything that goes on with food or kitchen. That's a fact. Always has been. Always will be. We provide the free facilities and that is it. End of story.

JM 79. Agustin Hernandez operated the kitchen and an informal "store" and workers had the option to pay him for prepared meals or items outside of these meals (soft drinks, snacks, etc.). None of the witnesses testified that Sun Valley purchased or sold food or charged workers for meals or any other items – food or otherwise – only that they had purchased them from Mr. Hernandez. HMGD 69-70 (paid Mr. Hernandez, never paid Sun Valley); CCR 10-11 (only paid Mr. Hernandez for meals and drinks); Admr. Interrog. Resp. 16 ("The Administrator is not aware of documents showing payments workers made to Sun Valley through Sun Valley managers other than Agustin Hernandez.").

The workers testified that they never interacted with any of the Marinos, both that the Marinos did not observe them purchasing drinks from Mr. Hernandez and that the workers never raised any concerns with the Marinos, apart from a single meeting discussed below. See, e.g., CCR 46-47 (never saw or interacted with any supervisors or bosses from Sun Valley, only dealt with Mr. Hernandez).[4]

Mr. Hernandez took the initiative to offer hot prepared meals to the workers, purchasing food and hiring and paying kitchen staff, which included his wife. AH 13-14. Sun Valley never gave Mr. Hernandez any instructions about how to operate the kitchen or who could use the kitchen, nor did it set any rules for how he ran the kitchen. JM 36; AH 106-107. No money was deducted from workers' wages by Sun Valley nor paid by workers to Sun Valley for meals or any other items purchased and re-sold by Mr. Hernandez. DMA 39; HMGD 69.

The workers were free to purchase meals or drinks from other vendors with their own money, and several testified to doing so. JLSL 19 (purchased cases of soda from store), 23-24 (purchased beer from store), 51 (bought drinks from store and [4] In response to an Interrogatory asking the Administrator to "[i]dentify any worker from the 2015 season who discussed the provision of meals, condition of housing, or condition of transportation with Sun Valley," the Administrator offered only the possibility of a pre-season orientation but no claim of complaints made or discussions held during the work period. did not get in trouble with Sun Valley or Mr. Hernandez for doing so); CCR 24 (bought soda at store); DMA 39 (went to store near laundromat), 44-45 (able to purchase food and drinks at store on free trips to laundromat/store twice a week). Several workers chose to prepare their own meals or purchase meals from other sources, all without consequence from Sun Valley. MAES 11 (coworkers decided to cook their own food and not purchase prepared meals from Mr. Hernandez).

The H-2A workers deposed in the case testified that they had never asked Sun Valley if they could use the kitchen and had, instead, either paid Mr. Hernandez for prepared meals or made other arrangements for meals. DMA 38 (never asked to put anything in refrigerator or to use stove); CCR 65 (no one ever asked about using the kitchen); HLCT 37 (no workers ever raised issues about the kitchen with Marinos).

Another part of Mr. Hernandez's job as a "crew chief" involved keeping the housing site or "camp" clean and well-maintained. AH 23-24, RM 43. This included directing employees to clean the camp – bathrooms, dining room, etc. – as well as performing repairs to windows and doors, painting, and any other issues identified during the New Jersey state inspection of the camp at the beginning of each season. AH 24-25.

C. Three-Fourths Guarantee and Early Departure Forms

Apart from the typical one or two early-departing or absconding workers that any H-2A employer experiences, there were two times during the 2015 growing season when significant groups of H-2A workers departed from Sun Valley early. The first group, approximately 19 workers, decided as a group that harvesting asparagus was more difficult than they wished, stopped working en masse, and despite pleas from Joe Marino and Russell Jr. for the workers to stay at Sun Valley and go back to work so that the asparagus harvest wouldn't be lost, chose instead to return home to Mexico after working for less than 2 weeks of a 6-month job order. This departure occurred during the first week of May 2015.

The second group of approximately 44 workers completed three-fourths of the job order before being sent home because Sun Valley's pepper crop failed due to excessive rain that Summer. Of those 44 workers, the Administrator agrees that 38 were paid-in-full for their work that season, but challenges Sun Valley's three-fourths calculation for the remaining 6 workers. This later departure took place during early August 2015.

The two groups of departing workers involve diametrically opposite analysis. For the May departures, Sun Valley does not claim that three-fourths of the hours were offered, but will demonstrate that the workers departed voluntarily. The parties even agree that the workers found the work more difficult than they planned before coming to New Jersey. The issue is not one of calculation, but one of personal motivation – why did the workers leave? For the August departures, the reason for departure is clear (the pepper crop failure), and the Administrator challenges only Sun Valley's calculations.

The workers departing in May were all working on the asparagus harvest and all came from the region of Veracruz. HMGD 47-48. The three remote deponents from this group of 19 each testified that he had never picked asparagus before doing so at Sun Valley in 2015. HMGD 46 (had only ever worked on tobacco and sweet potatoes, never with asparagus); CCR 47-48 (had worked in agriculture for 20 years, but never on asparagus); HLCT 36 (experience picking strawberries, peaches, cucumber, and squash but not asparagus; although picking strawberries is "heavy work," "[a]sparagus is a bit harder"). Each acknowledged that the Sun Valley job order explained to them that they would be picking asparagus. HMGD 48; CCR 61; HLCT 10.

Although the workers did not care for asparagus harvesting, they understood the need for doing so. HLCT 12-13 (working in the fields involved harvesting asparagus and nothing else "because it was the season for asparagus") CCR 65-66 (asparagus grows very quickly compared to other vegetables and if not harvested quickly, "[i]t rots. It grows too much and it is not useful any more"); HMGD 52 (if asparagus is not harvested on a regular schedule, "[i]t goes soft. It rots," and without enough workers to harvest it, "all the asparagus would have rotten.").

The first group of workers – including the 19 asparagus workers from Veracruz – arrived at Sun Valley and began work on or about April 26, 2015. HMGD 8 (worked for around two weeks), 51 (started work the day after arriving)[5]; CCR 52 (agreed with April 25, 2015 arrival); HLCT 38-39 (took four days to get from Monterrey, Mexico to Sun Valley in New Jersey; crossed border on April 23, 2015). Less than two weeks later, on or about May 5, 2015, the workers stopped working, announced to Mr. Hernandez that they were not going back to work, and demanded a meeting with Russell Marino, Jr. to discuss their position. HMGD 28-29 (stopped working during second week at Sun Valley and met with Russell Jr. the next day).

Mr. Garcia Dominguez testified that Russell Jr. asked them "do you want to work or not or what's happening here." HMGD 31. Although the workers believed that Russell Jr. was upset that they were refusing to work and threatening to quit, each had a different account of the specifics of the meeting.[6] Mr. Cervantes Ramirez thought that the meeting was to get clarification as to whether they were to be paid on an hourly or piece-rate basis, and recalled that no one spoke for the workers and there was no "leader" of the group. CCR 38-39, 43-44, 63.

Mr. Cinta Tegoma recalled that a group "just didn't show up to work," and asked Mr. Hernandez to meet with Russell Jr. because they believed that Mr. Hernandez was being "too demanding" and asked too much of the workers, and that the meeting occurred the following morning. HLCT 26, 27. Mr. Cinta Tegoma characterized himself as a spokesman for the group, telling Russell Jr. that he was "thankful" and "really grateful" "because of the opportunity of giving me a job. And I was also somehow embarrassed because I couldn't give him what he wanted." HLCT 26-27. His complaint was that the work was too difficult – "we're not machines or animals. We're just people. People get tired." HLCT 27. He clarified his testimony, [6] And each forgot that Joe Marino was at the meeting, although Joe, Russell Jr., and Agustin each clearly remembered him being there, and Joe Marino testified as to the exchange between the workers and Agustin and Russell Jr. in Spanish. Compare JM 47-54 (describing meeting, questions to workers about what was wrong, workers advising Marinos that they wanted to go home to Mexico); RM 104 (Agustin, Joe, and Russ met with 19 workers); AH 168 ("Russ, Jr. and Joey came to the camp to talk to them"), 171 (19 workers at meeting with "Joey, Russ and me"); with CCR 61 (never met anyone else from Marino family except Russell Jr.); HMGD 35 ("It was us and Russell and Agustin."); HLCT 26 ("Mr. Russell was there and we were like 15 or 17 more persons in that meeting.").

however, agreeing that he did not object to working long days, but would have been happy to stay if the supervisors were "more respectful" toward him. HLCT 36, 55.

Mr. Garcia Dominguez recalled that one of the workers spoke for the group, but was not certain which one, and thought that he may not have been an H-2A worker. HMGD 35-36.[7] His recollection generally matched the other workers – he believed that the meeting was to ask for more respect from Mr. Hernandez and not to be yelled at for their work. HMGD 36. He specifically remembered the workers telling Russell Jr. "We just – we're not good for this job. Why can't we get a different job." HMGD 37. He also recalled that the workers still in the fields continued to work at Sun Valley, but the group that requested the meeting all returned to Mexico. HMGD 39; see also HLCT 54 (all departing workers were cutting asparagus).

Agustin's recollection of the meeting matched the workers' on the key issue – he also remembered them saying that the work was more difficult than expected and that they were unable to do the job. AH 170-185. He recalled them complaining that the work was "too hard" or "too much" and telling him that the domestic workers who had been there for years were a "great group. They work hard. We can't keep up with them. This job is for mens [sic] he told me." AH 177-178. He knew that the workers > were talking and talking, that they didn't like the job. And they were suffering in the field. I saw them. And calling by phone. I hear a couple of guys calling to their agent in Mexico. I spoke with their agents. And I just, I explain to her, it was a lady, I explain to her and I told them that the job was too tough for them. And then he asked me to speak with one of the guys again. And he tell her, that yes, the job was too tough. That it was not for them. That job wasn't for them. That they would want to leave.

[7] He also thought that there were between 6-12 workers at the meeting. HMGD 35.

AH 173. None of the workers told Mr. Hernandez that they had a specific request or complaints or wanted any changes, nor did any indicate that they wanted to stay at Sun Valley. AH 176-177. Mr. Hernandez specifically told workers "you don't want to go, you don't have to go." AH 177.

Russell Marino, Jr. clearly remembered the 19 workers leaving as a group, "they said they couldn't do the work." RM 101. He elaborated that Agustin had brought to his attention that "there were several men that either couldn't do or didn't want to do the work and wanted to go back home." RM 101. A day or two earlier, Agustin had advised him that some workers "were finding the work much harder than they had anticipated and they were complaining a little bit." RM 102. After speaking with the workers and realizing that they had made up their mind as a group to return to Mexico, Russell Jr. started the process of preparing the necessary paperwork to report the early departures to DOL and DHS and to arrange return bus transportation for the workers. RM 103.[8] In light of the need to bring in the asparagus harvest, Russell Jr. noted that "I wasn't firing the guys, because I obviously needed help to get my product to the packing house." RM 103-104.

Joe Marino specifically remembered that he and Russell Jr. "were just trying to figure out what the problem was. ... What's going on, what's, what's the problem. What don't you like?" JM 53. Once the workers had announced to the Marinos that they were leaving, "All I know is we did everything we could, we needed them bad. We couldn't afford to lose them. They wanted to go home, so." JM 54. As the workers described, without enough help to harvest asparagus, it will rot and the farm will suffer significant losses. In describing the group of early-departing H-2A workers, Joe Marino explained: "We were just starting asparagus harvesting and we really needed them bad. ... They didn't want to do the work. And we were stuck, stuck in a bad way, in a real bad way. We needed, we needed workers." JM 48. "I'm sure you're aware, this H-2A program is not an easy program to navigate. You just don't pick up the phone and replace 20 people. Meanwhile, the asparagus comes out of the ground every day, every day, every day, every day. You've got to cut it. There's nobody there to do it. So that's how that went." JM 48-49.

Under 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(n), an H-2A employer has two days to file a report with DOL's Chicago National Processing Center and DHS if a worker abandons employment. In consultation with Sun Valley's filing agent, Theresa Ward at National Agriculture Consultants, LLC ("NAC"), Russell Marino, Jr. printed out standard abandonment/early departure forms in which the 19 workers could report that they were terminating their employment. RM 118-119, 141-142. Ms. Ward advised Russell Jr. that checking "the box that said they didn't want to do the work" or couldn't do the work, "might make it harder for the men in the future to get return work." RM 120. The workers testified that Russell Jr. never told them which box to check on the form as to the worker's reason for departure. HMGD 45. Mr. Cinta Tegoma echoed what Ms. Ward had told Russell Jr., expressing a concern independent of that conversation, namely that if he chose the option saying that he was leaving because he was unable to do the job, "then I wouldn't be able to go back to the United States." HLCT 68-69.

The second group of workers left during August 2015 after a period of excessive rain led to the failure of Sun Valley's pepper crop. RM 127-128; JM 75-76. When asked whether Sun Valley could have afforded to keep all of its workers for the rest of the growing season after the pepper crop failure, Russell Jr. answered as follows: "If I was able to, I would have kept them. I'm sure that would have been very detrimental to me to hang onto labor. You don't want to pay labor to do that, walk through the fields and don't pick anything. That would be foolish." RM 140. Joe Marino reiterated this when asked the same questions the next day – "We had a crop disaster. We lost our pepper crop. We had nothing left to pick. Nothing left to pick. There's no work. So we determined we had to let people go. And we made sure that their contracts were fulfilled for the guys that were laid off. That's the end of that. There's no work. It's a disaster." JM 75-76.

Russell Jr. worked with Sun Valley's bookkeeper to create a list of workers who had already completed their three-fourths guarantee under Section 655.122(i). RM 127; JM 47. Sun Valley uses a state-of-the-art payroll tracking system to record the precise amount of time worked by each employee and the number of units for which the applicable piece-rate payments would be made, and then relays that data to an accounting/payroll software program that generates reports and paychecks. JM 19-23, 39-45. The time-tracking system is known as "P.E.T. Tiger" and involves bar-coded photo identification cards provided to each worker and hand-held bar-code scanners linked to iPads that each crew chief would use to "clock-in" and "clock-out" each of the workers and to track the number of units processed for piece-rate purposes. JM 21. Every day, the data collected by the P.E.T. Tiger system on iPads would be transferred to the central computer in the Sun Valley office, where the "Famous" software platform assembles the information, calculates the hours worked and units processed by each employee, and generates pay statements and paychecks at the end of the week. JM 23. If an employee were sick or otherwise did not work on a given day that the rest of the crew did, that would be reflected in the P.E.T. Tiger and Famous systems. JM 78.

When Russell Jr. and Lisa Justice reviewed the Sun Valley payroll records in August 2015, they had an idea of how many workers were needed to complete that season's work and how many needed to be let go. RM 129-131. Russell Jr. and Lisa prepared a list of workers based on the number of hours completed – choosing those who had met their three-fourths guarantee threshold. RM 130-131, 133. Once that list was prepared, Russell Jr. and Mr. Hernandez called the workers together, discussed the pepper crop disaster and explained that there was not enough work remaining for all of them. RM 131-132. Russell Jr. recalled that "a lot of the guys at that point, they were, they were excited. Some of them were excited to go home and see their families." RM 132. At a subsequent meeting, a day or two later, the list of names was read out of the workers who would be returning to Mexico. RM 133. Sun Valley provided the list of workers to Ms. Ward at NAC, who then reported the early departures to DOL and DHS, as required by law. RM 150.

II. Argument

Summary decision is appropriate where no genuine issues of material fact remain for trial. See, e.g., Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 254 (1986). Where parties file cross-motions for summary decision, the Court must apply the summary judgment standard to each party's motion individually. See, e.g., Appelmans v. City of Philadelphia, 826 F.2d 214, 216 (3d Cir. 1987). As set forth point-by-point below, while the parties may disagree about the legal conclusions in the case, there are relatively few genuine issues of material fact remaining for trial, if any. Sun Valley respectfully asserts that the Court can and should issue a summary decision in Respondent's favor, dismissing the claims presented by the Administrator in this matter.

A. Sun Valley Complied With the Meals Requirement and Did Not Deduct Any Money At All From Its Workers.

The majority of the Administrator's claim against Sun Valley relates to the workers' meals. The precise theory under which the Administrator seeks to recover more than $430,000 from Sun Valley is not yet clear from the pleadings or discovery responses, but no theory supports this request.

To the extent that the claim rests on the error in the 2015 ETA Form 790 job order – stating that a kitchen would be provided and not referencing a "meal charge," that theory fails for two reasons. First, as discussed below, Sun Valley does maintain a kitchen and the workers chose instead to purchase prepared meals from Mr. Hernandez. Second, the Administrator's Determination and Order of Reference specifically seek $0.00 in back wages and $0.00 in CMPs based on the alleged violation of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(q) – the failure to disclose the "meal plan" charges. DOL 00006-13 (Administrator's June 22, 2016 Determination Letter). Thus, no recovery can arise from this theory – either factually or legally.

If the Administrator's theory is a violation of 20 C.F.R. § 655.173, meal charges in excess of the Department-approved limit, that theory also fails. There is no such violation alleged in the Determination or Order of Reference. The testimony and documentary evidence make clear that the workers purchasing prepared meals from Mr. Hernandez paid him between $75 and $80 per week. CCR 10 ($75); JLSL 10 ($80); MAES 10-11 ($80). For 2015, the allowable daily meal rate for the H-2A program, under Section 655.173, as set by DOL, was $11.86, or $83.02 per week. See 80 Fed. Reg. 9482 (Feb. 23, 2015). Thus, any payments made by workers were safely within the allowable limit set by the Department of Labor, itself, and no liability can arise on those grounds.

Third, were the Administrator to argue that the amounts paid by the workers exceeded the actual cost of purchasing, preparing, and serving the meals, that argument would fail as well. Such a claim is not alleged in the Determination or Order of Reference. The calculation of "back wages" claims makes clear that this is not how the Administrator has analyzed the claim – the amounts are $75 or $80 per week for each worker, uniformly, indicating no effort to compare that amount to the actual cost of the food or labor involved in preparing the meals. DOL00144-159. The same Wage & Hour Division office brought a similar claim against Sun Valley in 2013, based on this idea of Mr. Hernandez "over-charging" migrant U.S. workers for meals under MSPA. DOL 00104. The Administrator assessed "back wages" of only $6,237 for 81 workers there, compared to $128,510 for 147 employees (19 of whom were at the farm for less than 2 weeks), and $1000 in CMPs in 2013 compared to nearly $200,000 in 2015. Id. Without conceding that a claim for "over-charging" workers is in any way appropriate here, the disparity in "back wages" claims makes clear that the actual cost-benefit to the workers played no role in the Administrator's calculations. The workers ate all of the meals prepared by Mr. Hernandez and the kitchen staff that he hired – there is clearly no way for Sun Valley to "recoup" those meals if it is forced to pay several hundreds of thousands of dollars for them now.

Finally, the closest argument to the Administrator's calculation of damages (albeit still hundreds of thousands of dollars off) comes from the Department's litigation position in the Global Horizons litigation. There, the Administrator took the position that the entire amount of the "undisclosed" meal charges must be repaid to the H-2A workers, with CMPs. 2010-TAE-0002 (Dec. 17, 2010) (Order on Partial Summary Decision), at 8-9. The Court interpreted the basis for this claim as sounding in the lack of disclosure in the job order, described specifically as follows:

> The purpose of the disclosure is to allow the regulating federal agencies to assure that foreign workers are not being brought into the country to do work at wages below the prevailing wage that would be paid to U.S. citizens and others living in this country with the right to work here. See generally 20 C.F.R. § 655.103(a) (ensure that U.S. workers are not adversely effected); see also, 20 C.F.R. §655.122(a) (preferential treatment of aliens prohibited). If workers agree to meal prices that afford a profit to the employer, the effect is the same as if the employer paid below-market wages.

Id. at 8.[9] In Global Horizons, the employer itself collected the meal charge, purchased the food, and provided the meals to the H-2A workers. Id.

[9] The Court also expressly rejected the Administrator's attempt to assess CMPs, finding that, despite the lack of disclosure, "there is no indication that the Company in fact exploited the workers (or gained an advantage by hiring them rather than U.S. workers) by overcharging for meals." Id. at 9 (further stating that "[m]ost important" is the lack of proof that the employer profited from the preparation and sale of the food).

Here, as discussed throughout this brief, the undisputed facts demonstrate that Agustin Hernandez performed each of those roles, and Sun Valley neither deducted money from the workers' pay checks nor collected money from them later. Not a single cent was paid to Sun Valley with respect to meals (much less for the separate sales of drinks, snacks, or beer). Thus, even under the holding in Golden Horizons, the concern that non-disclosure might result in profit-taking by an employer that, in effect, could lower wages below the Adverse Effect Wage Rate is completely absent here. The better analogy is workers taking their own wages and going out to purchase food on their own. No profit accrues to the employer and the integrity of the wage-setting process remains perfectly intact.

The Administrator does not seek to recoup any profit earned by Sun Valley related to meals charges (there was none; Sun Valley never received a single penny related to meals), nor any profit earned by Mr. Hernandez as the difference between what he paid for meals and what the workers chose to pay him. Likewise, the Administrator specifically seeks $0.00 in CMPs for Sun Valley allegedly failing to disclose the meal plan vs. free kitchen/transportation. So, no money is claimed for the allegedly misleading job order, no money is claimed from Mr. Hernandez for receiving that money (whether in total or in any potential excess above actual cost), but the Administrator seeks to collect more than $430,000 from an employer who never received any of that money and paid everything owed in wages already.

1. Sun Valley Provided a Kitchen and Access to Stores for the Workers to Purchase Food and Prepare Meals.

Sun Valley maintains a full kitchen in the housing provided to its workers, pays the utilities for the kitchen (electricity, gas, and water), and provides local transportation to bring workers to a store and laundromat, where they can purchase food and other personal items. Under 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), an H-2A employer "either must provide each worker with three meals a day or must furnish free and convenient cooking and kitchen facilities to the workers that will enable the workers to prepare their own meals." Sun Valley clearly complied with the second option. As referenced supra, Sun Valley furnished and paid the utilities for the kitchen, and provided free transportation to a store to purchase food that could be prepared in the kitchen.

The Administrator does not claim in the Determination that Sun Valley's workers were charged for trips to the store. None of the workers ever asked the Marinos to use the kitchen facility to prepare their own meals and, obviously, none were ever refused such permission. DMA 38 (never asked to use stove or refrigerator); DMA 38 (never asked to put anything in refrigerator or to use stove); CCR 65 (no one ever asked about using the kitchen); HLCT 37 (no workers ever raised issues about the kitchen with Marinos). Several workers testified to purchasing food from nearby stores. See supra. Sun Valley does not have a policy excluding its workers (H-2A or domestic) from using the kitchen in the housing unit. JM 78.

So, there is a fully-furnished and employer-paid-for kitchen, free trips to the store to purchase food, and $430,000+ in recovery demanded by the Administrator. This defies logic and the entire claim should be dismissed immediately.

2. Agustin Hernandez Operated the Kitchen and Sold Drinks In His Private Capacity; He Alone Incurred Costs and He Alone Received Payments from the Workers

One of Sun Valley's non-H-2A employees, Agustin Hernandez, has operated a side business, in which he purchased food items at his own expense, paid approximately three other individuals to cook meals for workers at his own expense, collected money from some (not all) of the workers at their discretion, and paid for the food and kitchen staff wages from this money. See, supra.

The concern raised in Global Horizons, supra, that an H-2A employer might gain some wage advantage by failing to disclose a meal plan and turning a profit that effectively lowered H-2A workers' wages (similar to a Section 3(m) claim under FLSA lowering wages below the applicable minimum wage) is not applicable here. No matter how much the workers did or did not pay to Mr. Hernandez, Sun Valley's wage liability would never vary from the AEWR in effect for that season.

The Administrator seems to conflate Mr. Hernandez's role at Sun Valley as a crew leader or field worker with his side-business buying food and preparing meals or selling drinks to workers. See Admr. Interrog. Resp. 16, supra. The duty to comply with the attestations made in the H-2A petition documents rests solely with the H-2A employer. For purposes of this non-disclosure/wage-reduction theory from Global Horizons, it is the payment of money by a worker to the party paying that worker's wage that is the concern, and potentially raises a breach of the contract between the H-2A employer and the Department of Labor by which the employer promises (under penalty of perjury) to meet the requirements set forth in the job order. To introduce the added dimension of a non-H-2A employee as creating liability in that context makes no sense. See, e.g., Young v. Bethlehem Area Vo-Tech Sch., 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13531, *39 (E.D. Pa. Feb. 28, 2007) (dismissing breach of contract claim resting on respondeat superior theory, as "it would make no sense to involve the doctrine of respondeat superior (which establishes vicarious liability for negligence) in a claim for breach of contract.").

If the allegation against Sun Valley involved tortious conduct rather than the funds collected by Mr. Hernandez, then his role as an employee might be relevant. Even in such a case – which is clearly not presented here – the vicarious liability is limited to situations where the employee is acting within the scope of his or her employment. See, generally, CBS Corp. v. FCC, 535 F.3d 167, 190 (3d Cir. 2008), vacated on other grounds by FCC v. CBS Corp., 556 U.S. 1218 (2009).

Likewise, if Mr. Hernandez and Sun Valley were "joint employers" of the H-2A workers, under a farm labor contractor theory, then his conduct with respect to meal charges might be relevant to Sun Valley. See, e.g., Ramos Ortiz v. Paramo, Civ. Action 06-3062, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 72387 (D.N.J. Sept. 19, 2008). In Ramos Ortiz, the plaintiffs were domestic agricultural workers from Puerto Rico, living in a farm labor camp operated by defendant Carmen Paramo in nearby Monroeville, NJ, while working at the defendant farm, Martin J. Catalano Farms, LLC, in Pilesgrove, NJ. Plaintiffs brought FLSA and MSPA claims against Ms. Paramo as a farm labor contractor and against Catalano Farms on a "joint-employment" theory, arising from charges paid by the plaintiff-workers to Ms. Paramo for meals and drinks. These charges allegedly brought their wages below the FLSA minimum, and the MSPA claims arose from Ms. Paramo's recruitment, housing, and transportation of the workers.

Judge Kugler, in assessing whether Catalano Farms might be liable for the actions of Ms. Paramo, particularly with respect to the FLSA claims for meal and drink charges, began from the logical starting questions of: (1) who was the "employer" of the plaintiffs, since the FLSA's duties are those of the employer; and (2) whether the defendants were "joint-employers" such that the violations of one employer (Ms. Paramo) could legally be attributable to the other employer (Catalano Farms). This analysis involved multiple steps and application of common-law joint-employment principles spanning several pages of the thorough decision. Luckily for all of us in this case, the Administrator has spared everyone that process by admitting (as she must, under the undisputed facts of the case) that "[Mr.] Hernandez was not an employer in 2015 within the meaning of the H-2A regulations." Admr. Resp. to Request for Admission 23. While Mr. Hernandez was originally charged with MSPA violations as a separate farm labor contractor, the Administrator has long since abandoned this theory, dismissed all claims against Mr. Hernandez as an FLC, and stated multiple times in Responses to Requests for Admissions that Mr. Hernandez is and "was at all relevant times Sun Valley's employee, agent, and manager." Id.

In Ramos Ortiz, the plaintiffs were in an employment relationship with the party who collected the meal and drink charges from them that reduced their wages below the FLSA minimum. There is no such relationship between the workers at issue in the current case and Mr. Hernandez. Nor is there any joint-employment relationship between Mr. Hernandez and Sun Valley that would make his collection of meal and drink charges from the workers the responsibility of Sun Valley, unlike the situation of Catalano Farms in Ramos Ortiz.

The H-2A regulations specifically define "employer" in 20 C.F.R. § 655.103(b) as follows:

> Employer. A person (including any individual, partnership, association, corporation, cooperative, firm, joint stock company, trust, or other organization with legal rights and duties) that:
> (1) Has a place of business (physical location) in the U.S. and a means by which it may be contacted for employment;
> (2) Has an employer relationship (such as the ability to hire, pay, fire, supervise or otherwise control the work of employee) with respect to an H–2A worker or a worker in corresponding employment; and
> (3) Possesses, for purposes of filing an Application for Temporary Employment Certification, a valid Federal Employer Identification Number (FEIN).

Sun Valley is the only employer here, and the Administrator has not shown that Sun Valley received any payments from workers for meals nor for anything else. Those payments went to Mr. Hernandez in his individual capacity; the Administrator has similarly no evidence that Sun Valley: (1) directed Mr. Hernandez to collect those amounts; (2) approved of Mr. Hernandez doing so; nor (3) even knew that this was happening. This was clearly outside the scope of his job duties for Sun Valley, so no employer-agent theory of attributing liability to Sun Valley for his actions would possibly apply here.

3. None of the Workers Complained About the Meals; Any Worker Participating in the "Meal Plan" Received and Ate the Meals for Which He Paid; The Amounts Paid to Mr. Hernandez Were Below the DOL-Mandated Level.

Sun Valley never received any complaints about meals or meal charges from its employees in 2015. JM 78-79. Mr. Hernandez specifically testified that he never saw the workers speak with Russell Jr., Joe Marino, or any other member of the Marino family, nor did they ever ask him to relay a message or complaint to them. AH 168-169. None of the H-2A workers from 2015 deposed in this matter indicated that they ever complained to Sun Valley or any of the Marinos individually about the meals provided by Mr. Hernandez, nor meal charges paid to Mr. Hernandez. HLCT 37. In the past, during annual Wage & Hour audits of Sun Valley, the Investigators have commented positively about the meals:

> Wage and Hour has been to our farm since we have been in business, every year they come. They say what a great job we do. The kitchen is fantastic. The food smells wonderful. They all want to sit down and eat with everybody.

JM 79. As discussed above, the workers received the full "benefit of the bargain" with Agustin, being served and consuming the three hot meals per day.

If the job order had stated that 3 meals per day would be provided and the workers would be charged by Sun Valley directly up to the limit set by the Department of Labor for H-2A employers, there would be no issue here. For the 2015 season, DOL permitted H-2A employers to charge up to $11.86 per day for meals.[10] See 20 C.F.R. § 655.173 (setting mechanism for DOL-determined maximum daily meal charge); 80 Fed. Reg. 9482 (Feb. 23, 2015) (announcing meal charge of $11.86/day for 2015 season). That results in a maximum weekly charge of $83.02.

[10] Under 20 C.F.R. § 655.173(b), H-2A employers have the option of petitioning for higher meal charges, based on documents showing the cost of goods and services directly related to providing and serving meals.

The deponent workers consistently recalled that the amounts they paid to Mr. Hernandez were below that $83.02 DOL level. Mr. Garcia Dominguez did not testify as to the amount, but had previously told the Wage & Hour Investigator, Mr. Perez, that he had paid $75/week. DOL00228. Mr. Cervantes Ramirez testified that he paid $75/week, after previously telling Mr. Perez that he had paid $80/week. CCR 10. Messrs. Silva Lopez and Elizondo Soto echoed the $80/week estimate. JLSL 10; MAES 10-11. Mr. Cinta Tegoma originally threw out a figure of $450/week, but later claimed that that was only an example of a number, and estimated the actual meal charge at $70 to $80 per week. HLCT 18-19, 48-49. Only Mr. Morales Acosta offered a figure above $83.02/week, a round estimate of $100/week that no other witness supported. DMA 13. Ultimately, the Administrator's own investigation report [DOL 00014-17] specifically concluded that the amounts paid by the workers were "$75 to $80" weekly. DOL 00017.

Even if the Administrator were to change theories mid-case and raise the issue of the reasonable cost of prepared meals in that area, $10 per day does not go very far in securing three hot meals per day in New Jersey (nor anywhere else in the U.S.). These workers would have been hard-pressed to find a better deal on food in this area, making the Administrator's attack on Sun Valley all the more puzzling.

4. Sun Valley Did Not Take Any Payroll Deductions.

Sun Valley did not deduct any amount from its workers wages; each worker was paid 100% of the amount earned during that pay period. Nor did Sun Valley collect a single penny of money from any worker for meals or any other food items or other products after they were given their complete pay checks.

The H-2A regulations do not define "deduction" but do state throughout the preamble that wages must be received by the worker "free and clear," referencing FLSA regulations as to "free and clear" and "kick-backs" at 29 C.F.R. § 531.35. In that regulation, the Department distinguishes between wage payments made "finally and unconditionally" to an employee, and those where the employee "'kicks-back' directly or indirectly to the employer or to another person for the employer's benefit the whole or part of the wage delivered to the employee." The Administrator can point to no benefit to Sun Valley from any payments by workers to Mr. Hernandez for meals. Had the same workers taken their full paychecks and cooked their own food or purchased prepared meals from restaurants or other sources, nothing whatsoever would have changed with respect to Sun Valley. Once the paychecks were delivered to the workers and the wages disbursed to the employees, Sun Valley had no further cost or benefit with respect to those payments.

The testimony referenced above in the recitation of facts makes clear that none of the workers believed that Sun Valley collected any money from them – either as payroll deductions or as payments later – but, instead, that any payments went directly to Mr. Hernandez. Moreover, even assuming arguendo that Sun Valley had chosen to take deductions and pay the "meal charge" directly to Mr. Hernandez, rather than paying the full wages due directly to each worker, that would not be an improper "deduction" from pay under 29 C.F.R. § 531.40. In such cases, so long as the employer does not "derive any profit or benefit from the transaction," and there is no intent to evade Section 3(m) of the FLSA, the direct deduction is permitted. While the regulations state that "it is suggested that full and adequate record[s]" be created, they are not required by the regulations. The DOL-dictated allowable meal charge level was never exceeded, and there is no proof of any "up-charge" of an unreasonable meal charge. In any event, the undisputed facts show that the workers received their full pay check, with no deduction taken whatsoever.

This applies with even greater force for non-meal purchases by the workers. The Administrator has offered no evidence of any kind establishing or even suggesting that Sun Valley received any payments from any of its employees for meals, drinks, snacks, beer, or any other item. No evidence whatsoever.

In fact, the Administrator's hand-picked witnesses each testified that they only ever paid Mr. Hernandez and never paid Sun Valley. Deposition of Hector Mishel Garcia Dominguez ("HMGD") at 69-70 ("Q: Did you ever pay the company? A: No. Not the company. Q: Did you ever pay the company for meals? A: Not to the company."; "Q: Did Sun Valley deduct any amounts from your paycheck for meals or drinks? A: No. Q: How did you pay for those? In cash or by check? A: Cash.").

5. The $70,000+ Claimed for Sodas, Sports Drinks, and Energy Drinks and $33,000+ for Beer Is Misguided and Miscalculated.

a. There Is No Duty to Provide Free Soft Drinks

The H-2A regulations refer to providing meals – they impose absolutely no requirement on employers to offer free sodas, sports drinks, or energy drinks. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g). The Administrator can point to no authority requiring an employer to provide these items to workers free of charge. Still, the Administrator insists that Sun Valley must pay 100% of the amounts claimed to have been paid by its workers to Agustin Hernandez to purchase these drinks. Not the claimed "profit" of any difference between the wholesale price paid by Mr. Hernandez for cases of drinks and the per-drink price paid by the workers, but the entire estimated value of the drinks. As a reminder, the consistent testimony was that workers paid cash from their own pockets to Mr. Hernandez for these items, no payroll deductions were ever made, and none of the Marinos were ever present when this happened. HMGD 69-70; CCR 10-11; Admr. Interrog. Resp. 16.

Based on questions posed during the depositions, it appears that part of the Administrator's theory may be that workers purchased drinks from Mr. Hernandez during breaks in the field because water was not provided by Sun Valley. In fact, the testimony was that water was provided to the workers at all times, and that they chose to purchase these drinks instead of water. JM 67-71 (describing of practice of having cool water available in the fields, with 20-25 "Igloo coolers" of drinking water replenished throughout the day so that water never ran out)[11]; AH 69-70, 141-150 (cold water available at truck alongside field where work performed, even in multiple fields; worker assigned to refill water jugs during day; some workers preferred soda; free cold water available during meals); DMA 13-17 (water from kitchen available to drink in the fields during day); JLSL 50 (water available in the fields and dining room); HMGD 10, 70-71 (water available in fields; never ran out; sometimes chose to drink water, sometimes soda). In fact, WH Investigator Jose [11] Photographs of these Igloo coolers sitting on pickup trucks in the fields were taken by the Wage and Hour Investigators. DOL 01866-68.

Perez specifically reported that "On the days of inspection, it was verified that migrant agricultural and H-2A workers had cool clean water and single use cups readily made available to workers to use in order to hydrate themselves." DOL00052 (further stating that "[p]ortable toilets with hand-washing facilities were made available to the workers in proper ratio in the fields").

To the extent that the Administrator attempts to argue that the workers were somehow "coerced" into purchasing drinks with their own money because of a lack of available drinking water, that position is pointedly contrary to the testimony of their own witnesses and employees. If, on the other hand, the Administrator tries to claim that soft drinks, energy drinks ("Monster" or "Red Bull"), and/or sports drinks ("Gatorade") should have been included in the weekly meal charge – this claim finds no support in the regulations or case law. The H-2A regulations impose no requirements for what must be included in a given "meal," just stating that the employer must provide a worker with "three meals a day." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g). In the preamble to the 2010 H-2A regulations, an "employee representative" proposed adjusting the subsistence payments while the workers are travelling to and from the United States so that they might "purchase nutritionally adequate meals during their journey," 75 Fed. Reg. 6912, but the Department rejected the proposal.

In the 2015 H-2A special procedures for the range production of livestock, the "herder rule," which obviously does not apply here, the Department added specific language requiring that, "[t]o be sufficient or adequate," employer-provided meals "must include a daily source of protein, vitamins, and minerals." 20 C.F.R. §

655.210(e)(1). As far as beverages, even the herder rule requires only the provision of "potable water" and not additional beverages of the worker's choosing. Id. at Section 655.210(e)(2). The Department clearly knows how to require employers to provide H-2A workers with specific food or drinks, but affirmatively chose not to do so here. Cf. UPMC-Braddock Hosp. v. Sebelius, 592 F.3d 427, 438 (3d Cir. 2010) (agency's use of language in one part of regulation but choice of different language in provision at issue reflects conscious choice by agency).

b. There Is Definitely No Duty to Provide Free Beer

Nothing in the H-2A regulations (or the FLSA, MSPA, or any other DOL regulations) addresses the private sale of beer to workers. There is absolutely nothing in the regulations requiring employers to provide cold beer at wholesale prices to their H-2A employees. If there were, that would probably raise an argument that H-2A employers were creating an unfair recruiting advantage over domestic growers by doing so.

The issue of prices being limited to the "wholesale" or "cost" level applies only where an employer seeks a credit under Section 3(m) of the FLSA for providing an item in lieu of wages in order to reach the $7.25 federal minimum wage threshold. That has absolutely no application to the present case. Even under Section 3(m), the concern is with employers providing "reasonable cost" or "fair value" "board, lodging, or other facilities" in lieu of wages. See 29 C.F.R. § 531.2. Beer is not "board, lodging, or other facilities," the amounts charged by Mr. Hernandez were "reasonable" and "fair," and in no way took the place of the full 100% amount of the wages paid to the workers by Sun Valley. If the workers chose to purchase beer with their wages, that is their right as adults, and it in no way creates liability on the part of Sun Valley for that decision.

The workers were certainly not forced to make these beer purchases from Mr. Hernandez – several of the workers chose not to drink beer and others purchased beer from stores rather than from Mr. Hernandez – demonstrating both the ability to purchase beer (and other drinks or food) from stores and their exercise of free-will in deciding to sometimes purchase them from Mr. Hernandez. MAES 26-27; JLSL 23-24, 53. Of the six remote deponents, two testified that they did not drink beer at all – Mr. Garcia Dominguez and Mr. Cinta Tegoma. HMGD 19; HLCT 16.

Furthermore, the Administrator has utterly failed to explain why the decision by some of the workers to purchase beer from Mr. Hernandez triggers nearly $32,000 in "back wage" liability on the part of Sun Valley. Notably, the workers also testified that Mr. Hernandez did not sell beer to workers when any of the Marinos were nearby – "No. I think this was something he was doing under the table without them finding out." MAES 46; JLSL 50 (Marinos were never there when Mr. Hernandez sold soda or beer); CCR 62 (same); cf. RM 98-99 (Q: "Have you ever seen beer being sold?" A: "No.").

As weak as the argument for the soft drinks is, the claim related to beer purchases is far weaker still and should be dismissed completely and as soon as possible.

c. The "Back Wage" Calculation is Fatally Flawed

The Administrator seeks $71,790.08 for soft drinks and $33,779.20 for beer purchased by some of the Sun Valley employees from Agustin Hernandez in 2015. DOL 02128 (Investigator Perez's summary itemization of drink charges). The basis for this assessment is easy to miss in the 3,700+ pages of documents provided by the Administrator, but comes on a single page (DOL 00143), and is calculated as follows:

For soft drinks:

- An unweighted average of 5 soft drink prices ("Soda, Gatorade, Monster, Juices, and Jarritos") is calculated, for an average drink price of $1.25.
- 14 unidentified employees were asked how many drinks per day they recall purchasing from Mr. Hernandez, with numbers ranging from zero[12] to an astounding 9 drinks per day. The total was divided by the number of workers (see footnote below), for an "Average # of Drinks" of 4.42.
- The average drink price of $1.25 was multiplied by the average # of drinks per day of 4.42 and multiplied again by 7 days/week, for a "Weekly Charge" of $38.68. That number was applied across-the-board to every worker for every week they were with Sun Valley for even part of a week (1,856 worker-weeks), for a total "Back Wage" calculation of $71,790.08.

For beer:

- The chart shows a "Sales Price" of $2.00, presumably the price that the undisclosed workers told Investigator Perez they paid Mr. Hernandez per beer.
- The next line says: "Coors Light" without further notation, then "Qty 30; Purchase $20.99; Cost $0.70; Profit $1.30; x 2 Drinks $2.60; 7 Days $18.20."

[12] Oddly, the blank line was not included in the denominator when Investigator Perez calculated the average. This mistake alone (setting aside for the moment the arbitrary and erroneous nature of the entire exercise) overstates the back wages claim by $5,048.32.

- No explanation is offered for why "Coors Light" was chosen, nor the basis for the $20.99 "purchase," much less the universal 2 beers/day assumption.
- That $18.20 figure was then multiplied by the same 1,856 worker-weeks for a total "Back Wage" calculation of $33,779.20.

The total "Back Wage" assessment comes on the "Breakdown of Back Wages" prepared by Investigator Perez. DOL02128.

The issues with the soft drink calculation are set forth above – it seeks the full price of the drink rather than the difference between price paid to Agustin and price that he paid for the drink; it misuses its own miniature data set to improperly calculate the average; and it relies on unsupported averages, estimates, and guesses as to purchase patterns. Even if the Court were to find Sun Valley somehow responsible for the workers' purchases of soft drinks, the Administrator's proposed calculation should not possibly stand as the basis for any realistic assessment of damages here.

With respect to the somehow worse calculation of beer "back wages," the figure offered by the Administrator carries no credibility whatsoever and is flatly contradicted by the testimony of the Administrator's own witnesses. Counsel for the Administrator asked countless questions of the six former Sun Valley H-2A employee deponents regarding the sale of soft drinks and beer. Although the only basis for calculating the Administrator's claim is the price (unsupported by any specific evidence) of a 30-pack of Coors Light cans. DOL00143. Not one of the deponents mentioned Coors Light and, moreover, there was specific testimony that cans of beer were $1 each and not $2 each, but that bottles may have been $2 each. HMGD 17-18, 20 (cans $1, bottles $2, 40 oz. bottles $5; brands sold were: Bud Light, Budweiser, Modelo, and "Caguama"[13]); DMA 18-19 (didn't really remember price, estimated $12 for a six-pack Cerveza Modelo; cans of Budweiser, Bud Light were cheaper); MAES 16 (Bud Light, Victoria); JLSL 21-22 (Bud Light, Budweiser, and Caguana); CCR 20 (paid Mr. Hernandez $20 for 24-pack of beer cans; Bud Light, Budweiser, and Caguama); HLCT 20 (Corona, Modelo, Modelo Especial). Choosing the largest possible grouping (30-pack) of the smallest and least expensive possible unit (cans) of a domestic light beer, when the workers specifically testified to buying bottles of imported beer that is not sold in 30-packs, is at best misguided and at worst a cynical attempt to improperly inflate the Administrator's claim for recovery.[14]

Moreover, the wholesale price for large quantities of beer is not the proper baseline for determining "reasonable" or "fair" pricing. Mr. Elizondo Soto specifically testified that he had purchased cans of beer at a nearby store – "For each one, I think it was $2 a can, a small can, of the small ones." MAES 45-46. Even if Mr. Hernandez had charged $2 for a can of beer (which the testimony cited above shows he did not do), the only testimony about the purchase price of a comparable item at a store in that area was that that was the market price for that item.

[13] This word was elsewhere translated/transcribed as "caguana" – described by one witness as "like a large beer" rather than a particular brand (MAES 13) and by another as a brand of beer (JLSL 22).

[14] By way of comparison and without conceding that the remainder of the WHD's calculation is accurate nor that there is any duty to sell beer at any particular price, even a cursory review of supermarkets in the area shows that a case of Corona on sale costs $27.99 for 24 bottles – considerably more per unit than the cans of Coors Light used by the Administrator for its calculation. A copy of this week's circular from the nearest ShopRite to Sun Valley is attached as Ex. R2. Even using this price point results in a wildly different "profit"/"back wages" calculation.

Likewise, the assumption that all of the workers drank beer and are, somehow, entitled to "back wages" is specifically contrary to the workers' own testimony. The former H-2A deponents each testified that not all of them bought any beer, and further than not all of their co-workers bought beer. HMGD 19 ("I don't drink. I only heard what the other people asked when they bought the beer."), 21 ("Around maybe 10 or 12 people are the ones that would buy beer" out of an estimated 40 workers total at Sun Valley – N.B. the back wage assessment is for 147 workers); HLCT 16 ("I saw that other people would buy beer from him [Mr. Hernandez], but I didn't buy any."); DMA 39 (there were workers who did not buy any beer); MAES 24 ("Just a few of them [the H-2A workers] were drinking beer, not all of them."); JLSL 49 (some workers did not drink beer but majority did); CCR 22 ("most" co-workers purchased beer from Mr. Hernandez, none bought more than he did, and none during the week).

Those who testified that they did buy beer estimated that they bought 1 per day.[15] DMA 13 (he bought one beer at dinner), 18 (co-workers drank "[a]bout a six-pack" per week; he bought 2-3 beers per week); MAES 27 ("I wasn't drinking a lot. I would buy approximately two beers a week."); JLSL 20-21 (bought beer "[a]bout three days a week" and one or two per day); HMGD 17 ("One beer per night."); CCR 11 ("During the weekends I would buy one or two beers."). Thus, each element that the Administrator has included in its calculation of "back wages" regarding beer purchases introduces further error into the overall calculation, leaving no room for confidence in the Administrator's ultimate figure of nearly $32,000.

[15] The witnesses consistently testified that their coworkers drank more soft drinks and more beer than they did – which raises questions of recollection or accuracy, not support for the Administrator's inflated estimates.

B. Three-Fourths Guarantee

The Administrator's other "back wages" claim asserts that Sun Valley did not meet the three-fourths guarantee with respect to 19 of the H-2A workers employed by Sun Valley who terminated their employment with the farm after less than two weeks of work in May 2015. The Administrator makes a similar claim for another 6 H-2A workers terminated in August after Sun Valley's pepper crop failed due to a prolonged period of heavy rain. These two claims involve significantly different facts – the early-season claim involving "too much" work, and the later-season claim involving "not enough" work. Each will be dealt with separately below.

1. The Early Departing Group

The Administrator has not advanced a consistent theory of why the first group of 19 workers terminated their employment at the beginning of May 2015. In the Administrator's Interrogatory Reponses, when asked to provide the reason that DOL believes each worker terminated their employment and the basis for that belief, the Administrator offered only the vague and internally-contradictory suggestion that "the Administrator alleges that these workers were either constructively discharged because of intolerable conditions of employment at Sun Valley, or were terminated after complaining about the conditions of employment at Sun Valley." Admr. Interrog. Resp. 11. No specific reason is given for any of the 19 workers involved, and during depositions, Counsel for the Administrator seemed to suggest a third theory, in which the workers were not terminated but due, perhaps, to translation issues, believed that they had been terminated.

So, to recap, these workers either were or were not fired, either quit or did not quit, or possibly thought that they were fired but quit. Pleading in the alternative is generally acceptable, but parties may not plead facts in a way that is inherently self-contradictory. The Administrator only deepens the mystery around this point in its response to Respondent's Request for Admission 8, which asked the Administrator to admit that: "If any of Sun Valley's H-2A workers or migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment were terminated without cause prior to the end of the work contract period in 2015, such worker(s) had already been offered three-fourths of the hours set forth in the applicable H-2A job order." The Administrator denied the request, stating, in part, that "the issue with respect to the three-fourths guarantee claim is not whether 'worker(s) had already been offered three-fourths of the hours set forth in the applicable H-2A job order,' but whether Sun Valley complied with 655.122(i) and related regulations." Admr. Resp. to Request for Admission 8. In fact, the duty to offer three-fourths of the hours set forth in the applicable H-2A job order is precisely what a three-fourths guarantee claim is about – the answer is right in the name. The Administrator did not set forth in its response how many hours below that three-fourths threshold were offered and, effectively, concedes that sufficient hours were offered to each of these workers. For Request 9, the response states only that the Administrator "denies that Sun Valley met the three-fourths guarantee in 2015 with respect to the workers identified in the Administrator's Initial Disclosures for whom Administrator seeks back wages for Sun Valley's three-fourths guarantee violation." Id. This falls well short of the requirement in 29 C.F.R. § 18.63(a)(4) that "[a] denial must fairly respond to the substance of the matter."[16] This conclusory and circular statement – the Administrator believes that Sun Valley violated the regulations because the Administrator seeks back wages based on that violation – is not a meaningful denial, and should be deemed an admission on the issue of the three-fourths guarantee.

In fact, the workers testimony aligns perfectly with the recollection of Sun Valley – the H-2A workers assigned to asparagus harvesting found the work too difficult and wished to stop doing that work. For example, Mr. Garcia Dominguez testified that picking asparagus was difficult work, that he had never picked asparagus before coming to Sun Valley, that he knew that picking asparagus was part of the job before he came to the U.S., but that if he had been able to work on another vegetable, he would have stayed at Sun Valley instead of leaving. HMGD 46-48. Under questioning from Counsel for the Administrator, he expanded on this answer to say that we was "willing to continue working at Sun Valley cutting asparagus in 2015" but only "if we had been given another option, such as maybe collecting other vegetables or maybe planting, in the plantation, that's what the other workers were doing. Us, the ones that were hired, we were just picking asparagus and maybe there were other jobs that were easier." HMGD 73. See also CCR 61 (Q: "Do you prefer working on [other crops] as opposed to asparagus?" A: "Yes." Q: "If you could have worked on those instead of asparagus, would you have stayed at Sun Valley?" A: "Yes."); HLCT 30 (would have been willing to stay if Russell Marino, Jr. "had accepted the conditions for us to work," i.e., fewer hours harvesting asparagus). The workers testified that the group that left together were all working together in asparagus, whereas the large number of workers who remained at Sun Valley were working on other crops. See, e.g., HLCT 54.

The Administrator's theory – to the extent that one exists – for this group departing after less than 2 weeks makes no sense at all. Why would Sun Valley go through the time and expense of the H-2A application process, pay to bring workers from Mexico to New Jersey, and then terminate them almost immediately in the middle of essential harvesting work? The explanation offered by Sun Valley (and corroborated by the workers, themselves) is far more plausible – the workers in this group simply underestimated the amount of work involved in asparagus harvesting, the job for which they applied and the job they agreed to do. The H-2A job order gives a list of the possible jobs that an employee might perform (doing work outside that job order exposes the employer to debarment and stiff penalties), but is not a "menu" of jobs that the workers can pick-and-choose from, at their individual discretion. While the workers stated that they would have preferred to do other work, the work that needed doing during that two-week period was harvesting asparagus – a short-season crop that grows incredibly quickly and rots if it is not harvested quickly and regularly. The pace of work would have slowed after that initial harvesting period – potentially more to these 19 workers' liking – and there were dozens of other H-2A workers who did not find the "conditions" (i.e., pace of work) so intolerable that they chose to leave Sun Valley.

It would make no sense at all for Sun Valley to fire these 19 workers at the moment that the farm needed them the most. Rather, these workers quit on the contract, leaving Sun Valley in a terrible position and forcing them to scramble and suffer significant losses. To force Sun Valley to pay tens or hundreds of thousands of dollars to this group of workers who quit on the job adds insult to injury. Sun Valley respectfully asks the Court to dismiss the three-fourths guarantee claim related to these 19 workers in its entirety.

2. Sun Valley Let Workers Go in August After the Pepper Crop Failed and After Each of the Workers Had Met Their Three-Fourths Guarantee for Hours.

Unlike the 19 workers who quit shortly after arriving at the beginning of the season, the workers let go in early August were terminated by Sun Valley. Simply put, excessive rain made the pepper crop fail, there was not enough work for all of the workers, so Sun Valley consulted with its H-2A filing agent, calculated the three-fourths guarantee for the season, and chose workers to let go who had met their guarantee already. Of the 44 workers terminated at this time, the Administrator seeks recovery for only 6 workers. At least some of these 6 workers had been injured or sick for a week or more during the 2015 season, so they would have been "offered" hours beyond those actually worked, for purposes of the three-fourths calculation under Section 655.122(i).

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, Farm and Foreign Agricultural Services, Salem/Gloucester Farm Service Agency, sent a letter dated August 4, 2015, explaining the rain event in mid-summer 2015 and the resulting crop losses in this area, stating as follows:

> Our vegetable growers in Salem and Gloucester Counties have had tremendous crop losses due to the wet weather we received in June and July of this year. Some crops have been totally destroyed with little or no harvest. Frequent rainfall allows disease to infiltrate the plants and the cover sprays, while very costly, have little to no effect. Crops affected include, but are not limited to: Cucumbers, Eggplants, Melons, Peppers, Pumpkins, Squash and Tomatoes. Disaster declarations have been processed for the area.

DOL00457. The decision-making process of how the Marino family responded to this crop disaster, including the decision to downsize part of its H-2A workforce in response to the loss of work, is discussed above.

Exhibit R3 is the calculation of three-fourths of the hours under the job orders that Lisa Justice prepared for Sun Valley. It shows that, for the job order with a start date of April 13, 2015, three-fourths of the hours would be 780 hours, total; for the job order starting on June 1, 2015, three-fourths of the hours would be 570 hours. The chart also shows the 6 workers who departed in August for whom the Administrator now contends "back wages" are owed. Only 1 of the 6, Jose Islas Larraga, started on the earlier contract with the 780-hour target. As shown in the table, he worked for part of June 2015 but recorded no hours worked in July or August 2015. In fact, his last day at Sun Valley was June 15, 2015, at which point he voluntarily terminated his employment. Under Section 655.122(n), this ended Sun Valley's three-fourths guarantee obligation to him.

The only one of the 5 workers appearing on that list who started in June 2015 who falls short of the 570-hour target for that group is Dario Morales Acosta, with 486.34 hours worked. Mr. Morales Acosta specifically testified that he missed a week or week-and-a-half of work with an injured toe. DMA 27. It appears that he was actually away from work for more than 2 weeks, but had he worked the hours offered him during the week-and-a-half period that he acknowledged, as the other workers did, he would easily have exceeded the 570-hour threshold. In fact, the three-fourths guarantee operates on these "hours offered" and not on the hours actually worked. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i). Thus, he has already been fully paid for his work at Sun Valley and no "back wages" are owed to him. Mr. Morales Acosta echoed the feeling of having been paid-in-full, when asked if he thought Sun Valley owed him any money for his work in 2015, he responded "I guess not because at the end of every week they would give us our check and our stub." DMA 50.

Although he worked more hours than the 570 required, Mr. Elizondo Soto also missed a week of work with the chicken pox. MAES 31-32. When asked, he stated that he did not think that he was owed any money for his work, but thought that he should have been paid for a period of time when he was sick and unable to work, since Mexico has mandatory sick leave. MAES 55-56. Needless to say, the U.S. and New Jersey do not have this legal requirement, so no money is owed for this theory.

Unlike the May departure group, where the analysis involves issues of pride and respect and personal motivation, the August departure group involves bar codes and software and black numbers on a white page. Working with their H-2A consultant and bookkeeper, Sun Valley carefully reviewed the data provided by their state-of-the-art computer time-tracking system to determine which workers had met their three-fourths guarantee targets. Each of the 6 workers identified by the Administrator met that level, as did the 38 other August departure workers not included in the Administrator's claim. These workers, as they themselves admit, have already been paid-in-full, and Sun Valley respectfully asks the Court to dismiss the Administrator's claims regarding these workers.

C. Local Transportation

The Administrator has also assessed $7,500 in CMPs based on allegations related to local transportation, under 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(h)(4). Specifically, WHD claims that three of the five vehicles used for this local transportation "had insufficient tread on the tires for safe operation and one had a non-functioning rear directional." DOL 00011-12. WHD further alleges that the Sun Valley vehicles "were operated by drivers who failed to possess valid, unexpired driver's licenses recognized by the State of New Jersey for operation of same." DOL 00012.

Regarding the condition of the vehicles' tires and turn signal, Sun Valley uses both an in-house mechanic and third-party mechanic to conduct safety inspections and perform repairs, and the vehicles all passed their state inspections and a pre-season inspection by the State of New Jersey DOL. Ex. R4 (inspection and repair records for 2015). The Administrator has offered no evidence to support the allegation regarding the physical condition of the vehicles' tires or tail lights. Accordingly, summary decision is appropriate on this issue.

With respect to the licensing of the vehicles' drivers – the only testimony on this issue came from Mr. Hernandez, who stated that he approved of two drivers with driver's licenses issued by the Mexican government, and that Sun Valley did now know who was driving the vehicles. AH 124-125. The Administrator has not shown that these licenses are not "recognized by the State of New Jersey" to operate a motor vehicle. Summary decision is appropriate on this issue, as well.

That said, beyond the maintenance records referenced above, Sun Valley does not have specific documentary proof regarding the tread depth or tail lights of these 3 vehicles. To the extent that the Administrator can come forward with such evidence, Sun Valley still asserts that the $7,500 in CMPs on these claims is excessive, and that the Administrator has failed to articulate the basis for these CMPs nor the application of the mitigation factors in the regulations. This claim, just like all of the others, should be dismissed immediately and completely.

D. Housing

The Administrator seeks $3,600 in CMPs based on allegations that window or door screens were torn, some garbage cans were missing lids, one worker had placed a mattress on the floor instead of the bed frame, and "a number of Sun Valley's dormitory bathroom sinks lacked hot water."

The State of New Jersey Department of Labor and Workforce Development inspected Sun Valley's housing site on February 25, 2015, as it has before every growing season for decades. Ex. R5. That inspection specifically found that the water met all applicable standards (per a third-party test) [DOL 00331-334], windows and doors had appropriate screening, and that proper "Garbage Refuse" containers were provided. Id. The inspection report did not identify a single condition requiring correction. Id.

To the extent that workers had torn screens, removed garbage can lids, or moved a mattress between the State inspection and the WHD inspection, that is entirely attributable to the workers and not to Sun Valley. Russell Marino, Jr. testified that he directed and worked with Mr. Hernandez on maintaining the housing site, and Mr. Hernandez further testified that he assigned one of the workers to perform clean-up duties at the housing. RM 43; AH 23-25. Agustin also testified that Russell Jr. visited the housing on a weekly basis "to see how clean we have everything." AH 106.

Regarding the claimed lack of hot water at some of the sinks, the sinks are all connected to the same plumbing and have equal access to hot and cold water. If enough workers shower or use the sinks in a short period of time, the hot water heater will need a short amount of time in which to generate more hot water, but the workers testified that the water would be hot again in a few minutes. HMGD 53 (one group could take hot showers, then other workers would wait for more hot water); CCR 29-30 (lots of workers in house, so sometimes waited for more hot water); JLSL 29 (hot water available in sinks, ran out when everyone took showers at same time, "we didn't use the sinks much"). The evidence specifically refutes the Administrator's claim that no hot water was available in "a number of" the sinks.[17]

Sun Valley passed its housing inspection with the New Jersey Department of Labor before the season with flying colors – no violations noted. Ex. R5. It then specifically directed Mr. Hernandez to keep the housing in that good condition throughout the growing season, a task made difficult with approximately 100 young men living there. RM 43. Mr. Hernandez performed some of the cleaning, himself, and directed workers to handle cleaning, as well. AH 23-25. If the Administrator can come forward with documentary proof that the housing conditions fell below the requirements for farmworker housing,[18] then Sun Valley would respectfully assert that it took all possible steps to maintain the housing properly at all times during 2015 and the assessment of $3,600 in CMPs is excessive and unwarranted.

[17] At an absolute minimum, the $450 in CMPs attributable to the sinks should be dismissed.

E. There Was No "Coercion" to Waive Rights

The Administrator seeks an additional $1,350 from Sun Valley based on an allegation that an undisclosed number of H-2A workers were "coerced" into signing a form in an attempt to secure some kind of waiver of their three-fourths guarantee rights. Specifically, the determination letter states that:

> Russell J. Marino sought to have covered workers waive rights conferred under sec. 218 of the INA, regulations at 20 C.F.R. § 655, or regulations at 29 C.F.R. § 501. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the employer and or his farm labor contractor coerced workers leaving the contracts prior to the ending date to sign a form created by Sun Valley Orchards, LLC stating that they were leaving early for "personal reasons" in an attempt to have them waive their ¾ guarantee rights as party to the contracts. Workers left the job early due to the conditions stated above in 20 CFR 655.122(i) and/or because of misrepresentations by the employer and/or his farm labor contractor.

DOL 00013. There are a number of erroneous statements in that paragraph that need to be unpacked.

First, the notice does not specify whether the party accused of this conduct was Russell Marino, Sr. or Russell Marino, Jr. Neither father nor son committed the actions alleged, but clarity in the accusation should be expected. The allegation is equally vague as to whether either Marino engaged in the alleged conduct or that neither did so but, rather, Mr. Hernandez was the "coercive" party.

[18] The housing was constructed prior to the application of the "new" 1980s standards for farmworker housing.

Second, the consistent testimony from Russell Marino, Jr., Joe Marino, Agustin Hernandez, and each of the 6 H-2A workers deposed in Mexico was that the workers were given a standard form to record that they were departing before the end of the job order period, to be provided to DOL and the Department of Homeland Security's Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS), as required by law. Each of the workers agreed that the form was presented to them with a choice of reasons why they were departing early. See, e.g., HMGD 43 (recognizing the document "I can read the options that I read on that document and I had to choose one of them"); HLCT 68 (he put the check on the form). See also DOL 01945 (blank form, as provided to workers, apparently from photograph taken by unidentified worker and provided to DOL by way of CDM).

Third, the testimony and documentary proof clearly show that the forms provided to the workers did not "state" that they were leaving for personal reasons but, rather, gave a wide range of explanations for early departure, of which that was only one of the available options that the workers might choose. Many of the workers, in fact, did not make that selection. See Ex. R6. Despite the allegation that the workers were "coerced" or that forms were provided "stating that they were leaving early for 'personal reasons,'" the majority of the 19 H-2A workers who departed at the beginning of May 2015, after less than two weeks of work, did not check the box for "personal reasons." See id.

Admittedly, it is unlikely that the majority of these workers had sick or deceased family members at the exact same moment that required them to return to Mexico on short notice. The testimony of Agustin Hernandez and some of the H-2A workers helps explain why they might have chosen the explanation on the form that they did. Mr. Hernandez testified that the workers were nervous that, if they stated that they were unable to do the work or keep up with the pace of work, then they might not be hired again on future H-2A visas. AH 182-184. Mr. Hernandez repeated several times that neither he nor any of the Marinos told the workers how to complete the form and that he had simply told them to "check the box more convenient for you" or "whatever is more convenient for you." Id. at 183, 184.

Mr. Silva Lopez added that the workers departing in August 2015 had spoken by phone with the agent in Mexico who had helped them find and obtain the job with Sun Valley, a woman named "Mayra," who advised them that it was "okay for us to sign the document, that it would do us no harm." JLSL 57.

The workers were asked during their remote depositions whether Russell Marino, Jr. had given them the form to sign, directed them how to complete the form, or in any way threatened them with respect to the form – each stated that Russell Marino, Jr. did none of those things. JLSL 58; HMGD 44-45; CCR 65; MAES 39-41; HLCT 51-52, 68, DMA 32. Each testified that Agustin Hernandez had handed them the form and allowed them to complete it. Id. Mr. Hernandez testified specifically that none of the Marinos were present when he handed out the forms, both to the 19 workers leaving in May and to the 44 workers leaving in early August. AH 182-183, 207.

Undersigned counsel has not located any cases applying this provision (29 C.F.R. § 501.5), and only one case involving the assessment of civil money penalties under Section 501.5's predecessor provision at Section 501.4. See Global Horizons, supra. There, the H-2A workers actually signed an agreement under which their employer could collect income tax deductions, even though such withholding was expressly prohibited by IRS regulations.[19] Matter of Global Horizons, 2005-TAE-00001 (May 6, 2011) (Order Denying Motion to Dismiss), at 93. In that case, the Court explicitly noted that the employer "admitted they knew those deductions were impermissible." Id. The workers also signed documents agreeing to employer deductions from wages that were (and are) clearly prohibited by the H-2A regulations. Id. at 93-94.

In the present case, by contrast, the workers were specifically instructed that they were free to select which ever "box" they wanted on the early departure reporting form and specifically testified that they were concerned that if they reported that they were unable or unwilling to perform the work required, then they might not be allowed back in to the U.S. on future H-2A visas.

Moreover, unlike in Global Horizons, where the employer relied on the signed documents as a defense to the Administrator's claims regarding its concededly illegal practices, Sun Valley has never attempted to use the worker-signed departure forms as a defense to the Administrator's groundless three-fourths guarantee claims in this case. The forms were prepared to document the reasons for the workers departures – as chosen by the workers – but those forms are not an attempt to have the workers waive any rights that they had. The reason the workers identified by the Administrator are not entitled to "back wages" and the Department is not entitled to CMPs is not because of those forms, but because the May group left voluntarily, thus ending any three-fourths guarantee responsibility under Section 655.122(n), and the August group had already completed its hours worked/offered under Section 655.122(i)(1) and (3). There were no rights to waive, and this claim should be dismissed with all the rest. Cf. United States v. Castillo, 496 F.3d 947, 961 (9th Cir. 2007) (en banc) (dissent) (party "cannot waive a right that does not exist"); United States v. Burns, 433 F.3d 442, 444 (5th Cir. 2005) (party "cannot waive a right that did not exist at the time of the supposed waiver"); see also Connecticut v. Barrett, 479 U.S. 523, 532 n.2 (1987) ("I do not accept that a defendant could voluntarily, knowingly, or intelligently waive a right that he or she does not understand to exist.").

[19] Just as the anti-waiver regulation has changed, the IRS regulations regarding tax withholdings for H-2A workers have also changed since that case was decided. See IRS Publication 51 (Circular A), Agricultural Employer's Tax Guide, available at https://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p51.pdf (last checked June 1, 2017).

CONCLUSION

Despite Counsel for the Administrator's best efforts to paint the Marino family and Sun Valley Orchards as exploiters of workers on a massive scale, they have ultimately failed to prove any violations whatsoever. The eye-popping claims for back wages and CMPs are not matched by any credible proof of wrongdoing. Even the Administrator concedes that the payments for meals and drinks were made to Agustin Hernandez and not to Sun Valley. The 19 workers departing after less than two weeks in early May 2015 decided that the work was too difficult for them and left Sun Valley in dire straits with respect to the asparagus harvest. The group of workers departing in August 2015 after the pepper crop failure had all met their three-fourths guarantee levels. None of these workers were threatened or coerced into signing anything, much less into any effort to waive their H-2A rights. At its heart, this case is all smoke and no fire.

Sun Valley respectfully asks that the Court dismiss the Complaint in its entirety against them as soon as possible, so that they can file their Equal Access to Justice Act motion for the full amount of their attorneys' fees and costs incurred in the defense of this baseless litigation.

Counsel for Respondent

The Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor ("Administrator"), through the undersigned attorneys, hereby responds to Respondents' First Set of Interrogatories in the above-captioned case.

The Administrator reserves the right to supplement, revise, correct, or clarify any of the responses herein. The Administrator interprets the Interrogatories not to seek attorney-client communications between the Wage and Hour Division and the Office of the Solicitor, attorney work product, or information concerning documents provided to the Office of the Solicitor by the attorneys that represent the Respondent. The Administrator further interprets these interrogatories to relate only to the instant matter and not to the matter that the Court dismissed on May 15, 2017, Secretary of Labor v. Agustin Hernandez, 2017-MSP-00002.

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Interrogatories as untimely served insofar as they call for responses after the close of discovery in this case.

2. The Administrator objects to these Interrogatories to the extent they seek information possessed by Department of Labor agencies other than the Wage and Hour Division, or possessed by individuals employed by such agencies. The Wage and Hour Division is the only Department of Labor agency that is a party to this case. The Administrator interprets such requests to refer only to the Wage and Hour Division.

3. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Interrogatories to the extent they seek disclosure of materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product privilege, the informant's privilege, the deliberative process privilege, the investigative techniques privilege, the common-interest privilege, and any other applicable protection, restriction or immunity from discovery. Such privileges are explicitly preserved and are not waived or limited by any response herein. The inadvertent disclosure of any information subject to such privileges or protection is not intended to relinquish any privilege or protection and shall not be deemed to be a waiver of any applicable privilege or protection.

4. The providing of information herein shall not be construed as an admission by the Administrator that any such information is relevant, material, or admissible for any purpose, including trial, in the above-captioned action, and the Administrator does not waive his right to object, on any ground, to the admissibility or use of the information provided in response to the Interrogatories.

5. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Interrogatories to the extent they seek information that is neither relevant to this action nor reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. The Administrator further objects to the Interrogatories to the extent that they purport to impose discovery obligations beyond those provided for in the Rules of Practice and Procedure for Administrative Hearings of Administrative Law Judges, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, or other applicable rules or statutes.

6. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Interrogatories to the extent that they are overbroad, unduly burdensome, or would require an unreasonable investigation on the part of the Administrator given the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, and the issues at stake.

7. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Interrogatories to the extent that they are ambiguous, vague, confusing, misleading, or incomprehensible.

8. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Interrogatories to the extent a relevant time period is not specified, and to the extent the time period specified is overly broad.

9. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Interrogatories to the extent they seek admissions for which the Administrator has no independent means to ascertain the truth. The Administrator further objects to the extent that the information requested is not held by the Administrator or by an individual or entity with which the Administrator maintains a relationship that would enable her to procure the required information.

10. To the extent that the Administrator responds to Respondent's Interrogatories to which she objects, such objections are not waived. These responses are made without waiver of, and with preservation of all issues as to the competency, relevancy, materiality, privilege, and admissibility of these responses as evidence for any purpose.

11. All responses herein are based on the Administrator's current knowledge and reasonable belief, and the Administrator reserves his right to amend or supplement these Responses.

12. The Administrator incorporates by reference every general objection set forth above into each specific response set forth below. A specific response may repeat a general objection for emphasis or for some other reason. The failure to include any general objection in any specific response does not waive any general objection to that Interrogatory.

4. For each witness who is an employee of DOL, state, in complete and precise detail, all training and/or education that such witness has had with respect to the allegations that form the subject matter of this proceeding.

Response: The Administrator interprets this question as seeking information regarding who the Administrator will call as a witness at the merits hearing. Accordingly, the Administrator objects on the basis that this Interrogatory seeks the Administrator's witness lists before the time called for in the Court's February 7, 2017 order.

Subject to the foregoing and the general objections, the Administrator states as follows: John Crudup, Jose Perez, Steven Risko, and Charlene Rachor have completed Basic 1 and 2 training and the "Just in Time" agricultural training. In addition, Charlene Rachor has attended the Advanced Agricultural Training. These trainings include instruction on investigation techniques and the H-2A program, among other topics.

5. State whether any written statements were obtained in connection with the allegations set forth in either Notice of Determination (Exhibits 12 and 13). If a statement was obtained, please state the date the statement was obtained and the name, present or last known address and job title of the person or persons giving and obtaining the statement and having custody of the statement so obtained.

Response: The Administrator objects to this interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information protected by the informant's privilege. Subject to the foregoing, statements were obtained by Wage Hour Investigators Jose Perez and John Crudup. Mr. Perez and Mr. Crudup can be contacted through the U.S. Department of Labor, Office of the Solicitor, Room 983, New York, NY 10014, attention Jacob Heyman-Kantor (646) 264-3672. The statements Mr. Perez and Mr. Crudup obtained are in the possession of the Office of the Solicitor. Pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), Respondent is directed to documents produced by the Administrator including but not limited to DOL 00187-90; 00202-05; and 00225-0226.

6. Identify any expert witness(es) who you anticipate calling in this administrative hearing. With respect to such witness(es), further state: (a) the expert's current occupation and title, specialty and qualifications; (b) whether the stated expert has prepared a written report or whether he or she intends to; and (c) the substance of the facts and opinions about which the expert is expected to testify; and a summary of data relied upon for that opinion.

Response: The Administrator does not anticipate calling any expert witnesses.

7. Identify any other persons, not otherwise identified in the above paragraphs, who have knowledge or information related to any of your claims alleged in the Notice of Determination and describe the nature of that knowledge or information.

Response: The Administrator objects to this Interrogatory on the basis that it is vague. The Administrator further objects to this Interrogatory on the basis that it is unduly broad and overly burdensome to the extent that it seeks the information of individuals who do not have any discoverable information and seeks information beyond the scope of discovery. Subject to the foregoing, see Interrogatory Response 1. In addition, pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), the Administrator hereby directs Respondent to the Administrator's document production.

8. Identify all documents provided by Respondents to DOL in response to any demand, whether written or oral, from DOL related to the investigation that resulted in the Determination letters.

Response: The Administrator objects on the basis that it is not clear what this interrogatory means by "identify all documents"; "identify" is defined in Respondents' Interrogatories only in the context of identifying individuals.

Pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), the Administrator refers to the documents she is producing in this case, including but not limited to DOL 00463–1204, 00187–90; 00202–05; 001206–41, 001243–69, 001271–96, 001298–1318, 001320–56, 001358–95, 001397–1436; 001602–04; 02928–38, 02947–74, 03001–65.

9. Identify all documents reviewed and considered by DOL representatives prior to issuing the Determination letters.

Response: The Administrator objects on the basis that it is not clear what this Interrogatory means by "identify all documents"; "identify" is defined in Respondents' Interrogatories only in the context of identifying individuals. The Administrator further objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information protected by the informant's, investigative files/techniques, and deliberative process privileges.

Subject to the foregoing and without waiving the general objections, pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), see the documents the Administrator is producing to Respondent, including but not limited to DOL 00001-1465.

10. Identify all communications relating to any investigation of Respondents conducted by DOL, at any time prior to the present, including communications relating to the outcome of any such investigation and any action or potential action that DOL considered with respect to the results of such investigation.

Response: The Administrator objects on the basis that it is not clear what this Interrogatory means by "identify all communications"; "identify" is defined in Respondents' Interrogatories only in the context of identifying individuals. The Administrator further objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information protected by the informant's, investigative files/techniques, and deliberative process.

The Administrator further objects to this Interrogatory as overly broad and burdensome. In addition to the documents she is producing in this case, the Administrator has in her possession a case file from a previous investigation of Sun Valley and is producing a redacted narrative of this investigation and of several earlier investigations. The Administrator objects to production of the underlying case file in her possession as the burden of processing and redacting it significantly outweighs whatever marginal relevance that it may have.

Subject to the foregoing and without waiving the general objections, pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), Respondent is referred to DOL 00424-00456.

11. The Determination letter to Sun Valley alleges that 19 H-2A workers were "constructively forced to return home" prior to being offered three-fourths of the hours in the work contract. With respect to each of these workers, identify each worker whom you contend was underpaid, the reason that DOL believes each worker terminated their employment with Sun Valley, the basis for such belief, and specify in complete and precise detail all facts supporting your contention.

Response: The Administrator objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information protected by the informant's privilege.

Subject to the foregoing and without waiving the general objections, the Administrator alleges that these workers were either constructively discharged because of intolerable conditions of employment at Sun Valley, or were terminated after complaining about the conditions of employment at Sun Valley. These nineteen workers (who are more fully identified in the attached Exhibit A) are:

1. Jose Manuel Baltazar Cheguez;

2. Carlos Cervantes Ramirez;
3. Hugo Leonel Cinta Tegoma;
4. Humberto Dominguez;
5. Hector M. Garcia Dominguez;
6. Celso Grijalva Ramos;
7. Ines Hernandez Sanchez;
8. Javier Juarez Hernandez;
9. Marco G. Maldonado;
10. Gustavo Marquez Perez;
11. Cristian Mendez Hernandez;
12. Marcelo Ortega Vargas;
13. Delfino Antonio Reyes;
14. Lucio Rosales Lopez;
15. Venustiano Sanchez Dolores;
16. Isau Santiago Mendoza;
17. Tomas Sonalo Guerrero;
18. Adrian Vazquez Desion; and
19. Marcos Zaveleta.

Regarding the facts supporting our contention, pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), Respondent is referred to documents the Administrator is producing in this case including but not limited to DOL 00020-00045, 00164-00254.

12. For any other Sun Valley employees that the Department believes are owed back wages concerning the three-fourths guarantee, please state, with respect to each worker, the amount you contend was underpaid, the basis for that conclusion, including the number of hours offered and the number required to have been offered.

Response: The Administrator objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information protected by the informant's privilege.

Subject to the foregoing and without waiving the general objections, the Administrator responds as follows: the amount of back wages owed to other Sun Valley employees for the three-quarters violation was calculated primarily based on the start dates and number of hours worked in Sun Valley's own payroll records, including but not limited to the "Job Card: Payroll Summary" and "Payroll Run Inquiry – Check View" found at DOL 01602-04, DOL00463-1204). The Administrator used those records of hours worked because Sun Valley did not produce or maintain records of hours offered in accordance with 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(j). The Administrator determined that the following employees (in addition to those named above) are owed back wages under the three-fourths guarantee given that these workers were terminated and/or constructively discharged.

Name	Number of hours offered	Number of hours required under the 3/4ths guarantee	Amount underpaid
Miguel A. Elizondo	471	550.5	$897.56

Soto
Luis A. Luna Gonzalez	515.27	550.5	$397.75
Rodrigo Raya Tapia	475.25	550.5	$849.92
Jose L. Silva Lopez	540.73	550.5	$110.30
Dario Morales Acosta	352.23	550.5	$2,238.47
Jose D. Islas Larraga	470.75	695.25	$2,534.61

13. State in complete and precise detail all facts which you contend relate to the housing and transportation violations for which you seek civil money penalties in the Sun Valley determination letter, including the identity of all witnesses to the alleged violation(s), and the identity of all documents that you contend relate to such alleged violations.

Response: The Administrator objects to this interrogatory as vague and on the basis that it is not clear what this Interrogatory means by "identity of all documents"; the term "identify" is defined in Respondents' Interrogatories only in the context of identifying individuals.

Pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), Respondent is referred the Administrator's document production including but not limited to DOL 00018-00045. As discussed in those documents, regarding transportation, Sun Valley has had a policy of transporting workers using drivers without licenses or improper licenses. Sun Valley also used vehicles with worn-out tires and a vehicle with a broken rear-directional light. Regarding housing, Sun Valley housed workers in a dormitory that lacked proper screen doors and screens on windows, supplied garbage cans that had no lids, and had at least one worker sleeping on a mattress directly on the floor. Furthermore, a number of Sun Valley's dormitory bathroom sinks lacked hot water.

Regarding the identity of individuals who may have witnessed Sun Valley's substandard housing and unsafe transportation, see Interrogatory Response 1.

14. Provide the name, title, address, and telephone number of each individual who made or contributed to the determinations set forth in the Determination letters.

Response: The Administrator objects to this Interrogatory on the basis that it is vague.

Subject to the foregoing and without waiving the general objections, the following current and former Wage Hour employees participated or assisted in the investigation that resulted in the issuance of the June 22, 2015 Determination Letter:

1. Wage Hour Investigator Jose L. Perez;
2. Wage Hour Investigator John M. Crudup;
3. Wage Hour Assistant District Director Steven Risko;
4. Wage Hour Regional Agricultural Coordinator James Mooney (retired);
5. Wage Hour Regional Agricultural Coordinator Bryen Belcher;
6. Wage Hour District Director Charlene Rachor;
7. Office of the Solicitor, Counsel for Wage Hour Molly Biklen; and
8. Office of the Solicitor Trial Attorney Jacob Heyman-Kantor.

With the exception of James Mooney, these individuals can be contacted through the U.S. Department of Labor, Office of the Solicitor, Room 983, New York, NY 10014, attention Jacob Heyman-Kantor (646) 264-3672. James Mooney can be contacted at 51 Greenpond Road, Belvidere, NJ 07823; (908) 475-5136.

15. Identify in complete and precise detail all documents that were relied upon by each individual identified in answer to Interrogatory No. 14.

Response: The Administrator objects on the basis that it is not clear what this Interrogatory means by "identify all documents"; "identify" is defined in Respondents' Interrogatories only in the context of identifying individuals. The Administrator further objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that it seeks information protected by the informant's, investigative files/techniques, and deliberative process privileges.

Subject to the foregoing and without waiving the general objections, pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), see the Administrator's document production and the regulations at 20 C.F.R. Part 655, Subpart B, and 29 C.F.R. Part 501.

16. Identify all documents showing payments to Sun Valley and not to Agustin Hernandez by any worker for meals, food, drinks, beer, or cigarettes.

Response: The Administrator objects on the basis that it is not clear what this Interrogatory means by "identify all documents"; "identify" is defined in Respondents' Interrogatories only in the context of identifying individuals.

The Administrator further objects to this Interrogatory on the basis that it makes no sense. Agustin Hernandez is a manager at Sun Valley; payments made to him are payments made to Sun Valley. The Administrator is not aware of documents showing payments workers made to Sun Valley through Sun Valley managers other than Agustin Hernandez.

17. Identify any worker from the 2015 season who discussed the provision of meals, condition of housing, or condition of transportation, with Sun Valley.

Response: The Administrator objects to this Interrogatory as vague, to the extent it seeks information from third parties and/or Sun Valley and to the extent that it seeks information protected by the informant's privilege.

Subject to the foregoing and without waiving the general objections, Agustin Hernandez and Russell Marino Jr. testified at their depositions that Sun Valley holds orientations with all workers. Based on this testimony, the Administrator understands that Sun Valley had discussions with all workers concerning the provision of meals, housing, and transportation.

18. State whether the factors set forth in 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(b) were applied in this case and, if so, state the conclusions made with respect to the application of each factor to each alleged violation and the facts upon which such conclusions were based. State whether any other factors were considered, and if so, identify such factors and the conclusions and facts upon which such conclusions were based in the application of such other factors.

Response: The factors set forth in 29 C.F.R. § 501.19(b) were considered for each civil money penalty assessment. Pursuant to 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(d), Respondent is referred to the documents the Administrator is producing in this case including but not limited to DOL 00018-45.

Counsel for Respondent

The Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor ("Administrator"), through the undersigned attorneys, hereby responds to Respondents' First Set of Requests for Admissions (hereinafter "Request(s)") in the above-captioned case.

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Requests as untimely served insofar as they call for responses after the close of discovery in this case.
2. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Requests to the extent they seek information possessed by Department of Labor agencies other than the Wage and Hour Division, or possessed by individuals employed by such agencies. The Wage and Hour Division is the only Department of Labor agency that is a party to this case. The Administrator interprets such requests to refer only to the Wage and Hour Division.

3. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Requests to the extent they seek disclosure of materials protected by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product privilege, the informant's privilege, the deliberative process privilege, the investigative techniques privilege, the common-interest privilege, and any other applicable protection, restriction or immunity from discovery. Such privileges are explicitly preserved and are not waived or limited by any response herein.
4. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Requests to the extent they seek information that is neither relevant to this action nor reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. The Administrator further objects to Respondent's Requests to the extent that they purport to impose discovery obligations beyond those provided for in the Rules of Practice and Procedure for Administrative Hearings of Administrative Law Judges, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, or other applicable rules or statutes.
5. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Requests to the extent that they are overbroad, unduly burdensome, or would require an unreasonable investigation on the part of the Administrator given the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, and the issues at stake.
6. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Requests to the extent that they are ambiguous, vague, confusing, misleading, or incomprehensible.
7. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Requests to the extent a relevant time period is not specified or the time period specified is overly broad.

8. The Administrator objects to Respondent's Requests to the extent they seek admissions for which the Administrator has no independent means to ascertain the truth. The Administrator further objects to the extent that the information requested is not held by the Administrator or by an individual or entity with which the Administrator maintains a relationship that would enable her to procure the required information.

9. To the extent that the Administrator responds to Respondent's Requests to which she objects, such objections are not waived. These responses are made without waiver of, and with preservation of all issues as to the competency, relevancy, materiality, privilege, and admissibility of these responses as evidence for any purpose.

10. All responses herein are based on the Administrator's current knowledge and reasonable belief, and the Administrator reserves her right to amend or supplement these Responses.

11. The Administrator incorporates by reference every general objection set forth above into each specific response below. A specific response may repeat a general objection for emphasis or for some other reason. The failure to include any general objection in any specific response does not waive any general objection to that Request.

RESPONSES

Request for Admission 1: Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the document provided as Exhibit 12 is a true, accurate and complete copy (including any attachments or appendices) of the Notice of Determination issued by the Administrator to Sun Valley, dated June 22, 2016.

Response 1: Admitted. The Administrator also notes that it amended the June 22, 2016 Notice of Determination in its December 23, 2016 Order of Reference.

Request for Admission 2: Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the document provided as Exhibit 13 is a true, accurate and complete copy (including any attachments or appendices) of the Notice of Determination issued by the Secretary to Hernandez, dated August 9, 2016.

Response 2: The Administrator deems this request to be withdrawn pursuant the Parties' May 5, 2017 Stipulation of Dismissal in Case No. 2017-MSP-00002.

Request for Admission 3: Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the document provided as Exhibit 14 is a true, accurate and complete copy (including any attachments or appendices) of the Request for Hearing for Sun Valley, dated July 20, 2016, and timely received by the Administrator under 29 C.F.R. § 501.33.

Response 3: Admitted.

Request for Admission 4: Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the document provided as Exhibit 15 is a true, accurate and complete copy (including any attachments or appendices) of the Request for Hearing for Hernandez, dated September 2, 2016, and timely received by the Secretary under 29 C.F.R. § 500.212.

Response 4: The Administrator deems this request to be withdrawn pursuant the Parties' May 5, 2017 Stipulation of Dismissal in Case No. 2017-MSP-00002.

Request for Admission 5: The 19 H-2A workers who ceased employment with Sun Valley early in the 2015 work contract period voluntarily abandoned employment under 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(n).

Response 5: The Administrator objects to this vague Request. Without waiving the foregoing objection, the Administrator denies that the 19 workers whose employment with Sun Valley ended approximately May 5, 2015 voluntarily abandoned employment with Sun Valley. Rather, those workers were terminated and/or constructively discharged by Sun Valley.

Request for Admission 6: Sun Valley and its owners and managers tried to convince those 19 H-2A workers to remain and complete the work contract period.

Response 6:. The Administrator objects to this vague request. Without waiving the foregoing objection, the Administrator denies that Sun Valley and its owners and managers tried to convince the 19 H-2A workers whose employment with Sun Valley ended approximately May 5, 2015 to remain and complete the work contract period. Sun Valley terminated and/or constructively discharged those workers.

Request for Admission 7: Any of Sun Valley's H-2A workers or migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment who terminated employment with Sun Valley prior to the end of the work contract period in 2015 voluntarily abandoned employment under 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(n).

Response 7: The Administrator construes this request to refer to the H-2A workers identified in the Administrator's Initial Disclosures for whom the Administrator seeks back wages for Sun Valley's three-fourths guarantee violation. So construed, the Administrator denies this request.

Request for Admission 8: If any of Sun Valley's H-2A workers or migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment were terminated without cause prior to the end of the work contract period in 2015, such worker(s) had already been offered three-fourths of the hours set forth in the applicable H-2A job order.

Response 8: The Administrator objects to this vague request. Notwithstanding the foregoing objection, the Administrator denies this request with respect to the H-2A workers identified in the Administrator's Initial Disclosures for whom behalf the Administrator seeks back wages for Sun Valley's three-fourths guarantee violation. The Administrator further states that the issue with respect to the three-fourths guarantee claim is not whether "worker(s) had already been offered three-fourths of the hours set forth in the applicable H-2A job order," but whether Sun Valley complied with 655.122(i) and related regulations.

Request for Admission 9: Sun Valley met the three-fourths guarantee requirement for all H-2A workers and migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment for 2015, pursuant to 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i).

Response 9: Denied. The Administrator denies that Sun Valley met the three-fourths guarantee in 2015 with respect to the workers identified in the Administrator's Initial Disclosures for whom Administrator seeks back wages for Sun Valley's three-fourths guarantee violation Request for Admission 10: Sun Valley did not deduct any charges from the pay checks, prior to issuance, of any H-2A workers or migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment for meals, food, nor any other cost or living expense in 2015.

Response 10: The Administrator objects to this request as vague. Subject to the foregoing, the Administrator admits that Sun Valley's payroll records do not show any such deductions from the paychecks. The Administrator further states Sun Valley deducted or collected charges from its workers for meals, food, beverages, beer, and other costs, expenses, or items, after Sun Valley issued the pay checks. The timing distinction is irrelevant to the Administrator's claims pursuant to 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p), and (q).

Request for Admission 11: Sun Valley provided a means of transportation for the workers to travel to a supermarket to purchase their own food, if they chose to do so, free of charge to the workers in 2015.

Response 11: The Administrator objects to this vague request. Subject to the foregoing, the Administrator denies this request in part, and, after a reasonable inquiry, in part lacks knowledge or information sufficient to admit or deny this request. Notwithstanding the foregoing inquiry, the Administrator states that workers' testimony is that Sun Valley did not provide a free means of transportation to anywhere outside of Sun Valley during at least the period of late April to early May. As for other times in 2015, the Administrator lacks information sufficient to admit or further deny this request.

Request for Admission 12: Sun Valley provided kitchen facilities in which to prepare such food, free of charge, in compliance with 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g).

Response 12: Denied.

Request for Admission 13: Sun Valley provided housing as required under 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(d)(1) that complied with all applicable housing safety and health standards.

Response 13: Denied.

Request for Admission 14: Sun Valley did not receive any payment from its H-2A workers or migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment in 2015 concerning meals.

Response 14: Denied. The Administrator further states that Agustin Hernandez, who received payment from Sun Valley's workers concerning meals in 2015, was at all relevant times Sun Valley's employee, agent, and manager.

Request for Admission 15: None of Sun Valley's H-2A workers or migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment in 2015 complained to Sun Valley or any of Sun Valley's owners, managers, or employees concerning meals, meal charges, or the use of kitchen facilities.

Response 15: The Administrator objects to this vague request. Notwithstanding the foregoing objection, the Administrator denies this request.

Request for Admission 16: None of Sun Valley's H-2A workers or migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment in 2015 complained to Sun Valley or any of Sun Valley's owners, managers, or employees concerning the condition of the housing site(s).

Response 16: The Administrator objects to this vague request. Notwithstanding the foregoing objection, the Administrator denies this request.

Request for Admission 17: None of Sun Valley's H-2A workers or migrant agricultural workers in corresponding employment in 2015 complained to Sun Valley or any of Sun Valley's owners, managers, or employees concerning the condition of passenger vehicles used to transport such workers.

Response 17: The Administrator objects to this vague request. Notwithstanding the foregoing objection, the Administrator denies this request.

Request for Admission 18: Neither Russell J. Marino, nor any other owner or employee of Sun Valley coerced any workers to waive their rights in violation of 29 C.F.R. § 501.5.

Response 18: Denied.

Request for Admission 19: Sun Valley did not sell beer in 2015.

Response 19: Denied. The Administrator further states that Agustin Hernandez, who sold beer in 2015, was at all relevant times Sun Valley's employee, agent, and manager.

Request for Admission 20: Sun Valley did not sell cigarettes in 2015.

Response 20: Denied. The Administrator further states that Agustin Hernandez, who sold cigarettes in 2015, was at all relevant times Sun Valley's employee, agent, and manager.

Request for Admission 21: Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks in 2015.

Response 21: Denied. The Administrator further states that Agustin Hernandez, who sold soft drinks in 2015, was at all relevant times Sun Valley's employee, agent, and manager.

Request for Admission 22: Other than the sale of produce to its customers, Sun Valley did not sell anything else in 2015, particularly to its workers.

Response 22: The Administrator objects to this vague request. Notwithstanding the foregoing objection, the Administrator denies this request.

Request for Admission 23: Hernandez was not the employer of any of the workers for whom the Administrator seeks back wages from Sun Valley.

Response 23: The Administrator objects to this vague request. Subject to the foregoing, the Administrator admits that Hernandez was not an employer in 2015 within the meaning of the H-2A regulations. As to other statutes and regulations not at issue in this case, the Administrator denies this request.

Request for Admission 24: Hernandez, at all times during 2015, was an independent contractor and not an employee of Sun Valley.

Response 24: Denied.

A. Yes. Yes, I did.
Q. Who did you prepare with?
MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Assumes facts not in evidence.
BY MR. GLICK:
Q. Did you prepare for this deposition with anybody else?
A. No, but the lawyer.
Q. Did you review any documents in preparing for the deposition?
A. No.
Q. In 2015, did you work for Sun Valley?
A. Yes.
Q. What kind of work did you do for Sun Valley?
A. I do, I'm a crew chief and my job is to make sure everything gets done right with the workers in the field. I'm in charge of that.
Q. And what does being a crew chief involve?
A. In the field, showing the guys, teaching the guys how to do jobs, how to work.

The meals, like I -- I'm in charge of that too.

Q. Is there anything else that your work at Sun Valley in 2015 involved?

A. No, other than that, no.

Q. Were you involved in arranging the transportation of Sun Valley's workers between the camp and the fields?

A. No. Well, there is the vans from the company, the buses from the company and I taught them how to use them and I, I send them to the field. That's it.

Q. Were you involved in distributing paychecks to Sun Valley's workers?

A. No. No.

Q. Were you involved in hiring Sun Valley's workers?

A. No. No, the H-2A workers, no.

Q. Any other workers?

A. They, they called me and to, to, I don't know if it's called to hire, if it's called, they make me hire the guys, but they sometimes, most of the times, they call me to look for an opportunity to come. And I make a list of the guys I want or the guys I pick and then I hand it to the office and they send it

Like supervising is like 100 percent. Because I supervise everybody in the field. It's my job.

Q. Do you also spend time making sure the camp at Sun Valley is okay?

A. Yes, because I go back and forth. The fields are close by and I go back and forth.

Q. Do you spend more time making sure the camp is okay?

A. No. No. I spend more time in the fields.

Q. What does keeping -- what does making sure the camp is okay involve?

A. It looks clean, to be clean. Outside, outside the trash, especially the bathrooms, because there's a lot of people in the bathrooms. It's a mess. So I have to, I have to leave one of the guys, one of my workers, they stay every morning, you know, to clean it up. And then I come to supervise and then I come back to the field.

Q. What camp is that?

A. What camp, the one we have on Route 45, 1321 Route 45

Q. Did anyone tell you that it was your job to make sure that the camp at Route 45 was clean?

A. No, I know it this is my job. So my boss don't have to come to the camp and say, oh, you have a lot of trash or it's dirty or when the inspector, the state inspectors come, they inspect and they told me what need to be done and then I know what I need to fix. So it's they, you know, in good condition all the time. And I know, I know my job. I know that I have to do that. It's part of my job.

Q. In 2015, did anyone at Sun Valley supervise you in maintaining the camp clean?

A. The state, the state inspector came and when the fellow inspector, when the labor department came, they saw, they saw too maybe. When I have a hundred guys there, it's not shining, but it's clean.

Q. Did Russell Marino supervise you in keeping the camp clean in 2015?

A. Yes, at one time in the beginning.

Q. Was that Russell Marino, Jr.?

A. Yes.

Q. And how did he supervise you at that time?

A. Because I asked him to get all the paint and all that I was going to need. He brought me all I needed to paint, to fix. And then he came and looked and that's it.

Q. Did any of the Marinos supervise you --

A. No.

Q. -- keeping the camp clean?

A. No.

Q. I believe you told me before that the company has vans that are used to transport workers between the camp and the fields; is that right?

A. Right.

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. That wasn't his testimony. He said the company provides it.

THE WITNESS: They're the company's buses. They provide the transportation, I don't.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Is that transportation between the camp at 1321 Route 45 and Sun Valley's fields?

A. Yes

Q. How much did you charge for the Monster?

A. 1.50.

Q. How much did you charge for the Red Bull?

A. 1.50 too.

Q. How much do you charge for the sweet breads?

A. It was 75.

Q. The sweet breads cost how much?

A. Seventy-five cents.

Q. Where in the kitchen did you sell these items?

A. I have a little box, little boxes. I have a couple of refrigerators. It's not, it's not a whole lot, it's just, just a few.

Q. How many refrigerators are there in the kitchen?

A. Four, five. Five.

Q. There are five refrigerators in the kitchen at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. And these snacks are located on top of one of the refrigerators?

A. Yes, but only a couple of boxes.

it's not in one -- yeah, the refrigerators, yeah.

Q. Are there other places that you store these snacks?

A. I got a little rack, at that time, I had a little rack on the entrance, yeah.

Q. Any other place that you store the snacks?

A. No.

Q. Any other place that you store the sodas?

A. Yeah, a little room I call the storage room, I call the storage room.

Q. Where is the storage room?

A. It's inside the kitchen.

Q. Who owns the kitchen?

A. Sun Valley.

Q. Who owns the refrigerator?

A. Sun Valley.

Q. Does Sun Valley own all five refrigerators?

A. Yes.

Q. Are there other freezers?

A. A chest freezer, yeah, for the meat, yes.

Q. How many?
A. Two, two, one big and one small.
Q. Who owns those freezers?
A. Them.
Q. Sun Valley owns the freezers?
A. Yes.
Q. Who owns the stove at the kitchen?
A. Sun Valley.
Q. How many stoves are there?
A. Two.
Q. What about the blender?
A. The blender?
Q. Is there a blender in the kitchen at Sun Valley?
A. Yes.
Q. Who owns the blender?
A. I think, I guess the guys, because I bought it with the, you know, when I collect the money, you know, little things that I need in the kitchen, I bought it from the Sun Valley.
Q. Are there other appliances in the kitchen that Sun Valley bought?
A. A microwave and blender and the air conditioner. We got three air conditioners because it gets really hot in the summertime.

Q. Sun Valley purchased the air conditioners?

A. No, I did.

Q. Who pays the electricity for the kitchen?

A. Sun Valley.

Q. Does Sun Valley pay for the gas bill at the kitchen?

A. Yes.

Q. When did Sun Valley buy the refrigerators in the kitchen?

A. I think the last, the last one they bought was like five years ago I think. But before when we start with the kitchen, they bought everything. The refrigerators has been old. They're old. Some of them, they're old. And I mean, yeah. They pay.

Q. Who owns the microwave in the kitchen?

A. The guys, because I bought them a microwave with the food money. Uh-huh.

Q. Could the guys take the microwave home with them at the end of season?

A. If some of them want, I think they soda left to supply to the workers?

A. I just fill it and I -- I don't go back and refill it. I just, whatever brings and that's it.

Q. Did you sell pastries at the afternoon break?

A. No.

Q. Were there any weeks that you sold more than one or two -- let me rephrase that. Were there any weeks that you sold sodas more than once or twice a day to the workers in the fields in 2015?

A. No.

Q. How many months during 2015 did you sell sodas in the fields to the workers?

A. Only maybe all together, maybe three months.

Q. Did you sell sodas beginning in May?

A. At the end of May when it gets, starts to get hot.

Q. When did the work begin in the fields at Sun Valley in 2015?

A. I think April 20th.

Q. What did the workers drink in the fields between April 20th and the end of May?

A. I supplied them with a lot of water. We got always cold water.

Q. Where was the cold water?

A. In the -- we got a -- what can he call it, a well truck. It's a different truck and we have jugs, cans, whatever. We got them in the back of the truck. And we drive them, you know, around the field.

Q. Where was that truck between late May and -- let me rephrase that. In 2015 when you sold sodas to the workers in the fields during the breaks, where was the water truck during those breaks?

A. Right there. One side it was.

Q. In relation to the cooler, where was the water truck during the breaks?

A. Right there. It was one side of us, they can drink the water. Every time, we finish one round of the -- in the field, the truck is right there. The water truck is right there.

Q. Did the workers have to ask permission to take a drink of water?

A. No, no.

A. Joe, he almost never come to the camp.

Q. What about the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. How often did Russ, Jr. come to the kitchen at Sun Valley in 2015?

A. Maybe once a week sometimes. Sometimes once a month.

Q. And what about Harry, how often did he come to the kitchen in 2015?

A. He come outside of the kitchen, because he is the one to hand me the checks and he's looking, he's looking inside. He don't want to step inside, but he's outside.

Q. Would Russell Marino, Jr. enter the kitchen?

A. Yes.

Q. Why did he enter the kitchen in 2015?

A. I guess just to see how clean we have everything. I don't know. I don't know. Sometimes, he come in and tell me, they're looking for me to say something to me about the job. And they enter the kitchen.

Q. Did he ever give you instructions about running the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Would he talk to the other three workers in the kitchen?

A. I don't know. I don't know.

Q. Did you ever see him talking to the other three workers in the kitchen?

A. No, no.

Q. Did any of the three workers in the kitchen in 2015 ever tell you that Russell Marino, Jr. had spoken with them?

A. No.

Q. Did Russell Marino, Jr. ever pay those three workers in the case?

A. No.

Q. Did anyone else at Sun Valley pay those workers?

A. No.

Q. Did any of the three workers in the kitchen ever tell you that anyone else from Sun Valley had spoken with them?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever see any of the three kitchen workers interact with any of the Marinos?

vehicles?

A. Sun Valley.

Q. Were you involved in the use of those vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Did you drive those vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Did you assign people to drive the vehicles?

A. Like I said at the beginning, when a group of guys come and we need drivers, I ask the guys who has the Mexican driver's licenses or who is a driver, experienced driver and they drive. I let them drive.

Q. If someone -- in 2015, did workers show you a Mexican driver's license?

A. Like two of them that I remember.

Q. Was that enough for them to be permitted to drive the vehicles?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did they show you anything any other licenses?

A. No.

Q. Did you permit them to drive the vehicles?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Sun Valley know that those workers were driving the vehicles?

A. Well, when they told me about that, I said there's nobody with a New Jersey license, so somebody has to drive the vans. So.

Q. Did Sun Valley know who was driving those vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Other than those two workers, who else drove the vehicles in 2015?

A. Nobody. Nobody.

Q. Who drives the vehicles this year at Sun Valley?

A. This year, right now, I got three, three drivers. I got my son, who he has a New Jersey license. And I got another two guys that drive the vans. But to tell you the truth, I haven't asked them if they have -- I know them from -- I don't know if they still got them. They still got their license or not, I don't know.

Q. Where do you know them from?

A. Not in Mexico, but from here. They one side of the field to the other?

A. I would say walking, ten minutes, not even ten minutes. I would say, I don't know, but, yeah, but walking, yes, not even ten minutes.

Q. Were there times when a worker would have to walk across the field to get water?

A. No, we always have water right there, one side.

Q. How many supplies of water were available at each field?

A. We have a truck, the water truck, and I got one guy in charge of that, making sure that we need water. And we got the water jugs in the back of the wagon that we're working with. And in the truck, on one side, on one side, if we working one way, I tell them to put the truck one way. But every time me or the driver, the tractor driver, I tell them to make sure if the water jug is almost empty, I send the guy and he goes, he goes to the water supply and come back.

Q. Who is it that's in charge of the water supply?

A. It could be anyone. It could be anyone.

Q. So were there ever times when workers were working in different parts of the field at once?

A. Yes. Yes, but when we work -- when we have two groups, I have one group here and one group there.

Q. How far away would those two groups be in the fields in 2015?

A. Like 15 minutes walk.

Q. Was there water in both places?

A. Yes.

Q. Always?

A. Yes, always.

Q. How did you make sure of that?

A. Because I call the guy that I have in charge of that group and I send the guy in the water truck to go and supply water to them.

Q. How many different fields does Sun Valley have?

A. Many.

Q. More than ten?

A. More than ten.

Q. Is it about 12?

A. It could be, because they are big. It's a big farm. They rent a lot of ground.

Q. In 2015, how many different fields would workers work in at the same time?

A. Saying to farms, I'm not sure. I'm not sure.

Q. Was it more than three?

A. More than three, yes.

Q. Was it more than five?

A. I'm not sure.

Q. How could you make sure that there was water in all the different fields at once?

A. We got only one water supply, the faucet. Only one, only one water spot where we and where we, when we leave to the field, I -- we fill the water jugs with fresh water. And when it's too hot, they are drinking and drinking and they empty fast. So I got the guy checking them and they grab the water jugs, they put them in the truck and they go back to the water supply and bring them to the field.

Q. And you keep track of all of that?

A. Yes.

Q. In all of the different fields at once?

A. Yes.

MR. SCHULTE: Off the record.

(A recess was taken at this time.)

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Mr. Hernandez, as you know, there is an interpreter present. Do you understand?

A. Yes.

Q. Are there any questions for which you would like to have a translation?

A. Not at the moment.

Q. You will let me know if there are any times which you would like to have translation?

A. Yes.

Q. So we were discussing or I was asking you questions about the fields and about the water that is available. The faucet pump from which the drinking water comes, how much time does it take to drive from the place where the water cooler is parked to the faucet?

A. Like five minutes.

Q. Is it longer from some of the fields?

A. No.

Q. How long does it take to fill the cooler at the pump?

A. A couple of minutes, because of the pressure. I would say maybe, to fill all the coolers, maybe four or five minutes, maybe not even ten.

Q. And to take the coolers back to the fields where the workers are?

A. Another not even ten.

Q. And during that time, is there any water available for the workers to drink?

A. Yes.

Q. What water is available for the workers to drink?

A. Because we got like four, four or five coolers. So we left one in each wagon, so the guys can drink and take the other two or three to fill it up. And then switch it.

Q. Are there ever times where a field is left without water available for the workers to drink?

A. No. Not that I know of. When I be there, when I'm there, no. All the time there's water.

Q. But there are multiple fields at Sun Valley. And so most of the time, most of the workers are in a field where you're not there at the same time; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Is there any way that you would know if there is water out in the field?

A. No, I tell them not to leave the coolers, to empty the, you know, for the coolers to be empty. They have to check on that.

Q. Who did you tell to be responsible on that?

A. I had one guy specific and when I have different groups, I have another two guys that help me with the, you know, with the guys and he stay with the guys. He's like my foreman, like a foreman.

Q. Is that an H-2A worker?

A. Last -- no, no. Last year, it was, it was regular, regular worker.

Q. In 2015, who was responsible for making sure that you would be told if there was enough water?

A. Me and another guy, another two guys. I had two groups, two groups besides me. I have two groups.

Q. Anyone else besides those other two?

A. No.

Q. There were more than three different fields being worked at any given time; is that right?

A. Well, when I say more than three fields, we have in the farm, we have more than three fields, but when we work with the groups, it's one group in each field.

Q. What time of day would the water run low in the fields?

A. Especially after lunch when it gets hot. Maybe around two or 3:00 o'clock is when they start to drink more water.

Q. And that's also the time that you bring out the sodas to sell to the workers?

A. No, no, it's in the morning, the break in morning. The morning break is 8:30, 9:00 o'clock. In the afternoon, it's around three, 3:30. Between 3:00 and 3:30.

Q. The lunch that's served at the kitchen, is there water available for the workers to drink?

A. Yes. Yes, there is.

Q. Is that water available for free?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Are there also other beverages available for the workers?

A. Not besides water, fresh water, uh-huh.

Q. Are there beverages that the workers can buy at lunch?

A. Just like the Gatorades, yes.

Q. Anything else?

A. The sodas.

Q. The same sodas --

A. The same sodas, yeah.

Q. -- that are sold at the kitchen in the afternoon?

A. Yes.

Q. And the same beverages that are sold at the afternoon break in the fields?

A. Yes.

Q. And at the morning break in the fields?

A. Yes

Q. Are the prices the same --
A. Yes.
Q. -- as lunch for the workers to buy?
A. Yes.
Q. Is there anything else sold at lunchtime besides the sodas?
A. No.
Q. At dinner, are the same sodas sold to the workers?
A. Yes.
Q. Anything else available for purchase by the workers at dinner?
A. No.
Q. And was that true in 2015, the workers could purchase sodas at lunch?
A. Yes.
Q. And at dinner in 2015, the workers could purchase sodas at dinner?
A. Yes.
Q. Is there water provided for free at dinner?
A. Yes.
Q. Who provides the water?
A. Me and the kitchen, the helpers. I tell them to fill the jugs with waters on the tables, yes.

Q. In 2015, did the workers buy sodas at lunch?

A. Yes.

Q. How many?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did you keep records of their purchases?

A. No.

Q. How did they pay?

A. Cash.

Q. Did they pay you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they ever purchase the sodas from someone other than you?

A. Yes. When they, when the vending trucks come, they pull into the camp, they buy from them. They sell sodas, yes.

Q. Those are trucks that you aren't running, right?

A. No, no, it's vending trucks. It's like they come from other towns and they come to the camps. They are driving around. There are people that all they do is that, vending.

Q. Did you ever send any of those

Q. Has anyone else filled out an application for a Farm Labor Contractor license saying that you will hire H-2A workers?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever signed an application that says you will hire H-2A workers?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. In 2015 when workers had a question, who would they ask a question?

A. To me.

Q. Would they ask anyone other than you?

A. No. Only when they start to get tired of the job and they start to complain, that I'm talking about the April group, 19 guys, they start to get mad and they start to get tired or do that job, and they quit on me. They didn't want to keep working. They went to the house and they asked me to talk to my boss to tell them. They told me, tell your boss, because we don't even know them. This is when Russ, Jr. and Joey came to the camp to talk to them is the only time somebody has done.

Q. Other than that time, were the workers at Sun Valley able to ask questions directly to Russell Marino, Jr.?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. Did they ever ask questions directly?

A. I don't know.

Q. When would they have the opportunity in 2015 to ask questions directly of Russell Marino, Jr.?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you ever see anyone complain to Russell Marino, Jr.?

A. Only that time.

Q. No other times?

A. Not that I see.

Q. Did you ever see any worker ask any question of any of the Marino brothers?

A. No, no.

Q. Did you ever see the Marino brothers speak to any of the workers directly outside of that one time?

A. No.

Q. Was there any other time when workers asked you to pass a message onto the Marino brothers?

A. No

Q. Any other times that the workers asked you to ask permission for the Marino brothers for something?

A. No.

Q. If the workers wanted something changed, they had to ask you?

A. I think they would. I think they can ask me.

Q. Could they ask anyone other than you?

A. Maybe like I'm in charge of the camp, maybe I would think that they can ask me. And I will ask the farmers to come and we discuss whether, you know, whatever they want to change. I don't know.

Q. Other than the 19 workers who asked to speak to Russell Marino, Jr. and Joey Marino, were there other times in 2015 when workers asked something to be changed?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. When the workers asked to speak to Russell Marino, Jr. and Joey Marino on this particular occasion, these 19 workers, what happened?

A. Well, when he came, he was very busy. He was a little upset. And because the asparagus needed to be cut, we were losing product and they just -- they just a week and a half, they just arrived. They -- he was upset. They didn't say anything offensive. And one of those guys did understand a little bit of English. Because I hear that guy to tell him don't speak loud. And he, he calmed down. And he told them, you know, that's it. And they can't do the job, you know. They wanted to leave. They worked for too long.

Q. Who else was there at the time when this meeting took place?

A. It was outside of the room. All of the workers, the 19 guys and Joey, Russ and me.

Q. Was anyone else there?

A. No.

Q. This was outside of --

A. The bedrooms.

Q. And this was a meeting that happened around the beginning of May 2015?

A. I think close, I think it was about that time. I don't remember the exact date, but it was, it was in early May.

Q. And the 19 workers were H-2A workers who had arrived at some point in April 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. Where were you standing during this meeting?

A. One side. I didn't speak out. He, he understand and he speak Spanish pretty good.

Q. Who does?

A. Russ Marino.

Q. Were you able to hear everything that Russell Marino, Jr. said at this meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you able to hear everything that the workers said at this meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you able to hear everything that Joey Marino said at this meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. What time of day was this meeting?

A. I don't remember exactly. It was at the beginning of May. I think it was at the beginning of May.

Q. Was it in the morning?

A. Around, around lunchtime. Around, I remember it was a little bit before or a little bit after.

Q. Did those 19 workers work in the fields that morning?

A. I don't remember. I don't think so. All of them they stay home, because they want to leave.

Q. How did you know they were going to leave?

A. Because they, they were talking and talking, that they didn't like the job. And they were suffering in the field. I saw them. And calling by phone. I hear a couple of guys calling to their agent in Mexico. I spoke with their agents. And I just, I explain to her, it was a lady, I explain to her and I told them that the job was too tough for them. And then he asked me to speak with one of the guys again. And he tell her, that yes, the job was too tough. That it was not for them. That job wasn't for them. That they would want to leave.

Q. How long before the meeting outside the worker housing did you have this conversation with the agent?

A. A couple of minutes

Q. Who placed the phone call?
A. One of the guys.
Q. Do you remember that person's name?
A. No. No. It's so long ago, it was long ago.
Q. Who did he call?
A. I didn't call anybody.
Q. The worker who placed the phone call, did the worker call the agent?
A. He called the agent and the agent asked him to talk to the man in charge in the field. If it was true or not.
Q. If what was true?
A. That the job was tough.
Q. Did the agent say whether the workers wanted to leave?
A. He was saying to the agent that we wanted to leave. They wanted to leave.
Q. Did you hear him say that to the agent?
A. Yes.
Q. Where were you standing at the time?
A. One side.
Q. One side of what?

A. Of the guy who was placing the call.

Q. Were you able to hear?

A. Yes. I hear him say that the job wasn't for them. That they were not happy there. That they wanted to go somewhere else. They wanted to -- I don't remember, but just I hear.

Q. Before that phone call, did you have conversations with any workers about whether they wanted to leave?

A. In every group, there are, you know, guys that come and I see some guys, I know some guys that they want to keep going. And there was like about, I don't know, like maybe four or five guys that they, they wanted to leave. They were starting to pick it up, the job, but all the them, they came as a group, so everybody pulled the other guy and keep them with them. Do you understand what I'm saying?

Q. Did you hear any of the those conversations among the workers?

A. No, no.

Q. How did you know what those workers were thinking?

A. I was listening, because I see the guy, that he -- when I talk to the guy and say, do you like the work, yes. Why are you going to leave? Why do you want to leave? Oh no -- one of those, it was one kid they told me, I don't know what they say, whatever they say he told me.

Q. When was that conversation?

A. I think, I don't remember if it was that day or before, the day before. I don't remember. But I told one of the kids, I don't remember their names.

Q. Was that one of the 19 H-2A workers --

A. Yes.

Q. -- that wanted to leave?

A. Yes.

Q. What did he say to you?

A. That they would want to talk and whatever they say.

Q. What were they going to talk about?

A. Staying or leaving.

Q. Did he say that some of the workers wanted to stay?

A. No.
Q. Did he say that some of the workers wanted to leave?
A. Yes.
Q. What else did he tell you?
A. Nothing. They didn't talk too much.
Q. Did he ask you to change anything at Sun Valley?
A. No.
Q. Did he make any requests of you?
A. No.
Q. Did any of the 19 workers talk to you about changes they wanted at Sun Valley?
A. No.
Q. Did any of the 19 workers complain about something at Sun Valley?
A. No, not to me.
Q. Did any of the workers say that they were working too hard?
A. They didn't say anything to me. But I hear comments, rumors that they, they told to the other guys they thought we work too hard.
Q. Who did you hear that from?

A. I don't remember. But it was the guy, one of the guys that stay.

Q. Was it an H-2A worker?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Was it a non-H-2A worker?

A. I don't remember who it was, but I know I hear that from a couple of guys, that they say it's too much. It was too much. And one, two of the guys, they told me, they told me you got to -- you have a great group. They work hard. We can't keep up with them. This job is for mens he told me.

Q. Who told you that?

A. One of the guys who left.

Q. When did he tell you that?

A. I think that one day before.

Q. What else did he tell you?

A. That's it. He told me that job is for mens. We can't keep up with them.

Q. Where were you when you had that conversation?

A. In the field. I was helping the guy.

Q. What were you helping him with?

A. Cutting asparagus.

Q. Did you ever send any of the 19 workers home, back to the worker camp early at any point?

A. Not that I remember. There was one guy that always finished the row and laid down, he was too tired. And I told him a couple of times, you're tired, you can't keep up, you can go home. It's not right, it's not right to keep working. No, no, I have to work, I can keep working. He's the only, but I never sent anybody home.

Q. Are there any other conversations you had with these 19, any of these 19 workers about whether they wanted to stay at Sun Valley?

A. To that kid, and another old man, I told them, you don't want to go, you don't have to go. Now, they signed the -- the form, I told them you don't want to leave, don't leave. But they already signed and said, oh, I already signed.

Q. The meeting that took place outside the worker housing where Russell Marino, Jr. and Joey were, how long did that meeting last?

A. Ten minutes. Not even ten minutes, it was fast.

Q. Did you translate at that meeting?

A. No.

Q. You didn't speak at that meeting?

A. No, I didn't speak.

Q. Who spoke first at that meeting?

A. Russ Marino.

Q. What did he say?

A. That he was, he was there to see what happened, what was wrong. Why they keep -- they can keep working. We have a lot of asparagus and it was, you know, growing up. We were going to lose, what was wrong.

Q. Who spoke next?

A. About three or four of them, they were like the leaders of the group.

Q. And which of them spoke?

A. I don't remember. I don't remember.

Q. But one of them spoke next?

A. Yes.

Q. What did they say?

A. It wasn't the job for them. That they wanted to leave.

Q. What happened next?

A. I don't remember. I don't remember.

Q. Did any other workers speak?

A. About three other guys speak.

Q. Did Russell Marino, Jr. respond to what the first worker said?

A. Yes, I think, I think he did.

Q. What did he say?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you remember anything Russell Marino, Jr. said in response to a worker at that meeting?

A. That he was, he was losing a lot of asparagus. It was a tough job, but they knew what -- they knew in Mexico what they were expected to do when they come here. But they, why they came.

Q. What else did he say?

A. And at the end, then he say that they wanted to leave, that's okay, just to, they had to sign the note, the voluntary exit, I don't know.

THE COURT REPORTER: The what exit?

MR. SCHULTE: He said

voluntary.

THE WITNESS: It's a voluntary note, you know, signing they're free to go.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. What did the other workers say at the meeting?

A. I don't remember. I don't remember.

Q. Is there anything else you remember about the meeting?

A. Just that they didn't want to sign. They were like they didn't want to sign, because they were afraid that this, that this signature will affect them in the future with coming with another visa. And he said that no, he wasn't going to harm, harm them or, you know, yeah. Make any harm. But he was going to leave the notes and check the box whatever they feel more comfortable with English or Spanish.

Q. It was Russell Marino, Jr. who responded about the forms?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Russell Marino, Jr. bring those forms to the meeting?

A. Yes. Yes. No, later he went and got them and a couple of more hours later, in the afternoon, he give me the -- all the forms and I brought them to the camp. I handed one by one. They read it. And I told them like he say check the box whatever is more convenient for you.

Q. Did you say anything else?

A. No.

Q. Did you help the workers fill out the form?

A. No.

Q. Did any of the workers ask about how to fill out the form?

A. No.

Q. Did anyone tell the workers which box to check on the form?

A. They ask me, but I say it's in Spanish, whatever is more convenient for you. I didn't tell them check this or check that, no.

Q. What do you mean by convenient?

A. There was different options, it was like three or four options. And whatever, so they make sure it wasn't harm, you know, make harm in the future. You know, like they check, I'm quitting my job is, you know, another was, I want to go to Mexico, because I got a sick family. I think it was, you know, different, all the different options.

Q. Did any of the workers tell you that they had sick family?

A. No.

Q. Did any of the workers tell you that a family member had died?

A. No.

Q. Did any of the workers tell you that they were sick?

A. No.

Q. Did you tell the workers to fill out the form truthfully?

A. If they told me?

Q. When you gave the form to the workers, did you tell them to fill it out truthfully?

A. Yes. Well, I told them, I told them read it in Spanish and check the box more convenient for you. Whatever you want. I didn't tell them what box to check.

Q. Did they ask any other questions?
A. No.
Q. Do you have any notes about the meeting with the 19 workers?
A. No.
Q. Any of the meetings with the 19 workers?
A. No.
Q. Do you know of any documents that talk about the meeting with the 19 workers?
A. No.
Q. Did you talk with the Marinos after this meeting?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you talk about?
A. About, well, what we're going to do to replace the guys. Because there was, there were, we didn't find help outside at that time.
Q. Did you talk about anything else with the Marinos?
A. No.
Q. Did the Marinos take any notes at that meeting?
A. I don't know.
Q. Did you see them take any notes?

A. It was the next day.
Q. Where did you hand out the forms?
A. At the camp.
Q. Was it inside the camp?
A. Yes.
Q. Inside the bedrooms?
A. No.
Q. Where inside the camp?
A. The eating area, eating area.
Q. Were any of the Marinos present when you handed out the forms to the 44 workers in the eating area in August?
A. No.
Q. What did you say when you handed out the forms?
A. Again, I told them the same thing, the 19 guys, I told them to check the box. It was the voluntary exit that they read it and sign it, English and Spanish and keep the Spanish one and give me back the English form. And check the box more convenient for them.
Q. Did the workers fill out the form that day when you handed it out?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you see the workers sign the

Q. Everything you were telling me about this orientation, setting up the orientation, was that all true for 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. So let's go back to Agustin, we were talking about his duties.

A. Yes, primarily labor, obviously anything that may be associated with the labor. His responsibilities mainly would be to make sure things are going correctly in the field as far as harvesting, whether it be any kind of maintenance in the field, you know, pulling weeds, things like that. Thinning, you know, anything that the help may be doing as far as their jobs.

Also he takes, we, he assumes responsibility to keep the vehicles clean, swept out. Keep the camp clean. The kitchen is immaculate. The bathroom is clean. When I say he's responsible, he may dictate or I mean delegate to another worker to do those things, make sure that the bathrooms are transported from farm to farm or field to field, wherever they need to be. Water is in the field.

And I assume what you're really

A. Soap? No, I've never seen that.
Q. Have you seen shampoo being sold?
A. I would never eat soap or shampoo. I've never seen them sold at lunchtime, no.
Q. How about instant noodles, like soup?
A. No, not that I take notice.
Q. Pastries?
A. Perhaps, on occasion.
Q. So you've seen chips, Gatorade, and possibly pastries being sold. Have you seen anything else being sold from the kitchen area?
A. No.
Q. At other times other than lunch?
A. No.
Q. And who sells these items, the chips and the Gatorade and pastries?
A. If Agustin is there, I guess Agustin, I would assume.
Q. Anybody else?
A. I don't know.
Q. Were these items being sold before 2015?
A. I don't know.
Q. Have you ever seen beer being sold?

A. No.
Q. Do you know if Agustin kept receipts for these items?
A. I don't know.
Q. So you told him to keep receipts for the meal purchases?
A. Yes.
Q. But did you tell him to keep receipts for these purchases?
A. No.
Q. Why not?
A. Because by law, I'm required to keep the receipts for the meal plan that I provide, that Sun Valley Orchards offers the men on behalf of Sun Valley Orchards.
Q. So Sun Valley Orchards offers the meal plan, but not --
A. We offer it in the contract. It's known to them that we will, Sun Valley Orchards as a company has the means to provide a meal plan.
Q. And that is true for 2015?
A. Yes.
Q. So the guarantee is that Sun Valley Orchards in 2015 -- okay. Scratch it. I got think it was 19 guys. They left as a group.

Q. And what were the circumstances of their departure?

A. They just, they didn't, they said they couldn't do the work.

Q. Well, how did you -- how did you learn about this?

A. They collectively, Agustin brought it to my attention that there were several men that either couldn't do or didn't want to do the work and wanted to go back home. So I went to the camp, because the guys weren't in the field, so I went to the camp, talked to the guys and sure enough, they didn't want to do the work and they wanted to go back home.

Q. So you first heard about this from Agustin?

A. Yes.

Q. And when did he first start telling you about this?

A. The exact day?

Q. No, like how much before you actually met with them did Agustin tell you that?

A. That day, that morning, they didn't want to go back out to the field, they didn't want to do the work anymore. And so I immediately went to the camp and talked to the guys and wanted to know, you know, what the issue, if there was an issue, what the issue was. And if we could resolve it, if we couldn't, then we'd have to go through your proper channels to get them back home.

Q. All right. So you didn't know that there were workers who didn't -- weren't happy -- did you have any -- let me rephrase.

Prior to that day that you met with the workers, did Agustin give you any indication there were workers who were not happy?

A. Yeah. And -- yes.

Q. Can you tell me more about that?

A. He explained that there were a few men, it wasn't 19, but there was a few guys that were finding the work much harder than they had anticipated and they were complaining a little bit. That was maybe a day or two prior. And I just kind of thought, him and I both assumed that after a few days of doing the work and they would get used to it and they would see how things were done. If they couldn't, if they didn't want to do the work after that, then they would go back home.

Q. And so when, the day of this meeting, when did Agustin -- was there anything else said in this conversation with Agustin the day or two prior?

A. No.

Q. So the day of, when did Agustin call you, he called you, Agustin?

A. Yes. He called me on the phone. And I went to the camp. He was there with the guys. There was a few guys outside, but when I got there, I said all the guys come out, because I wanted to speak with all the guys and make sure I got the story right, the general consensus of what was going on. And just spoke Spanish to them and they spoke Spanish back to me and I think we understood each other and had to proceed getting the forms signed and going through the -- because it was all new, how to do all this stuff to, you know, get them back home. And he said that it was voluntarily, I wasn't firing the guys, because I obviously needed help to get my product to the packing house. And so yeah, it's -- so we went through all the proper channels to do all that.

Q. So all the workers who left around that time were at this meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. About how many would you say?

A. I believe it was 19. I believe. I believe 19.

Q. And Agustin was present?

A. Yes.

Q. For the entire meeting?

A. Yeah. He was there -- he might have saw me coming through the field and then he got there shortly right behind me. But I believe he was there for the -- all the meeting, yeah.

Q. And who else was there at this meeting?

A. Just him and I and the guys.

Q. So Joe Marino was not there?

A. No.

Q. Nobody else from Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. And where exactly was the meeting?

A. At the camp, at the living background, but yeah, it was relatively quiet.

Q. I mean did that interfere with hearing?

A. I don't believe so.

Q. And have you told me everything about this meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. And so then the meeting ended, you said this and then what happened?

A. Well, I left and I believe Agustin went back out to the field and the guys just kind of hung out at the camp and waited to hear back from us when I found out what I had to do.

Q. And when did you see these workers next, if at all?

A. Maybe the next day when I brought all the forms there for them to sign and Agustin oversaw that they signed them. But I think I may have seen a few of the guys that day. I don't know that I saw them all. And then maybe the next day or maybe two days later.

Q. So the next day or two days later, you handed forms --

A. For them to sign that they were leaving voluntarily.

Q. And you gave them to Agustin?

A. Yes.

Q. And then Agustin gave them to the workers?

A. Yeah. And I collected them. I went back, he collected them or I collected them and they were all signed in English and Spanish, their form. It's the right form, I wanted to make sure, because again, this was all new to me.

Q. And so I'm sorry, you collected them or Agustin collected them?

A. He collected them from the workers and then I went back and got them from him.

Q. From Agustin?

A. Yes.

Q. And where did you -- sorry, the next one or two days after the meeting, you handed all the forms to Agustin and then how much later did you come back to get the forms?

A. A half hour.

Q. And how did you see workers, you said you saw a few workers filling out the forms, how did you see that?

A. I brought a bunch of pens and said I need you all to sign and left them there in the eating quarters right there and they were all gathered. They were all starting to come out to gather to sign. And again, not everybody was out there, but I did explain to a few guys, the guys that were out there that we could -- there was several boxes to check off as to why they were returning. And I explained to them, you know, I wasn't going to check the box that said they didn't want to do the work or whatever the box said, I forget the exact wording, because Theresa actually told me, explained to me that checking that box off might make it harder for the men in the future to get return work. So there was another box that said they want to return home to, I don't know if it said family emergency or they're homesick. I forget the exact word, but I explained to them, why, you know, you guys can check this box, but it's clear I'm not firing you. It's clear I need help. And I'm willing to train you guys and do what we got to do to get you guys out here and working. But that wasn't happening. So that it was clear I

Q. Who else left?
A. I don't know names.
Q. How many other workers left?
A. I'm not exactly sure. Left on their own or just work was done?
Q. Either one, separated from Sun Valley.
A. I mean either way, I don't know their names. Nor do I know the amount, the number of men. But there were, I think there were a few instances where a couple of guys may have left mid season. And then we had a group of guys that we explained to them that we just didn't have the crop and they had filled their three-quarter guarantee, I made sure of it before, that's how I came up with the names. Lisa and I went through and made sure each of them made their three-quarter guarantee before we put together any kind of list.
Q. So let's talk about that. What month did they leave in, this three-quarter guarantee group?
A. I believe it was, I want to say it was either at the very end of August or beginning part of September.

Q. How many workers were in this group?

A. I'm not sure.

Q. More than 30?

A. Possibly. For some reason, 34 is sticking out in my mind. I don't know. I forget.

Q. And tell me again why these, what happened, what the circumstances were?

A. We had a bad growing season, horrible growing season and we didn't have peppers, which is our largest commodity by volume.

Q. What kind of peppers?

A. Just regular green bell peppers.

Q. Was there bad weather or what --

A. Bad weather. It was a wet season and disease.

Q. And so Sun Valley determined that there were too many field workers?

A. Right.

Q. And Sun Valley came up with a number of workers that had to be let go?

A. Not had to be, but were asked to, explained to as to why. It wasn't just like, oh, you know, we don't want you guys anymore. We didn't have the work. And there wasn't enough hours for the amount of men that we had.

Q. And so you and Lisa came up with a number, a number of workers?

A. A list of workers that were well over the three-quarter guarantee.

Q. And how many workers were on that list?

A. I forget.

Q. Was it more than the number of workers that were let go or the exact number of workers that were let go?

A. I don't know. It may have been a half a dozen more, just to be sure that I had the amount of guys that I figured I could let go. I mean there was a whole bunch of factors that determined as to why the number of people that we were letting go. The way the crews are split up. We wanted X amount of people left in the camp perhaps. I'm not exactly sure of the reasoning behind it right now. But at the time, I'm sure there was a method to the madness.

Q. And you and Lisa created that method?

A. Well, between my uncle and I, we kind of figured out approximately how many men we could let go. And then Lisa and I, her and I just, all her and I did collectively was to be sure that they met their three-quarter guarantee.

Q. So Harry Marino, Jr. determined both the number of workers that needed to be let go and from fields they needed to be let go?

A. Well, they're not assigned to a specific field. They're just, we knew how many guys, about how many guys we can get the rest of the work done, and cleanup. We had a few things we were still harvesting and that takes X amount of people and through experience and all that stuff, we knew about how many people we would need left to complete, to finish out the season. So doing that, we determined how many people we could let go.

Q. Basically between you and Lisa and Harry, you made a decision that X number of people needed to be let go?

A. Well, the number of people, that was made between Harry and I. Showing that they met the three-quarter guarantee, Lisa and I.

Q. And other than the three of you, was anyone else involved in this decision?

A. No, uh-uh. No, I'm sorry. It's amazing you catch me every time I do that.

Q. And how was this communicated to the workers, this decision?

A. Just like I -- how, in Spanish.

Q. Did you do it directly or did it go through Agustin or through someone else?

A. Him and I. Him and I collectively.

Q. So take me, take me through it.

A. We just at the camp, where guys, the guys were all there and we explained to them that, you know, it was a poor growing season we had, and it was obvious that, because the guys, they weren't doing much and they didn't have many hours. So I explained to them we were going to let some guys go. We're going to determine who, but we explained most likely, it would -- it has got to be guys that may have been here the longest, and maybe the guys that got here first, because they would have been the guys that would reach the three-quarters first naturally. And they understood that and they understood that we had no product. We had nothing to pick. We had nothing to harvest. And they generally, yeah, they understood that and they were okay with it.

I mean a lot of the guys at that point, they were, they were excited. Some of them were excited to go home and see their families. And okay, we came and it wasn't the best season, but these guys aren't going anywheres. And there will always be next year and it was explained to them that way, you know, we're not letting you go because you didn't perform or nothing like that, it was just we don't have, we don't have the season. We don't have the product. I look forward to seeing you next season if, you know, you choose to want to come back.

Q. And why did you -- so it seems like you had, well, were there two meetings, one, this one meeting and then another meeting to tell the workers who were being let go?

A. I mean there's another one, once we compiled the list of actually who could be let go, like legally be let go, we presented it to them. And okay, here's the names and this is how we're going to do it and this is the process.

Q. So you mean you created a list which workers had met the three-quarters guarantee so they could be let go?

A. Yes.

Q. And why did you have two, you know, two different meetings?

A. Well, I mean because I had let the guys know prior, at least I felt like I owed that to them and once I compiled the list, because I hadn't done that legwork yet, it was maybe a day or two later.

Q. Two meetings were a day or two apart?

A. Yes.

Q. So it was sort of you had the initial meeting sort of as a courtesy to the workers?

A. Right.

Q. So and how is it determined, okay, we've got a -- we've got to let go some workers?

A. Yeah, I mean, yes. Yes.
Q. What other produce was affected?
A. Pickles. Zucchini. All of them, eggplants. Peppers definitely the worst. Cucumbers were pretty bad at that time. They had a lot of powdery downy mildew, but we don't grow cucumbers late that time of year. So cucumbers is on this list, but we didn't -- I think we were done cucumbers by that time.
Q. Could you have afforded to have kept on all those workers for the rest of the growing season?
A. If I was able to, I would have kept them. I'm sure that would have been very detrimental to me to hang onto labor. You don't want to pay labor to do what, walk through the fields and don't pick anything. That would be foolish.
Q. Walk through the fields and what?
A. And not pick anything. Just walk by the plants that don't have anything on them or dead plants, I can't, I can't. It's foolish.
Q. It would have been financially detrimental to Sun Valley Orchards?

A. Absolutely.
Q. So workers who were, can we call them fired, fired, is that fair?
A. No, they weren't fired.
Q. Laid off?
A. Okay.
Q. Let go. The workers who were let go, this group of workers in August or September, did they sign any --
A. Yes.
Q. -- resignation?
A. Yes.
Q. They signed resignation forms?
A. I don't know resignation, but they signed forms that they were being let go due to crop loss, absolutely.
Q. Does Sun Valley Orchards still have those forms?
A. Yes.
Q. And so those forms say that the workers left because of crop loss?
A. Yes.
Q. So the forms that Sun Valley Orchards gave workers who departed in around May, where were those forms obtained from?

A. I believe it's -- I believe from Theresa Ward at NAC.

Q. So she would have e-mailed them or mailed them to Sun Valley?

A. Probably e-mailed me and I just made copies.

Q. Do you usually correspond with Theresa via e-mail or via phone or both?

A. Both.

Q. Were there any other e-mails that you had with Theresa about the workers departing?

A. I don't know about e-mails, perhaps, I would have to really dig back. But most of that may have been phone conversations, but there was probably a few e-mails in there. But I don't know for sure.

Q. We're talking about 2015?

A. Right.

Q. And you haven't, so you haven't checked your e-mails for this?

A. No.

Q. No one else at Sun Valley has either?

A. Not that I know of. No, nobody

Q. Was Sun Valley Orchards in the practice of notifying the government when workers were separated from Sun Valley Orchards?

A. That's required.

Q. And how does Sun Valley Orchards do that?

A. I call Theresa or whoever in her office that handles that or I e-mail them and tell them that they have to notify whoever they have to notify. That's part of the service that they provide. That's what their agency does.

Q. And would you send them, would you e-mail this organization the list of workers that were separating?

A. Lisa probably did, because this list looks like it's comes from our type of payroll system that we used. And she may have, you know, because I'm sure there's Heather, yeah, because the spelling is correct. I mean this had to come from some kind of a -- some kind of document that Lisa sent to them.

Q. And this reminds you of the payroll system that Sun Valley Orchards has?

Q. Anything Sun Valley does that you're not involved in?

A. No.

Q. Are you involved in the payroll for the H-2A workers?

A. To some extent.

Q. Were you involved in 2015 in the payroll for H2 workers?

A. To some extent.

Q. How were you involved?

A. Like I told you, I'm involved with -- I handle most of our IT issues, so the software system that we use, I researched and implemented. I handle questions on that. Help the guys with their iPads and scanners, that type of thing. But I'm not involved in the daily payroll or any of the wages or anything like that.

Q. Are those iPads used to track the hours workers work?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that through the system called PET Tiger?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that the system that Sun Valley used to track workers' hours in 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell me more about how Sun Valley used PET Tiger in 2015?

A. It is a software and hardware system that gives you the availability to keep track of your payroll. That's how we used it. Electronically. So that there's no mistakes.

Q. Does it keep track of the amount of pay workers receive?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it keep track of the number of hours Sun Valley's workers work each day?

A. Yes.

Q. Does it keep track of hours Sun Valley offers its workers, but that workers don't work on a given day?

A. Reask the question. I don't understand the question.

Q. Does Sun Valley use PET Tiger to track information about whether a worker does any work on a given day?

A. I still want you to clarify your question, then I'll answer it.

Q. If a worker doesn't perform any work on a given day --

A. Yes.

Q. -- what would the PET Tiger system show about that worker?

A. If he's not there and present to be scanned into a job for the day, he has no hours or work for the day.

Q. Is there any other information in PET Tiger for that worker on a day when he doesn't work?

A. I'm not understanding your question. I'll explain, workers get an ID card. They have a scanner and an iPad runs the software. You show up to work. You scan your ID. You scan your job, whatever it is you're doing for the day. It keeps track of it. If you're not there, there's nobody to scan. So I don't -- I'm not getting your question. It's very simple. You either show up for work or you don't.

Q. And when a worker doesn't show up for work, does Sun Valley record that in any other system?

A. No.

Q. Does Sun Valley record the reason that a worker doesn't show up for work on a given day?

A. No.

Q. In 2015, did Sun Valley record the reason that a worker didn't show up for work on a given day?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Who would know the answer to that question?

A. To what question?

Q. Who would know whether in 2015 if a worker didn't show up for work on a given day, the reason for the worker not showing up was tracked in some system?

A. What do you mean was tracked in some system? You're asking -- reask the question. I don't understand the question.

Q. Besides the PET Tiger, what kind of payroll software did Sun Valley use in 2015?

A. Famous actually prints the paychecks. Famous software is our operating system. PET Tiger is a third-party software system that collects the data that transfers to Famous to print the checks.

Q. So Famous is a system Sun Valley used?

A. That's our operating system. That's our accounting software.

Q. Other than PET Tiger, are there any other sources of information supplied to Famous?

A. Reask the question. I don't -- be more specific.

Q. The information to print the paychecks comes from the Famous system?

A. The information to print the checks is generated by PET Tiger. That information transfers daily to Famous, our accounting system. Famous physically prints the checks. PET Tiger doesn't print paychecks. PET Tiger is a data collection software system. Famous is our operating system, that's our accounting system. It runs our general ledger and everything else, sales, invoicing, accounts receivable, payable.

Q. Did Sun Valley use any other payroll systems in 2015?

A. No.

Q. Did Sun Valley use any other systems to keep track of the number of hours that you participated in?

A. Sure.

Q. Agustin Hernandez was at some of those meetings?

A. Sure.

Q. Did you ever discuss meals at Sun Valley with --

A. Meals, no.

Q. Did he ever discuss meals at Sun Valley at those meetings?

A. Nope.

Q. At any of the meetings that you've held at Sun Valley where Agustin Hernandez was present, did anyone discuss the kitchen at Sun Valley with him?

A. Yes.

Q. What was discussed at that meeting?

A. The shape of the kitchen. If the stoves are adequate. Just the overall condition of the facility.

Q. Anything else about the kitchen?

A. We provide the facility and we have nothing to do with it after that. It's not our -- it's not -- it's nothing to do with us.

Q. When you say facility, what does

Sun Valley provide?

A. We provide free housing and we provide a kitchen. Pay all the utilities and that's it.

Q. Does Sun Valley provide any of the equipment in the kitchen?

A. I think we did, yeah. I think we bought everything, the stoves, we -- we provided all that.

Q. What else in the kitchen did Sun Valley provide?

A. I'm not sure. I don't know all that's in there. I don't even know.

Q. So when you discussed the kitchen at Sun Valley with Agustin Hernandez, what did you discuss?

A. You asked if I was present at discussions, I said yes. What was discussed, I don't remember. I don't know. I told you overall condition of the facilities. That's my answer.

Q. Do you remember anything about what was discussed in the meetings with Agustin Hernandez at Sun Valley about the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Did Sun Valley change anything about the way the kitchen operated in 2015?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Does Sun Valley give Agustin Hernandez any instructions about how to operate the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Did Sun Valley set any rules for how Agustin Hernandez ran the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Sun Valley paid some money in 2013 because of a US Department of Labor audit?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Are you asking or testifying?

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Do you know if Sun Valley paid money in 2013 because of a US Department of Labor audit?

A. No.

Q. Do you know if Sun Valley ever paid money because US Department of Labor audit determined that workers were overcharged for their meals?

A. No.

Q. In 2015, were Sun Valley's H-2A system have about that?

A. The hourly rate and the piece rate.

Q. Are there codes for different jobs?

A. Yeah.

Q. What are some of those codes?

A. They're job descriptions.

Q. Can you give me an example of a job description?

A. Pepper harvest, cucumber harvest, squash, picking, picking peaches. That's a few of them. I gave you an example.

Q. Are those job categories listed in the PET Tiger system?

A. Yes.

Q. What other information goes into the PET Tiger system?

A. Be specific.

Q. So the PET Tiger system has information about the hours workers work?

A. It keeps track of that.

Q. It keeps track of the job category the workers work?

A. Yes.

Q. What else does the PET Tiger system keep track of?

A. The piece rates.
Q. What else?
A. It's not that complicated. It keeps track of the work they do.
Q. Is there anything else in the PET Tiger system?
A. Be more specific. Ask a question. You're asking vague questions. Ask a specific question, I'll give you an answer. I don't know what you're asking.
Q. Does the PET Tiger system keep track of information other than what we've discussed?
A. I don't know what it's capable of, because we only use it for what we use it for.
Q. What does Sun Valley use the PET Tiger system for?
A. How many times do I have to explain this? I've explained it very clearly. What do we use it for? To keep track of what the workers do so we can pay them correctly. That's what we use it for. Ask a specific question, I'll give you an answer.
Q. How does Sun Valley keep track of whether it pays workers correctly?

A. We review the job cards daily and the system tells you if there's a mistake. Nobody's got records like us, I'll tell ya.

Q. What kind of mistakes would the PET Tiger system show?

A. If they double scanned an ID tag. It's very, very, very hard to not catch a mistake. The system is very, is very accurate. It knows if something is out of the ordinary. You review the job card every day and it will identify them, like this is out of sorts. And then you look at it. And then you adjust it.

Q. If a worker doesn't clock in one day, but did work at Sun Valley, would the worker be paid for the work that day?

A. Yes.

Q. What would Sun Valley do to make sure the worker got paid for that day?

A. It would have to be reported to the office to payroll for that to be rectified.

Q. Who would report that problem to the payroll office?

A. Agustin.

Q. Anyone else report those kinds of problems to your office?

A. My brother, Russ.
Q. Anyone else?
A. Not to my knowledge.
Q. Who at the payroll office would be informed about that kind of problem?
A. Lisa.
Q. Is that Lisa Justice?
A. Yes.
Q. Anyone else at Sun Valley keep track of those kinds of problems in the payroll office?
A. No.
Q. Does anyone else work in the payroll office at Sun Valley?
A. No.
Q. A minute ago, you mentioned Sun Valley's records. What kinds of records does Sun Valley have of the hours H-2A workers worked in 2015?
A. Whatever PET Tiger is capable of.
Q. Does Sun Valley use any systems other than PET Tiger to keep track of the hours H-2A workers worked in 2015?
A. No.
Q. Does PET Tiger keep track of the time of day that a worker clocked in?

A. Yes.

Q. Does PET Tiger keep track of the time of day that a worker clocked out?

A. Yes.

Q. PET Tiger is an electronic system?

A. Yes.

Q. What kinds of reports can be run from that PET Tiger system?

A. I'm not sure. I don't use it daily.

Q. Who uses the PET Tiger system?

A. Lisa.

Q. Does Sun Valley currently have information from 2015 about the hours workers worked in 2015?

A. Reask the question.

Q. Does Sun Valley still have information in PET Tiger about the hours workers worked in 2015?

A. Yeah.

Q. About the pay workers received in 2015?

A. Yes.

2015 about which days workers didn't work?

A. No.

Q. Are you familiar with a job order from the H-2A program in 2015 at Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. Do you know whether the workers at Sun Valley in 2015 were guaranteed the opportunity to work a certain number of hours?

A. Oh yeah, I know that, yes.

Q. Can you tell me about your understanding of that guarantee in 2015 for the H-2A workers?

A. There's a guarantee that needs to be met. And it's -- I don't know what it is.

Q. Do you know if the guarantee is broken down at all by weeks or months or days?

A. I don't know. I just know that there's a guarantee.

Q. How does Sun Valley keep track of whether workers have been offered the number of hours under that guarantee?

A. Through the payroll software.

Q. How does Sun Valley use that payroll software to keep track?

his work history. It will generate reports and they got all the reports they wanted. It generates reports until you can't read them no more.

Q. What specific information would that work history show?

A. I don't know, whatever you ask it to show. I don't know. I don't use it. I don't use it. I just know that it can do it.

Q. Do you know if it can show the number of hours a worker worked in a particular day?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if it shows the reason why a worker didn't work a certain day?

A. Reask the question. I don't know why you keep going back to this, because it's -- like it's not relevant. Reask the question, because I don't understand it.

Q. PET Tiger can run reports?

A. Yes.

Q. Someone from Sun Valley can use PET Tiger to run a report?

A. Yes.

Q. Did all of Sun Valley's workers in 2015 meet the three-quarters guarantee?

A. Yes.

Q. How do you know?

A. Because we made sure.

Q. Who made sure?

A. My brother sat down and went through everything with Lisa.

Q. Do you know what records they used to figure it out?

A. No. You've got to ask him.

Q. Was anyone else involved besides Russell and Lisa?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. In 2015, did Agustin Hernandez ever convey information to you about complaints that workers had made to him?

A. No.

Q. Did anyone convey information to you in 2015 about complaints by workers?

A. No.

Q. Did anyone tell you that a worker had a question in 2015?

A. No.

workers wanted to leave Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell me more about that?

A. We had, I think it was our first, our first group of H-2A employees. We were just starting asparagus harvesting and we really needed them bad. I don't know the exact number, how many it was, but I think it was that entire group wanted to go home. They didn't want to do the work. And we were stuck, stuck in a bad way, in a real bad way. We needed, we needed workers. And I know we all went over there, myself, my brother, my uncle, my dad, Agustin, and we talked to them all. My brother talked to them. You know, tried to figure out, you know, what it was that they didn't like, what they didn't want to do and they just said they did not want to do this work and they wanted to go home. So that was it, they left. And we needed them bad, really bad.

I'm sure you're aware, this H-2A program is not an easy program to navigate. You just don't pick up the phone and replace 20

the ground every day, every day, every day, every day. You've got to cut it. There's nobody there to do it. So that's how that went.

Q. Who first told you that some of the workers were having issues?

A. I think Agustin. Agustin is the manager of the help. He went and told my uncle and I think my brother that these guys are not happy. They don't like the work. They don't want to do it. They want to go home. Well, then I find out, what do you mean they want to go home, they just got here. So we all went over to talk to them to see what it is that we could do to make it work and they just, they said no. My brother even explained to them, you know, we understand, it's not about pride. It's not about anything else. Just, you know, can you, nope, they didn't want to do it. They wanted to go home.

Q. Who did you first learn about the situation from?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Was it your uncle?

just, I remember it happened. But I don't know who told me exactly.

Q. When you and your dad and your uncle and your brother and Agustin Hernandez were present with these workers, where were you at that time?

A. At the -- at the living quarters.

Q. Was it inside?

A. No, we were all outside. We were all outside standing as a group.

Q. Were you close to the building?

A. Yeah.

Q. About how close?

A. I was in the parking lot area.

Q. How close were you to the workers?

A. We were talking in a group.

Q. Were you pretty close to the workers?

A. Yeah. I'd say from here, from here to the wall, maybe a little further.

Q. Let the record reflect that the witness is sitting at a table that is about three chairs away from the end of the table and then there's, is it fair for me to say a couple

A. I don't get this.

MR. SCHULTE: The record speaks for itself. I think we would guess maybe 15 feet, but I'm not really sure where this is going.

THE WITNESS: Between 15 and 20 feet.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Who spoke at that meeting?

A. My brother, Agustin.

Q. Did anyone else speak?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Did you speak at that meeting?

A. I don't recall. I don't remember what was said. Again, I'm under oath, so everything I answer has got to be the truth and I don't remember, so.

Q. I appreciate that. Did Agustin speak in Spanish at that meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he speak in English as well?

A. He translated.

Q. Who did he translate for?

A. For us, we're not bilingual.

A. No.
Q. At the meeting in 2015 with the workers outside the housing camp, did he translate for Russ?
A. I don't, I don't recall. Russ is, Russ is pretty fluent in Spanish. I don't recall.
Q. Did Russ speak Spanish at that meeting?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you understand what he said?
A. Nope.
Q. Did Russ speak English at that meeting?
A. Yes.
Q. What did he say?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Did you understand him when he spoke?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you understand Agustin when he spoke?
A. English.
Q. Anything he said, did you

A. When he spoke English.
Q. Do you know what he said?
A. No.
Q. Who spoke first at that meeting?
A. I don't recall.
Q. How many workers spoke?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Was it more than one?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Was anyone upset at that meeting?
A. No.
Q. How do you know?
A. Define your definition of upset. I don't -- I don't understand what you're asking. My definition and yours might be two different things.
Q. What was the mood like at the meeting?
A. The mood was fine. We were just trying to figure out what the problem was. It was just a, hey, what's going on. What's going on, what's, what's the problem. What don't you like? What's -- I mean before I knew it, that was it, they wanted to go home and that was it.

All I know is we did everything we could, we needed them bad. We couldn't afford to lose them. They wanted to go home, so.

Q. Did the workers explain any concerns that they had at that meeting?

A. I don't recall. Again, I'm going to tell you again, I don't know specifically what was said. I just explained the mood of the meeting. I explained the intent, what was going on. I can't recall from 2015 the exact words of what was said, who said what, when, where and how. I don't. I don't remember. So move onto the next one.

Q. Is there anything else about the meeting in 2015 that we haven't discussed that you do remember?

A. No.

Q. Do you have any notes from that meeting?

A. No.

Q. Does Sun Valley have any notes from that meeting?

A. I don't know. You'd have to ask Russ.

Exhibit 18?

A. No.

Q. Have you seen Exhibit 18 before?

A. No.

Q. Do you know who created Exhibit 18?

A. For certain, no.

Q. Do you know whose handwriting appears on Exhibit 18?

A. I do not.

Q. You don't recognize the handwriting on this document?

A. I do not, no.

Q. Does Sun Valley have an orientation for when H-2A workers arrive at Sun Valley?

A. I believe so. My brother does that. You've got to ask him.

Q. Are you involved in the orientation?

A. No, I am not. Again, I am not involved with the labor, the day-to-day operations, the H-2A program, that is not my responsibility at the company.

Q. So --

A. I cannot speak for certain on these opportunity yesterday.

Q. Are you personally involved in any orientations for workers at Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. Other than Agustin Hernandez, did anyone at Sun Valley have a New Jersey crew leader license in 2015?

A. I don't know.

Q. Who would know?

A. I have no idea. I don't know. I don't know the answer to that, no.

Q. Do you know if anyone at Sun Valley had a Farm Labor Contractor license from the US Department of Labor in 2015?

A. I do not know.

Q. Mr. Marino, I'm showing you a document that I think has been previously marked as Exhibit 8 in the deposition of Agustin Hernandez. Do you recognize Exhibit 8?

A. I guess it's the -- it has something to do with the H-2A application. I don't know. I don't do it.

Q. You haven't seen Exhibit 8 before?

A. No.

the typed information in Exhibit 8?

A. I do not know, no. You'd have to ask Russ. His name is clearly on it, so I hope you asked him yesterday.

Q. If Agustin Hernandez testified that you personally posted Exhibit 8 at Sun Valley, how would you respond?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection, that's actually not at all what Agustin Hernandez testified to, so that's a hypothetical.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Did you personally post Exhibit 8 at Sun Valley?

A. No. No.

Q. You're not involved in maintaining the housing at Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. You're not involved in inspecting the housing camp at Sun Valley?

A. Nope.

Q. Preparing the housing facility at Sun Valley?

A. No.

the bathrooms at the working housing camp at Sun Valley?

A. No, no, no.

Q. You're not involved in the transport of workers between the housing camp and the fields at Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. You're not involved in maintaining those vehicles?

A. No.

Q. You're not involved in overseeing who drives those vehicles?

A. No.

Q. Sun Valley employs a mechanic named Leonard Fleming?

A. Yes.

Q. Who oversees Leonard Fleming?

A. The owners. We all do. He's an employee of us. He has no mechanic boss.

Q. Do you ever assign work to Leonard Fleming?

A. Sure.

Q. What kinds of work do you assign him?

Q. Other than vehicles?

A. It's a farm. He works on everything. If it's broken, he fixes it. So use your imagination. Anything that needs to be fixed on a farm, Leonard works on it. Within his capabilities. And if he can't fix it, we send it out.

Q. Who do you send it out to?

A. To whatever the appropriate shop may be to fix whatever it is that's broken.

Q. Does Sun Valley use a shop that employs a person named Al Foot?

A. Yes.

Q. What does that Sun Valley use that shop for?

A. Again, for whatever our overflow, whatever Leonard can't handle, if he's too busy, whatever needs to be fixed.

Q. Does that include fixing the vehicles that transport Sun Valley's workers between the worker housing camp and --

A. It could. Yes, it could, yes.

Q. Mr. Marino, I realize some of my questions are very long and it may be very

it. Russ handles it. So again, I'll reiterate that, it's my brother. So I hoped you asked him yesterday.

Q. There was some groups of workers who left Sun Valley early in 2015?

A. Be more specific.

MR. SCHULTE: The testimony was that there was a group of workers, we covered this earlier.

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Was there a group of workers who Sun Valley laid off in 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you personally involved in the decision to lay those workers off?

A. Yeah, we all discuss it. We all discuss what was going on in our business.

Q. Can you tell me more about the circumstances that led to the layoff of those workers?

A. We had a crop disaster. We lost our pepper crop. We had nothing left to pick. Nothing left to pick. There's no work. So we made sure that their contracts were fulfilled for the guys that were laid off. That's the end of that. There's no work. It's a disaster.

Q. Those workers who were laid off in 2015, did they sign forms before they left?

A. I don't know. Because I don't get involved in any of that after the fact. That's my brother. That's the agent that we used to make sure that we follow everything that is supposed to be followed, to do what we're supposed to do. I'm not involved in that.

Q. Who was involved in determining whether the workers who were laid off received the three-quarters guarantee?

A. Russ and Lisa. We ran detailed reports like you're putting in front of my face to determine that they actually worked the time before anybody was laid off. Because none of us want to be sitting here. You can bet that. None of us. You might think we do coming in our office throwing this stuff at us, but we don't. That's why we spend what we spend. That's why we hired the consultant and we ask used by counsel who was unprepared to ask him questions yesterday on all of these topics.

THE WITNESS: Yes. And I also want to say that I was extremely prepared today on the topics I was to be deposed on as well. Thank you. I was not, not prepared.

BY MR. SCHULTE:

Q. While we're still on, just a couple of follow-ups. I'm sorry I thought you meant on your point. Three or four quicks ones. Does Sun Valley have a policy to exclude workers from using kitchens?

A. No.

Q. PET Tiger and Famous would show days where a worker didn't have hours worked, right? I mean it wouldn't have an entry for that, but you could tell if other workers in the same crew were working and and they had a zero for that, you could tell that they didn't work that day?

A. Sure, yes.

Q. Are you aware of any complaints

A. No.

Q. And in your experience when Wage and Hour investigators come out, have they made any comments about the food being served?

A. Yes. Wage and Hour has been to our farm since we have been in business, every year they come. They say what a great job we do. The kitchen is fantastic. The food smells wonderful. They all want to sit down and eat with everybody. And first year we get an H-2A, here we are, here we sit. So they know our operation very well and we have been a good farm for a long time.

And I do want to clarify the question about the food and kitchen stuff. The reason the answers are no, because we are not involved, never have been involved in anything that goes on with food or kitchen. That's a fact. Always has been. Always will be. We provide the free facilities and that is it. End of story.

MR. SCHULTE: That's all.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Yes, please.
A. They brought water from the kitchen to give us some in the afternoon.
Q. What else did you drink during the course of the day?
A. Sometimes at dinner, one beer.
Q. Did you drink anything else during the course of the day?

A. Chips, soups and cigarettes.
Q. Anything else?
A. No. Just that, and the soda and the Gatorade.
Q. Was anything else sold from the kitchen?
A. No.
Q. So, typically, how many sodas or Gatorades would you drink in a day?
A. Sometimes three or four.
Q. If you can walk me through a typical day, what times would you purchase these sodas and Gatorades?
A. During the light breakfast at 10:00 in the morning, one soda. Between 12:00 or 1:00, another one. From 2:00 to 3:00 we drank the water that they provided. And at dinner Monster or soda.
Q. Can you repeat the first word?
INTERPRETER GARCIA: Monster. It's a

Q. When you say soda, do you mean Monster or are those two different things?

A. No, when I say soda, I mean Coke, Coca-Cola. Monster is different.

Q. Did Agustin also sell Monster?

A. Yes.

Q. You said at 10:00 a.m. you'll have one soda. At 12:00 or 1:00 you'll have one soda. Is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you go back to, what else would you have during this typical day?

A. The three sodas and the water.

Q. When would you drink the third soda?

A. In the afternoon, around 6:00 or 7:00.

Q. Would you ever drink a fourth soda or drink?

A. Around 5:00 and 6:00 a.m. in the morning there was coffee.

Q. Was the coffee free or was there a charge?

A. It was included in the weekly meal plan.

Q. Were the other drinks included in the

A. No, those we needed to pay one dollar per drink.

Q. Was it the same price for the coke, Gatorade and Monster?

A. Soda and Gatorade, one dollar; Monster, two dollars.

Q. Before when you said you'd have a soda at 10:00 a.m., a soda at 12:00 or 1:00 p.m., and a soda at 6:00 or 7:00 p.m., what do you mean by soda? Let me strike that.

What time of day would you have the Monsters?

A. In the morning at 10:00 with a sandwich that Agustin sold to us as part of the light breakfast.

Q. Would you have a Monster at any other time during the day?

A. No, just one.

Q. When would you have a Gatorade?

A. At 1:00 and at 6:00 p.m.

Q. When would you have a Coke?

A. Sometimes during lunch in exchange of the Gatorade.

at breakfast at 10:00 a.m., one drink at lunch at 12:00 or 1:00 p.m. and one drink at dinner at 6:00 or 7:00 p.m.?

A. Yes, plus the water that was provided between 11:00 to 3:00. That was the time in which it would be hotter.

Q. Was water provided after 3:00 p.m.?

A. Yes.

Q. Did the other workers in the fields drink more or less or about the same as you drank?

A. Some of them more because they purchased double for lunch or for breakfast.

Q. Do you mean by double? Do you mean two drinks for lunch or two drinks for breakfast?

A. Two for the lunch.

Q. Are you saying that most of the workers in the fields had more drinks than you had?

A. No, maybe just one-third of them. Not even one-half.

Q. The other half of workers, did they drink the same as you or less than you?

A. The same.

Q. How do you know how much the other

A. Because we were all together in the same group and we were all together in one single dining room for lunch.

Q. Before you said that Agustin sold beer. How many beers per week did your coworkers drink?

A. About a six-pack.

Q. How do you know that?

A. I would see the empty cans in the trash when they put all the trash together.

Q. Do you know where your coworkers got the beer from?

A. Agustin had a refrigerator for the beer in the kitchen.

Q. How did the workers get the beer?

A. At the end of the day you could purchase it, just as the other drinks or beverages.

Q. How much did they cost?

A. I don't really remember. But maybe 12 U.S. per six-pack.

Q. How much beer did you purchase a week?

A. Two to three Cerveza Modelo.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: C-E-R-V-E-Z-A and the second word M-O-D-E-L-O.

A. Yes, it is.

Q. What other brands of beer were sold, if any?

A. There was a red one that I don't remember the name. I think Budweiser if that is a red can.

Q. Any other brands?

A. I think there was also Bud Light. I think.

Q. Who sold the other brands of beer?

A. They were all together in the same fridge opened by Agustin.

Q. How much did the Budweisers and Bud Lights cost?

A. I don't remember because I never purchased those. But they were cheaper.

Q. How much did it cost to buy a single Cerveza Modela?

A. Two dollars.

Q. What times of day could you buy beer?

A. Only in the evenings when we were ready to go to rest or sleep.

Q. So what was the earliest time and what was the latest time you could buy a beer?

Q. Anything else remarkable about the housing or the bathrooms?

A. I would think that's all.

Q. I want to ask you a little bit about your personal experience working. Was there ever a time when you were injured or didn't work during the 2015 growing season?

A. Yes, for about a week and a half.

Q. Why did you not work for that week and a half?

A. I broke a toe when we were doing the picking.

Q. How did you break the toe?

A. A splinter went into my shoe from where they would stack the peppers.

Q. When did you -- let me talk a little bit about the circumstances around the end of your work at Sun Valley. How did you end up or why did you stop working at Sun Valley?

A. What happened is that there were three big storms and this affected three of the fields of peppers, so they said the only thing we would be doing is collecting the plastics from the fields, you first signed it?

A. Yes. It was in Spanish and in English.

Q. What happened to the Spanish part of the document, if you know?

A. We turned them both in to Agustin.

Q. The part of the document that you have here, Agustin has this or you had this?

A. Agustin handed it to us so we would sign it. After signing it, we returned it to Agustin.

Q. Just to go back, where are you located today?

A. In Celaya.

Q. What building is that? Whose office is that?

A. It's the office for immigrants' rights.

Q. Do you know the name of the organization?

A. I think it's CDM. The center for immigrants' rights.

Q. Has anyone from CDM spoken with you about testifying?

A. Yes, that it was going to take place.

Q. Did they talk to you about what you would testify about?

room?

A. Yes.

Q. Thank you. If we can go back and talk about the kitchen. Did you ever ask to put anything in the refrigerator?

A. No, I never asked.

Q. How about the stove?

A. I did not. Just some coworkers and they were told that they had to buy their stuff.

Q. Did anyone ever tell you that?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever pay money to Russell Marino for meals?

A. No. He only visited us three times during the time we were at the ranch.

Q. Did you pay anyone other than Agustin for meals?

A. No, just him.

Q. Did you ever pay anyone other than Agustin for soda or Monsters?

A. No, he was the one who would collect the money for these things.

Q. That would apply for everything you nothing that you bought from anyone else at Sun Valley other than Agustin?

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Objection, confusing.

A. Yes, he was the one who was with us.

Q. Did you ever go to the store? Did Sun Valley provide a van or a bus to take you to the store?

A. No. Only to wash our laundry.

Q. Was there a store nearby?

A. Yes. There was a store close by, five minutes walking.

Q. Did Sun Valley ever take money out of your paycheck to cover food for meals?

A. No.

Q. Was there anyone who did not buy beer, any of the workers who did not buy beer?

A. Yes, there were a few.

Q. So, you said that you came in June. Do you remember what time in June you arrived?

A. Like the first day.

Q. It looks like you left about August 9th. Is that about right?

A. I think so. 8th, the month of August.

A. Around 30.

Q. Did Agustin explain why your coworkers could not use the kitchen?

A. No, he didn't. He just said that to them and that he it was not mandatory for any of us to eat that food or to drink those beverages.

Q. Okay. Now, in response to the questions from Mr. Schulte, you said that -- I'd like to talk a little bit about these trips to the laundry.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Could you repeat that for me, please?

Q. I'd like to talk a little bit about the trips to the laundry that you were talking about earlier.

Would you always be able to go to the -- how much time would you be given to do the laundry?

A. About an hour and a half or two.

Q. Would you always have time to go to the store to buy food on that trip?

A. No. That would be a different trip on Saturday. We would go to the laundry twice a week.

Q. Did you pay for these trips?

A. Just if we were going to travel farther.

Agustin.

Q. And on the trips to the laundry, were you able to purchase food and other items?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you always have time to purchase other items on those laundry trips?

A. Yes. But, of course, we had to do that while the clothes were being washed, while they were in the machine because they would not wait for us if we needed more time.

Q. How much time would you have to go to the store while the laundry was being washed?

A. About 30 minutes or an hour.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: All right. No further questions.

MR. SCHULTE: Just a couple of questions for me.

BY MR. SCHULTE:

Q. Did any of the Marino brothers speak with you about the meals?

A. No, they didn't. None of them. We just arrived and were taken to the dorms to make ourselves home. And it was Agustin the one who told

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: All right. One moment. We need to confer here.

(A brief recess was taken at this time.)

MR. SCHULTE: I'm sorry. If I can go back. I have just have one last one.

BY MR. SCHULTE:

Q. Do you think you're owed any money for your work in 2015?

A. I guess not because at the end of every week they would give us our check and our stub.

MR. SCHULTE: Okay. Thank you. That was all.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: We have no further questions. Thank you very much for your time and both for the interpreter for your help here and to the witness. We wish you a safe journey back home.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Thank you, sir.

MR. GLICK: I'm going to stop the recording now.

repeat.

A. Agustin was on top of the supervisor.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Just excuse me. He wanted to make sure that the word supervisor meant (Spanish word). That was the question he asked to the interpreter.

Q. Okay. I appreciate it.

Could workers choose to work fewer hours at Sun Valley?

A. No, there was no choice. Actually, the foreman would threaten us that if we didn't work but he ordered, we were going to be sent back to Mexico.

Q. I'd like to ask you a little bit about how you ate at Sun Valley. Can you tell me about the meal plan?

A. With respect to the nutritional value of the meals, they were balanced. But we were against what that we felt it was given to us very expensive.

Q. How much was the meal plan?

A. 80 US dollars per week plus soda. In total, in a week, we would be paying $125 including soda and meals.

Q. Who did you pay this money to?

Q. How was this arrangement explained to you?

A. Agustin did it.

Q. What did he say?

A. From the moment in which we arrived, he told us we needed to pay 80 U.S. for the meals and that any soda also needed to be paid for.

Q. When would you pay him?

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you repeat this for me, sir?

Q. When did you pay Agustin the $80?

A. Every time I received a check.

Q. When did you receive checks?

A. Every eight days, every week.

Q. How long did you participate in this meal plan?

A. A bit over one month and a half.

Q. What did you do after that month and a half?

A. Some of the coworkers got together and bought a little grill and I saw that they were able to do their own cooking in that grill, so I joined them.

to you about, was Agustin selling anything other than the meal plan?

A. He would sell soda, Red Bull, Monster.

MR. SCHULTE: Sorry to interrupt. Are you getting kind of a cross signal on the line, too, or is that just here? It sounds like there's another call in the background.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: No, we're not. We're fine here.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Yeah, we're fine here, too.

MR. SCHULTE: It's just me. Okay, then. Carry on.

A. Repeating his answer, he said that he would sell Red Bull, Monster and orange soda and he also sells or sold beer, Caguana. Caguana, it's like a large beer.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Now you're gone? Can you hear me?

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Yes.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: We can't see you. We can only see Mr. Schulte.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Let us try to fix

A. Yes, one beer was the Caguana, the larger one.

Q. How much did the smaller beers cost?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. He never testified about having smaller beers, only this kind. He's asked and answered this several times already.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: All right. Let me rephrase.

Q. Were there different -- did Agustin sell multiple types of beer or only one kind of beer?

A. Several.

Q. Can you tell us the different kinds of beer?

A. Bud Light, Vicky.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: He's calling them Vicky, like V-I-C-K-Y. He's saying it's like a Mexican beer that's called Victoria. So, he's using Vicky as short for Victoria.

A. Those were in six-packs.

Q. Were the Bud Lights sold in six-packs or in singles or some other way?

A. Either way. However you wanted it. If understand?

A. Yes.

Q. How many beers, typically, a week, would H2A workers drink?

A. Maybe five boxes per week. There were some that actually bought a lot.

Q. On a typical Friday night, how much would an average H2A worker buy in beer?

A. Five 24s.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: I'm asking permission to ask him to clarify for me.

MR. SCHULTE: I'm sorry. It's up to counsel to ask the questions. You can just interpret his answers. If counsel has a question about what he meant, he can follow up. Sorry.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Okay.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. With what?

Q. What do you mean by five 24s?

A. Five boxes of 24 each. I think it's 24 per case. Isn't that right? That's what they sell there?

of 24 beers?

A. Yes, he did. He would sell six-packs or 24-pack cases and the Caguana.

Q. So, Caguanas were sold either in six-packs -- sorry. Sorry.

Are you saying Caguanas were sold in either six-packs or 24-packs?

A. I don't know about that because I did not buy those.

Q. Do you know how much Agustin charged for a 24-pack of Caguanas?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. He didn't answer that they were sold in 24-packs. No foundation.

(Interpreter Jenkins relieved Interpreter Garcia.)

Q. You can answer.

A. He once saw that the undocumented workers once organized a party and he did see they were sold a case of Caguanas.

Q. What beers -- how many beers per H2A worker would a particular H2A worker have per week?

A. Just a few of them were drinking beer, clarify what is the word.

A. He said, also the hygiene in the field was really bad.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. When we got there, everything was really dirty. The bathrooms were filthy, the showers, where we take showers were filthy, the dorms where we stayed.

Q. Turning back to the beer, what days of the week did Agustin sell beer?

A. It was open to whoever wanted to buy beer. But I would say -- but the days they would consume more beer was on Sunday.

Q. Could you buy beer all seven days a week or were there some days when it was closed?

A. No, it was open.

Q. What time during the day could workers buy beer?

A. When we came back from work.

Q. You previously talked about other workers buying beer. Did those workers purchase it from Agustin or from somewhere else?

A. At the beginning they were buying from elsewhere.

Q. When did they start buying them from elsewhere?

A. That was towards the end. At least that's what I would observe. I wasn't drinking a lot. I would buy approximately two beers a week.

Q. So, how many weeks were left in the season when people started buying beer elsewhere?

A. That was like the last week.

Q. Where did Agustin sell the beers from?

A. Right there in the store in the diner -- in the dining room. He had it there in the fridge.

Q. How far was the dining room from where you slept?

A. Five to 15 meters away. It was right there in the building where we were staying.

Q. I'd like to ask you briefly a little bit more about the bathrooms. Can you tell me anything else about the bathrooms?

A. There was shit on the walls and on the toilets like rubbed on the walls -- on the toilets. There was toilet paper everywhere, dirty toilet paper everywhere. Some would piss outside of the

Q. How much time would you spend in these vans each day?

A. Every day.

Q. Can you estimate how much time; ten minutes, an hour, three hours?

A. It would depend in which field you were going to work at. It could be from 15 minutes to 30 minutes.

Q. And that's total per day, 15 to 30 minutes?

A. What do you mean?

Q. Fifteen to 30 minutes, is that the total round trip travel or is that just one way?

A. Fifteen minutes there and 15 minutes back, depending on where the field is. There was another field that was farther away and it took us 30 minutes to get there and another 30 minutes to get back.

Q. During the course of 2015, did you ever leave the farm?

A. Only when I got chicken pox. I mean I was staying. I was sleeping in the fields, but since I had fever, I could not go to work. And I being showed no preoccupation for us when I got sick. During this time that he got sick, I was being showed no concern for us.

Q. How long were you sick and not working?

A. About a week.

Q. Was there any transportation provided to you to do laundry?

A. Yes, there was one day out of the week that we used to go do our laundry.

Q. Was that transportation provided free of charge or was there a charge?

A. No. It was included.

Q. How much time would you have to do your laundry?

A. It would just depend on when we were all doing our laundry.

Q. Would you have time to shop at stores nearby?

A. Yes, there was a store nearby. At the end, that's where I would go buy my stuff. That's where I would go buy my food.

Q. Did you have time to go to the store on every trip to the laundry?

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Let me rephrase.

Q. Is this the document that you were handed around the time that you were sent home?

A. Yes.

Q. I'd like you to look at another --

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Sorry. Court reporter, can you mark this document as Exhibit 22?

(Exhibit 22, Miguel Angel Elizondo Soto's departure form, marked for identification, as of this date.)

Q. There should be a folder near you that says 22. Can you hold that up to the camera so we can confirm you have the right document?

(Witness complied.)

Q. Thank you. We've got the right document.

So, this document which I've marked as Exhibit 22, is that your signature on the document?

A. Yes, it is mine.

Q. Did you complete this document?

A. Yes.

Q. Was anyone with you when you completed this document?

Q. Anyone else?

A. No, just him.

Q. Do you see where there's an X on the document on the left side?

A. Yes.

Q. Why did you put an X there?

A. The foreman told me to put an X there. He told us all to put an X there.

Q. And then after you completed this document, what did you do with it?

A. There were actually two documents. One was in English and one was in Spanish, and I kept the one in Spanish.

Q. What did you do with the English one?

A. I gave it back to Agustin.

Q. Did you ever see this document again?

A. The one that was in English?

Q. Correct.

A. No, it was left there.

Q. Everything that you've been talking about today about Sun Valley, was that all about the 2015 growing season?

A. Yes.

questions. I think opposing counsel may have some questions.

EXAMINATION BY

MR. SCHULTE:

Q. Hello. Good afternoon, sir. I just have a couple of questions. I'll keep it quick for you.

A. Okay, perfect.

Q. When you completed that form, Exhibit 22, did Russell Marino force you to fill that out?

A. Well, it was Agustin.

Q. Okay. So did Russell tell you anything about the form?

A. I don't even remember if Russell Marino was there.

Q. Okay. Thank you. Going back, you said that you had chicken pox and were sick for a week. Do you know if any other workers were also sick?

A. Yes. And they decided to abandon the fields because they were getting no care at all and they said we may die here, so they decided to leave.

Q. When you say leave the field, you mean leave the housing, leave the farm all together?

A. Yes, they left. They left and worked as were hired on the contract and I would also say there were 35 workers.

INTERPRETER JENKINS: Repeat as an interpreter. There were 35 workers from Durango. Would you like me to spell that?

MR. SCHULTE: Yes, please.

INTERPRETER JENKINS: D -- as in Daniel -- U-R-A-N -- as in nothing -- G-O.

A. Of the undocumented workers, I couldn't give you an exact number because we really did not spend much time with them. But I could say it was approximately 40 workers.

Q. Were there H2As from anywhere else? From Veracruz maybe?

A. Yes, from Veracruz, but I can't give you precisely a number of how many there were. There were a few.

Q. Less than how many there were from Guanajunto?

A. Yes.

Q. More than 10?

A. Probably. I didn't really recognize them.

at maybe the Oxxo. Do you remember how much they cost there?

A. For each one, I think it was $2 a can, a small can, of the small ones.

Q. Were any of the Marinos ever there when Agustin was selling beer?

A. Let me think. No. I think this was something he was doing under the table without them finding out.

Q. Have you ever worked for other H2A employers?

A. No. It was my first year.

Q. Have you worked for any since then?

A. I have not had the opportunity again.

Q. Are you planning to do that this summer?

A. Let's hope so. I'm in need.

Q. Okay. Part of the pay at Sun Valley was what they call a piece rate so the more you harvest the more you're paid; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. So that the faster you pick, the more you're paid, right?

A. It was a little confusing because the INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you remind me what was the million dollars?

MR. SCHULTE: Against the Marino family.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: I'm going to object that again it misstates what the case is about. It mischaracterizes. It's confusing.

A. The answer was no.

Q. No, he did not know that?

A. No, I don't know anything.

Q. Did anyone from the Department of Labor or from CDM talk to him about recovering money, about him being paid?

A. No, never.

Q. Does he think the Marino brothers owe him any money?

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you repeat that for me?

MR. SCHULTE: Sure, sorry.

Q. Does he believe the Marino brothers owe him any money?

A. The only thing is when I got ill because I was there on contract and the disease was in their field, so it was not my fault that I couldn't work.

happens, they'll give you a sick leave.

Q. They have paid sick leave, so if you are sick, they'll pay you for days you couldn't work?

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Objection. Relevance.

A. Exactly.

MR. SCHULTE: Okay. No further questions. Thank you.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: One moment. We'd like to take a break for maybe five minutes. Just hang tight. Okay?

(A recess was taken from 4:19 p.m. to 4:27 p.m.)

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: We're back on the record. We'll turn the recording back on. Just give one moment until the recording turns on.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Just a couple more questions. Do you remember on Friday you and I had a telephone -- you had a telephone conversation with the Department of Labor?

A. Yes, I remember that.

Q. And there was also someone on the phone

Video teleconference deposition of JOSE LUIS SILVA LOPEZ, taken by The U.S. Department of Labor, Office of the Solicitor, held at the Offices of the Solicitor, U.S. Department of Labor, 201 Varick Street, Room 983, New York, NY 10014, pursuant to 29 C.F.R. also use bad words and we didn't like that.

Also, the food that we had to pay. We had to pay 80 U.S. per week. And meals did not include beverages. We had to buy them separate. We thought that that was very unfair, but we couldn't do anything about it because we didn't have a kitchen. So we had no other choice but to do what the foreman said.

The first day that we arrived, bathrooms were very, very dirty. We had to clean them ourselves because we didn't like it. The beds on which we had to sleep were also very dirty. Some of my workmates got very sick with chicken pox because the beds were very dirty. The company did not take them to the hospital or anything and they had to pay for their own medicine. One of the coworkers that got sick with chicken pox, his father went to the United States to get him and brought him back.

Like two days after we arrived where we were already working, two or three people left and went somewhere else to find another job because they didn't like it there. So that was a typical day of work. And we would complain about it with the

Q. And was that from Agustin?

A. Yes, Agustin sold everything.

Q. Did you also see your coworkers purchase beverages from Agustin at meals?

A. Yes, everyone would. Later we started to purchase cases of soda from the store ourselves because it was less expensive.

Q. When you purchased beverages at Sun Valley at night, where did you purchase them?

A. Agustin.

Q. Where at Sun Valley was that?

A. Sometimes we would pay money to get a ride to go to the store. I don't remember the little town that we used to go to buy the cases of soft drinks or soda.

Q. When you purchased beverages from Agustin in the evening, where was that?

A. In the kitchen.

Q. Was the kitchen closed at night?

A. He would close the kitchen at 8:00, more or less.

Q. Would you ever buy beverages from Agustin after he closed the kitchen?

no one could go in.

Q. Did anyone ever open up the kitchen after it was closed for the evening?

A. Sometimes he would leave his brother-in-law in charge of the kitchen.

Q. What did Agustin's brother-in-law do?

A. He would sell them.

Q. Did he open up the kitchen again?

A. Yes. Or he would leave it open and he would close it later.

Q. When Agustin's brother-in-law left the kitchen open, could you use the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. Because we were not allowed to go into the kitchen to cook or to do anything.

Q. Did you buy beer from Agustin?

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you repeat that for me, please?

Q. Did you buy beer from Agustin?

A. Sometimes in the afternoon.

Q. About how often?

A. About three days a week.

A. No, it was the same.

Q. When you bought beer from Agustin, how many beers would you buy in a day?

A. Just one or two.

Q. What kind of beer did you buy from Agustin?

A. Bud Light and Budweiser.

Q. How much did those cost?

A. Canned beer cost 1.50. No, I'm not sure. Maybe it was two, two.

Q. Where at Sun Valley did Agustin store that beer?

A. In that same place, in the kitchen.

Q. Where in the kitchen?

A. He had a separate refrigerator just for beer and the other refrigerators were for the other drinks.

Q. Did you ever see that refrigerator for the beer?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you see it?

A. When we would go to pay for our food or when we would go to buy a drink, they were just

Q. Other than the kinds of beer that you bought from Agustin, did Agustin sell other kinds of beer?

A. He would also sell Mexican brand beer such as Caguana.

Q. How do you know that?

A. Because I saw other coworkers purchasing that beer.

Q. How often did you see other coworkers purchasing that beer?

A. Always in the evening or on Sundays. There were some of them that would get drunk there.

Q. How many days a week did you see coworkers purchasing beer from Agustin?

A. Every day, almost every day.

Q. Did your coworkers on average purchase less beer than you from Agustin or the same or more beer?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. No foundation.

A. More beers than I did.

Q. How did you know that your coworkers purchased more beer than you from Agustin?

A. Because I saw them doing it and because

Q. What did you see them doing?

A. Outside the kitchen there were these benches where we used to have our lunch, where we used to eat, and that's where they would sit down to drink their beer.

Q. What did you hear them talking about?

A. When they were drinking beer?

Q. I believe you told me that one of the reasons you knew that your coworkers drank -- scratch that.

One of the reasons you knew that your coworkers purchased more beer from Agustin than you is that you heard them talking about it?

A. I saw them and they brought the beer to the bedroom and drank it there.

Q. Where did you see them bringing the beer from?

A. From the kitchen to the dorms.

Q. Did you ever store -- scratch that.

Did you ever buy beer from somewhere other than Agustin?

A. Sometimes when we used to go to the store.

beer, did you ever store that beer at Sun Valley's kitchen?

A. No.

Q. Do you know if your coworkers ever stored beer in Sun Valley's kitchen if they bought that beer somewhere outside of Sun Valley?

A. No. Because if they bought it from the store, they would drink it.

Q. Did Agustin sell anything else to the workers at Sun Valley that you haven't told me about this morning?

A. He would also sell to us the gloves with which we had to work.

Q. Why did you need those gloves?

A. To pick the cucumber, because the cucumber had like prickles or spindles, thorns and they would hurt us without gloves.

Q. How much did Agustin sell those gloves for?

A. Two dollars.

Q. How often did you buy those gloves from Agustin?

A. Once a week.

Q. What time of day did the water tend to -- did the hot water tend to run out?

A. After work in the afternoon we'd go get a shower and the people who were the last to take the shower wouldn't get any hot water.

Q. Did that happen to you that you didn't get hot water to take a shower?

A. Yes.

Q. How often did that happen to you at Sun Valley in 2015?

A. Around five times.

Q. Were there sinks in the bathroom at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there hot water in those sinks?

A. I think so.

Q. Was there always hot water in the sinks?

A. No.

Q. When wasn't there hot water in the sinks?

A. When everybody would take showers and the hot water would run out.

Q. Did that ever happen to you that there was not hot water in the sink?

A. Not really. I had some coworkers and they gave us a little piece of paper. On this piece of paper, it mentioned what product we would be picking.

Q. Did it say anything about -- no, strike that.

You had come to Mayra looking for work in the United States, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. If you knew that the meals would be prepared for you instead of you cooking your own meals, would that have changed your decision to come to the U.S.?

A. I don't know. Maybe. I had a lot of need to go to the States and work. Maybe I would just go for that season.

Q. Were there any workers in 2015 while you were at Sun Valley who did not buy beer at all?

A. Yes. Some did not drink but I would say that the great majority did drink beer.

Q. Did they get into any trouble with Sun Valley for not buying beer?

A. No, because they were buying soft drinks

Q. Was Russell Marino or any of the other Marino family members present when Agustin sold soda?

A. No, he was not there when he was selling that soda.

Q. How about beer?

A. Not beer either.

Q. Snacks?

A. No.

Q. Cigarettes?

A. Was Russell there when they were selling cigarettes is the question?

Q. Correct.

A. No.

Q. How about any of the other Marinos?

A. No.

Q. Was water available when you were working in the field?

A. Yes, there was water on the tractor.

Q. Was there water in the dining room?

A. Yes.

Q. You mentioned trips to the laundromat. Were you charged to go to the laundromat?

to the laundromat. We just had to pay for the money we had to put into the machine to do the laundry.

Q. Other workers have said that there was a store that was a five-minute walk from the laundromat. Do you know about that store?

A. No, I did not go to these stores that were near the laundromat.

Q. You said that some workers bought drinks from the store at some point in the year; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you buy some from the store?

A. Sometimes.

Q. Where was that store?

A. It was like 30 minutes away from the fields, the ranch.

Q. Did you get in any trouble for buying drinks at the store?

A. No, but we had to drink them room temperature because we could not cool them. And if we wanted a cold drink, we had to buy it from Agustin.

Q. You mentioned that some workers bought conclusion.

A. I think so because in the other company that I worked for later, they would pay for all of our rides. They would take us to the store and everything and make the deposits.

Q. Did you ever buy beer when you went to the store in 2015?

A. I think only twice.

Q. Do you remember how much they were?

INTERPRETER GARCIA: For the interpreter, you mean the price?

MR. SCHULTE: Correct.

A. No. To be honest, I don't remember.

Q. Did you ever buy gloves at Walmart?

A. Yes, sometimes I did.

Q. Do you remember how much those were?

A. I bought them in packages so I don't really remember. And it was like very late when I started to buy at Walmart.

Q. Did you get into any trouble for buying the gloves at Walmart?

A. No.

Q. Do you know if anyone from the government says that?

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. When you signed that form, did you think you were giving up any rights?

A. I'm not sure because first no one wanted to sign that piece of paper. But then we asked Mayra and Mayra said that it was okay for us to sign it.

Q. So that was the Mayra that you spoke with before you took the job? Is that the same woman?

A. Yes.

Q. And you spoke with her on the telephone?

A. Yes, it was on the phone.

Q. Do you know who called her?

A. One of my coworkers, but I don't remember.

Q. What did they say that she told him?

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you repeat that for the translator?

MR. SCHULTE: Sure. I'm sorry. That was confusing to me, too.

Q. What did he tell you that Mayra told him?

A. That she had said that it was okay for us

Q. Did Russell Marino ever tell you that you needed to sign the document?

A. No, he didn't. Russell didn't.

Q. Did he threaten -- I'm sorry. I apologize. Go ahead.

A. The one that told us was Agustin.

Q. Did Russell ever threaten you and say you had to sign the document?

A. No.

MR. SCHULTE: No more questions for me. Thank you, sir.

THE WITNESS: You're welcome.

MR. GLICK: Mr. Silva Lopez, I have a couple more questions.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Do you remember that on Tuesday afternoon you and I met through this video conference system in this room where you're sitting now?

A. Yes, uh-huh.

Q. Do you remember that the day before that on Monday afternoon I called you on the telephone?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember that on the phone there

Q. What did that depend on?

A. Well, maybe if they were tired or there was a lot of sun or if it was very hot.

A. Well, because some of us had a backache and we were tired. Some of us told him we could not work the rest of the day because we were not feeling that well. 10:59

Q. What happened after that?

A. Well, I think that maybe Agustin told Russell about it and then Russell came to the field and instead of asking us what is going on or how we felt or to find out about us, he was very upset and he was aggressive and he was shouting and he asked what is it that we wanted. 11:00

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Nonresponsive and speculative. 11:00

A. Yes.

A. When he arrived, he was clearly upset and he was aggressive and he kept asking us why we didn't work and he also told us that he brought us from Mexico to work so why were we resting. 11:06
Q. Did Russell say anything else?
A. Yes, he asked us, do you want to work or not or what's happening here. 11:06
Q. What happened next?
A. And Russell was still upset. We ask him that we could probably use another type of work like instead of trying to grow other type of vegetables or pick other type of vegetables. 11:07
Q. Who spoke next?
A. But Russell told us that was the only job available for us.

that meeting?

A. Well, at the beginning it was just us and then some people from the field came, where we were all in the meeting. They went to the bathroom and so then they decided to stay in the meeting. 11:15

A. We were probably six to eight persons at the meeting. 11:16

Q. Do you know if that worker was working at Sun Valley on an H2A Visa?

A. Yes. 11:17

Q. Was he working on an H2A Visa?

A. No.

Q. What did that person say at the meeting?

A. He asked us why was it that Russell and Agustin were treating us that way, they should respect us as workers. 11:18

Q. What else did that coworker say?

A. He told us that they should respect us, that they should respect our rights and they couldn't yell it off if we could reach an agreement if we just talked. 11:19

Q. Did that worker say anything else?

INTERPRETER ERRASTI: I'm sorry?

Q. Did that worker say anything else at that meeting?

INTERPRETER ERRASTI: Thank you.

A. He told us why is Agustin forcing you to work all this extra overtime. He told us, what, are you machines? Then the boss said that if others could keep working and doing this job, why couldn't we. He said this pain we felt, it was noting at all. It was just a minor back pain. 11:20

Q. After the boss said that, what happened next?

A. Russell was still very upset and he didn't listen to what we told him. We just -- we're not good for this job. Why can't we get a different job. 11:20

Q. At that meeting did you personally say that you wanted to quit Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. At that meeting, did you hear any other workers say that they wanted to quit Sun Valley? 11:21

A. No. It was just like Russell decided, making that decision and then we would

to leave.
Q. Did Agustin tell you anything else?
A. No. That was it.
Q. Who else, if anyone, did Agustin tell that to? 11:24
A. He told this to the other persons that were in the meeting as well.
Q. Do you know if any of those other people who were at the meeting that day continued to work at Sun Valley after that 11:24 meeting?
A. The ones that were in the fields, they kept working, but the ones that were present in the meeting, we did not work any more. 11:24
Q. Who was it that gave you document to sign?
A. It was Agustin.
Q. When did he give you that document?
A. It was two or three days after we 11:25 stopped working.
Q. What did you do for those two or three days?
A. We did not work.

few inches?
A. (Witness complies.)
Q. Closer to the camera, please.
A. (Witness complies.)
Q. Please hold it there for a few more moments. 11:31
MR. SCHULTE: If we can have the record reflect, I don't know if it is a camera quality issue, that is completely illegible on this end. 11:31
Q. Thank you, Mr. Garcia. You can hold the document down.
Do you recognize this document, Exhibit 21?
A. Yes. 11:32
Q. How do you recognize Exhibit 21?

Q. Are the options on Exhibit 21 the same options that you had when Agustin gave you the document at the dorm? 11:33

Agustin gave him at the dorm.

Q. Remind me again, please, how many people were at the meeting by the end of the meeting? How many workers? 11:40

A. It was around eight to ten people.

Q. Do you remember how many people traveled back to Mexico with you on the bus at the end of that week? 11:41

A. The people that were fired from the field, though it was us, ten, well, approximately ten, us included, but in total it was twenty people. So it was probably ten people from the meeting and the other, I don't know the reasons why, but maybe they left the work because they didn't want to work any more, but I do not know the reasons. 11:42

Q. Were all of those workers from Veracruz?

A. Yes.

Q. Were there workers at Sun Valley while you were there from other parts of Mexico? 11:42

A. Some of them I think were from Caliente maybe, and others I think they were from Michoacan and they were acquaintances of Agustin that maybe the reason why they were there. 11:43

Q. In the job order that you reviewed in Monterrey before you came to New Jersey, did it say you would be working on asparagus?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember what day the meeting was? That meeting at 10:00 a.m., do you remember what day that would be? 11:43

A. I do not remember the exact day.

Q. Do you remember the date on which you signed the form that we talked about earlier? 11:44

A. I don't remember the exact day.

MR. SCHULTE: Side bar for a second.

Is there a copy of the exhibit that date that I arrived to Sun Valley.

Q. Did you start working on the first day you arrived at Sun Valley?
A. No. The next day.
Q. You said that you were one of the workers who did not work the day before the meeting with Russell Marino; is that correct? 11:49
A. Yes.
Q. How many workers did not work that afternoon? 11:49
A. Around six people approximately.
Q. Before the meeting on -- before your meeting with Russell Marino, had you ever spoken with him before that?
A. No. We had never met him before. 11:50
Q. Had you ever met any of the other Marinos before that?
A. No. Nobody at all.
Q. I think you mentioned when you were talking about that meeting that this work is too hard. Why can't we get a different job. Do you remember that? 11:50
MR. GLICK: Objection.
Mischaracterizes his testimony.

A. We didn't say that we couldn't do it. We just asked if we could rest a little so we could carry on with our job.

Q. After that, you have never worked in H2A since then, correct? 11:51

A. Yes, I haven't worked in that program since 2015.

Q. Go back and talk about asparagus. Does asparagus grow very quickly?

A. Yes. 11:52

Q. What happens if it is not harvested on a regular schedule?

A. It goes soft. It rots.

Q. Did Russell Marino or Agustin ever say that they needed workers to be able to work 11:52 on the asparagus?

A. No. I don't remember whether they said that or not.

Q. If they didn't have enough workers to pick the asparagus, what would happen to it? 11:53

MR. GLICK: Objection. Calls for speculation.

A. Then it, all the asparagus would have rotten.

Q. You said that there's only enough hot water for ten showers; is that correct?
A. Yes. The rest of the people would have to shower with cold water.
Q. So 30 people would shower with cold water every day? 11:53
A. You had to either shower with cold water or wait for the water to get warm again.
Q. You mentioned going to the store to buy cell phones. Did you buy anything else when you were at the store? 11:54
A. No.
Q. Did anyone else?
A. No. We just went there to buy cell phones and then we had to go back again. 11:54
Q. Did you ever go to the laundromat?
A. No.
Q. Do you know if anyone else did?
A. I do not know.
Q. Do you know who made the bathrooms dirty? 11:55
A. No. I do not know. It is just that they never cleaned. So if, for instance, you would take a shower and you had some dust on

A. It was approximately after a week that we had been working.
Q. Do you receive paychecks for your work at Sun Valley?
A. After two weeks, they paid us the two weeks that we had worked there. 12:34
Q. Were you paid for all of the hours that you worked?
A. Well, we actually didn't know whether we were being paid by hour or just for all the work that we had done. We were not very sure how they paid us. 12:35
Q. Do you think they owe you any money?
A. Actually I don't know.
Q. Okay. 12:35
Did you ever pay Sun Valley to buy sodas?
A. Yes, I paid Agustin. I paid Agustin.
Q. Did you ever pay the company? 12:36
A. No. Not the company.
Q. Did you ever pay the company for meals?
A. Not to the company.

Q. For transportation?
A. No, not to the company.
Q. Did the company ever tell you to buy those things from Agustin?
MR. GLICK: Objection. Confusing. 12:36
A. No. But it was impossible to buy from anywhere else because there was no means of transportation to get somewhere else to buy things and we couldn't use the kitchen to cook because the kitchen was always being used by 12:37 somebody else.
Q. Did you ever ask to use the kitchen?
A. Well, we asked Agustin whether we could use the kitchen to cook, but he said that there was no other place for us to buy things 12:37 because there was no means of transportation to get somewhere to buy things.
Q. Did Sun Valley deduct any amounts from your paycheck for meals or drinks?
A. No. 12:38
Q. How did you pay for those? In cash or by check?
A. Cash.
Q. If you had the choice between drinking water or drinking soda, which would you choose?

A. Well, in some cases I would choose to drink water and in other cases I would choose to drink soda. 12:39

Q. If you were at a restaurant, for example, sometimes you would drink water and sometimes you would drink soda?

MR. GLICK: Objection. Mischaracterizes his testimony. 12:39

A. Well, yes. Yes.

Q. Okay. Thank you, sir.

MR. SCHULTE: No more questions from me.

MR. GLICK: We have a few more questions. If you could give me a moment, please. 12:39

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: The witness is asking me who is going to make the questions? 12:40

MR. GLICK: I'm going to take a short break and then I will come back and we will continue.

MR. SCHULTE: I will step out for a

A. Because we were tired from our backs and it was aching.

Q. What would have had to change at Sun Valley for you to continue working there cutting asparagus? 12:45

MR. SCHULTE: Objection.

Speculation.

A. Well, maybe if we had been given another option, such as maybe collecting other vegetables or maybe planting, in the 12:45 plantation, that's what the other workers were doing. Us, the ones that were hired, we were just picking asparagus and maybe there were other jobs that were easier.

Q. Were you willing to stay at Sun 12:46 Valley spending some of your time cutting asparagus and some of your time doing other jobs?

A. Yes.

Q. How many hours a week were you 12:46 willing to work cutting asparagus at Sun Valley?

A. At least 40 hours.

Q. How many hours were you working at

A. All the time.

Q. Was there a charge for those meals or was it free?
A. We had to pay $75 a week. 03:17
Q. Whom did you pay?
A. Agustin.
Q. Did you have a choice about whether or not to pay that $75 a week?
A. No. 03:17
Q. When you worked at Sun Valley, did you buy anything else from Agustin or anyone else at Sun Valley?
A. I would only buy from Agustin.
Q. What, if anything, did you buy from Agustin? 03:17
A. I would buy my meals, soda, cigarettes, potato chips.
Q. Did you buy anything else from

Agustin?

A. During the weekends I would buy one or two beers.

Q. Did you purchase anything else from Agustin? 03:18

A. No. Only that.

Q. Were any of the sodas, cigarettes, potato chip or beers included in the $75 a week fee?

A. No. 03:19

Q. When you worked at Sun Valley in a typical day, how many sodas did you buy?

A. Three or maybe four.

Q. What did that depend on?

A. Monster or a soda. 03:19

Q. Were there -- the days where you bought more drinks, was there a reason you bought more on that day?

A. Because water was not enough.

Q. What do you mean by that? 03:20

A. They would only take us a thermos of water, but when we ran out of it, we had to buy a soda or something to drink.

Q. Where were the thermoses?

the interpreter.

INTERPRETER ERRASTI: I didn't hear what you said.

MR. GLICK: Did you translate what the witness said? 03:36

INTERPRETER ERRASTI: I translated what he said because he didn't finish his question.

MR. GLICK: I will ask the next question, please. 03:36

Q. Mr. Cervantes, when you paid about $20 for beer, how many beers did that include?

A. It was 24 beers.

Q. Do you remember what brand of beer?

A. Bud Light, Budweiser and Caguama. 03:37

A. Yes.

Q. How often did they buy beer from Agustin?

A. Just weekly.

something.

Q. Do you know where Agustin kept that notebook?

A. He was the only one that had that notebook. 03:39

MR. GLICK: Objection.

Nonresponsive.

Q. Do you know where Agustin kept the notebook?

A. He had it with him in his van. 03:40

Q. Do you know what percent of your coworkers from Sun Valley purchased beer from Agustin?

A. Most of them, 90 percent.

Q. How do you know that? 03:40

A. Because there were people from other states that would come with us and they were the ones that used to drink more.

Q. Did some of your coworkers purchase more beer from Agustin than you did? 03:40

A. No.

Q. Did any of your coworkers purchase beer from Agustin during the week?

A. No.

A. No. That was it.
Q. Do you know if there were any of your coworkers at Sun Valley who did not purchase beverages from Agustin while working in the fields? 03:43
A. No.
Q. During the time you worked at Sun Valley, did you ever buy anything outside of Sun Valley?
A. Yes, when we went out to cash our checks, they took us to a store, I would buy soap, soap for my clothes and toothpaste. And that was it. 03:43
Q. At that store, did you ever buy anything else? 03:44
A. I bought a 12 pack of Coca-Cola.
Q. Do you remember how much that 12 pack of Coca-Cola cost at that store?
A. It was 3.50, more or less.
Q. Did Agustin know whether you purchased that 12 pack of soda outside of Sun Valley? 03:44
MR. SCHULTE: Objection. How does he know what someone else knows?

A. It was just bunk beds.
Q. Was there any refrigerator in the dorms you could use?
A. No.
Q. What were the bathrooms like? 03:52
A. It was a room. On one side we had the showers and on the other side we had the toilets, but there were no curtains.
Q. Where were there no curtains?
A. None of the bedrooms. None in the 03:53 showers nor in the toilets.
Q. If you were using the toilet, could you see the person next to you?
A. Yes.
Q. Just part of their body or could you 03:53 see their whole body?
A. If someone walked in front of you, they would see that you were sitting there on the toilet.
Q. Would they see your whole body or 03:54
just a part of your body?
A. The whole body. There were no doors.
Q. Was there hot water in the bathroom?

A. Sometimes.
Q. What times was there not hot water?
A. Well, we were a lot in those rooms so water was not enough and we had to wait for someone to take a shower and then it would be us. 03:54
Q. Were there times where there was no hot water for you to use?
A. Yes, I think it was twice.
Q. Were the bathrooms clean? 03:55
A. No. Not very clean, but...
Q. What about in the fields, were there bathrooms for you to use in the fields?
A. No.
Q. Were there Port-a-Potties or some kind of portable toilet for you to use in the fields? 03:55
A. No.
Q. What would you do if you had to use the bathroom while working in the field? 03:56
A. We had to ask for permission and we would have to walk to the dorms. That's where the bathrooms were.
Q. Did Agustin always give you

Junior was yelling and waving his hands, do you know what he was saying?

A. No. I honestly don't know because I don't understand English.

Q. Did you speak to Mr. Marino Junior during that morning? 04:11

A. No. We were not able to talk to him and we didn't settle anything. He just said whatever he said and then he left and then Agustin spoke to us. 04:12

Q. Did any of your coworkers speak to Mr. Marino Junior that morning?

A. No.

Q. Before that morning, did you or any of your coworkers plan to tell Mr. Marino Junior anything if you had the opportunity to do so? 04:12

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who it was who planned to speak with Mr. Marino Junior if they had the opportunity? 04:13

A. It was a group of 21 people and we told Agustin that we wanted to talk to Mr. Marino in order to know whether we were being paid by the hour or by the amount of production.

Q. Was there anything else that you told Agustin that you wanted to talk to Mr. Marino Junior about? 04:14

A. No. We only wanted to speak about work related topic.

Q. Any other work related topics that you wanted to speak to Mr. Marino Junior about?

A. We just wanted to know how we were getting paid, if it was by the hour or by how much we produced. 04:14

Q. Anything else you wanted to talk about?

A. Only about that because the paycheck didn't say whether we were being paid by the hour or by how much we produced. We just saw the final amount that we got paid. 04:14

Q. When did you tell Agustin that you wanted to speak to Mr. Marino Junior about that pay issue? 04:15

A. When we got the first paycheck because we would work the same number of hours, but some would get paid more and some would get

Q. Did other workers refuse to work at Sun Valley under any conditions?

A. No. We were all willing to work.

Q. How do you know that?

A. Well, we talked among each one of us and since I had gotten the money in order to pay for my transportation for my Visa for my passport, I had borrowed that money from someone, so I couldn't go back because I had to save enough money in order to pay. 04:23 04:24

Q. Do you know why Russell Marino thought that workers did not want to work under certain conditions at Sun Valley?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. He has never said anything about Russell. 04:24

A. Because the job was very tough. We had to crouch all day and we had to spend many days -- many hours working.

Q. Did you ever complain about those work conditions? 04:25

A. It's because we worked for many long hours and then at the end of the day, the paychecks would be different. Some would get paid more and some would get paid less and

Agustin would also scold us because we were not producing enough. That's the reason we wanted to talk to Mr. Marino, in order to find out why some people were getting paid more and some people were getting paid less. 04:26

Q. Do you know if that's what Mr. Marino Junior was upset about that day?

MR. SCHULTE: Same objection. He only refer to a Mr. Marino.

A. Yes. 04:26

Q. Why do you think that?

A. Well, Agustin told us that he had said that he paid for us and that we had to follow the rules in his ranch.

Q. You mentioned a paper that Agustin brought to you at some point after that meeting with Mr. Marino Junior. When was it that Agustin brought that paper? 04:27

A. The next day in the morning after we had talked to the boss and he said that we had to sign the paper. 04:27

Q. Where were you when Agustin brought that paper?

A. In the place where we slept.

because you had a sick family member?
A. No.
Q. Did you choose to leave Sun Valley because you had a family member that died?
A. No. 04:30
Q. Did you choose to leave Sun Valley?
A. No.
Q. INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: The interpreters will switch.
MR. GLICK: I would like to take a 04:31 short break, please. Just a couple of minutes.
INTERPRETER ERRASTI: Sure.
(A brief recess was taken.)
MR. GLICK: Everyone ready? 04:45
(Interpreter de la Garma Romo was relieved by Interpreter Errasti.)
Q. Mr. Cervantes, other than Agustin, were there any other supervisors or bosses that you interacted with at Sun Valley? 04:46
A. No.
Q. Do you see any other supervisors or bosses at Sun Valley?
A. We didn't see anyone else. We just saw Agustin and he was the one that told us what to do.

MR. GLICK: I have no further questions at this time, but I believe Mr. Schulte will. 04:46

MR. SCHULTE: Thank you.

EXAMINATION BY

A. No.
Q. Did you ever tell anyone from the Department of Labor that you might not be available for this deposition because you would be in the United States? 04:48
A. No.
Q. Any idea why they would think that? 04:48
MR. GLICK: Objection. Speculation.
A. I don't understand the question. Can you repeat it?
Q. It's okay. We can move on.
You said you had dinner around 6:00 p.m. most days. Is that correct? 04:48
A. Well, that was the official schedule that we got at the beginning, but it was not the case. Sometimes we left at 7:00 or 8:00 or 9:00. 04:49
Q. Would you work at sunset?
A. Yes.
Q. How would you work in the dark?
A. With the lights of the tractor.

INTERPRETER ERRASTI: Can you repeat your question again?

Q. If other workers had testified that they had received an envelope of cash as payment, would they be telling the truth? 04:55

A. No.

Q. Do you remember when you arrived at Sun Valley, what day?

A. No. To be honest, I do not remember the exact date. 04:56

Q. If someone else said that they had arrived on April 25th, would that sound about right?

MR. GLICK: Objection. Confusing.

A. Yes, more or less. 04:56

Q. Did you arrive as a group or did people arrive on their own?

A. In a group.

Q. Do you know when the last day you worked at Sun Valley was? 04:56

A. I think it was May the 6th.

Q. Do you have the exhibit in front of you still that you had signed that we looked at earlier?

A. There were several other things. It said peaches, asparagus, peppers and other things. 05:13

Q. Had you ever worked with those other types of vegetables other than asparagus?

A. In Mexico, I have.

Q. Do you prefer working on those as opposed to asparagus? 05:13

A. Yes.

Q. If you could have worked on those instead of asparagus, would you have stayed at Sun Valley? 05:14

A. Yes.

Q. Did Agustin ever tell the workers to clean the bathrooms or clean the housing?

A. No.

Q. Other than the man speaking English and moving his hands at the meeting with all the workers, did you ever meet anyone else from the Marino family? 05:14

A. No.

Q. WAS anyone from the Marino family ever there when Agustin was selling beer or soda?
A. No.
Q. How about chips or cigarettes? 05:15
A. No.
Q. How many people, how many workers were at the meeting when he was speaking English?
A. The group that was made up by 21 people. 05:15
Q. Could everyone see everyone else?
A. Yes.
Q. So if the person was shoved, everyone could have seen that? 05:16
A. We were on our way to the meeting.
Q. On your way from where to where?
A. We were going from the place that we slept in towards the truck where Marino was.
Q. Where did the person get shoved? 05:16
A. Next to the truck.
Q. So you said it happened while you were moving between the places, but then you said that it happened at the place where the meeting was. Which was it?

A. It happens -- the place, there's the dorm where we lived in and then the place where Mr. Marino parked his truck and we were getting outside of the place where we sleep and heading toward where he was standing. I don't know why he shoved him. Maybe he felt he was getting too close to him, but the place, the space where the meeting was, the space between where we sleep and the meeting is not very big. It is only maybe three meters. 05:18

Q. Did anyone speak for the workers?

A. No.

Q. Was there a leader of the group?

A. No. 05:18

Q. Were there any workers who had not worked the afternoon before?

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: The interpreter needs clarification.

Q. Out of the group of workers, did any of them not work the afternoon before the meeting? 05:19

MR. GLICK: Objection. Vague.

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: The

Q. Did anyone want to ask him about anything else?
A. Not that I know of.
Q. No one wanted to ask them about using the kitchen? 05:21
A. No.
Q. About the bathrooms?
A. No. We just wanted to talk about things related to work because regarding to the kitchen, well, they were giving us the food. 05:22
Q. On the form we looked at earlier that you had signed, did anyone threaten you to make you sign that form?
A. No.
Q. Did anyone from the Marino family tell you anything about that form? 05:22
MR. GLICK: Objection. Asked and answered.
A. No. Agustin said everything to us.
Q. Does asparagus grow very quickly compared to other vegetables? 05:22
A. Yes.
Q. What happens if it isn't harvested quickly?

A. It rots. It grows too much and it is not useful any more.

Q. Have you spoken with anyone, either Julia or Jason or José or anyone else, about this current case? 05:23

A. Only with them three.

Q. What did you talk about with them, about this case?

A. Well, only about this appointment and whether I was willing or not to 05:24 participate.

Q. Did they tell you why they chose you to participate?

A. No.

Q. Did they tell you what the case was 05:24 about?

A. Only to clarify the situation, what we had lived -- that we had lived in Sun Valley.

Q. What do you mean by clarify? What 05:24 did they tell you that clarified?

A. I don't remember.

Q. What do you think the case is about?

A. That we were mistreated and we were

Video teleconference deposition of HUGO LEONEL CINTA TEGOMA, taken by The U.S. Department of Labor, Office of the Solicitor, held at the Offices of the Solicitor, U.S. Department of Labor, 201 Varick Street, Room 831C, New York, NY 10014, pursuant to 29 C.F.R. Section 18.64, before Elizabeth F. Tobin, a Registered Professional Reporter and Notary Public of the State of New York.

Q. Why did you decide to apply?

A. To get a job opportunity. I didn't have a job here in Mexico.

Q. Okay. So, I'd like to talk a little bit about what the work was like at Sun Valley. Maybe you can tell me, overall, what was it like in your experience? 03:55PM

A. Yes.

Q. Please tell us. 03:55PM

A. I arrived in May, in that month, but I don't remember the exact date. We knew that we were going to work on the fields and we were going to be harvesting asparagus, cucumber, eggplants and other type of vegetables that I don't remember that well. 03:56PM

Q. And what were your hours there?

A. We began working at 6:30 a.m. or 7:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. or 6:00 p.m.

Q. How many days a week?

A. From Sunday to Sunday. 03:56PM

Q. So you're saying seven days a week?

A. Yes. When the harvest was ready, we were going to work for seven days a week.

Q. Who determined the work schedule?

A. You had to harvest the asparagus so that 03:57PM

A. We told him that it was not logical that he was asking for something to happen that fast because we were human.

Q. Did Agustin ever punish anyone? 04:00PM

A. Yes. He punished me.

Q. How did he do that?

A. He took me out of the field and he told me that I was useless and that I was too slow, even when I was working at the same pace as other 04:00PM workers.

Q. How long did he take you out of the fields for?

A. Around two or three times.

Q. Did he punish any other workers? 04:01PM

A. Yes, he did the same to others.

Q. How many others?

A. I am not very sure, but I think it was from three to five people.

Q. And how did he punish them? 04:01PM

A. The same way, he took them out of the field.

Q. When you were working in the fields, what were you doing?

A. I was harvesting asparagus. 04:01PM

Q. Anything else?
A. No, because it was the season for asparagus.
Q. Did you have -- were there bathrooms in the fields? 04:01PM
A. No.
Q. So how did you relieve yourself?
A. It was a complete odyssey. We had to either hold it or run towards the trees. 04:02PM
Q. Was there water in the fields?
A. No, there wasn't any water.
Q. All right. Let me change the subject a little bit and talk about food. How did you eat at Sun Valley? 04:02PM
A. Mr. Agustin would sell us food.
Q. Did he sell you a weekly meal plan or food by the item or how was that arrangement?
A. It was a weekly arrangement. We had to pay for our meals weekly. 04:03PM
Q. Did Agustin sell anything else to the workers?
A. Yes. He would sell soda, Red Bull, Monster, beer, bread, milk, water and coffee.
Q. Can you repeat that list? I didn't quite 04:04PM

A. 7:00, 7:30, sometimes 6:00. It would change.

Q. What would you buy then?

A. Another beverage. 04:09PM

Q. What kind of beverage?

A. Coke or another flavored drink.

Q. Would you buy any other drinks from Agustin during this typical day?

A. No. No, not any other type of drinks. I saw that other people would buy beer from him, but I didn't buy any. 04:09PM

Q. Did your coworkers typically purchase the same number of drinks from Agustin or fewer than you or more than you? 04:10PM

A. I think that maybe a little bit more.

Q. Did any of your colleagues not purchase any drinks from Agustin?

A. No. Everyone bought from him. We all did. 04:10PM

Q. When you had your first drink -- when you purchased your first Monster at 8:00 or 8:30, what was going on at that time? What were you doing at that time?

A. We were harvesting asparagus. During the 04:11PM why you wouldn't drink -- I'm sorry.

Is that why you wouldn't purchase a drink from Agustin in the afternoon?

A. Sometimes I did because after drinking so much water, your stomach would hurt, so you would have to buy a Gatorade. 04:13PM

Q. Was the water good to drink or was there a problem with the water?

A. I don't think there was any problem with the water. It's just because we were working and sometimes if you have too much liquid, you feel like vomiting, but it's because you are putting a lot of effort in your work. But I don't think there was a problem with the water. 04:13PM 04:14PM

Q. Why did you drink Monster?

A. I thought that it's supposed to be an energetic drink, so it could help us work as much as Agustin was asking from us.

Q. These drinks that we've been talking about, were they included in the weekly meal plan? 04:14PM

A. Yes, because if you didn't have money to pay for them, he would give us credit.

Q. How much was the weekly meal plan?

A. It was $450, more or less. I am not that 04:15PM sure.

Q. Are you speaking in pesos?

A. Dollars.

Q. How often did you have to pay that? 04:15PM

A. I was there for a little while, so it was two or three weeks that I was there.

Q. Does that include the drinks or is that just the meals, that amount that you told us?

A. It includes everything, drinks and meals. 04:16PM

Q. Was there a specific price for the drinks?

A. Yes. There was, but I do not remember right now. I think it was $2 or $2.50 per Monster or maybe three. I cannot recall. 04:16PM

Q. What about the sodas?

A. $1.

Q. What about the water?

A. A dollar as well.

Q. What about the Red Bull? 04:16PM

A. I think that one was a little more expensive. I think it was 3.50, but I am not completely sure.

Q. When would you pay Agustin?

INTERPRETER ERRASTI: The interpreter 04:17PM needs clarification from the witness.

A. Every week when he gave us our paycheck, he would deduct the money that we owed him. So, for example, if I had made 900 pesos -- sorry, $900, and I owed him $500, I would at the end get $400. 04:18PM

Q. You were earlier saying that Agustin sold beer. How much was the beer?

A. I cannot tell you because, to be honest, I never bought any. 04:18PM

Q. How many of your coworkers purchased beer?

A. Most of them did.

Q. How many beers a week would your coworkers drink per person, if you can remember? 04:19PM

A. I think that weekly from Mondays through Fridays they would drink around five to six cases of 24 bottle beers, more or less.

Q. What kinds of beer were sold?

A. Corona and I think they also sold Modelo, Modelo Especial. 04:20PM

Q. Were they cans or bottles or how were they sold?

A. It was bottles and cans, both.

Q. How big were they? 04:20PM farm?

A. It was a decision taken by Mr. Russell.

Q. How did that come about?

A. Because we had a meeting, all the workers that were unsatisfied with the conditions and this meeting was with Agustin. 04:33PM

Q. Who else was there besides Agustin?

A. Mr. Russell was there and we were like 15 or 17 more persons in that meeting. 04:33PM

Q. How did that meeting come about?

A. So, we asked Agustin -- well, Agustin was being very harsh with us, so we asked him to set up a meeting with Mr. Russell. But he told us that Mr. Russell was really very violent and he was a nervous kind of person. So one day we just didn't show up to work, and I think that was the reason why Mr. Russell showed up. 04:34PM

Q. Why did you want to meet with Russell?

A. Well, because we didn't like the conditions that they were -- that we had to follow. They were too demanding with us. 04:35PM

Q. What did you plan to tell him?

A. Well, first of all, I was thankful with Mr. Russell because of the opportunity of giving me 04:35PM a job. And I was also somehow embarrassed because I couldn't give him what he wanted. But I wanted to continue if I had an opportunity to do so.

Q. What else did you want to tell him? 04:35PM

A. Well, that I was really very grateful and I wanted to keep working so I could feed my family because I couldn't get a job here in Mexico. But I wanted the conditions to be changed so they wouldn't be so demanding with us. Because I gave what I 04:36PM could, but my body could not help it any more, so --

Q. What was wrong with the conditions?

A. Well, they were really very demanding with us and I just think that we're not machines or animals. We're just people. People get tired. You 04:37PM cannot keep running all day long and that's what they wanted us to do, but I don't think that's possible.

Q. What did Agustin tell you when you said you wanted to speak to Russell? 04:37PM

A. What did I tell him?

Q. Who asked Agustin to meet with Russell?

A. All of us.

Q. How did Agustin respond?

A. He just -- he responded in a very bad 04:38PM

Cinta Tegoma

Russell called you all lazy and then what happened, just step by step? What happened next in the meeting?

A. Well, that was it. He called us lazy. He told us that we didn't want to work and, again, I want to repeat this. He told us that he paid for us and that we didn't want to work. 04:44PM

Q. Did you have any choice about staying or leaving? 04:45PM

A. No. He just said, the ones that are staying will give me more or the same as what I'm offering.

Q. Would you have been willing to stay and keep cutting asparagus? 04:45PM

A. Well, if he had accepted the conditions for us to work, I would have gladly stayed there to work.

Q. How many hours a week were you willing to cut the asparagus? 04:46PM

A. Eleven, 12, 13 hours.

Q. Is that per day or per week or how long?

A. Per day. Per day.

Q. What was it that you needed to change or wanted to change? 04:47PM the time and they were on top of us all the time and they were just really very demanding with us. That was the thing.

Q. But you were okay working long days? If they were more respectful, you would have been okay? 05:02PM

A. Yes, that is correct. And I worked at a farm in South Carolina and they didn't treat me the way they treated me in Sun Valley.

Q. Did you work long days at the farm in South Carolina? 05:02PM

A. Yeah, from 6:00 in the morning until 8:00 at night.

Q. Okay. What kind of crops did you work on on that farm? 05:03PM

A. It was strawberries, peaches, cucumber and squash.

Q. Is picking strawberries hard work?

A. Yes, it is a heavy work.

Q. Which is harder, strawberries or asparagus? 05:03PM

A. Asparagus is a bit harder, a little bit.

INTERPRETER ERRASTI: Interpreters need to switch.

MR. SCHULTE: Okay. Thank you. 05:04PM

Cinta Tegoma

(Interpreter de la Garma Romo replaced Interpreter Errasti.)

Q. Did any of the workers ever bring complaints to the Marino family about housing? 05:04PM

A. No.

Q. About the kitchen?

A. No.

Q. About the buses?

A. We told Mr. Agustin. 05:04PM

Q. Okay. Did you ever complain about buying drinks or buying meals from Agustin?

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. I think so. I'm not quite sure but I told him that I wanted to wash my clothes and also to be able to buy water or sodas to drink. Because I had bought some water from elsewhere, but since there was too many of us at that place, it ran out really fast. So, I had to buy from Agustin. 05:05PM 05:06PM

Q. Who was it that you complained to?

A. I think I told Mr. Agustin. I think so. I cannot recall.

Q. Before the meeting with Mr. Russell had you ever spoken with him before? 05:06PM

A. No, because Agustin used to say that he was always very busy, very nervous and very worried.

Q. Did you ever speak with anyone else in the Marino family? 05:07PM

A. No. We always addressed Mr. Agustin.

Q. How long does it take to go from Monterrey to New Jersey?

A. It took us, I think, three nights and four days. I think so. I think so. I'm not that sure. 05:07PM

Q. Do you remember when you left Monterrey, what day?

A. I am not sure, but it was in May.

Q. You had your passport earlier. Is there a stamp in there or some notation of when you would have crossed into America in 2015? 05:08PM

A. Yes.

Q. Can you check that, please, and let me know when that was? 05:08PM

A. It was on April 22nd, 2015.

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: The interpreter wants to make a clarification. He's looking at the issue date of his visa.

MR. SCHULTE: I'm sorry. I missed that 05:08PM last part. What was that, your note you mentioned?

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: He is looking at the issue date of the visa. 05:09PM

Q. Is there a note in there that shows when you crossed the border?

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: He is pointing at the interpreter. Should I read you the date? 05:09PM

MR. SCHULTE: Please.

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: April 23rd, 2015.

Q. You said that you had gone to the store two times while you were in New Jersey. Would you always go on the same day of the week or was it different days? 05:09PM

A. It was different days.

Q. Do you remember what days?

A. No. To be honest, I have no idea. 05:10PM

Q. Was it after work?

A. No, it was before.

Q. What time of day would you go?

A. I think it was after 1:00 p.m.

Q. So, you'd work in the morning, have 05:10PM

the meal plan?

A. It was apart. Milk and bread, maybe coffee. But we had -- but I'm sure that they charged us for it. 05:29PM

Q. I'm sorry. When you say apart, you mean as one word, apart as in separate or a part as included with?

A. When I say apart, I mean that, for example, bread would have a price and also breakfast would have one set price as well as lunch and dinner. 05:30PM

Q. What was the part for breakfast?

A. No. Breakfast was that. Breakfast was bread. 05:30PM

Q. How much was the lunch?

A. I think that per week we might have paid 70 to $80. I cannot recall.

Q. Earlier you testified that the meals were $450. Was that -- was the $70 just for lunch or $70 for all of the meals? 05:31PM

A. That was an example that I gave when I said 450. And he would, for example, write down what we had, the beverages that we had had during the morning and at lunch and at night. And since 05:32PM you were tired, you would lose count whether you had asked or what he had noted down or not. We were tired because of work and because there was so much pressure on us. 05:32PM

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMO: The interpreters will switch now.

(Interpreter Errasti replaced Interpreter de la Garma Romo.)

Q. You said that $450 was an example. Did you ever pay that much? 05:32PM

A. Yes, I think I paid like 430 or 450.

Q. How many times did you pay him?

A. Just once.

Q. How much was the meal portion of that? 05:33PM

A. It was just a normal dish. And tortillas, we had like seven or eight tortillas but because of the chemicals they add to the asparagus, maybe that's why we were not that hungry.

Q. The question was how much of the 430 or $450 was for the meal and how much was for other items? 05:34PM

A. Well, again, Agustin just told me once, this is how much you owe and that was it.

Q. He never -- did he ever tell anyone else 05:34PM visa since 2015?

A. No.

Q. Are you planning on getting one this year? 05:36PM

A. No. Not H2A.

Q. H2B?

A. Yes.

Q. What kind of work will you be doing?

A. Landscaping. 05:37PM

Q. Do you know where?

A. That was in Memphis, Tennessee.

Q. When was that?

A. In 2016.

Q. Are you planning to get an H2A or an H2B visa for 2017? 05:37PM

A. Yes, H2B.

Q. Where will that be?

A. You mean the state?

Q. Yes. 05:37PM

A. I don't have an opportunity yet. I'm looking for an opportunity to get a job.

Q. Okay. Did Mr. Russell tell you anything about the form that we looked at earlier that you signed? 05:38PM

A. No.

Q. You mentioned much earlier when we were talking about you would drink Monster to get more energy; is that right? How does Monster make you feel? 05:38PM

A. Well, as I mentioned earlier, Monster is an energy drink. When you're tired, you drink it and, I don't know, you think that it boosts you up.

Q. What time would you drink one in the morning? 05:39PM

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Objection. Asked and answered.

A. 8:00, 8:30 in the morning. It depends.

Q. Were you tired when you drank one? 05:39PM

A. Very, very tired because there was no water.

Q. Which gives you more energy, water or Monster?

A. Well, I drank a bottle of water and I think the one that gave me more energy was Monster. 05:39PM

Q. You said that the workers paid for their return travel. How much did you pay?

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Objection. Mischaracterizes testimony. 05:40PM

A. No, I don't know. I know that we all left but we all took different ways.

Q. What do you mean we all left?

A. Yes, because all the people that signed the document had to leave the farm. 05:42PM

Q. How many people signed?

A. Again, I don't know. It was 15 to 17 people. I do not have the exact number.

Q. And how many people were there -- how many workers were there at Sun Valley at that time total? 05:42PM

A. Maybe 80 or 100 people. I don't know, more or less. I don't know.

Q. Out of that 15 or 17 people, were they all working on asparagus all the time? 05:43PM

A. Yes. We were all working in the same area. Well, I said 70 or 80 people. I'm not sure. I don't have an idea about that. It's just a number. Because you just go there to work. You don't go to count people and see what's going on. 05:43PM

Q. Sure. The people who signed the form, though, they all were working together in asparagus all the time?

A. That is correct. 05:44PM

Q. Did any of them ever work on other vegetables?

A. I have no idea.

Q. You mentioned that you felt embarrassed that you couldn't do the job. Did anyone else tell you they felt the same way? 05:44PM

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Objection. Mischaracterizes testimony.

A. Well, I mentioned that because that's my personal feeling, that's how I felt. I was grateful for the job opportunity that he was giving me so that I could give something better to my family. So, I felt committed to work, but the mindset that -- he working did not make the work easier for me to do. The mindset that he had for working did not make me feel comfortable doing my job. 05:44PM 05:45PM

Q. They didn't show you enough respect for how hard you were working?

A. I didn't show respect for that? 05:46PM

Q. No. No. They didn't show the workers enough respect.

A. Yeah. That's what I think because they did not value the effort and the sacrifice of going to the United States and having us there working. 05:46PM that's the option that Russell or Agustin would have checked because that's what it says. It says work slowed.

Q. Who put the check on the form? 06:13PM

A. I did.

Q. What do you mean Russell would have put a check on the form?

A. Yes. Later on I might have said that but I'm getting confused. It's because I understood 06:14PM that the options that I was slow, but instead now that I'm reading it, I can see that it says work slowed.

Q. What would have happened if a worker checked the box that said they were slow? 06:14PM

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Objection.

Mischaracterizes this form.

A. This option says that work is slow. That means that they're almost isn't a lot of job or a lot of work to do. 06:14PM

Q. Were any of the workers concerned that if they reported on the form that they couldn't do the job that they would have trouble getting jobs in the future in the United States?

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Objection. 06:15PM

Mischaracterizes facts in evidence.

A. Yes. To be honest, I did. I thought that if I chose that option, then I wouldn't be able to go back to the United States. My ignorance made me think that. 06:15PM

Q. Before you came to the United States, did you know that there would be a charge for meals or transportation?

A. No. I know based on my own experience that you buy your own food and that they usually have a van that takes you to Walmart. Usually to Walmart so that you could buy food. 06:16PM

Q. If you had known that, would you have come to the United States to work anyways? 06:16PM

A. Sometimes out of need we have to take that kind of mistreatments and humiliation.

Q. What mistreatment and humiliation?

A. Sometimes -- well, when you have to work -- when you're working as hard as you can and they are demanding more from you and also that you don't have a place to wash your clothes or a place to cook or that you have to eat things that you don't like to eat and you have to eat them, maybe I didn't use the right word when I said humiliation or 06:17PM 06:18PM

Summary of Violations

Regulatory Requirement Violated	Summary Description	Unpaid Wages Owed	Civil Money Penalty
20 C.F.R. §655.122(d)(1)	Employer failed to provide for or secure housing for those workers who are not reasonably able to return to their permanent residence at the end of the work day, without charge to the worker, that complies with the applicable housing safety and health standards. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the housing facility provided for workers was missing window screens and had screen doors not in good repair contributing to the insect infestation throughout the camp. Several bathroom sinks did not have hot water, refuse containers throughout facility were missing fly tight lids and multiple mattresses used by occupants for sleeping purposes were directly on the floor without a bed frame.	$0.00	$3,600.00
20 C.F.R. §655.122(g)	Failure to comply with "meals" requirement(s). Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the employer failed to provide free and convenient cooking and kitchen facilities to the workers that would enable them to prepare their own meals. The job offers for these contracts specifically stated that these facilities would be provided to workers. When the employer provides a meal plan, the job offer for the contract must state the charge for such meals, including drinks. The job offer for these contracts does not contain disclosure of meal charges and as such all meal and drink charges must be returned to the workers resulting in back wages being due to 147 affected workers.	$234,079.28	$198,450.00
20 C.F.R. §655.122(h)(4)	Failure to provide transportation in compliance with all applicable Federal, State, or local laws and regulations between the worker's living quarters and the employer's worksite without cost to the worker. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that three of the five vehicles used to	$0.00	$7,500.00

	transport workers had insufficient tread on the tires for safe operation and one had a non-functioning rear directional. Additionally, the five vehicles used to transport H-2A and corresponding workers were operated by drivers who failed to possess valid, unexpired driver's licenses recognized by the State of New Jersey for operation of same.
20 C.F.R. §655.122(i)	Failure to comply with the three-fourths guarantee. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that 19 of the H-2A workers on the first contract of 2015 did not meet the ¾ guarantee since they were constructively forced to return home prior to the end of the contract period due to the myriad of misrepresentations on the contract, poor housing conditions, lack of transportation and general mistreatment by the employer and or his farm labor contractor. Additionally, 6 other workers employed in 2015 did not meet the ¾ guarantee based on a review of payroll records.	$135,623.94	$1,350.00
20 C.F.R. §655.122(q)	Failure to comply with requirement to disclose the work contract. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the employer provided a copy of the worker contract that did not contain the actual conditions of employment. The contracts do not address the "meal plan" charges and misrepresent that free cooking facilities will be provided to the workers along with free transportation to purchase food. The kitchen facilities were locked, workers had no access to the kitchen for preparation of meals and transportation to purchase food was not provided.	$0.00	$0.00
20 C.F.R. §655.122(p)	Failure to comply with "deductions" requirement(s). Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the job offer did not specify "all" the deductions not required by law which the employer will make from workers' pay checks. The "meal plan" was not disclosed in the job offer or the contract. The back wages associated with this violation and penalty for same are addressed above in 20 CFR 655.122(g).	$0.00	$0.00

29 C.F.R. §501.5	The investigation disclosed that Russell J. Marino sought to have covered workers waive rights conferred under sec. 218 of the INA, regulations at 20 C.F.R. § 655, or regulations at 29 C.F.R. § 501. Specifically, the investigation disclosed that the employer and or his farm labor contractor coerced workers leaving the contracts prior to the ending date to sign a form created by Sun Valley Orchards, LLC stating that they were leaving early for "personal reasons" in an attempt to have them waive their ¾ guarantee rights as party to the contracts. Workers left the job early due to the conditions stated above in 20 CFR 655.122(i) and/or because of misrepresentations by the employer and/or his farm labor contractor.	$0.00	$1,350.00

Statement

I left my house on 04/21/2015 and traveled to the US embassy in Monterrey Mexico to apply for the H2A visa. I received the H2A visa and I traveled to NJ where I arrived on 04/25/2015. When I was in Monterrey Mexico I read the contract and it said that the work contract was from 04/25/2015 to 10/11/2015 and be paid per piece or $11.29 per hour. The work contract said that I would have a kitchen available to cook my own food but when I arrived I was told by Agustin, the field foreman, that I would not be allowed to cook my own food and that I had to purchase all the food from him for $75 per week. If I knew that I had to purchase the food from Agustin then I would never have traveled to NJ to work at this farm. If I was given the option, I prefer to cook for myself. All the workers are required to purchase the food from Agustin - I paid Agustin in cash every week for the food. Food trucks selling tacos or tortillas would come to the dormitory and Agustin would run them off because it would let workers purchase other food and not buy it from him. Agustin sold drinks in the fields and in the formitory - I don't remember the prices but he sold sodas, gatorade, monster energy drinks and juices. I would buy at least 5 drinks per day. Agustin also sold beer for $2 per can - the majority of workers purchased beer nightly. In the contract it said that I would work 7 hours per day and 6 days per week but I was forced to work 11 to 13 per hours per day and 7 days per week - Agustin treated workers like slaves. I have worked under the H-2A visa program for the last 1 years and this is the first time that I have returned home early and not completed the contract. The dormitory was in very bad conditions - bathrooms were very dirty, there was 2 tubs to wash clothes but they were so dirty that when you tried to wash the clothes they would come out even more dirty. When I left I was told that I had to sign a paper that said that I was voluntarily leaving my job and returning to Mexico for personal reasons, but that is not true. I left because the work conditions outlined in the work contract were different from wh

To whom it may concern:

Our vegetable growers in Salem and Gloucester Counties have had tremendous crop losses due to the wet weather we received in June and early July of this year. Some crops have been totally destroyed with little or no harvest. Frequent rainfall always seems to infiltrate the plants and the cover sprays, which are very costly, have little to no effect. Crops affected include, but are not limited to: Cucumbers, Eggplants, Melons, Peppers, Pumpkins, Squash and Tomatoes. Disaster declarations have been processed for the area.

If you have any questions, please give me a call. Thank you.

County Executive Director

In the Matter of: ADMINISTRATOR, WAGE AND HOUR DIVISION, U.S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR Plaintiff v. SUN VALLEY ORCHARDS, LLC Respondent	Case No: 2017-TAE-00003

JOINT MOTION TO EXTEND BY ONE WEEK CERTAIN PRE-HEARING DEADLINES

The parties jointly write to respectfully request a one-week extension of certain pre-trial filing deadlines. By Order dated May 25, 2017, the Court granted Respondent's emergency motion to extend the filing deadline for summary decision motions until June 2, 2017. Accordingly, the parties now are required to file three major pre-hearing submissions next week. Pre-hearing statements are currently due June 16, 2017[1] and the parties' prehearing disclosures and exchanges are currently due June 12, 2017.[2] Summary decision opposition papers are also due next week. While the parties dispute whether these papers are due on June 15 or June 16, the parties jointly request that the Court set June 16, 2017 as the deadline to file summary decision oppositions.

[1] See Order dated February 7, 2017 (setting the prehearing statement deadline to thirty days before the hearing, i.e. Sunday June 18, 2017); 29 C.F.R. § 18.32(a)(1)(iii), (2), (3) (providing that when a period is stated in days and "measured before an event," and the deadline would otherwise fall on a weekend, the deadline is the Friday before the weekend).

[2] See Order dated May 22, 2017.

The parties jointly move for one-week extensions of the time to file prehearing disclosures and prehearing statements. This extension will allow the parties adequate time to confer on joint stipulations. Moreover, the parties will be better positioned to draft stipulations and pre-hearing statements once they are in possession of their respective summary decision oppositions. Accordingly, the parties jointly request that the Court extend the deadline for prehearing disclosures and exchanges to June 19, 2017, and the deadline for the prehearing statements to June 23, 2017. Those proposed deadlines would be 29 and 25 days, respectively, before the July 18-21, 2017 hearing.

The parties do not request, and do not seek, any adjournment of the July 18-21, 2017 hearing date in this matter. Given the upcoming deadlines, the parties respectfully request that the Court advise counsel of its decision by email.

Re: In re Sun Valley Orchards, LLC 2017-TAE-00003

Dear Judge Timlin:

Counsel for the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division submits for filing:

- The Administrator's Memorandum of Law in Opposition to Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision, along with declarations and exhibits thereto; and

- The parties' Joint Stipulation of Agreed Facts and Joint Exhibits.

The Administrator also requests leave to allow witnesses to testify remotely at the hearing by telephone or (if feasible) videoconference, and requests that Your Honor administer the oath to these witnesses. Many potential witnesses in this case reside in Veracruz, Guanajuato, and various other regions of Mexico and thus cannot testify in person without undue expense and inconvenience to both the witnesses themselves and the Administrator. We will provide opposing counsel with advanced notice of the identity of the remote witnesses, and ensure that there are no interested parties in the room where the remote witnesses testify from. Opposing counsel has advised that under these conditions, he would consent to remote testimony. Should the Court grant leave for remote testimony, we would coordinate with the Court concerning logistics.

A number of the Administrator's anticipated witnesses do not speak English. Accordingly, the Administrator will arrange for interpreter(s) to interpret for her own witnesses.

Finally, the Administrator requests that a prehearing telephonic conference be scheduled in case there are any issues that need to be resolved in advance of the hearing. The Court had scheduled such a conference two weeks before the date that the hearing was initially scheduled for. See January 18, 2017 Order. Sun Valley Orchards and the Administrator are available for a call the afternoon of July 5, and generally any time July 6, 10, 11, 13, and 14, 2017.

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT 1

ARGUMENT 2

I. Summary Decision Standard 2

II. Sun Valley Cannot Establish That It Satisfied the Three-Fourths Guarantee With Respect to Any of the Workers at Issue. 2

A. Legal Framework of the H-2A Program's Three-Fourths Guarantee 3

B. Sun Valley Is Not Entitled to Summary Decision Regarding the Three-Fourths Guarantee for Five Workers Where the Parties Dispute Material Records. 4

C. A Reasonable Factfinder Could Well Conclude That Sun Valley Owes the Three-Fourths Guarantee to Nineteen Workers Who Departed Sun Valley in May 2015 After Sun Valley Terminated or Constructively Discharged Them. 9

1. Workers Consistently Testified that Sun Valley Terminated the Nineteen Workers Who Departed Sun Valley Around May 7, 2015. 10

2. A Reasonable Factfinder Could Also Conclude that Sun Valley Constructively Discharged the Nineteen Workers in May. 11

III. Sun Valley Cannot Avoid Trial on Its Liability for Efforts to Coerce Workers to Waive Their Rights by Signing False Forms. 13

IV. There Is No Genuine Dispute that Sun Valley's Meals Violations Warrant Summary Decision in the Administrator's Favor. 16

A. Sun Valley Did Not Furnish Free and Convenient Cooking and Kitchen Facilities That Enabled Workers To Prepare Their Own Meals. 16

B. Sun Valley Is Liable Under the H-2A Regulations for the Sale of Meals by Its Employee and Agent, Agustin Hernandez. 17

C. Sun Valley's Remaining Arguments Regarding Its Meals Liability Are Unavailing. 19

V. Sun Valley Is Liable for Hernandez's Operation of a Company Store Selling Energy Drinks, Beer, and Other Items at a Profit, Depriving Workers of the Offered Wage. 21

A. Hernandez Made a Profit From Selling Beverages, Snacks, Beer, and Cigarettes to Sun Valley's Workers. 22

B. Because as Manager and Crew Leader, Hernandez Is an "Affiliated Person" Under the Regulations, Sun Valley Is Responsible for His Unlawful Profiting From Sun Valley's Low-Wage Workforce. 23

C. Hernandez's Illegal Deductions Reduced Workers' Wages Below the Wage Promised in the Job Order. 25

VI. Sun Valley Does Not Plausibly Dispute That Its Worker Housing and Transportation Violated Health and Safety Standards. 27

A. Respondent Is Not Entitled to Summary Decision Regarding Its Substandard Housing. 27

1. Sun Valley Has Not Met Its Burden to Establish a Factual Dispute Regarding the Screen, Mattress, or Refuse Container Violations on Which the Administrator Is Entitled to Summary Decision in Her Favor.....27

2. Sun Valley Has Not Met Its Burden To Establish a Factual Dispute Regarding the Hot Water Violation.....28

B. The Evidence Regarding Sun Valley's Substandard Worker Transportation Compels Denial of Respondent's Motion.....29

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

The Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor (the "Administrator"), hereby submits this memorandum of law in opposition to Sun Valley's motion for summary decision. Respondent's motion must be denied because on each issue, Respondent points to disputed or immaterial evidence, fails to meet its burden as movant, or misstates the record or legal standard. Respondent's own payroll records, the deposition testimony of six former Sun Valley workers and of Respondent's owners and managers, contemporaneous photographs, and other relevant evidence all preclude judgment for Sun Valley.

First, Respondent cannot evade trial on its three-fourths guarantee liability, given copious payroll evidence establishing the violation, and worker testimony regarding the circumstances of Sun Valley's two rounds of firing workers in 2015. Second, the same workers' testimony provides ample support for the Administrator's charge that Respondent sought to immunize itself from the three-fourths guarantee by creating false records of the terminations. Third, as the Administrator's separate motion establishes, Sun Valley acted through its manager and agent, Agustin Hernandez, to improperly charge workers for meals, and its liability is beyond dispute. Fourth, Sun Valley is also liable for Hernandez's operation of a company store that sold workers soft drinks, beer, cigarettes, snacks, and other items, all at a profit, eating into the offered wage required by the job order. Finally, Respondent does not point to any material evidence that raises any genuine dispute regarding Sun Valley's liability for its substandard and unsafe worker housing and transportation.

ARGUMENT

I. Summary Decision Standard

A party is not entitled to summary decision unless it meets its burden to show that "there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to decision as a matter of law." 29 C.F.R. § 18.72(a); Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 325 (1986). "A fact is material if it might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law." Burton v. Teleflex Inc., 707 F.3d 417, 425 (3d Cir. 2013). A dispute is genuine if "a fair-minded fact-finder . . . could rule for the nonmoving party after hearing all the evidence, recognizing that in hearings testimony is tested by cross-examination and amplified by exhibits and presumably more context." Franchini v. Argonne Nat'l Lab., ARB No. 11-006, at *5 (Sept. 26, 2012). If the moving party meets its initial burden on some issue, the non-movant "must identify the specific facts" that, "if believed at trial," would "be enough to allow for a ruling in his favor on the issue in question." Id. The non-movant's "burden of producing evidence is not onerous and should preclude" a hearing "only where the record is devoid of evidence that could reasonably be construed to support the [non-movant]'s claim." Id.

II. Sun Valley Cannot Establish That It Satisfied the Three-Fourths Guarantee With Respect to Any of the Workers at Issue.

Overwhelming evidence contradicts Sun Valley's factual account with respect to the three-fourths guarantee. The parties dispute whether Sun Valley violated the three-fourths guarantee with respect to two groups of its H-2A employees, totaling twenty-four workers. First, for five workers, Sun Valley's own payroll records create a dispute as to whether Sun Valley used an improper method to calculate the guarantee. Second, for nineteen workers, the parties dispute the circumstances under which these workers departed Sun Valley in early May 2015, i.e. whether they were terminated or resigned. As there is a genuine dispute as to all facts relevant to the three-fourths guarantee — including the number of hours worked by or offered to four employees terminated in August 2015 and to a fifth who left in June 2015, as well as the circumstances under which other workers ceased working for Respondent in May 2015 — summary decision is inappropriate as to this claim. The Administrator will prove the violation at trial.

A. Legal Framework of the H-2A Program's Three-Fourths Guarantee

H-2A regulations dictate that an "employer must guarantee to offer" its workers "employment for a total number of work hours equal to at least three-fourths of the workdays of the total period beginning with the first workday after the arrival of the worker at the place of employment . . . and ending on the expiration date specified in the work contract." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i)(1). If the employer "affords [a] U.S. or H-2A worker less employment than that required under" the guarantee, "the employer must pay such worker the amount the worker would have earned had the worker, in fact, worked for the guaranteed number of days." Id. § 655.122(i)(1)(iv).

Workdays, Hours Worked, and Hours Offered. The regulations also set forth detailed rules that the employer must use to calculate which hours can count toward the guarantee. For example, "a workday means the number of hours in a workday as stated in the job order and excludes . . . [f]ederal holidays." Id. § 655.122(i)(1)(i). An employer may claim credit toward the guarantee by offering "more than the specified hours of work on a single workday" — but only to the extent that the worker, at his sole discretion, actually works such overtime hours that day. Id. § 655.122(i)(1)(iv). An employer may also claim credit toward the guarantee on a given day when the employer "offer[s]" that worker "an opportunity to work," if the "worker fails to work, up to a maximum of the number of hours specified in the job order for a workday" — but only to the extent that the employer maintains specific corroborating payroll records. Id. § 655.122(i)(3); see id. § 655.122(j).

Required Records. The employer must keep "records showing . . . the number of hours of work offered each day by the employer (broken out by hours offered both in accordance with and over and above the three-fourths guarantee . . .)." Id. § 655.122(j)(1). "[I]f the number of hours worked by [a] worker on a day during the work contract period is less than the number of hours offered, as specified in the job offer," the employer's payroll "records must state the reason or reasons therefore." Id. § 655.122(j)(3).

Required Notifications of Voluntary Departure or Termination for Cause. When an employer fails to satisfy the hours guarantee, it is only excused from supplementing workers' wages under narrow circumstances. If a worker "voluntarily abandons employment" or is "terminated for cause," and the employer also timely and properly notifies federal agencies, the employer may be relieved of the three-fourths guarantee. Id. § 655.122(n); see 76 Fed. Reg. 21,041 (Apr. 14, 2011) (required notifications to Department of Labor); see also 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(5)(vi)(B)(1); 73 Fed. Reg. 77,047 (Dec. 18, 2008) (required notifications to Department of Homeland Security). However, the "factual basis underlying any notification provided" by an employer regarding a worker's departure "is subject to review during an audit or investigation," for "fraud, misrepresentation or other violations." 75 Fed. Reg. 6884, 6914 (Feb. 12, 2010).

B. Sun Valley Is Not Entitled to Summary Decision Regarding the Three-Fourths Guarantee for Five Workers Where the Parties Dispute Material Records.

Sun Valley's own payroll records directly contradict Respondent's conclusion that Respondent satisfied the three-fourths guarantee with respect to five workers. As the parties vigorously dispute the number of hours worked by or offered to these employees, and as Sun

Valley's own records establish that the company failed to satisfy the three-fourths guarantee, Sun Valley cannot prevail on summary decision.

The Administrator seeks back wages for the three-fourths guarantee for just four of the 44 workers terminated in August 2015;[1] for these four workers, as well as a fifth worker who left Sun Valley in June 2015, Respondent's payroll records plainly show that these workers' hours did not meet the three-fourths guarantee.

Sun Valley was required to offer three-fourths of the workday hours between the workday after each worker's start date and the contract end date. 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i). Based exclusively on Sun Valley's own weekly payroll records and its own explanations of the content of those records, which set forth the number of daily and weekly hours worked by each employee in question, Sun Valley did not satisfy the three-fourths guarantee with respect to five workers. See Declaration of Jose Perez dated June 15, 2017 ("Perez Decl.") ¶¶ 5–13; Glick Decl. ¶ 4 & Ex. 2 (Resp't's May 17, 2017 Resp. Nos. 4–7 to Administrator's Second Set of Interrogs. (explaining that the relevant columns in Sun Valley's records "reflect[] the hours actually worked")). As the table below makes clear, Sun Valley's own records confirm that Respondent failed to satisfy the three-fourths guarantee with respect to these workers.[2]

[1] On August 21, 2015, Sun Valley notified the Departments of Labor and Homeland Security that 44 of its workers returned home "for personal reasons." E.g., Declaration of Jason E. Glick dated June 15, 2017 ("Glick Decl.") ¶ 3 & Ex. 1. Respondent now concedes that it actually "terminated" these workers because of a crop failure. Mem. of Law in Supp. of Resp't's Mot. for Summ. Decision ("Resp't's Br.") at 37; see id. at 3, 8, 14–15, 41.

[2] As set forth in the job orders, Sun Valley's work contract — which ended on October 10, 2015 — specified that Mondays through Fridays were seven-hour workdays, one weekend day was a five-hour workday, and the remaining weekend day was not a workday. Perez Decl. ¶¶ 5–6; see 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i)(1)(i) (defining "workday" with reference to the job order). The Administrator determined that pursuant to the job orders, Monday May 25th, Saturday July 4th, and Monday September 7th were federal holidays, and therefore not workdays. Perez Decl. ¶ 7; see 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i)(1).

Rodrigo Raya Tapia	June 3	October 10	734	550.5	475[4]	75.5

Sun Valley has conceded the underlying records are true, accurate, and complete to the best of Sun Valley's knowledge. Glick Decl. ¶ 5 & Ex. 3 (Resp't's Resp. Nos. 6–8 to the Administrator's First Set of Requests for Admis.); id. ¶ 6 & Ex. 4 (Resp't's Resp. No. 6 to the Administrator's First Set of Doc. Requests). For each H-2A worker employed by Sun Valley in 2015, the Administrator estimated the first workday after the worker's arrival at Sun Valley, based on the beginning of that worker's first pay period. Perez Decl. ¶ 9. The Administrator did so because Sun Valley's payroll records did not list workers' arrival dates. Id.; see 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i)(1) (the "total period" relevant to the guarantee starts with "the first workday after the arrival of the worker at the place of employment or the advertised contractual first date of need, whichever is later"). The Administrator's calculations may actually understate the "total period" on which the guarantee is based, and therefore understate Sun Valley's liability. Indeed, the Administrator has calculated a shorter guarantee period than Sun Valley, with respect to each worker at issue.

[3] The Administrator previously sought back wages for an additional worker, Jose Silva Lopez, for shortfall of 9.73 hours below the three-fourths guarantee, based on review of Sun Valley payroll records, including one page provided by Respondent with a photocopy defect, missing certain columns, including complete information about all hours worked. Upon further review and comparison of that defective copy with other payroll records from the same week, the Administrator now believes that Respondent satisfied the three-fourths guarantee with respect to Mr. Silva Lopez. See Perez Decl. ¶ 20.

[4] The Administrator's computations previously overstated the amount that Mr. Raya Tapia worked by 0.25 hours, and accordingly understated Sun Valley's liability. Perez Decl. ¶ 15.

[5] The Administrator's computations previously overstated the amount that Mr. Islas Larraga worked by 19.25 hours, and accordingly understated Sun Valley's liability. Perez Decl. ¶ 16.

In contrast to the Administrator's detailed calculations that match the weekly payroll records, Respondent points to a single document created for litigation that does not match its other records. Sun Valley cannot meet its burden as movant on a summary decision motion by pointing to a single page, created for the first time in this litigation, which directly contradicts hundreds of pages of its payroll data. See Resp't's Ex. R3 ("Employee Census Hours/Month") ("Census"). First, there is no meaningful foundation for this Census, attached to counsel's declaration with an affirmation that it is a "true and accurate cop[y]" of a "calculation prepared by Sun Valley." Sun Valley's motion contains no explanation of how Sun Valley culled this information from its supposedly "state-of-the-art computer time-tracking system." Resp't's Br. 43. Second, this recently produced Census is undermined by Respondent's own weekly payroll records. For example, the Census purports to demonstrate that Jose Islas Larraga worked 38.6 hours in April 2015. However, Sun Valley's weekly payroll records reflect just 19.25 hours worked by Mr. Islas Larraga in April — 9.00 hours on April 29, 10.25 hours on April 30, and no other days. Perez Decl. ¶¶ 17–18 & Ex. A (DOL00505). To take but one more example, the Census asserts that Miguel Elizondo Soto worked 40.37 hours in August. But the weekly payroll records list only 30.50 hours in August — 10.50 on August 1, 10.00 on August 3, and 10.00 on August 4. Perez Decl. ¶ 19 & Ex. B (DOL00925). Similar contradictions abound between this Censusalso and Respondent's other records.

Respondent's contention that there is no genuine dispute regarding the actual hours worked or offered to employees is utterly false. The parties' factual dispute as to hours offered and worked is fatal to Respondent's summary decision motion.[6]

Moreover, Respondent's failure to keep records detailing hours offered and hours not worked dooms its efforts to undermine the hours set forth on its payroll records. Although an employer is entitled to credit where certain additional hours are offered to an employee but the worker "fails to work," see 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i)(1)(iv), (i)(3), an employer "must maintain the payroll records in accordance with" the regulations in order to avail itself of such credits, id. § 655.122(i)(3), (j)(1).

Sun Valley kept no records of daily hours of work offered, and no records enumerating why "the number of hours worked by the worker on a day during the work contract period [was] less than the number of hours offered, as specified in the job offer." See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(j)(3);[7] Perez Decl. ¶ 12. While Sun Valley contends that some employees missed work due to sickness, see Resp't's Br. 42-43, its failure to document hours offered and reasons relating to failure to work precludes counting those periods towards their three-fourths guarantee. See In

---

[6] Moreover, Respondent's bald assertion that Mr. Larraga "voluntarily terminated his employment" as of his last day of work, Resp't's Br. 42, is unsupported by evidence. For Sun Valley to claim that that a "worker is not entitled to the three-fourths guarantee" on the ground of voluntary abandonment, Sun Valley had to notify the Departments of Labor and Homeland Security of Mr. Islas Larraga's departure by mid-June 2015, including the reasons for Mr. Islas Larraga's departure. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(n); 76 Fed. Reg. 21,041. Sun Valley has failed to adduce any evidence of such notification and, accordingly, cannot claim § 655.122(n)'s safe harbor.

[7] See also Glick Decl. ¶ 17 & Ex. 15, Deposition of Sun Valley Pursuant to Rule 18.64(b)(6) and of Joseph Marino, Apr. 20, 2017, at 21:21–22:7 ("Q: Does Sun Valley record the reason that a worker doesn't show up for work on a given day? A. No. Q. In 2015, did Sun Valley record the reason that a worker didn't show up for work on a given day? A. Not to my knowledge."); id. at 45:25–46:13 ("Q: That report would show information about work that the H-2A workers in 2015 did at Sun Valley? A. Yes. That report would show – that kind of report could show the number of hours that a given worker worked in 2015 at Sun Valley? A. Yes. Q. Could that report show any information about why a worker didn't work on a given day? A. Not to my knowledge." Q. Who would know that? A. No idea.").

re Global Horizons, Inc., No. 2005-TAE-00001, 2005-TLC-00006, at 40–41, 63, 77, 88–92 (OALJ May 6, 2011) (basing three-quarters guarantee liability on records of "hours actually worked" where an employer's records "failed to identify the number of hours offered broken out by offers in accordance with and over the three-quarters guarantee."), aff'd, ARB No. 11-058, at *8 (May 31, 2013). Moreover, even if Sun Valley were credited for this time, this simply goes to the magnitude of Sun Valley's violations, as Sun Valley could not count more than 40 unworked hours per week toward the guarantee under any circumstances. The parties' dispute as to the number of hours worked and offered precludes any grant of summary decision, and Respondent's claims will be proven false at trial.

C. A Reasonable Factfinder Could Well Conclude That Sun Valley Owes the Three-Fourths Guarantee to Nineteen Workers Who Departed Sun Valley in May 2015 After Sun Valley Terminated or Constructively Discharged Them.

The parties' strenuous dispute over the factual circumstances surrounding the May 2015 departure of 19 workers makes summary decision on this subject impossible. As set forth below, the Administrator has adduced clear and convincing evidence that on May 7, 2015, Sun Valley terminated these nineteen workers without cause. Moreover, even if, as Sun Valley maintains, the workers were not fired, the Administrator will demonstrate that these workers were constructively discharged by Sun Valley, given the objectively intolerable work conditions they faced. In any event, Respondent cannot reasonably contend that there are no genuine disputes of material fact with respect to the circumstances under which these workers ceased their employment. Indeed, the following "specific facts" clearly "show[] that there is a genuine issue for trial." Santini v. Fuentes, 795 F.3d 410, 416 (3d Cir. 2015).

1. Workers Consistently Testified that Sun Valley Terminated the Nineteen Workers Who Departed Sun Valley Around May 7, 2015.

Contrary to Respondent's contention, substantial evidence demonstrates that Sun Valley terminated the nineteen workers who ceased working for the company in May 2015. As these workers have testified, Sun Valley advised these workers that they "should go back to Mexico" because Sun Valley believed the workers "were lazy" and "didn't like to work." Glick Decl. ¶ 9 & Ex. 7, Deposition of Hugo Leonel Cinta Tegoma, May 11, 2017 ("Cinta Tegoma Dep."), at 29:20–21, 65:21–23. "Russell" Marino, Jr. had "decided that [they] were not worth[y] for the job." Glick Decl. ¶ 10 & Ex. 8, Deposition of Hector Mishel Garcia Dominguez, May 10, 2017 ("Garcia Dominguez Dep."), at 41:6–8. When the workers nonetheless asked Sun Valley to reconsider and for the opportunity to continue working "because [they] were there for work," they were told "no." Cinta Tegoma Dep. 66:2–3; see also, e.g., Glick Decl. ¶ 11 & Ex. 9, Deposition of Carlos Cervantes Ramirez, May 10, 2017 ("Cervantes Ramirez Dep."), at 40:16 (Mr. Marino, Jr. told the workers that they were "fired"); Garcia Dominguez Dep. 38:24–39:1 (Hernandez told workers he would give them their paychecks, and "then [they] had to leave"); Cinta Tegoma Dep. 30:9–14; 65:17–66:23 (given no "choice about staying or leaving").[8]

Because there is overwhelming evidence from which a reasonable factfinder could easily conclude that Sun Valley fired these nineteen workers less than a month into a nearly six-months-long contract, summary decision must be denied on this claim.

[8] Although Respondent takes issue with the consistency of some of this testimony, such a factual dispute cannot be the basis for a motion for summary decision.

2. A Reasonable Factfinder Could Also Conclude that Sun Valley Constructively Discharged the Nineteen Workers in May.

Moreover, even assuming that Sun Valley did not affirmatively fire the nineteen workers in question, there is substantial evidence that the workers were constructively discharged, further precluding summary decision in favor of Respondent on the three-fourths guarantee for these nineteen workers.

"Under the constructive discharge doctrine, an employee's reasonable decision to resign because of unendurable working conditions is assimilated to a formal discharge for remedial purposes." Pa. State Police v. Suders, 542 U.S. 129, 141 (2004). "The inquiry is objective: Did working conditions become so intolerable that a reasonable person in the employee's position would have felt compelled to resign?" Id.; see Wage and Hour Division Field Assistance Bulletin 2012-1 (Feb. 28, 2012) (applying constructive discharge doctrine to H-2A context).[9]

A reasonable factfinder could conclude that Sun Valley subjected these nineteen workers to "unendurable working conditions." Suders, 542 U.S. at 141. First, although the job order stated that the workday was seven hours on weekdays and only five hours per weekend and that workers would "not be required to" work additional hours, Hernandez required the asparagus pickers to work, continuously "crouched," upwards of twelve hours many days, often without rest periods. Cervantes Ramirez Dep. 7:22–9:1. These workers had no objection to working the 40 hours specified in the job order, performing the same asparagus picking work that they had been assigned, but some had concerns about being forced to work "extra overtime" given the physical demands. Garcia Dominguez Dep. 28:5–9, 37:4–10, 73:20–74:3 ("Q: How many hours a week were you willing to work cutting asparagus at Sun Valley? A: At least 40 hours.");

[9] https://www.dol.gov/whd/FieldBulletins/fab2012_1.pdf.

Cervantes Ramirez Dep. 69:24–70:3 (willing to "stay[] at Sun Valley and ke[ep] picking asparagus").

Moreover, many of the housing and field sanitation conditions at Sun Valley were "intolerable and violate[d] applicable safety and health standards," particularly during the short period the nineteen workers labored in late April to early May. See WHD Field Assistance Bulletin 2012-1, at 5. During that time, there were no bathrooms or portable toilets available to workers in the fields, and at certain times no drinking water. Cinta Tegoma Dep. 13:5–10, 17:24; Cervantes Ramirez Dep. 30:12–23. Cf. 29 C.F.R. § 1928.110(c)(1)-(2) (OSHA field sanitation requirements for potable drinking water and toilet and handwashing facilities). The bathrooms in Sun Valley's dormitory were in the "worst condition," Cinta Tegoma Dep. 23:20–21, not only dirty but lacking any doors on the bathrooms or curtains in the showers, Cervantes Ramirez Dep. 29:5–23; cf. 20 C.F.R. § 654.412(a) (2015) (employer must provide "clean and sanitary" bathing and handwashing facilities"). Hot water frequently ran out, leaving workers to shower with only cold water. Garcia Dominguez Dep. 24:2–6; cf. 20 C.F.R. § 654.412(a) (2015) (requiring "hot and cold water under pressure" "for the use of all occupants"). The dormitory bunk beds "didn't have any mattresses." Cinta Tegoma Dep. 23:7–19; cf. 20 C.F.R. § 654.416(a) (2015) (sleeping facilities must include "clean mattresses"). Workers had nowhere to do their laundry so washed clothes in the field. Cinta Tegoma Dep. 25:4–22; cf. 20 C.F.R. § 654.412(c) (2015) (requiring laundry facilities "for the use of all occupants," including at least "[l]aundry trays or tubs"). Reasonable workers would not remain and work under such "intolerable" conditions. See WHD Field Assistance Bulletin 2012-1, at 5.

Finally, there is also substantial evidence that the workers made diligent efforts to present their concerns about these unreasonable conditions to Sun Valley, in an effort to provide Sun Valley with the opportunity to ameliorate the problems. See Clowes v. Allegheny Valley Hosp., 991 F.2d 1159, 1161 & n.6 (3d Cir. 1993) (employees' complaints to management are "significant" evidence, although not a necessary element, of a constructive discharge claim); Garcia Dominguez Dep. 68:11–15 (workers asked to speak with Sun Valley management "about the conditions"); Cervantes Ramirez Dep. 38:19–40:4.

In short, to the extent that Sun Valley maintains that these nineteen workers ultimately resigned, a reasonable factfinder could conclude that the workers were in fact constructively discharged. In that event, Sun Valley would still be liable for the three-fourths guarantee, and summary decision must be denied. 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(i), (n); Suders, 542 U.S. at 141; WHD Field Assistance Bulletin 2012-1.[10]

III. Sun Valley Cannot Avoid Trial on Its Liability for Efforts to Coerce Workers to Waive Their Rights by Signing False Forms.

There is a genuine dispute as to whether Sun Valley, including its owner Russell Marino, Jr. and manager Hernandez, sought to have workers waive their rights to the three-fourths guarantee when Sun Valley terminated workers in May and again in August 2015. See 29 C.F.R. § 501.5 (prohibiting any "person" from "seek[ing] to have" any H-2A worker waive rights pursuant to 20 C.F.R. part 655, subpart B, including § 655.122(i)). Respondent is not entitled to summary decision on this claim.

[10] Although Respondent's motion periodically raises issues relating to the adequacy of the Administrator's discovery responses, Resp't's Br. 37–39, Respondent has never moved to compel, let alone sought to confer with the Administrator regarding these issues. Moreover, Respondent bears the burden on summary a decision motion to show that "there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and [that Respondent] is entitled to decision as a matter of law." 29 C.F.R. § 18.72(a).

Sun Valley provided each group of terminated workers with "termination of work forms" shortly before they left the farm. Glick Decl. ¶ 15 & Ex. 13, Deposition of Russell J. Marino, Jr., Apr. 19, 2017 ("R. Marino Dep."), at 144:1–10. Even though Sun Valley fired these workers, the document falsely memorialized that workers were resigning: "I do hereby resign my job . . . . I hereby acknowledge that I have been offered additional work for the balance of my contract, however I resign for the reason listed below." Perez Decl. ¶ 22 & Ex. D (DOL01945). The form directed workers to check one of several options for their supposed voluntary resignation and thereby purported to waive their rights to the three-fourths guarantee. Id.

Russell Marino, Jr. ensured that Hernandez "oversaw" that the May-terminated workers signed the forms, even though the workers were hesitant to do so. R. Marino Dep. 118:16–22; Glick Decl. ¶ 16 & Ex. 14, Deposition of Agustin Hernandez, Apr. 18, 2017 ("Hernandez Dep."), at 182:10–14; see also R. Marino Dep. 122:6–8 ("Q: And did you tell the workers they had to fill out these forms? A. Well, it's required."). Mr. Marino, Jr. also gave instructions to at least "a few guys" on which of the resignation boxes to check, without regard to actual reasons for the workers' departure. R. Marino Dep. 120:6–19. Hernandez told the workers to indicate certain reasons rather than others to prevent "caus[ing] . . . trouble to the company," or ostensibly the workers themselves. Garcia Dominguez Dep. 40:18–41:2; Cinta Tegoma Dep. 31:18–32:8. For some workers, Hernandez filled out the checkbox himself. Cervantes Ramirez Dep. 45:10–23.

Russell Marino, Jr. and Hernandez gave the same forms to the August-terminated workers and again directed them how to fill out and sign the form. E.g., R. Marino Dep. 146:8–12; Hernandez Dep. 206:2–17; Glick Decl. ¶ 12 & Ex. 10, Deposition of Dario Morales Acosta, May 3, 2017 ("Morales Acosta Dep."), at 30:3–6. Mr. Morales Acosta signed the form because "Russell Marino said it was necessary for [the workers] to sign this document so [they] could return to Mexico." Morales Acosta Dep. 30:4–6. Hernandez "indicated" to the workers "to mark the . . . one before [the] last line," id. at 30:11–18, namely a box that workers were "resign[ing]" because "[w]ork has slowed down, and I would like to return home," Glick Decl. ¶ 8 & Ex. 6 (Resp't's Exs. 16a–c). Each of the forty-four workers complied and checked the very same box. Glick Decl. ¶ 8 & Ex. 6.

Consistent with the forms filled out by workers at Sun Valley's direction, Sun Valley sent false notifications to the U.S. Departments of Labor and Homeland Security that the workers left voluntarily, rather than after being terminated R. Marino Dep. 148:2–151:19 & Ex. 11 (Aug. 21, 2015 email asserting that 25 workers left for "personal reasons"); see also Glick Decl. ¶ 3 & Ex. 1 (Resp't's Ex. 4.3, Aug. 21, 2015 asserting that another 19 workers left for "personal reasons"); Glick Decl. ¶ 7 & Ex. 5 (Resp't's Ex. 4.5, Aug. 4, 2015 email forwarding May 7, 2015 email that 19 workers "resigned for personal reasons"); see also R. Marino Dep. 152:18–21 ("agree[ing] that the August workers "did not leave for personal reasons").

On these facts, a reasonable factfinder could well conclude that Sun Valley created false records for the workers' departure, in an attempt to immunize the company from three-fourths guarantee liability. In fact, Russell Marino, Jr. testified that he had the workers sign the forms because he needed "proof" of the reasons for the workers' departure, "[t]o cover, so I'm covered . . . to protect against" litigation. R. Marino Dep. 145:1–8.[11] Because the issue is whether Sun [11] Indeed, the forms had no other purpose. There is nothing "standard" or "required" under relevant law about the options Sun Valley listed on the form, let alone requiring workers to complete any form. Compare Resp't's Br. 13, 52, with 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(5)(vi)(B)(1) (no form required), 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(n) (same), 76 Fed. Reg. 21,041 (Apr. 14, 2011) (same), and 73 Fed. Reg. 77,047 (same).

Valley sought to have workers waive their rights, see 29 C.F.R. § 501.5, and Sun Valley successfully convinced the workers to sign the false forms, it is of no moment that the company now disclaims reliance on the forms as a defense to its separate three-fourths guarantee liability to 24 of these workers. Sun Valley's violation was complete in 2015 when it convinced the workers to sign its form.

Sun Valley cannot escape liability for this violation, which the Administrator will prove at trial.

IV. There Is No Genuine Dispute that Sun Valley's Meals Violations Warrant Summary Decision in the Administrator's Favor.

Nothing in Respondent's motion alters the conclusion that the Administrator is entitled to summary decision for Sun Valley's undisclosed sales of daily meals to 137 workers during 2015, in violation of the promises made in Sun Valley's job offers and 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p)(1), and (q). See Mem. of Law in Supp. of the Administrator's Mot. for Partial Summ. Decision ("Administrator's Br."), at 13–28. Sun Valley has simply not pointed to any disputed material facts under applicable legal standards, and the Administrator is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

A. Sun Valley Did Not Furnish Free and Convenient Cooking and Kitchen Facilities That Enabled Workers To Prepare Their Own Meals.

Sun Valley touts that it "maintains a full kitchen" adjacent to the "housing provided to its workers" and also "pays the utilities for the kitchen (electricity, gas, and water)." Resp't's Br. 19; see id. at 16, 20. However, this alone is insufficient under the regulations, which require that an employer who does not provide meals must "furnish[]" a kitchen for "free" in a manner that would "enable the workers to prepare their own meals." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g).[12] There is no genuine dispute that Sun Valley did not do this.

As Russell Marino, Jr. acknowledged, Sun Valley's 2015 job orders were "inaccurate" to state that workers would have kitchen access. R. Marino Dep. 156:15–158:13. Sun Valley put its manager Hernandez in charge of preparing meals, closed the kitchen to workers, and required them to pay a weekly fee for any meals prepared in the kitchen. See generally Administrator's Br. 17–19; see also Perez Decl. ¶ 24, Ex. E (Statement of Elia Pinon dated July 22, 2015 (DOL00200)) ("Workers are not allowed to enter the kitchen to cook their own meals . . . . The kitchen is always closed except when we are cooking the meals.").

Such an arrangement simply does not comply with the regulatory requirement that kitchen access be free, convenient, and enable workers to actually prepare meals. See Administrator's Br. 16–20; Reed v. Chase Home Fin., LLC, 893 F. Supp. 2d 1250, 1257 (S.D. Ala. 2012) (defining "convenient"); Murphy v. Millennium Radio Grp., No. 08-1743, 2015 WL 419884, at *5 (D.N.J. Jan. 30, 2015) (defining "enable").

B. Sun Valley Is Liable Under the H-2A Regulations for the Sale of Meals by Its Employee and Agent, Agustin Hernandez.

For good reason, Respondent does not dispute that its job orders failed to disclose any amount that Sun Valley could or would charge workers for meals. Accordingly, any charges for meals were flatly prohibited. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p)(1). But Respondent's attempt to escape liability for its meals violation fares no better with its next argument, that Hernandez acted "completely outside the employment relationship with Sun Valley" when he sold workers meals as a "side business." Resp't's Br. 3, 16, 21–24.

[12] Respondent cites to disputed facts regarding transportation Sun Valley might have provided inconsistently to workers to a laundromat near a grocery store. Compare Resp't's Br. 20, with Administrator's Br. 18 n.10. These disputed facts are not material because Sun Valley barred workers' access to the kitchen, leaving them with no way to use Sun Valley's kitchen to prepare food.

Respondent's bald assertion that there is "no evidence that Sun Valley: (1) directed Mr. Hernandez to collect [payments from workers]; "(2) approved of Mr. Hernandez doing so; nor (3) even knew that this was happening" has no factual basis and defies belief. Id. at 24.

In fact, Russell Marino, Jr. labeled the meal plan something that "Sun Valley Orchards offer[ed] the men on behalf of Sun Valley Orchards." R. Marino Dep. 99:13–15. In 2015, Russell Marino, Jr. kept Hernandez "in charge" of Sun Valley's meals and told him that even after entering the H-2A program, Sun Valley would "keep the way" they had been "collecting from the guys" for meals since at least 1996. Hernandez Dep. 27:22–28:7, 29:21–30:3. Marino, Jr. also instructed Hernandez to document the costs involved in providing the meals so that Hernandez could determine how much to charge. R. Marino Dep. 77:1–80:21, 84:1–19.

As a legal matter, Sun Valley is liable for its agent's collection from Sun Valley's workers of the weekly meals charges. See Administrator's Br. 22–27; Restatement (Third) of Agency § 6.01. Sun Valley's only argument to the contrary is that an agent is generally not liable for conduct "clearly outside the scope of his job duties." Resp't's Br. 24. As discussed in the Administrator's motion, this is not the standard; a principal is liable on a contract whenever the principal's agent had actual or apparent authority. See Administrator's Br. 22–27. In any event, it strains credulity to imagine that Hernandez operated the meal plan outside of the scope of his employment.

First, Sun Valley directed, supervised, and provided guidance to Hernandez throughout his operation of the meal plan. See supra. Second, Sun Valley had a legal obligation under the H-2A program to provide workers with meals given the lack of kitchen access, and Sun Valley chose to discharge that obligation in 2015 by putting its "respected employee" Hernandez in charge of providing meals. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g); R. Marino Dep. 181:17–18. Third, that arrangement was barely changed from Sun Valley's longstanding kitchen arrangement, under which Hernandez was undisputedly "in charge" of Sun Valley's meal plan and charged the workers. R. Marino Dep. 85:14–15. Fourth, when the Wage and Hour Division determined in 2013 that Hernandez overcharged workers for meals in 2013 in excess of the actual costs, Sun Valley assumed the back wage liability to Sun Valley's workers. See Administrator's Br., Declaration of Charlene L. Rachor dated June 1, 2017 ("Rachor Decl.") ¶ 33.

Given these undisputed facts, it is clear as a matter of law that Hernandez acted with actual authority in charging workers for meals — or at the least that Sun Valley acquiesced in Hernandez's conduct, giving him apparent authority. See Administrator's Br. 22–27; Restatement (Third) of Agency §§ 2.01–.03, 6.01; Ramos-Barrientos v. Bland, 661 F.3d 587, 600 (11th Cir. 2011); Castillo v. Case Farms of Ohio, Inc., 96 F. Supp. 2d 578, 593–96 (W.D. Tex. 1999).

C. Sun Valley's Remaining Arguments Regarding Its Meals Liability Are Unavailing.

Respondent's additional scattershot arguments are similarly meritless and require even less to dismiss. First, Sun Valley's liability for the meal charges does not depend on whether Sun Valley or Hernandez also made a profit. Resp't's Br. 3, 19. The nature of the violation is the failure to disclose the charges in the job order. 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p)(1), (q). The regulations mandate disclosure regardless of the price charged. Id.; see In re Global Horizons, Inc., No. TAE-00002, at *8 (OALJ Dec. 17, 2010), aff'd, ARB No. 11-058 (May 31, 2013). It is of no moment that that the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act contains different requirements, such as those pursuant to which Sun Valley was held liable in 2013 when Hernandez profited from the meals charges. See Resp't's Br. 17; Rachor Decl. ¶ 33.

Second, even if true, it is irrelevant that other than Hernandez, no one else at Sun Valley "was paid . . . with respect to meals." Resp't's Br. 19. Hernandez was Sun Valley's agent in running and charging for the meal plan and was prohibited from profiting from the plan. To the extent Sun Valley suggests that it is unfair for the company to disgorge funds collected by its manager Hernandez, there can be no question that Sun Valley saved considerable money in 2015 by not making kitchen upgrades that would have been necessary to enable all workers to prepare their own meals. See also 29 C.F.R. § 501.16(a)(2) (recovery of unpaid wages and enforcement of provisions of the work contract will be "sought . . . directly from the employer").

Third, it is not surprising that the workers did not complain to "any of the Marinos individually about the meals," since as Respondent acknowledges, the workers rarely had any opportunity to interact with any of the Marinos. Resp't's Br. 6, 25. Though more relevant to penalties than to liability, many workers were certainly unsatisfied with the meals and the lack of facilities to prepare their own. Some unsuccessfully sought permission to use the kitchen, Garcia Dominguez Dep. 70:6–17, others resorted to a potentially dangerous arrangement cooking canned food inside the dormitory, and others resigned themselves to the situation given to the lack of a meaningful alternative, Glick Decl. ¶ 13 & Ex. 11, Deposition of Miguel Angel Elizondo Soto, May 3, 2017, at 11:21–12:19; Glick Decl. ¶ 14 & Ex. 12, Deposition of Jose Silva Lopez, May 4, 2017 ("Silva Lopez Dep."), at 10:3–9.

Fourth, Respondent's insistence that the meals charges were not "deductions," Resp't's Br. 26–28, does nothing to change its liability pursuant to 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g) for the undisclosed meals "charge[s]." As explained in the Administrator's motion, and further below, Sun Valley's charges were deductions as a matter of law, making Sun Valley also liable pursuant to § 655.122(p)(1) for those unlawful and undisclosed deductions. Administrator's Br. 21–22; see also infra Section V (unlawful beverage deductions).

Finally, Respondent suggests that its liability for undisclosed meals charges arises only under 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(q). Resp't's Br. 16. The argument makes little sense, as Respondent violated not only § 655.122(q), but also § 655.122(g) by running afoul of the requirement that "[w]here the employer provides the meals, the job offer must state the charge, if any." In any event, the Administrator combined the penalties for undisclosed meals charges under all three relevant subsections, 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(g), (p), and (q), together. E.g., Rachor Decl. ¶ 14.

V. Sun Valley Is Liable for Hernandez's Operation of a Company Store Selling Energy Drinks, Beer, and Other Items at a Profit, Depriving Workers of the Offered Wage.

As the Administrator will prove at trial, Hernandez took advantage of Sun Valley workers' geographic isolation and their lack of access to transportation or refrigerators to sell workers all manner of drinks, snacks, and other items at a profit, in violation of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(2). He also sold beer and cigarettes without a license, in violation of state law and therefore also in violation of the H-2A program. Id. (incorporating by reference 29 C.F.R. Part 531). Remarkably, Sun Valley's 52-page brief does not even acknowledge that § 655.122(p)(2) sets the standard at issue.

On this motion, Respondent does not contest that Hernandez made or profited from such sales to Sun Valley's workers, in Sun Valley's kitchen while workers ate meals there, and from coolers in the back of Hernandez's truck at locations throughout Sun Valley's fields. Nor does Respondent contest that the sales of beer and cigarettes were illegal given both Sun Valley's and Hernandez's lack of a license. Instead, Respondent contends that the Administrator improperly "conflate[s] Mr. Hernandez's role at Sun Valley as a crew leader . . . with his side-business . . . selling drinks to workers." Resp't's Br. 21. The H-2A regulations restrict precisely such profiteering by crew leaders and others closely connected with the agricultural employer. 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(2). When such sales reduce workers' wages below the rate promised in the job order, the agricultural employer is liable, under the H-2A regulations and venerable FLSA principles. Sun Valley is not entitled to summary decision for permitting Hernandez to run a company store that deprived workers of their hard-earned wages.

A. Hernandez Made a Profit From Selling Beverages, Snacks, Beer, and Cigarettes to Sun Valley's Workers.

Sun Valley does not appear to contest that Hernandez made a profit over the "wholesale price paid . . . for cases of drinks." Resp't's Br. 29. Nor could Respondent, as Hernandez regularly threw away all receipts for items he purchased and resold to workers (other than groceries used to prepare meals). Hernandez Dep. 82:3–4 ("I don't keep receipts when I buy the sodas, no."). It is Respondent's burden, both on this motion and at trial, to demonstrate that Hernandez's sales for such charges did not include a profit and therefore were reasonable. Ortiz v. Paramo, No. 06-3062, 2008 WL 4378373, at *6 (D.N.J. Sept. 19, 2008) (granting summary judgment to employees for unlawful deductions for meal charges given employer's failure to meet its burden); Ortiz v. Paramo, No. 06-3062, 2009 WL 457618, at *3–4 (D.N.J. Dec. 1, 2009) (trial verdict for plaintiffs in the full amount of unlawful charges for cigarettes and alcohol, given employer's lack of records regarding cost).

Even absent these records, there can be no dispute that Hernandez did profit; the question is just how much. For example, Hernandez testified at his deposition that he purchased sodas at Sam's Club for about 54 cents a can and resold them to workers for a dollar. The actual cost at Sam's Club was likely closer to 29 cents per can. Perez Decl. ¶ 29 & Ex. G (at Sam's Club where Hernandez purchased the sodas, 36-case of Coca Cola cans costs $9.98). At another market where Hernandez sometimes shopped, the actual cost was 36 cents. Hernandez Dep. 248:19–251:7 & Ex. 7 (DOL01422 (indicating "36" "cans of Coca-Cola per case," purchased at "$13")); see Perez Decl. ¶ 26. See also Perez Decl. ¶ 25 (Hernandez told Investigator Perez that Russell Marino, Jr. said Hernandez could charge workers whatever amount Hernandez chose).

Hernandez sold other soft drinks at a profit as well. As just one example, he paid about $1.33 per Monster energy drink at Sam's Club but sold the same beverages to workers for as much as $4. Hernandez Dep. 83:15–16 ($32 at Sam's Club for a case of 24 Monster drinks); Garcia Dominguez Dep. 14:20–22.

Hernandez profited from his sales of beer as well. For example, he sold cans of beer at prices up to $2, Silva Lopez. Dep. 21:9–11, whereas 30-can cases of beer such as Coors Light cost him about seventy cents per can. Perez Decl. ¶¶ 31–34 & Ex. H (DOL01893), Ex. J (DOL01894, 01896) (Sun Valley refrigerator stocked with Coors Light), Ex. K (DOL003714–15).[13]

B. Because as Manager and Crew Leader, Hernandez Is an "Affiliated Person" Under the Regulations, Sun Valley Is Responsible for His Unlawful Profiting From Sun Valley's Low-Wage Workforce.

The H-2A regulations plainly prohibit "deductions" that are not "reasonable." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(1). And "[a] deduction is not reasonable if it includes a profit to the employer or to any affiliated person." Id. § 655.122(p)(2). "Affiliated person" is a broad category that includes [13] Although some workers testified that canned beer cost $1, the evidence must be construed in the light most favorable to the non-movant, the Administrator.

employees and agents of the employer, as well as close relatives, among others. See id.; 29 C.F.R. § 531.33(b).[14]

The regulations further specify that H-2A "wage requirements . . . will not be met where . . . unauthorized deductions, rebates, or refunds reduce the wage payment made to the employee below the minimum amounts required." 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(2). FLSA regulations elaborate the "principles applied in determining whether deductions are reasonable." Id.; see 29 C.F.R. Part 531. In short, "employers generally many not issue paychecks at the minimum wage rate and then require employees to give some of the money back." Rivera v. Peri & Sons Farms, Inc., 735 F.3d 892, 897 (9th Cir. 2013); see 29 C.F.R. § 531.35. And although an "employer may charge its employees for the reasonable cost of providing them 'board, lodging, or other facilities,'" such charges can never "include a profit to the employer or to any affiliated person." Rivera, 735 F.3d at 897; 29 C.F.R. § 531.33. Nor can charges be made for items sold "in violation of any Federal, State, or local law." 29 C.F.R. § 531.31. As further explained in the Administrator's motion, the terms "charge" and "deduction" are used interchangeably under the regulations, regardless of whether money is deducted directly from a worker's paycheck or whether the employer or affiliated person receives a cash payment from the worker some time after the worker is paid. Administrator's Br. 22; Field Assistance Bulletin 2012-3, at 1.

Sun Valley's liability for Hernandez's improper profiteering from workers is clear given the broad definition of "affiliated person" prohibited from "operat[ing] company stores" at a profit. 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(2); Field Assistance Bulletin 2012-3. Accordingly, Sun Valley's suggestion that Hernandez's sales are "no different than workers buying . . . drinks from a Wawa" misses the mark entirely.[15] Resp't's Br. 3. Nor, given § 655.122(p)(2)'s standard, does it matter whether someone at Sun Valley other than Hernandez also profited from the sales. Resp't's Br. 28, 32. Sun Valley's misguided attempt to draw a line between Hernandez's conduct and the rest of Sun Valley's management is no ground for summary decision in Respondent's favor.

[14] The Administrator has issued guidance explaining that "affiliated person" also includes recruiters and "any person . . . who has an interest in the employment relationship." Wage and Hour Division, Field Assistance Bulletin No. 2012-3 (May 17, 2012), https://www.dol.gov/whd/FieldBulletins/fab2012_3.pdf.

C. Hernandez's Illegal Deductions Reduced Workers' Wages Below the Wage Promised in the Job Order.

Each of Sun Valley's unreasonable deductions brought its workers' wages "below the minimum amounts required under" the H-2A regulations, namely the hourly rate and piece rates that Sun Valley agreed to pay its workers pursuant to the job orders. 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(2); see id. § 655.120(a), 655.122(l).

Sun Valley wrongly asserts that because it has not claimed a "credit under Section 3(m) of the FLSA for providing an item in lieu of wages in order to reach the $7.25 federal minimum wage threshold," there is nothing that limits the prices that Hernandez could charge. Resp't's Br. 31. On the contrary, courts have consistently held employers liable for overcharging workers for food, beverages, alcohol, and cigarettes, or for selling those items illegally, pursuant to the same FLSA reasonableness principles that are incorporated in the H-2A regulations.[16] For example, an employer that "s[ells] alcoholic beverages and cigarettes to his employees" without a license under state law is liable for constructively "deduct[ing]" those amounts from workers' pay.

[15] Sun Valley's owners were well aware of Hernandez's sales of beverages and snacks in Sun Valley's kitchen. R. Marino Dep. 97:15–24.

[16] Contrary to Sun Valley's unsupported assertion, Resp't's Br. 31, sales of alcohol are subject to the same principles. Ortiz, 2009 WL 4575618, at *3 ("Items such as alcohol and cigarettes constitute 'other facilities' under the law.").

Marshall v. Hunter, No. 79-958, 1983 WL 2015, at *2–3 (M.D. Fla. May 9, 1983). And an employer that charges workers for food, beer, or cigarettes, even after issuing a paycheck that contains the full required wage, is liable for the improper charges as if the deduction were made directly from the paycheck. Escobar v. Baker, 814 F. Supp. 1491, 1506 (W.D. Wash. 1993) (MSPA); see Ortiz, 2009 WL 4575618, at *3 (employer violated 3(m) principles by "demanding reimbursement for items" sold to workers "on credit during the week," including beer and cigarettes) (awarding damages in the full amount of the charges).[17] These principles are explicitly incorporated by reference in the H-2A regulations and apply with equal force to illegal deductions constructively made from paychecks paid pursuant to the minimum wages set forth in the job orders. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(p)(2).

Sun Valley's argument regarding "free beer" is similarly misplaced. The Administrator's argument has never been that Sun Valley had a "duty to provide free beer." Cf. Resp't's Br. 31. The violation is the sale of beer both at a profit and in violation of state law. And there is no dispute that both the company and Hernandez lacked licenses to sell beer or cigarettes. See Glick Decl. ¶ 5 & Ex. 3 (Resp't's Resp. Nos. 24–25 and Hernandez's Resp. Nos. 5–6 to the Administrator's First Set of Requests for Admis.); N.J. Stat Ann. § 33:1-2(a) (license is required to sell alcohol in New Jersey); N.J. Stat Ann. § 54:40A-3 (license is required to sell cigarettes in New Jersey); In any event, the Administrator has calculated back wages for this aspect of the violation only in the amount of the profit Hernandez earned.

[17] As described in the Administrator's brief, Hernandez charged the workers cash for their meals and other purchases, the same afternoon that Sun Valley cashed the workers' paychecks. Administrator's Br. 10; see Hernandez Dep. 78:2–19, 79:12–20.

Sun Valley's arguments simply provide no basis for awarding summary decision in Respondent's favor.

VI. Sun Valley Does Not Plausibly Dispute That Its Worker Housing and Transportation Violated Health and Safety Standards.

The Administrator established in her motion that Respondent violated several health and safety standards by housing its workers in substandard conditions and transporting them in unsafe arrangements. See Administrator's Br. 6–12, 28–30, 39–42. Respondent does not point to any material facts whatsoever disputing these claims.

A. Respondent Is Not Entitled to Summary Decision Regarding Its Substandard Housing.

1. Sun Valley Has Not Met Its Burden to Establish a Factual Dispute Regarding the Screen, Mattress, or Refuse Container Violations on Which the Administrator Is Entitled to Summary Decision in Her Favor.

Rather than introducing any evidence that Sun Valley's housing complied with the applicable standards during the 2015 growing season, Respondent advances nothing more than a speculative "blame the workers" theory, without citing a single piece of material evidence in its favor. Resp't's Br. 45–47. None of Respondent's cited deposition testimony states that Sun Valley's housing was ever compliant with any of the specific standards, or that Sun Valley promptly remedied any deficiency. Respondent's brief, grounded solely in "speculation or conjecture," is insufficient to meet Respondent's burden as movant. Robertson v. Allied Signal, Inc., 914 F.2d 360, 382 n.12 (3d Cir. 1990); United States v. Donovan, 661 F.3d 174, 184 (3d Cir. 2011).

The New Jersey Camp Inspection Report from February 25, 2015 is no more helpful to Respondent's cause. The document predates workers' arrival and the beginning of the job order period by nearly two months. Courts have routinely granted summary judgment for workers in cases brought by private plaintiffs over subpar housing conditions, notwithstanding employers' reliance on such inspection reports. This is because a certificate of occupancy "shall not relieve" an employer "from the responsibility of ensuring" compliance with housing safety and health standards during the full period occupied by workers. See Wage and Hour Division Op. Letter WH-521 (Jan. 3, 1984) (MSPA interpretation); accord 75 Fed. Reg. 6884, 6910 (describing Department's practice of conducting post-certification inspections of H-2A employers once housing is "occupied"); see also Howard v. Malcolm, 658 F. Supp. 423, 425 (E.D.N.C. 1987) (granting summary judgment for plaintiffs and remarking that "[t]o suggest that initial compliance is all that is mandated by statute is ludicrous"); Villalobos v. N.C. Growers Ass'n, 252 F. Supp. 2d 1, 6, 34 (D.P.R. 2002). Furthermore, there is no foundation for how the New Jersey workforce agency actually conducted its inspection or what was examined. Howard, 658 F. Supp. at 425, 433 (E.D.N.C. 1987) (pre-inspection report insufficient to defeat summary judgment, without any affidavit from the inspector "even purporting to explain the circumstances of the report,").

2. Sun Valley Has Not Met Its Burden To Establish a Factual Dispute Regarding the Hot Water Violation.

Sun Valley has also not met its initial burden as movant to demonstrate the absence of factual disputes regarding the violation for inadequate hot water in the worker bathroom facility. 20 C.F.R. §§ 655.122(d)(1), § 654.412(a). Nor has Respondent even argued that facts are undisputed. The only evidence Sun Valley cites actually supports the Administrator's charge. See Resp't's Br. 46 (hot water frequently ran out).

B. The Evidence Regarding Sun Valley's Substandard Worker Transportation Compels Denial of Respondent's Motion.

For good reason, Respondent does not seriously argue that it is entitled to summary decision on the transportation violations pursuant to 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(h)(4).

Sun Valley does suggest that some of its vehicles passed internal inspections in 2015. Resp't's Br. 44. But there is no foundation or explanation for what Respondent's cited documents purport to show. Many are undated or post-date the 2015 growing season; do not specify the vehicle at issue; and as Sun Valley concedes, Resp't's Br. 45, do not establish that any of the tire treads or lighting devices at issue complied with applicable federal law or any relevant local standards.

As for the unsupported assertion that certain "pre-season" vehicle inspections were conducted by the "State of New Jersey DOL" on unspecified dates,[18] Resp't's Br. 44, there is no explanation, let alone any evidence, of what those supposed inspections covered or uncovered, nor any argument or supporting facts that the relevant U.S. Department of Transportation standards were used, or what local standards, if any. See 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(h)(4); 29 C.F.R. § 500.105. In any event none of these speculative claims creates any dispute of facts about Sun Valley's violations of the tire tread and lighting device regulations during the period at issue, July 2015, when the violations were documented. See supra Section VI.A.1; Howard, 658 F. Supp. at 425; Villalobos, 252 F. Supp. 2d at 34.

Sun Valley's attempt to escape liability for the driver's licenses violation fares no better. As the Administrator's motion established, Sun Valley chose five drivers to transport Sun [18] Unlike in the housing context, the H-2A regulations do not mandate any "pre-season inspection" of transportation. Cf. Resp't's Br. 44.

Valley's workforce, knowing those drivers lacked proper licenses. Two of the drivers had no licenses of any kind, two had only Mexican licenses, and a fifth had only an expired Mexican license. See Administrator's Br. 10–12, 28–29, 39–41 (citing exhibits). Under applicable law, none of these drivers had authorization to operate a vehicle transporting migrant workers. 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(h)(4); N.J. Stat. Ann. § 39:3-10; N.J. Stat. Ann. § 39:3-10.18a; N.J. Admin. Code § 13:21-13.2(a).

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Administrator respectfully requests that the Court deny in full Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision.[19]

[19] Because Sun Valley's arguments regarding liability all fail, the Administrator does not separately address Respondent's scattershot arguments regarding back wage and civil money penalty calculations. In any event, such arguments are all premised on Sun Valley's assertions that there are disputed facts underlying the penalty assessments. Such arguments are not proper on a motion for summary decision, and illustrate the need for a trial on all claims for which the Administrator did not move for summary decision. And at least one of Respondent's arguments points to yet another instance in which the Administrator's computations actually understate Sun Valley's back wage liability. See Perez Decl. ¶ 35 & Ex. L (the transcription error identified at page 33 of Respondent's brief resulted in a lower average number of drinks than Wage and Hour's investigation found that workers had purchased).

IN THE MATTER OF: Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Department of Labor, Plaintiff v. Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, Respondent.	Case No. 2017-TAE-00003

DECLARATION PURSUANT TO 28 U.S.C. § 1746

I, JOSE PEREZ, declare under penalty of perjury that the following is true and correct:

1. I make this Declaration based on personal knowledge of the facts and circumstances relevant to this matter and based on my review of the Wage Hour Division's official investigation file. If called, I would testify to the facts provided herein. I submit this Declaration in support of the Administrator's Memorandum of Law in Opposition to Respondent's Motion for Partial Summary Decision.
2. I am employed as an investigator by the U.S. Department of Labor, Wage and Hour Division. My duty station is the Southern New Jersey District Office, which is located at 3131 Princeton Pike, Building 5, Room 216, Lawrenceville, NJ 08648.
3. The primary duty of my position is to conduct investigations of businesses to ascertain whether businesses covered by various federal labor statutes, administered and enforced by the Wage and Hour Division, are in compliance with the statutes and their supporting regulations, including the Immigration and Nationality Act and H-2A regulations.

4. On July 8, 2015, I was assigned to investigate Sun Valley Orchards, LLC ("Sun Valley") to determine whether the firm was in compliance with the INA.

Sun Valley's Payroll Records and Three-Fourths Guarantee Liability

5. As part of my official duties as a Wage and Hour Division Investigator, I reviewed Sun Valley's job offers for the periods of April 13, 2015 to October 10, 2015, and June 1, 2015 to October 10, 2015.

6. Sun Valley's job offers specified that a workday consisted of seven hours on Mondays through Fridays, and five hours on Saturdays, a total of 40 hours per week. (One section of each job offer stated that the workday was five hours on Sundays instead of Saturdays.)

7. The job offers show that Monday May 25, Saturday July 4, and Monday September 7 were federal holidays, and therefore not workdays for purposes of the guarantee.

8. During the course of the investigation, I requested that Sun Valley provide me full payroll and time records from the 2015 growing season, and I reviewed all of the records Sun Valley produced to me.

9. Sun Valley's printed payroll records break out the hours worked by each employee, day by day. I used these records to identify the first day each employee worked at Sun Valley.

10. For each worker, I calculated the number of workday hours between the worker's first day of work, and the end of the job contract on October 10, excluding federal holidays. Sun Valley was required to offer each worker three-fourths of that amount of hours.

11. Next, I used Sun Valley's payroll records to obtain the total number of hours each Sun Valley employee worked during the contract period.

12. I used total hours worked to calculate the three-fourths guarantee, instead of hours offered, because none of Sun Valley's payroll and time records listed the amount of work Sun Valley offered. Sun Valley's payroll and time records also did not list any reasons why workers did not work on any given day, or why they worked fewer than the number of workday hours in the job offers.

13. Sun Valley failed to satisfy the three-fourths guarantee with respect to the following five workers, in the following amounts of missing hours:

Worker	First Workday in 2015	Contract End Date in 2015	Total Workday Hours Between First Workday and Contract End Date	Three-Fourths Guarantee	Hours Worked on Sun Valley Payroll	Hours Shortfall
Miguel Elizondo Soto	June 3	October 10	734	550.5	471	79.5
Luis Luna Gonzalez	June 3	October 10	734	550.5	515.27	35.23
Dario Morales Acosta	June 3	October 10	734	550.5	352.23	198.27
Rodrigo Raya Tapia	June 3	October 10	734	550.5	475	75.5

Jose Islas Larraga	April 29	October 10	927	695.25	451.5	243.75

14. This chart is updated to reflect two transcription issues I discovered in recently reviewing the computations.

15. First, for the week ending July 28, 2015, according to Sun Valley's payroll records, Mr. Raya Tapia worked 63.25 hours, rather than the 63.5 hours I initially used in my computations.

16. Second, for the week ending May 5, 2015, according to Sun Valley's payroll records, Mr. Islas Larraga worked 75.00 hours, rather than the 94.25 hours I initially used in computations.

17. I understand that in the spring of 2017, Sun Valley produced one or more documents indicating that certain workers worked different numbers of hours than shown on almost all of the hundreds of pages of payroll records produced to the Wage and Hour Division during the investigation. For example, one of these documents indicates that Mr. Larraga worked a total of 38.50 hours in April 2015 but does not provide a day-by-day breakdown. According to the payroll records that Sun Valley provided and that I reviewed during the investigation, the only hours Mr. Larraga worked in April 2015 were 9.00 hours on April 29 and 10.25 hours on April 30, 2015, totaling 19.25 hours. A true and accurate copy of those records is attached as Exhibit A (DOL00505).

18. According to Sun Valley's payroll records, the first day Mr. Larraga worked at Sun Valley was April 29, 2015, and the last day was June 9, 2015. In other words, the payroll records do not list any hours Mr. Larraga worked on any days before April 29, 2015 or after June 9, 2015.

19. According to Sun Valley's payroll records, the only days that Miguel Elizondo Soto worked at Sun Valley in August 2015 were August 1, August 3, and August 4. A true and accurate copy of those records is attached as Exhibit B (DOL00925). He worked 10.50, 10.00, and 10.00 hours on those days, respectively. In other words, Mr. Elizondo Soto only worked at Sun Valley for 30.50 hours in August 2015, contrary to 40.37 hours listed on the document that Sun Valley recently produced.

20. I previously calculated back wages owed for Sun Valley H-2A worker Jose Silva Lopez, based in part on a document that Sun Valley provided to me that was poorly photocopied, causing certain columns to be omitted, including the column "Reg" that reflects the total hours worked. A true and accurate copy of that page is attached as Exhibit C (DOL00619). Based on another payroll record that shows the hours worked in the week ending June 9, 2015, I now conclude that Mr. Silva Lopez actually worked an additional 19 hours that week, for a total of 564.73 hours in 2015, putting him just over the 550.5 hour threshold for the guarantee.

21. Sun Valley's payroll records show that Sun Valley paid workers $11.29 per hour in many weeks. During some weeks, the records show that Sun Valley paid its workers a slightly higher rate, apparently based on a piece rate spelled out in Sun Valley's job offers.

22. DOL01945, attached as Exhibit D, is a true and accurate copy of a document provided to me on or about August 6, 2015, during Wage and Hour's investigation of Sun Valley in 2015.

Agustin Hernandez's Sales of Beverages, Snacks, and Beer

23. As part of the Wage and Hour Division's investigation of Sun Valley in 2015, I met with Agustin Hernandez, Sun Valley's crew leader and field boss. I also met with and interviewed Elia Pinon, Agustin Hernandez's spouse, who also works in Sun Valley's kitchen.

24. Pinon told me that she went to Sam's Club and some local "Mexican food store[s]" to purchase soft drinks (including Gatorade, Monster energy drinks, Coke, and Sprite) that Hernandez sold to Sun Valley's workers. She estimated that Sun Valley's workers purchased an average of 4 soft drinks per day, and at times "up to 8 drinks per day." A true and accurate copy of Elia Pinon's July 22, 2015 signed interview statement, and an internal translation, are attached as Exhibit E (DOL00200–05).

25. Hernandez told me that he did not keep receipts for beverages sold to workers. He also told me that Russell Marino, Jr. informed him that he did not need to keep such receipts and could charge workers whatever amount Hernandez chose.

26. During the investigation, I requested copies of all receipts and records associated with Sun Valley's meal plan. Almost without exception, the Sam's Club receipts that Hernandez produced to me did not show any purchase of beverages. However, one receipt that Hernandez produced to me showed that he purchased five cases of Coca Cola, each containing 36 cans, at $13 per case — that is, at a cost of about 36 cents per can. A true and accurate copy of that receipt is attached as Exhibit F (DOL01422).

27. On June 2, 2017 I reviewed price information for beverages at Sam's Club using Sam's Club website. To do so, I first examined the receipts that Hernandez provided me and determined that the location of the Sam's Club store where Hernandez shopped was in Deptford, New Jersey. I selected that location on Sam's Club website and searched the website for the prices of goods sold at that particular store. I searched for the prices of products Hernandez sold, such as Coca Cola, Monster, Gatorade, and several other beverages and snacks that Sun Valley's workers, Hernandez, or Pinon told me that Hernandez sold in 2015.

28. A true and correct copy of webpages showing some of the results of those price searches is attached hereto as Exhibit G (DOL03716–25).

29. According to the first page of Exhibit G, the Sam's Club price for a case of 36 cans of Coca Cola is $9.98 (DOL03716).

30. On an inspection of Sun Valley on or about July 21 and 22, 2015, I took photographs of Sun Valley's kitchen, including some of the refrigerators there. A true and correct copy of one of these photographs is attached as Exhibit H (DOL01893).

31. My colleague John Crudup and I learned during our visits to Sun Valley that Agustin Hernandez used several of these refrigerators or freezers in Sun Valley's kitchen to store groceries used to prepare workers' meals. A true and correct copy of a photograph the inside of some of those refrigerators or freezers is attached as Exhibit I (DOL01900–01).

32. Hernandez used another of these refrigerators to store beer that he resold to workers. This refrigerator was next to a Coca-Cola-branded cooler of beverages and a rack of snacks that Hernandez also sold.

33. True and correct copies of two photographs of the inside of this beer refrigerator are attached as Exhibit J (DOL01894, 01896). As shown in Exhibit J, one of the brands of beer stored on the bottom shelf of the refrigerator was Coors Light; other brands included Budweiser, Corona, and Modelo.

34. In August 2015 I looked up the price of one of those brands of beer by visiting a Costco in Wayne, New Jersey. I learned that the price for a case of Coors Light was $20.99, yielding a price of about 70 cents per can. A true and correct of the photographs I took to document this price are attached as Exhibit K (DOL03714–15). I used this store, a major wholesale store in New Jersey, to determine a sample price because Hernandez denied that he sold beer and did not tell me where he purchased the beer he resold to Sun Valley's workers.

35. In the computations I performed with respect to back wages owed for sales of beverages to Sun Valley's workers at a profit, I inadvertently entered "0" as the number of beverages one worker purchased on a daily basis and excluded that worker from the total number of workers in the denominator when calculating the average. The number for that worker should have been "8," as that worker told me that he purchased "8 drinks from Agustin daily." A true and correct copy of this interview statement and an internal English translation of this interview statement is attached as Exhibit L (DOL00175–78). Once this transcription error is corrected and the worker is correctly included in the denominator, the average number of soft drinks purchased per day by Sun Valley's employees is 4.68, rather than 4.42 as I previously calculated.

I declare pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746 under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Executed on this 15th day of June 2017.

Statement:

I started serving food to the workers on 04/08/2015 - at that time there were only 20 or 22 workers that participated in the weekly meal plan. The weekly meal plan costs each worker $75; the price of the meal plan has always been the same. The workers pay my husband Agustin in cash weekly for the meal plan. Currently there are 98 workers that are participating in the weekly meal plan. The weekly meal plan includes 3 daily meals - breakfast (coffee and bread), lunch (meat, rice and beans) and dinner (meat, rice and beans). The workers can ask for additional food if they are hungry. Drinks are sold to the workers in the field and in the kitchen - soda (coke or sprite) is $1, gatorade is $1, monster energy drink is $2, juices are $2.50, and jarritos are $1. The workers purchase an average of 4 drinks per day that include sodas, gatorade, juices and monster energy drink - at times workers purchase up to 8 drinks per day. Each worker purchases at least 1 drink with every meal they eat and every break they take. I purchase all foods and drinks at Sam's Club and a mexican food store (La Fiesta and El Paisano). At Sam's Club I purchase all the drinks (gatorade, monster energy drinks and coke/sprite) - I purchase all meats and jarritos at the mexican food store. I keep all the receipts from the purchases that I make - my husband keeps a record of all the purchases. Workers are not allowed to enter the kitchen to cook their own meals - we sometimes give the workers permission to use the microwave to reheat food in the kitchen. The workers are not allowed to put their own food in the refrigerators in the kitchen. The kitchen is always closed except when we are cooking the meals. There are 3 of us working in the kitchen (myself, Lucia and Felix) - Omar also worked in the kitchen but now he works in the fields picking vegetables. I work 7am to 6/630pm 7 days per week - I take 1 hour lunch - I work some 70 hours per week. Lucia works 730am to 1pm 7 days per week - Felix works 6am to 6/630pm but he takes a 1.5 hour break during the day except for Friday and Saturday which is when we go shopping - Felix works 7 days per week. I earn $700 per week - I earn $10 per hour - Lucia earns $400 per week and Felix earns $700 per week. My husband, Agustin, pays the kitchen workers directly including myself in cash weekly every Friday. My husband also sells drinks to the workers in the field. None of the workers have asked me to use the kitchen to cook their own meals. Felix and I are the only ones who have keys to open the kitchen door. If a worker needs to use the kitchen to reheat food Felix will allow them to enter the kitchen but he stays with the worker the entire time. I do not keep track of how many drinks we sell daily. The majority of the workers participate in the weekly meal plan. I have never seen any kids working here.

The above statement has been read to me and I agree.

Statement:

I have and H2A Visa - I traveled from Mexico to this farm to work. I went to IP in order to apply to work here - I read the contract that indicated I would work from IP until 10/10/2015. Agustin Hernandez made me sign a paper on 08/04/2015 that said that I was voluntarily resigning my job and that if I didn't sign that I would not be allowed to go back to Mexico - I signed the paper since I was afraid I would not be allowed to travel back to Mexico. I work 6am to 6pm - 1 hour of lunch - 7 days per week. I earn $11.29 per hour - I am paid weekly by check - it is accompanied by a paystub. The contract indicated that I would have access to a kitchen to cook my own food but when I arrived Agustin that I had to pay him $80 weekly in order to eat and that I couldn't go into the kitchen to cook my own meals. If I knew that I had to participate the weekly meal plan I would never have traveled to this farm to work. I purchase 8 drinks from Agustin daily - 5 in the field and 3 at the dormitory camp. I am available to work until the end of my contract on 10/10/2015 but there is little work so they are sending us back to Mexico. There is no place to wash our clothes - I pay $12 to one of the workers (not Agustin) to give me a ride into town to wash my clothes. Agustin sells beers to the workers for $2 a can (Modelo and Budweiser) - the majority of the workers purchase beer from Agustin daily. In the fields there is water for the workers to drink but there are no bathrooms. I am transported in the small yellow school bus to the fields to work. I left my house in IP . I have never seen any kids working here. I stay in the dormitory free of charge.

The above statement has been read to me and I agree.

In the Matter of: ADMINISTRATOR, WAGE AND HOUR DIVISION, U.S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR Plaintiff v. SUN VALLEY ORCHARDS, LLC Respondent	Case No: 2017-TAE-00003 RESPONDENT'S RESPONSE TO SECOND SET OF INTERROGATORIES

Pursuant to 29 CFR § 18.60 of the Rules of Practice for Administrative Hearings Before the Office of Administrative Law Judges, Respondent responds to the Administrator's Second Set of Interrogatories as follows:

General Objections

Respondent, by and through counsel, objects generally to each interrogatory in the Administrator's Second Set of Interrogatories as follows:

1. Respondent objects to the Second Set of Interrogatories to the extent they seek information protected against disclosure by the attorney-client privilege, the work-product privilege, or any other rule of privilege or confidentiality provided by law.

2. Respondent's responses to the Second Set of Interrogatories are based on Respondent's good faith effort to ascertain responsive information to the extent such information is reasonably available. Respondent reserves its right to supplement its responses in accordance with 29 CFR §18.53.

3. Respondent objects to any interrogatory that seeks information that is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative of information that can be obtained through other sources that are more convenient, less burdensome, and less expensive.

4. Respondent objects to any interrogatory that fails to describe the information sought without reasonable particularity.

5. Respondent objects to any interrogatory requests to the extent that they do not relate to the claims in the determination letters in this matter. Respondent includes within this objection those interrogatories that may be conditionally relevant unless a proper foundation has been laid at the time of attempted evidentiary use.

6. Respondent objects to the "Instructions" to the extent that they purport to impose a duty or duties in excess of that required by 29 CFR § 18.10, et seq., or the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Respondent will comply with the regulations and Federal Rules of Civil Procedure in response to these Discovery Requests.

7. Respondent's responses to these interrogatories are based on Respondent's best recollection of facts in question and represent a good faith effort to ascertain responsive information to the extent such information is reasonably available. Respondent reserves the right to supplement any responses if it is learned that, in some material respect, a response is incomplete or incorrect and if the additional or corrective information has not otherwise been made known during the discovery process or otherwise.

8. Respondent objects to any interrogatory that fails to describe the information requested in a reasonably particularized manner. Respondent will attempt to respond to such Requests by attempting to discern what information the Administrator is seeking and respond to the Request as so interpreted where it is reasonably able to do so.

9. By responding to an interrogatory, Respondent does not thereby agree with or otherwise adopt any implicit or explicit characterization of the facts or legal conclusions in such Request. It expressly reserves the right to object to, and challenge, any such characterization whenever advanced.

10. All of the responses contained herein are based only on such information that is currently available to and known to Respondent. It is anticipated that further discovery, independent investigation, legal research and analysis will supply additional facts, add additional meaning to the known facts, as well as establish new factual conclusions and legal contentions, all of which may lead to substantial additions to, changes in and/or variations from responses herein set forth. The following responses are given without prejudice to Respondent's right to produce and introduce at trial evidence of any subsequently discovered facts that they may later develop. The responses contained herein are made in a good faith effort to supply the factual information as is currently known, but in no way subject Respondent to prejudice in relation to further discovery, research or analysis.

11. Respondent objects to the Administrator's Second Set of Interrogatories to the extent that it exceeds the limit of 25 interrogatories, including all discrete subparts, as set forth in 29 C.F.R. § 18.60(a)(1). Responding to an interrogatory or discrete subpart does not waive this objection, and Respondent expressly reserves its right to raise this objection to any attempt to introduce any response to an interrogatory promulgated in excess of this limitation.

12. Respondent expressly reserves all objections to the admissibility at trial or any other proceeding of any of the information or documents they produce in response to these Discovery Requests.

Interrogatories

1. Please identify all persons, other than your attorneys, who responded to or assisted in responding to the Department's Second Set of Interrogatories, specifying separately which person(s) assisted in responding to each item of discovery.

Response: Russell J. Marino, Jr. and Lisa Justice responded to or assisted in responding to each interrogatory in the Administrator's Second Set of Interrogatories.

2. With respect to the document that Respondents produced as Exhibit 9 on April 7, 2017, please explain in detail and state:

a. the date Exhibit 9 was created;

b. the source of the information in the "Total Hours" column; and

c. the meaning of the information in the "Total Hours" column, including whether "Total Hours" refers to hours actually worked, hours offered, or something else (if so, please explain what else). If the answer to this interrogatory varies for different rows in Exhibit 9, please explain in detail any such variation.

Response: (a) Exhibit 9 was created on February 17, 2016, as indicated on the document. By that, Respondent means that that precise piece of paper was printed at that time. The information included in the document was created at some point prior to that date, in 2015, based on data entered into Sun Valley's records at the time when the work reflected in the document was performed by these workers, in April through August 2015. Respondent is unable to determine more precisely when the spreadsheet reflected in Exhibit 9 was first created.

(b) The "Total Hours" reflect the hours worked by each work and paid by Sun Valley, based on data from the PET ("Payroll Employee Tracking") Tiger tracking system.

(c) The information in the "Total Hours" column refers to hours actually worked by each employee.

3. With respect to the document attached hereto as DOL00513-19 please explain in detail and state:

a. the source of the information in the "Total Hours" column; and

b. the meaning of the information in the "Total Hours" column, including whether "Total Hours" refers to hours actually worked, hours offered, or something else (if so, please explain what else). If the answer to this interrogatory varies for different rows, please explain in detail any such variation, and please do so with reference to the categories listed in the "Ern/Ded Description" column ("Asp Harv H2A," "Minimum Wag[e]," "Planting H2A," etc.).

Response: The information in the "Total Hours" column comes from the PET Tiger tracking system used by Sun Valley, as imported into the "Famous" payroll tracking system used by Sun Valley. The information in the "Total Hours" column takes two forms, as reflected in the "Ern/Ded Description" column. The categories shown for this time period are:

- "Asp Harv H2A" – asparagus harvesting by H-2A workers; the AEWR is paid to both H-2A and domestic workers doing work covered by the job order, and the "H2A" notation reflects the tax-withholding difference for H-2A workers only;
- "Planting H2A" – planting other vegetables; again "H2A" reflecting the tax treatment rather than the wage rate; and
- "Minimum Wag[e]" – described in more detail below.

The "Minimum Wage" notation arises where: (1) a worker is performing work that would be compensated on a piece-rate basis; (2) the piece-rate earnings for that worker on that day do not reach the level required of AEWR times the number of hours worked for that day; so (3) additional compensation is provided to increase the worker's earnings to the required AEWR level. That additional compensation is reflected as "Minimum Wage" for a given day. So, for all hours worked, both the hours actually worked and the number of "pieces" are tracked, and the higher of the AEWR x hours or pieces x rate is automatically used for that day's pay.

The "Total Hours" notation for a "Minimum Wage" pay increase simply mirrors the hours worked for that day as already shown on the piece-rate entry for that day (e.g., "Asp Harv H2A") and were not used to calculate three-fourths guarantee "Total Hours" for any of these workers. For entries showing a "Minimum Wage" payment on a given day, the "Total Hours" column for such a payment is not relevant – the "Total Hours" for the piece-rate-based work for that day is the relevant number of hours worked for purposes of the AEWR-times-hours minimum payment.

4. With respect to the document attached hereto as DOL919-20, please explain in detail and state:

a. the source of the information in the "Hours" column; and

b. the meaning of the information in the "Hours" column, including whether "Hours" refers to hours actually worked, hours offered, or something else (if so, please explain what else). If the answer to this interrogatory varies for different rows, please explain in detail any such variation.

Response: The information in the "Hours" column is transferred from the PET Tiger tracking system. The information in the "Hours" column means the actual hours worked by each employee (i.e., not reflecting any payroll adjustments for "Minimum Wage" adjustments discussed above, where the piece-rate production fell below the AEWR hourly requirement).

5. Please state whether Respondent's answers to Interrogatories 4a and 4b are also the same for all other documents in Exhibit C titled "Payroll Run Inquiry – Check View." If the source or meaning of the information in the "Total Hours" column for the other "Payroll Run Inquiry – Check View" documents differs from the source or meaning of the information in the "Total Hours" columns in DOL00919-20, please explain in detail any such variation.

Response: Respondent objects to this Interrogatory as compound, vague, and confusing. Subject to those objections, Respondent states that the answers to Interrogatories 4a and 4b are the same for the information included in the "Hours" column of the documents comprising Exhibit C. The "Payroll Run Inquiry – Check View" reports in DOL00919-20 and Exhibit C all come from the same source.

6. With respect to the document attached hereto as DOL00501-11, please explain in detail and state:

a. the source of the information in the "Total Time and "Reg" columns; and

b. the meaning of the information in the "Total Hours" and "Reg" columns, including whether "Total Hours" and "Reg" refers [sic] to hours actually worked, hours offered, or something else (if so, please explain what else). If the answer to this interrogatory varies for different rows, please explain in detail any such variation.

Response: For most of the employees and most of the days, the information in those two columns is identical and reflects the hours actually worked. For the few employee-days where the numbers are not the same for these columns, Sun Valley has checked with its payroll software vendor for an explanation of the difference. It appears that the disparity occurred (and has since been remedied) where a worker split time between hourly and piece-rate work in a given day, with the "Total Hours" amount showing only one type of work and the "Reg" amount showing the combination. The "Reg" amounts consistently exceed the "Total Hours" amounts in the few cases where they are not identical.

7. Please state whether Respondent's answers to Interrogatories 6a and 6b are also the same for all documents in Exhibit C titled "Job Card: Payroll Summary." If the source or meaning of the information in the "Total Hours" or "Reg" columns for other "Job Card: Payroll Summary" documents differs from the source or meaning of the information in the "Total Hours" or "Reg" columns in DOL00501-11, please explain in detail any such variation.

Response: The source of the information was the same for the "Job Card: Payroll Summary" reports, whether in Exhibit C or in DOL00501-11, so the explanation should be the same as in Interrogatory 6, to the extent that there is any variation between the numbers in those columns for a particular worker on a particular day.

8. For each of the following six workers (Miguel A Elizondo Soto, Jose D Islas Larraga, Luis A Luna Gonzalez, Dario Morales Acosta, Rodrigo Raya Tapia, and Jose L Silva Loopez), please provide a full, complete, and detailed description of how Sun Valley calculated that Sun Valley satisfied the three-fourths guarantee in 2015. In your response, please state, for each of these six workers, the total number of hours actually worked and the total number of hours of work offered, and identify the records that support those numbers.

Response: Subject to the objections set forth above, Sun Valley responds as follows. Lisa Justice and Russell J. Marino, Jr. took the contract period for each worker and determined the number of weeks in that period. They then multiplied the number of weeks by 40 hours per week, as set forth on the job order, to determine the total contract hours. They then calculated 75% of that total number of hours and compared that to the total hours worked as of that date by each of the employees in question.

For the job order with a period of need of April 13, 2015 through October 10, 2015, there were 26 weeks, multiplied by 40 hours/week for 1040 hours total, with 780 hours as the three-fourths target. For the latter job order, with a period of need of June 1, 2015 through October 10, 2015, there were 19 weeks, for a total of 760 hours and a three-fourths target of 570 hours.

As shown in Exhibit 16 (provided herewith and prepared in response to this Interrogatory), 5 of the six workers identified in the Interrogatory (all but Jose Islas Larraga) worked on the second target, thus having a three-fourths target of 570 hours. Miguel Elizondo Soto worked 715.26 hours, Luis Luna Gonzalez worked 708.39 hours, Rodrigo Raya Tapia worked 690.06 hours, and Jose Silva Lopez worked 859.19 hours.

The other two workers were offered more hours but did not work them, due to illness or refusal to work – Dario Morales Acosta sat in camp for three weeks after he hurt his foot. Jose Islas Larraga worked 633.25 hours on the earlier contract, and Dario Morales Acosta worked 486.34 hours on the later contract. The "hours offered" to each worker that bring their total hours offered above their respective three-fourths guarantee level were determined by the hours offered/worked by their co-workers, as shown in Sun Valley's payroll records.

Response to Request for Admission 3:

Admitted in part, denied in part. Respondents deny that the documents provided as Exhibit A and Exhibit B are written contracts with Sun Valley's domestic workers or H-2A workers. Respondents admit that no written agreement was entered into between Sun Valley and its domestic workers or H-2A workers for the 2015 season.

Request for Admission 4:

During 2015, Sun Valley was an employer of each of the workers listed in Exhibit B of the Administrator and Secretary's Initial Disclosures dated February 15, 2017.

Response to Request for Admission 5:

Admitted in part, denied in part. The records at Exhibit C are complete payroll records, as such, but there are additional documents, provided herewith, reflecting the voluntary resignation of several Sun Valley employees that concern the number of hours of work offered to its H-2A workers (Exhibits 3 and 4.1-4.11).

Request for Admission 8:

During 2015, Sun Valley did not create or maintain any documents concerning the reasons any of its domestic workers and H-2A workers worked fewer hours than the number of hours of work offered in the work contract in 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 8:

Denied. Sun Valley created and maintained the payroll records found at Exhibit C. Sun Valley also created or maintained records reflecting the decision by 19 H-2A employees to terminate their employment voluntarily in May 2015 and others to do so later in the season. Such records are provided herewith and in response to the Administrator and Secretary's Document Requests. (Exhibits 3, 4.1-4.11).

Request for Admission 9:

Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the documents found at Exhibit D are true and accurate copies of records concerning charges for weekly meals paid by Sun Valley's domestic workers and H-2A workers in 2015.

Request for Admission 10:

During 2015, apart from those found at Exhibit C and Exhibit D, Sun Valley did not maintain any documents concerning the amount of or reasons for any and all deductions from any domestic worker or H-2A worker's wages between April 8, 2015 and July 21, 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 10:

Denied. Sun Valley did not make any deductions from any domestic worker's wages during this time period. Additional documents exist reflecting Sun Valley's expenses for operating its kitchen facilities (Exhibit 5), but those expenses were not part of any deduction from workers' wages.

Request for Admission 11:

During 2015, Sun Valley charged its domestic workers (including migrant agricultural workers) and H-2A workers a weekly fee for meals.

Response to Request for Admission 11:

Denied. Sun Valley did not charge any of its workers a weekly fee for meals.

Request for Admission 12:

During 2015, Sun Valley's weekly meals fee was $75 in some weeks and $80 in all other weeks.

Response to Request for Admission 12:

Denied. Sun Valley did not charge any of its workers a weekly fee for meals.

Request for Admission 13:

During 2015, Sun Valley did not furnish free cooking or kitchen facilities to its domestic workers (including migrant agricultural workers) or H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 13:

Denied. Sun Valley denies this Request inasmuch as it maintained cooking or kitchen facilities at all times during 2015. Sun Valley further does not admit that any of its domestic workers were migrant agricultural workers, nor that any of its domestic or H-2A workers ever requested to use such facilities. Sun Valley's employees, both domestic and H-2A, purchased and ate meals prepared for them by a third party, apparently without complaint.

Request for Admission 14:

During 2015, Sun Valley did not offer to provide free transportation to any store for domestic workers (including migrant agricultural workers) or H-2A workers to purchase groceries.

Response to Request for Admission 14:

Denied. First, Sun Valley denies that it had any obligation under the H-2A rules or any other provision of law or regulation to provide such transportation to local domestic workers. Sun Valley further does not admit that any of its domestic workers were migrant agricultural workers, nor that any applicable workers were denied transportation to any store.

Request for Admission 15:

Notwithstanding extraneous markings, the documents found at Exhibit E are a true and accurate copy of Sun Valley's records of Sun Valley's costs in providing food and beverages (including three daily meals) to its domestic workers (including migrant agricultural workers) and H-2A workers between April 8, 2015 and July 21, 2015, to the best of Sun Valley's knowledge, information and belief.

Response to Request for Admission 15:

Denied. Respondents object to this Request because it fails to meet the basic requirement that requests be simple, concise and state facts singly. This request requests admissions of multiple separate sets of facts. Without waiving the foregoing objections, Respondent denies that the documents found at Exhibit E are a true and accurate copy of Sun Valley's records on this issue. The documents found at Exhibit E reflect expenses to Sun Valley in the form of a refrigerator and the cost of setting up the kitchen, but the remaining expenses for groceries were for Agustin Hernandez and not Sun Valley. Sun Valley further specifically denies that it provided food and beverages or daily meals to its domestic workers beyond paying for the kitchen facilities at the farm and paying the utilities as reflected in Exhibit 5.

Request for Admission 16:

Sun Valley did not maintain any documents, apart from those found at Exhibit E, concerning the cost of food, beverages, or other items that Sun Valley sold or re-sold to its domestic workers and H-2A workers between April 8, 2015 and July 21, 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 16:

Denied – see response to Request for Admission 15. By way of further response, Sun Valley did not sell or re-sell any food, beverages, or other items to its workers. The groceries reflected in the receipts included in Exhibit E were not "re-sold" to Sun Valley's employees but were used by Agustin Hernandez to prepare hot meals for employees.

Request for Admission 17:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold soft drinks to its domestic workers.

Response to Request for Admission 17:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks to its domestic workers.

Request for Admission 18:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold soft drinks to its H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 18:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks to its H-2A workers.

Request for Admission 19:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold soft drinks to its domestic workers at a profit to Sun Valley.

Response to Request for Admission 19:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks to its domestic workers.

Request for Admission 20:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold soft drinks to its H-2A workers at a profit to Sun Valley.

Response to Request for Admission 20:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell soft drinks to its H-2A workers.

Request for Admission 21:

During 2015, Sun Valley was not licensed to sell beer.

Response to Request for Admission 21:

Admitted in part and denied in part. Sun Valley did not hold any specific license to sell beer but denies any inference that any such license was required, nor that this has any relevance to the issues raised in the Department's determination letter or Order of Reference for this matter.

Request for Admission 22:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold beer to its domestic workers.

Response to Request for Admission 22:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell beer to its domestic workers.

Request for Admission 23:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold beer to its H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 23:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell beer to its H-2A workers.

Request for Admission 24:

During 2015, Sun Valley was not licensed to sell cigarettes.

Response to Request for Admission 24:

Admitted in part and denied in part. Sun Valley did not hold any specific license to sell cigarettes but denies any inference that any such license was required, nor that this has any relevance to the issues raised in the Department's determination letter or Order of Reference for this matter.

Request for Admission 25:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold cigarettes to its domestic workers.

Response to Request for Admission 25:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell cigarettes to its domestic workers.

Request for Admission 26:

During 2015, Sun Valley sold cigarettes to its H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 26:

Denied. Sun Valley did not sell cigarettes to its H-2A workers.

Request for Admission 27:

Sun Valley's housing facility at 1321 Route 45 in South Harrison Township, New Jersey, was constructed prior to April 3, 1980.

Response to Request for Admission 27:

The housing facility described was on the property when Sun Valley acquired it, but to the best of Sun Valley's knowledge and information, the Request is admitted.

Request for Admission 28:

During 2015, Sun Valley transported its domestic workers and H-2A workers in vehicles operated by drivers without valid licenses or permits to operate vehicles in New Jersey.

Response to Request for Admission 28:

Denied. On information and belief, Sun Valley and its employees complied with all applicable laws and regulations. Sun Valley is not in possession of the licenses or permits of such drivers at this time.

Request for Admission 29:

In early August 2015, Sun Valley terminated more than 40 H-2A workers.

Response to Request for Admission 29:

Sun Valley objects to this Request as unnecessarily vague as far as "early August" but admits that it terminated a number of H-2A workers in August 2015, after more than three-fourths of the hours in the job order had been completed, based on a poor pepper harvest and a decreased need for labor.

Request for Admission 30:

In early August 2015, Sun Valley terminated more than 40 H-2A workers without cause.

Response to Request for Admission 30:

See response to Request 29.

Request for Admission 31:

Notwithstanding extraneous markings, Exhibit F is a true and accurate copy of a document that Sun Valley provided to approximately 45 H-2A workers on or about August 8, 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 31:

Admitted.

Agustin Hernandez

Request for Admission 1:

At all times during 2015, Hernandez was registered with the U.S. Department of Labor as a farm labor contractor.

Response to Request for Admission 1:

Denied. Mr. Hernandez was registered with the State of New Jersey as a crew leader, and a copy of his 2015 license from the State is provided as Exhibit 8, but on information and belief, he was not registered with the U.S. Department of Labor as a farm labor contractor.

Request for Admission 2:

Hernandez recruited migrant agricultural workers to work at Sun Valley during 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 2:

Denied. Mr. Hernandez did not recruit migrant agricultural workers to work at Sun Valley during 2015. In 2015, Sun Valley employed local workers, H-2A workers, and domestic workers who had worked at Sun Valley in previous seasons and returned on their own.

Request for Admission 3:

Exhibit G is a true and accurate copy of a document that Hernandez posted at or near 1321 Route 45, South Harrison Township, New Jersey in 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 3:

Admitted in part and denied in part. The Request is improperly vague as to place and time but, to the extent that it can be answered, Mr. Hernandez admits posting this document.

Request for Admission 4:

Hernandez did not disclose in writing to Sun Valley's migrant agricultural workers that Sun Valley would charge those worker a weekly fee for meals in 2015.

Response to Request for Admission 4:

Denied. Sun Valley did not charge any workers a weekly fee for meals in 2015. As such, no such disclosure was required or appropriate.

Request for Admission 5:

In 2015, Hernandez was not licensed to sell beer.

Response to Request for Admission 5:

Admitted in part and denied in part. Mr. Hernandez did not hold any specific license to sell beer but denies any inference that any such license was required, nor that this has any relevance to the issues raised in the Department's determination letter or Order of Reference for this matter.

Request for Admission 6:

In 2015, Hernandez was not licensed to sell cigarettes.

Response to Request for Admission 6:

Admitted in part and denied in part. Sun Valley did not hold any specific license to sell cigarettes but denies any inference that any such license was required, nor that this has any relevance to the issues raised in the Department's determination letter or Order of Reference for this matter.

Pursuant to 29 CFR § 18.61 of the Rules of Practice for Administrative Hearings Before the Office of Administrative Law Judges, Respondents respond to the Administrator and Secretary's First Set of Document Requests as follows:

General Objections

Respondents, Sun Valley Orchard, LLC and Agustin Hernandez, by and through counsel, object generally to each document requests in the First Set of Document Requests as follows:

1. Respondents object to the First Set of Requests for the Production of Documents to the extent they seek information protected against disclosure by the attorney-client privilege, the work-product privilege, or any other rule of privilege or confidentiality provided by law.

2. Respondents' responses to the First Set of Requests for the Production of Documents are based on Respondents' good faith effort to ascertain responsive information to the extent such information is reasonably available. Respondents reserve their rights right to supplement these responses in accordance with 29 CFR §18.53

3. Respondents object to any document request that seeks information that is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative of information that can be obtained through other sources that are more convenient, less burdensome, and less expensive.

4. Respondents object to any document request as to which the burden and expense of responding outweighs its likely proposed benefit, considering the needs of the case, the amount in controversy, the parties' resources, and the importance of the documents requested to the issues before this tribunal.

5. Respondents object to any document requests that describe the documents requested without reasonable particularity.

6. Respondents object to the Document Requests to the extent that they do not relate to the claims in determination letters in this matter. Respondents include within this objection those Requests that may be conditionally relevant unless a proper foundation has been laid at the time of attempted evidentiary use.

7. Respondents object to the "Instructions" to the extent that they purport to impose a duty or duties in excess of that required by 29 CFR § 18.10, et seq., or the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Respondents will comply with the regulations and Federal Rules of Civil Procedure in response to the Discovery Requests.

8. Respondents object to all Requests that assume facts not in evidence.

9. Except for any Request that requests Respondents to apply law to fact, Respondent's responses interpret the words of the Requests in light of their common meaning, rather than any potential technical legal meaning they might have.

10. Respondents' responses to the Document Requests are based on Respondents' best recollection of facts in question and represent a good faith effort to ascertain responsive information to the extent such information is reasonably available. Respondents reserve the right to supplement any responses if it is learned that, in some material respect, a response is incomplete or incorrect and if the additional or corrective information has not otherwise been made known during the discovery process or otherwise.

11. Respondents object to any Document Request that fails to describe the information requested in a reasonably particularized manner. Respondents will attempt to respond to such Requests by attempting to discern what information the Department is seeking and respond to the Request as so interpreted where it is reasonably able to do so.

12. By responding to a Document Request, Respondents do not thereby agree with or otherwise adopt any implicit or explicit characterization of the facts or legal conclusions in such Request. They expressly reserve the right to object to, and challenge, any such characterization whenever advanced.

13. All of the responses contained herein are based only on such information that is currently available to and known to Respondents. It is anticipated that further discovery, independent investigation, legal research and analysis will supply additional facts, add additional meaning to the known facts, as well as establish new factual conclusions and legal contentions, all of which may lead to substantial additions to, changes in and/or variations from responses herein set forth. The following responses are given without prejudice to Respondents' right to produce and introduce at trial evidence of any subsequently discovered facts that they may later develop. The responses contained herein are made in a good faith effort to supply the factual information as is currently known, but in no way subject Respondents to prejudice in relation to further discovery, research or analysis.

14. Respondents expressly reserve all objections to the admissibility at trial or any other proceeding of any of the information or documents they produce in response to the Department's Discovery Requests.

Specific Responses and Objections

Sun Valley

1. Please produce a true, accurate, and complete copy (including any attachments or appendices) of the Application for Temporary Employment Certification signed by Russell Marino, Jr. and filed by Sun Valley with the U.S. Department of Labor for the period of employment of April 13, 2015 to October 10, 2015.

Response: Subject to the objections set forth above, Sun Valley provides the document requested (ETA Form 9142) in this Request as Exhibit 1.

2. Please produce a true, accurate, and complete copy (including any attachments or appendices) of the Application for Temporary Employment Certification signed by Russell Marino, Jr. and filed by Sun Valley with the U.S. Department of Labor for the period of employment of June 1, 2015 to October 10, 2015.

Response: Subject to the objections set forth above, Sun Valley provides the document requested (ETA Form 9142) in this Request as Exhibit 2.

3. If Sun Valley does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 1, please provide a true, accurate and complete copy of each Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order (ETA Form 790) filed by Sun Valley with the U.S. Department of Labor for the period of employment of April 13, 2015 to October 10, 2015, together with any appendices or other documents filed therewith.

Response: Sun Valley admitted Request 1.

4. If Sun Valley does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 2, please provide a true, accurate and complete copy of each Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order (ETA Form 790) filed by Sun Valley with the U.S. Department of Labor for the period of employment of June 1, 2015 to October 10, 2015, together with any appendices or other documents filed therewith.

Response: Sun Valley admitted Request 2.

5. If Sun Valley does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 3, please provide a true, accurate and complete copy of any documents comprising any written work contract regarding terms or conditions of employment between Sun Valley and its domestic workers or H-2A workers, apart from the documents attached to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions as Exhibits A-B.

Response: No such document exists.

6. Please produce a true, accurate, and complete copy of Sun Valley's earnings records for April 13, 2015 to October 2015. This Request does not seek copies of the documents already attached as Exhibit C to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions.

Response: Exhibit C represents such a copy.

7. If Sun Valley does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 8, please produce any documents Sun Valley created and kept during 2015 that fulfilled or concern the requirement of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(j)(3) that an employer's "records must state the reason or reasons" why "the number of hours worked by the worker on a day during the work contract period is less than the number of hours offered, as specified in the job order."

Response: Sun Valley produces herewith documents reflecting the voluntary early resignation of 19 H-2A workers as Exhibits 3. Sun Valley also produces a series of documents reflecting notices provided to USCIS, DOL's Chicago National Processing Center, and the NJ SWA of the departure of various groups of H-2A employees and acknowledgments from DOL of some of those notices as Exhibits 4.1 through 4.11.

9. Please produce any documents Sun Valley created and kept during 2015 that fulfilled or concern the requirement of 20 C.F.R. § 655.122(j)(1) that an employer keep "records showing ... the amount of and reasons for any and all deductions taken from ... workers' wages." This request does not seek copies of the documents already attached as Exhibits C-D to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions.

Response: Sun Valley denies that any deductions were taken – each pay check reflects the full amount of pay owed to each worker. Any further payments by the workers to other parties are not deductions. No additional documents beyond those in Exhibits C-D are available.

10. If Sun Valley does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Requests 11 and 12, please produce any documents concerning any charges paid to Sun Valley by its domestic workers and H-2A workers for meals during 2015.

Response: No charges were paid to Sun Valley by its domestic workers and H-2A workers for meals during 2015. By way of further response, Sun Valley hereby produces documents reflecting utility charges (water, electricity, and gas) related to the operation of its kitchen facilities in 2015 as Exhibit 5.

11. Please produce any documents that Sun Valley created and kept during 2015 concerning the costs to Sun Valley for food, beverages, or other items sold or re-sold (not including three daily meals) to its domestic workers and H-2A workers during 2015. This request does not seek copies of the documents already attached as Exhibit E to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions.

Response: Sun Valley did not sell or re-sell any food, beverages, or other items to any of its workers in 2015, so no such documents exist.

12. Please produce any documents – including but not limited to any notebooks or ledgers maintained by Hernandez – concerning Sun Valley's sale or re-sale of food, beverages, or other items (not including three daily meals) to its domestic workers and H-2A workers during 2015.

Response: Sun Valley did not sell or re-sell any food, beverages, or other items to any of its workers in 2015, so no such documents exist.

13. If Sun Valley does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 21, please produce any documents showing Sun Valley was licensed to sell beer during 2015.

Response: No such document exists, and Sun Valley did not sell beer during 2015.

14. If Sun Valley does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 24, please produce any documents showing Sun Valley was licensed to sell cigarettes during 2015.

Response: No such document exists, and Sun Valley did not sell cigarettes during 2015.

15. If Sun Valley does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 27, please produce any documents showing the date that the building at 1321 Route 45 in South Harrison Township, New Jersey was constructed.

Response: Sun Valley has no such documents.

16. Please produce all documents or communications concerning Respondents' practices or policies to ensure that drivers who transported Sun Valley's domestic workers and H-2A workers in motor vehicles between 2005 and 2015 had proper licenses or permits to operate those vehicles in New Jersey.

Response: Sun Valley objects to this request as overly broad, covering a time period far beyond the scope of this matter. Without waiving that objection, Sun Valley has no documents responsive to this request.

17. Please produce all documents or communications concerning Respondents' practices or policies for ensuring the safety of any vehicles used to transport Sun Valley's domestic workers and H-2A workers between 20015 and 2015.

Response: Sun Valley objects to this request as overly broad, covering a time period far beyond the scope of this matter. Without waiving that objection, Sun Valley has no documents responsive to this request beyond the safety inspection records maintained by its mechanic and previously produced to the Department.

18. Please produce all documents or communications concerning Respondents' practices or policies for ensuring that buildings used to house Sun Valley's domestic workers and H-2A workers between 2005 and 2015 met applicable health and safety standards.

Response: Sun Valley objects to this request as overly broad, covering a time period far beyond the scope of this matter. Without waiving that objection, Sun Valley produces with this response records showing housing inspections and construction projects to upgrade worker housing as Exhibits 6a, 6b, 6c for the inspection reports and Exhibit 7 for improvements.

19. Please produce any documents concerning any payment by Sun Valley to any workers for the purpose of satisfying the three-fourths guarantee during 2015.

Response: All of the payments by Sun Valley to its workers in 2015 achieved the purpose of satisfying the three-fourths guarantee during 2015 and are already included in Exhibit C to the Department's Request for Admissions. Beyond the payroll records, no such documents exist.

20. Please produce all documents or communications concerning the reasons for departure from Sun Valley before October 10, 2015 of any domestic workers or H-2A workers employed at Sun Valley at any time during 2015 and who departed Sun Valley before October 10, 2015.

Response: See Exhibits 3 and 4.1-4.11.

21. Please produce all documents or communications concerning any written disclosure to Respondents' migrant agricultural workers that Sun Valley would charge those workers a weekly fee for three daily meals during 2015.

Response: Sun Valley objects to this Request to the extent that it assumes that Sun Valley charged a weekly fee for meals or any other fee for meals – it did not. As such, no such documents exist.

22. Apart from Exhibit G to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, please produce any written statements that Respondents used to provide Respondents' migrant agricultural workers with the disclosures required by 29 C.F.R. § 500.75(f).

Response: Upon information and belief, any migrant agricultural workers were provided with a copy of the applicable job order (Exhibit A or B to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions) via email. Sun Valley continues to work to locate copies of those emails but not are provided with this response. By way of further response, 3 domestic workers were hired through the SWA recruitment posting and would have received the job order (Exhibit A or B) that way.

23. To the extent not produced in response to the above Document Requests, please produce:

a. All documents that were reviewed in formulating the responses to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions;

b. All documents that were reviewed in formulating the responses to the Department's First Set of Interrogatories;

c. All documents Sun Valley listed in its initial disclosures dated February 15, 2017; and

d. All documents Sun Valley may use to support its claims or defenses at any hearing in this matter.

Response: In addition to the documents already referenced above and provided by the Department with its First Set of Requests for Admissions, Sun Valley also reviewed Agustin Hernandez's farm labor contractor license from the State of New Jersey (Exhibit 8), a payroll summary of the 7 workers for whom the Department is claiming three-fourths guarantee liability beyond the 19 identified in Exhibit 3 (Exhibit 9), and the Federal Register notice from February 2015 setting that year's allowable meal charge at $11.86 per worker per day (Ex. 10). Sun Valley specifically reserves its right to supplement this list as additional documents are reviewed or become available.

Agustin Hernandez

1. Please produce any documents – including but not limited to any notebooks or ledgers maintained by Hernandez – concerning Sun Valley's sale or re-sale of food, beverages, or other items (not including three daily meals) to its domestic workers and H-2A workers during 2015. This request does not seek copies of the documents already attached as Exhibit E to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions.

Response: Sun Valley did not sell or re-sell any such items to its domestic or H-2A workers during 2015, so no such documents exist.

2. Please produce all documents or communications concerning any written disclosure to Respondents' migrant agricultural workers that Sun Valley would charge those workers a weekly fee for three daily meals during 2015.

Response: Mr. Hernandez objects to this request on a number of grounds: (1) he did not have any migrant agricultural workers during 2015, so the reference to "Respondents" is misplaced; (2) Sun Valley did not charge its workers a fee for three daily meals during 2015; and (3) any disclosures to workers regarding the terms and conditions of employment would have been made by their employer, Sun Valley Orchards and not by Mr. Hernandez. Thus, Mr. Hernandez does not possess any documents responsive to this request.

3. Apart from Exhibit G to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, please produce any written statements that Respondents used to provide Respondents' migrant agricultural workers with the disclosures required by 29 C.F.R. § 500.75(f).

Response: See Response to Request #2, above.

4. If Hernandez does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 5, please produce any documents showing Hernandez was licensed to sell beer during 2015.

Response: No such documents exist.

5. If Hernandez does not fully admit without objection the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions, Request 6, please produce any documents showing Hernandez was licensed to sell cigarettes during 2015.

Response: No such documents exist.

6. To the extent not produced in response to the above Document Requests, please produce:

a. All documents that were reviewed in formulating the responses to the Department's First Set of Requests for Admissions;

b. All documents that were reviewed in formulating the responses to the Department's First Set of Interrogatories;

c. All documents Hernandez listed in his initial disclosures date February 15, 2017; and

d. All documents Hernandez may use to support his claims or defenses at any hearing in this matter.

Response: All responsive documents have been provided or identified above.

EXAMINATION OF HUGO LEONEL CINTA TEGOMA

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Does anyone have a cell phone near the phone because we're getting a little static reception? 03:44PM

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMA: Yes, we also have a bit of an issue with a sound. There's a popping sound constantly ongoing. If you could just give us one minute so we can figure out whether it's the cell phones in the room or something else. 03:45PM

(Discussion held off the record.)

MR. SCHULTE: While we're getting ready, is now a good chance -- on the transcript ordering to cover that now? The same arrangement, if we can do non-expedited just regular transcript will be great. Thank you. 03:45PM

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Do you think we can move the camera a little bit up because we're 03:45PM

Q. Anything else?
A. No, because it was the season for asparagus.
Q. Did you have -- were there bathrooms in the fields? 04:01PM
A. No.
Q. So how did you relieve yourself?
A. It was a complete odyssey. We had to either hold it or run towards the trees. 04:02PM
Q. Was there water in the fields?
A. No, there wasn't any water.
Q. All right. Let me change the subject a little bit and talk about food. How did you eat at Sun Valley? 04:02PM
A. Mr. Agustin would sell us food.
Q. Did he sell you a weekly meal plan or food by the item or how was that arrangement?
A. It was a weekly arrangement. We had to pay for our meals weekly. 04:03PM
Q. Did Agustin sell anything else to the workers?
A. Yes. He would sell soda, Red Bull, Monster, beer, bread, milk, water and coffee.
Q. Can you repeat that list? I didn't quite 04:04PM break we would buy that drink or another one which is called Honey.

Q. So, when would your day start in the field? 04:11PM

A. 6:00, 6:30 a.m. or 7:00 a.m.

Q. And would you ever buy a drink in the afternoon?

A. Not any more because he would take some water. 04:12PM

Q. I'm sorry. Can you repeat that?

A. Not any more because he would take some water.

Q. Are you saying that towards the end -- towards the beginning you would buy a drink in the afternoon? 04:12PM

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Mischaracterizing.

INTERPRETER DE LA GARMA ROMA: The interpreter needs clarification. Can you please explain what you mean? 04:12PM

Q. Can you explain what you mean by towards the end there would be water?

A. After 12:00 he would bring some water.

Q. Is that why you wouldn't bring -- is that 04:12PM fridges and also in the house, in the small house that I told you about.

Q. I'd like to ask you a little bit about the housing facilities. 04:26PM

A. Okay.

Q. Can you tell me, in general, what was the housing like?

A. The housing was a big space, like a big room and 30 to 36 people were living there. 04:27PM

Q. And what was it like?

A. What was it like in what way?

Q. Was it a good place to stay? Was it a bad place? How did you feel about it?

A. In my experience, it was a bad place. 04:27PM For me, it was a bad place.

Q. What was bad about it?

A. The beds, they were bunk beds and we didn't have any mattresses.

Q. What about the bathrooms? 04:28PM

A. They had the worst condition.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. Well, the water that you use to take a shower, the water smelled bad. And they didn't clean the toilets. They would maybe sweep, but they 04:28PM

A. They just took us to the field. That was it.

Q. During your time at Sun Valley, did you ever leave the farm? 04:30PM

A. Yes, but I had to pay to go out.

Q. Who did you have to pay?

A. We had to pay to worker -- I'm not sure if he was a cousin or a relative of Agustin.

Q. How much did it cost? 04:31PM

A. At that time I think I paid $15.

Q. How many times did you leave Sun Valley during your course of employment?

A. I think that it was twice.

Q. Sorry. How much was it the two different times? How much did you have to pay? 04:31PM

A. I think that the first time I paid $10 and the second time it was 15. And it was the same thing for washing clothes. If I wanted to wash clothes, I had to pay so they would take me to the laundry. So I decided to wash my clothes by myself in the field? 04:32PM

Q. I'd like to talk to you a little bit about the end of your employment with Sun Valley.

Whose decision was it that you leave the 04:32PM yelling at everyone and saying bad words and then I decided to speak with him.

Q. What happened next?

A. I can speak a little bit of English. So what I did was to express that I was grateful for the opportunity, but I also told him that I wanted him to change the conditions and I could see that he got goosebumps all over his skin. And he gets -- and he got truly upset after that. He actually tried to beat me. He didn't beat me but he tried to do so. And he's a very strong and tall guy. 04:41PM 04:42PM

So, he told us that we were lazy and that he had paid for us and he paid so we would go there to work. He also told us that he could buy more people and he could pay for more people. That's when he took the position to send us back to Mexico. 04:43PM

And, well, we had to pay for the transportation and that's when I told him that he had to pay for that because he was the one that fired us not because we quit. And that's the complaint that I gave him. So then Agustin and Mr. Russell planned an agreement. They gave it to us. We signed it and we had to pay to come back. 04:43PM

Q. I want to step back a little bit. So, 04:44PM

Russell called you all lazy and then what happened, just step by step? What happened next in the meeting?

A. Well, that was it. He called us lazy. He told us that we didn't want to work and, again, I want to repeat this. He told us that he paid for us and that we didn't want to work. 04:44PM

Q. Did you have any choice about staying or leaving? 04:45PM

A. No. He just said, the ones that are staying will give me more or the same as what I'm offering.

Q. Would you have been willing to stay and keep cutting asparagus? 04:45PM

A. Well, if he had accepted the conditions for us to work, I would have gladly stayed there to work.

Q. How many hours a week were you willing to cut the asparagus? 04:46PM

A. Eleven, 12, 13 hours.

Q. Is that per day or per week or how long?

A. Per day. Per day.

Q. What was it that you needed to change or wanted to change? 04:47PM

A. That they didn't ask us to work as machines. Well, we're human beings. I know we're workers, but every time I get a job, I try to give my best. 04:47PM

Q. What did you want changed about the work?

A. Well, not about the work itself. But more about the mindset, because they thought we were -- they didn't think we were people. They thought we were like animals and that we had to work nonstop. 04:48PM

Q. At the end of this meeting, did you feel like you had the option of staying?

A. No. Not at all, because he always thought he could buy more people to go to work. 04:48PM

Q. Did you have to sign -- sorry. Strike that.

Did you sign anything before you left Sun Valley?

A. Yes. 04:49PM

Q. What did you sign?

A. That I was leaving because I have family problems. He told us that was the only option that we had for us to get the money to come back to Mexico. 04:49PM

Q. Sorry. What money was that?
A. Money for transportation.
Q. Who said that?
A. What? 04:49PM
Q. Who told you that you needed to sign the form to get money for the transportation?
A. Agustin.
Q. Did you return home because a family member was sick? 04:50PM
A. No. I came back home because of the situation we're talking about.
Q. Had any family member of yours died around that time?
A. No, not at all. 04:50PM
Q. Had any family member been injured around that time?
A. No.
MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: I need to take a short break, just a couple of minutes. 04:51PM
INTERPRETER ERRASTI: Sure.
(A recess was taken from 4:51 p.m. to 4:54 p.m.)
Q. I want to ask you a few more questions. So, who spoke during this meeting other than 04:54PM

Cinta Tegoma

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Asked and answered.

A. I was fired.

Q. Did someone tell you you were fired? 06:06PM

A. No. Because if I had quit, I would have chosen the option that said that the work slowed down so I wanted to return. And I instead chose the option a family member was sick so I had to return home. 06:07PM

Q. Why do you say you were fired?

A. Because of what Agustin and Russell thought, that we were very lazy.

Q. Did Agustin tell you you could keep working or you had to stop working? 06:07PM

A. He took me out of the field one time.

Q. So, in the meeting, the meeting that we were speaking about earlier, did Russell or Agustin tell you that you had to go back to Mexico?

A. Yes. 06:08PM

Q. What did they tell you about that?

A. That we were lazy, that we didn't like to work and that we should go back to Mexico.

Q. After they said that, did you think you could keep working there? 06:08PM

A. Yes. We asked for the opportunity to continue to work there because we were there for work, but he said no. And then we told him if he had said no, then he should give us our money so that we could go back. 06:09PM

Q. What money was that?

A. For transportation.

Q. Did they pay for that transportation?

A. They gave us some money, but we had to sign this. 06:09PM

Q. Do you know why they paid for your transportation?

A. To my understanding, it's because it wasn't very convenient for them that we made a fuss about it. 06:10PM

Q. Earlier -- and thank you. I just want to jump back for a moment. Earlier during the video conference did Jason or I or Jose say anything about your hotel being paid for? 06:10PM

A. It was a possibility of those expenses could be covered.

Q. Did we say that or did you learn that from someone else?

A. Ms. Julia told me. 06:11PM

THE COURT: I will swear Mr. Garcia Dominguez.

I'm Theresa Timlin. I'm the administrative law judge that's going to decide the case you're going to testify today. I will not be with you all day. I'm here for a very little portion. My job is to swear you in to make sure you tell the truth. I need you to raise your right hand for me, Mr. Garcia Dominguez. 10:07 10:08

HECTOR MISHEL GARCIA DOMINGUEZ, of lawful age, called by the The U.S. Department of Labor, Office of the Solicitor for examination pursuant to 29 C.F.R. Section 18.64, having been first duly sworn by Administrative Law Judge Theresa C. Timlin, as hereinafter certified, was examined and testified through the Interpreter as follows:

A. At 8:00.
Q. What kind of drink?
A. Orange and carrot.
Q. The soft drinks that Agustin sold, how much did you pay for them? 10:25
A. Soft drinks were $1.
Q. What about the juices?
A. Juices were $5.
Q. How much were the Gatorades that you purchased from Agustin? 10:26
A. They were $2.
Q. How much were the Monsters that you purchased from Agustin?
A. It was probably to 50 to $60 in soft drinks. 10:26
MR. GLICK: Objection.
Nonresponsive answer.
Q. I want to make sure my question is clear.
How much did the Monster drinks cost that you purchased from Agustin? 10:27
A. It was $4.
Q. During the time you worked at Sun Valley, how often would you purchase five showers, there was even mud on the showers.

Q. Was there hot water in the bathrooms?
A. Yes, there was hot water, but it wasn't enough for everyone. Only maybe ten people would shower with warm water. 10:48
Q. Were there windows in the bathrooms?
A. No. There weren't any windows.
Q. What about the windows in the housing, I think you said that they were covered in a certain way? 10:49
A. They had screens for mosquitos. There was no glass on them. Only the top portion of the window was a glass. But the other part of the window was just a screen. 10:49
Q. How did you travel between the housing and the fields at Sun Valley?
A. Well, there were buses to take us to the fields, some of the fields, but other fields were just in -- around our housing, so we would walk to them. They were close and for those that were far away, we would use buses. 10:50
Q. The ones where you used the buses, about how many days a week did you use the for him for the work.

Q. When did Agustin say that you weren't useful for the work?

A. It was during the second week.

Q. What happened during the second week? 10:58

A. Well, because some of us had a backache and we were tired. Some of us told him we could not work the rest of the day because we were not feeling that well. 10:59

Q. What happened after that?

A. Well, I think that maybe Agustin told Russell about it and then Russell came to the field and instead of asking us what is going on or how we felt or to find out about us, he was very upset and he was aggressive and he was shouting and he asked what is it that we wanted. 11:00

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Nonresponsive and speculative. 11:00

Q. How long after you had the backache and stopped working did Russell come talk to you?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. He never

Q. Did that worker say anything else at that meeting?

INTERPRETER ERRASTI: Thank you.

A. He told us why is Agustin forcing you to work all this extra overtime. He told us, what, are you machines? Then the boss said that if others could keep working and doing this job, why couldn't we. He said this pain we felt, it was noting at all. It was just a minor back pain. 11:20

Q. After the boss said that, what happened next?

A. Russell was still very upset and he didn't listen to what we told him. We just -- we're not good for this job. Why can't we get a different job. 11:20

Q. At that meeting did you personally say that you wanted to quit Sun Valley?

A. No.

Q. At that meeting, did you hear any other workers say that they wanted to quit Sun Valley? 11:21

A. No. It was just like Russell decided, making that decision and then we would left -- we would have to leave.

Q. How did you know that that was Russell's decision?
A. Because well I think Russell and Agustin talked about this and we -- they probably decided we were not useful and not good for the job. 11:22
MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Same speculation as before and nonresponsive.
Q. Did Russell say anything to you that day that made you believe that you could not stand work at Sun Valley? 11:22
A. Yes, he just told us we were totally useless.
Q. Was there anything else that Russell said that day that made you think you couldn't work at Sun Valley any more? 11:22
A. I don't remember.
Q. After that meeting at Sun Valley that day, were you able to stay and work at Sun Valley? 11:23
A. We did not work after that meeting. Agustin told us we were going to get paid that we worked for and that was it and then we had to leave.

Q. Did Agustin tell you anything else?

A. No. That was it.

Q. Who else, if anyone, did Agustin tell that to? 11:24

A. He told this to the other persons that were in the meeting as well.

Q. Do you know if any of those other people who were at the meeting that day continued to work at Sun Valley after that 11:24 meeting?

A. The ones that were in the fields, they kept working, but the ones that were present in the meeting, we did not work any more. 11:24

Q. Who was it that gave you document to sign?

A. It was Agustin.

Q. When did he give you that document?

A. It was two or three days after we 11:25 stopped working.

Q. What did you do for those two or three days?

A. We did not work.

Q. Where were you when Agustin gave you that document?
A. We were at the dorms.
Q. What did Agustin say when he gave you that document? 11:26
A. He told us that Russell sent us those documents and we would go and then sign them.
Q. Did Agustin say anything else?
A. No. 11:26
Q. Did you sign the document?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember how you filled out the document?
A. I had just to select one option that 11:26
I would come back to Mexico.
Q. Which option did you select?
A. I selected the option that I was coming back to Mexico because of personal reasons. 11:27
Q. Why did you select that option?
A. Well, Agustin told us that that was a convenient option for us to choose because we would leave the country in a peaceful way and we wouldn't cause any trouble to the company nor to us.

Q. Did you leave Sun Valley for personal reasons?

A. No. 11:28

Q. Why did you leave Sun Valley?

A. Because Russell decided that we were not worth for the job.

Q. Do you remember if last year you told an investigator from the U.S. Department 11:28 of Labor that the reason you left Sun Valley was because the work conditions were different than the contract?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. Are you impeaching your witness? 11:28

A. Yes.

Q. Did you leave Sun Valley because the work conditions were different than the contract?

A. Yes. 11:29

Q. Did you leave Sun Valley for any other reasons?

A. No, because of the conditions of the contract and the job.

A. No.
Q. Did he tell you which box to check on that form?
A. Yes.
Q. Who told you that? 11:35
A. Agustin.
Q. The question was did Russell Marino ever tell you what to do with the form.
A. No. He didn't mention anything.
Q. Do you know what Sun Valley would do with the form after it was completed? 11:36
A. No. I have no idea.
Q. Do you know if it would be sent to the government?
A. No. I have no idea. 11:36
Q. You have worked in the H2A program in years other than 2015, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know what would happen if an H2A worker reported that he couldn't do the job? 11:37
A. No.
Q. How many years have you worked in the H2A program?

where I live, about what it looks like and what grows in the place where I live and just that.

Q. Other than the meeting that we talked about earlier, that 10:00 a.m. meeting, did you ever complain to anyone in the Marino family about the work? 12:32

A. No.

Q. About the housing?

A. No because nobody would pay us any visits. Not even Marino would go. 12:32

Q. Did you ever ask to speak with them?

A. Well, we would ask if he could come to the fields so we could speak with him about the conditions. Me and my coworkers, but Agustin said he didn't have time for that. 12:33

Q. How many times did you ask for him to come to the fields?

A. Just once.

Q. When was that?

A. Well, during the time that we worked there. 12:33

Q. Near the beginning of the time you worked there or near the time when people didn't work in that afternoon, the last day?

Q. For transportation?
A. No, not to the company.
Q. Did the company ever tell you to buy those things from Agustin?
MR. GLICK: Objection. Confusing. 12:36
A. No. But it was impossible to buy from anywhere else because there was no means of transportation to get somewhere else to buy things and we couldn't use the kitchen to cook because the kitchen was always being used by 12:37 somebody else.
Q. Did you ever ask to use the kitchen?
A. Well, we asked Agustin whether we could use the kitchen to cook, but he said that there was no other place for us to buy things 12:37 because there was no means of transportation to get somewhere to buy things.
Q. Did Sun Valley deduct any amounts from your paycheck for meals or drinks?
A. No. 12:38
Q. How did you pay for those? In cash or by check?
A. Cash.
Q. If you had the choice between

A. Because we were tired from our backs and it was aching.

Q. What would have had to change at Sun Valley for you to continue working there cutting asparagus? 12:45

MR. SCHULTE: Objection.

Speculation.

A. Well, maybe if we had been given another option, such as maybe collecting other vegetables or maybe planting, in the 12:45 plantation, that's what the other workers were doing. Us, the ones that were hired, we were just picking asparagus and maybe there were other jobs that were easier.

Q. Were you willing to stay at Sun 12:46 Valley spending some of your time cutting asparagus and some of your time doing other jobs?

A. Yes.

Q. How many hours a week were you 12:46 willing to work cutting asparagus at Sun Valley?

A. At least 40 hours.

Q. How many hours were you working at Sun Valley cutting asparagus?

A. Well, it was seven days approximately each day during ten or 12 hours.

Q. Earlier you testified that you had spoken with me prior to today. Do you remember that? 12:47

A. Yes.

Q. Did we also meet through this video conference system yesterday?

A. Yes. 12:47

Q. Was anyone else in the room with me yesterday as far as you know?

A. Yes.

Q. Who else?

A. Investigator Mr. José Perez. There was somebody else. I do not remember the last name of that person, but his name is Jacob. 12:48

MR. GLICK: I have no further questions at this time. But maybe Mr. Schulte does. 12:48

A. He wanted us to work faster and he wouldn't let us rest.

Q. How do you know he wanted you to work faster?

Q. How do you know he didn't want you to rest?
A. Because he was always asking us to produce more. 03:13
Q. What did he mean to produce more?
A. Because we cut asparagus, but he wouldn't tell us whether we had to do it by the hour or based on how much we produce.

Q. Could you explain what it was like cutting asparagus at Sun Valley? 03:14 just a part of your body?

A. The whole body. There were no doors.
Q. Was there hot water in the bathroom?

A. Sometimes.
Q. What times was there not hot water?
A. Well, we were a lot in those rooms so water was not enough and we had to wait for someone to take a shower and then it would be us. 03:54

A. Yes, I think it was twice.
Q. Were the bathrooms clean? 03:55
A. No. Not very clean, but...

A. We had to ask for permission and we would have to walk to the dorms. That's where the bathrooms were.
Q. Did Agustin always give you

Junior was yelling and waving his hands, do you know what he was saying?

A. No. I honestly don't know because I don't understand English.

Q. Did you speak to Mr. Marino Junior during that morning? 04:11

A. No. We were not able to talk to him and we didn't settle anything. He just said whatever he said and then he left and then Agustin spoke to us. 04:12

Q. Did any of your coworkers speak to Mr. Marino Junior that morning?

A. No.

Q. Before that morning, did you or any of your coworkers plan to tell Mr. Marino Junior anything if you had the opportunity to do so? 04:12

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who it was who planned to speak with Mr. Marino Junior if they had the opportunity? 04:13

A. It was a group of 21 people and we told Agustin that we wanted to talk to Mr. Marino in order to know whether we were being paid by the hour or by the amount of production.

Q. Was there anything else that you told Agustin that you wanted to talk to Mr. Marino Junior about? 04:14

A. No. We only wanted to speak about work related topic.

Q. Any other work related topics that you wanted to speak to Mr. Marino Junior about?

A. We just wanted to know how we were getting paid, if it was by the hour or by how much we produced. 04:14

Q. Anything else you wanted to talk about?

A. Only about that because the paycheck didn't say whether we were being paid by the hour or by how much we produced. We just saw the final amount that we got paid. 04:14

Q. When did you tell Agustin that you wanted to speak to Mr. Marino Junior about that pay issue? 04:15

A. When we got the first paycheck because we would work the same number of hours, but some would get paid more and some would get paid less.

Q. Did you ever have an opportunity to ask Mr. Marino Junior about that pay issue?

A. No.

Q. During the meeting where Mr. Marino Junior was present, what did Agustin translate Mr. Marino as saying? 04:16

A. First he said that that's the reason why he didn't want to tell anything to the boss because the boss was very grumpy and he didn't want to deal with the workers. That's the reason Agustin was there, to be in charge. 04:16

Q. What else did Agustin translate Mr. Marino Junior as saying during that meeting? 04:17

A. He said that we had been fired. That we only had to wait so we got our paychecks and they were going to bring some papers that we had to sign so we didn't have any problems whenever we wanted to work in the USA. 04:17

Q. Do you know the name of the coworker that Mr. Marino Junior pushed that day?

A. I don't remember the name of that

Q. Was anyone else there at that time?
A. Just the group of people that was there, that we were there together.
Q. How many people were in that group?
A. 21. 04:28
Q. Did you sign that paper?
A. Yes.
Q. Was the boss there when you signed it?
A. No. He was not there. Only Agustin was. 04:28
Q. Other than signing the paper, did you fill out anything else on that paper?
A. No. He filled in everything for us and we only signed. 04:29
Q. Do you know who filled in the rest of that paper?
A. No. We didn't see who signed them because he arrived in his truck and he took the papers from his truck and he called out our names and then gave us the documents and said we had to sign them, but I didn't see who filled in the document. 04:29
Q. Did you choose to leave Sun Valley

A. No.
Q. I want to make sure the question was clear. I'm asking about a conversation that Mr. Cervantes, you and I, had by phone last week. Do you remember if anyone else was on the phone? 05:30
A. Yes. José Perez.
Q. Do you remember whether Julia was on the telephone?
A. Yes, I think so. 05:30
Q. Did you have the choice whether to stay at Sun Valley and work picking other vegetables?
A. Yes.
Q. I'm not sure that the question was correctly translated so I'm going to ask it again. 05:31
Did you have the choice to stay at and work at Sun Valley and pick other vegetables? 05:31
A. No. The contract said something else, but when we got there at Sun Valley, it was just asparagus and that was it.
Q. If you could have stayed at Sun

Valley and kept picking asparagus, would you have stayed there?

A. Yes.

MR. GLICK: I have no further questions at this time. 05:32

MR. SCHULTE: Nothing more for me, thank you.

THE REPORTER: I assume you're ordering a copy of the transcript regular delivery? 05:32

MR. SCHULTE: Precisely right. Thank you.

MR. GLICK: Mr. Cervantes, thank you for taking the time today. I'm going to turn off the recording at this time. 12:55

EXAMINATION OF DARIO MORALES ACOSTA

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. My name is Jacob Heyman-Kantor. I am an attorney for the plaintiffs. With me today is Jason Glick. He's also an attorney for the Department of Labor. We represent the Secretary of Labor in the matter of Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, 2017-TAE-00003.

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you repeat

Q. Were you -- did you quit or were you fired?

A. There was a sheet that we were given that we had to sign where it said that there wasn't enough work for us any more.

Q. Did you quit or were you fired?

A. I would assume I was fired.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: I'm passing to the court reporter a document which I'd like you to mark as Exhibit 20.

(Exhibit 20, Dario Morales Acosta's departure form, marked for identification, as of this date.)

Q. Mr. Morales Acosta, you should have a folder labeled 20 or Exhibit 20 on the table. Can you please take a look at that? Can you please hold that up to the camera so we can verify that you have the right document?

(Witness complied.)

Q. A little bit closer?

(Witness complied.)

Q. Okay. Thank you. We have the right document. It's Exhibit 20. Is that your signature on the document?

A. Yes.

Q. Why did you sign the document?

A. I signed it because Russell Marino said it was necessary for us to sign this document so we could return to Mexico.

Q. Why did you complete this document the way it's completed?

A. Because we had to fill it out to get on the bus.

Q. Were any instructions given to you about how to fill it out?

A. Yes, they said -- yes, we were indicated to mark the line one before last.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: I'm sorry. Repeat that last thing, interpreter, please?

INTERPRETER JENKINS: They were supposed to select the one before last line.

Q. Who said that?

A. Agustin, the foreman.

Q. Just to clarify, when you say the one before last, do you mean the line where there is sort of some circular sort of checked off squiggle on the left side of the page?

A. Yes.

EXAMINATION OF MIGUEL ANGEL ELIZONDO SOTO

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Good afternoon. My name is Jacob

Q. How was this arrangement explained to you?

A. Agustin did it.

Q. What did he say?

A. From the moment in which we arrived, he told us we needed to pay 80 U.S. for the meals and that any soda also needed to be paid for.

Q. When would you pay him?

INTERPRETER GARCIA: Would you repeat this for me, sir?

Q. When did you pay Agustin the $80?

A. Every time I received a check.

Q. When did you receive checks?

A. Every eight days, every week.

Q. How long did you participate in this meal plan?

A. A bit over one month and a half.

Q. What did you do after that month and a half?

A. Some of the coworkers got together and bought a little grill and I saw that they were able to do their own cooking in that grill, so I joined them.

Q. Where did they use the grill?

A. Inside the room.

Q. Was this in the room where you slept or a different room?

A. Yes, in the room where we had our bedroom because we were not allowed to go to the kitchen.

Q. Why weren't you allowed to go in the kitchen?

A. Agustin had his business in the kitchen. His business was the store and we were not allowed to go into the kitchen.

Q. How do you know you weren't allowed to go in the kitchen?

A. A few coworkers and I asked him once if we could go into the kitchen and fix us our dinner and he said no because that's where he has his store and we should not go into the kitchen.

Q. Could you store your food in the kitchen?

A. No. We couldn't access the kitchen.

Q. So, what kind of food did you -- were you -- did you eat after that month and a half?

A. We would eat beans, chicken, rice, zucchini, eggplant, eggs.

Q. I'd like to talk to you about during that first month and a half -- rather, I'd like to talk also use bad words and we didn't like that.

Also, the food that we had to pay. We had to pay 80 U.S. per week. And meals did not include beverages. We had to buy them separate. We thought that that was very unfair, but we couldn't do anything about it because we didn't have a kitchen. So we had no other choice but to do what the foreman said.

The first day that we arrived, bathrooms were very, very dirty. We had to clean them ourselves because we didn't like it. The beds on which we had to sleep were also very dirty. Some of my workmates got very sick with chicken pox because the beds were very dirty. The company did not take them to the hospital or anything and they had to pay for their own medicine. One of the coworkers that got sick with chicken pox, his father went to the United States to get him and brought him back.

Like two days after we arrived where we were already working, two or three people left and went somewhere else to find another job because they didn't like it there. So that was a typical day of work. And we would complain about it with the foreman, but he would just say that that was what

A. No, it was the same.
Q. When you bought beer from Agustin, how many beers would you buy in a day?
A. Just one or two.
Q. What kind of beer did you buy from Agustin?
A. Bud Light and Budweiser.
Q. How much did those cost?
A. Canned beer cost 1.50. No, I'm not sure. Maybe it was two, two.
Q. Where at Sun Valley did Agustin store that beer?
A. In that same place, in the kitchen.
Q. Where in the kitchen?
A. He had a separate refrigerator just for beer and the other refrigerators were for the other drinks.
Q. Did you ever see that refrigerator for the beer?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you see it?
A. When we would go to pay for our food or when we would go to buy a drink, they were just right there, next to each other.

RUSSELL MARINO, JR., having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Mr. Marino, good morning.

A. Good morning.

Q. Do you understand that you are under an oath and must answer my questions truthfully and to the best of your ability?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you understand this is the same oath that you would take in court?

A. Yes.

Q. So my name is Jacob Heyman-Kantor I'm here with my co-counsel, Jason Glick and I'm an attorney with the US Department of Labor, Office of the Solicitor and we represent the administrator of the Wage and Hour division in the matter of Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, 2017-TAE-00003. And we also represent the Secretary in the same matter of Agustin Hernandez, doing business as Agustin Hernandez

Q. All right. Let's talk about the actual meals. So what is the arrangement? How do workers eat?

A. They're offered a meal plan for their breakfast, lunch and dinner that they can participate in or they can choose not to. Yeah, I mean that's pretty much the gist of it I guess.

Q. Who offers the meal plan?

A. Agustin does.

Q. And how much does he charge for it?

A. Again, I believe that varies, I don't know the exact answer to that. I know it's a weekly charge and whatever the -- what's it AR or AWR, whatever that acronym is, it never exceeds that. It's usually well below that.

Q. Are you referring to the adverse effect wage rate?

A. So I guess it's not that. There's a number that they determine, it's, I don't know what it is right now, what the current, I believe it's 12 something or 11 something per day and it's under that. Always is. He knows he cannot exceed that.

Q. How does he know that?
A. He's told, I tell him. Because each year, I believe it changes almost every year, I believe.
Q. So you tell him each year what the new rate is?
A. Yes, I'm sorry.
Q. And did you tell him that in 2015?
A. I'm sure I did.
Q. At the beginning of the season?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you remember in 2015 when you had this conversation with him?
A. No.
Q. And what else did you say to him other than that maximum rate?
A. Nothing.
Q. And what other things -- scratch that. And you said you eat there once, you typically eat there once a week?
A. Maybe a little bit less than that, but typically.
Q. And how much does he charge you?
A. Normally nothing.
Q. Anyone else from Sun Valley

management eat there?
A. No.
Q. Why do you eat there?
A. Comradery with my men.
Q. And how does Agustin determine how much to charge the workers other than going below that maximum rate?
A. He bases it on his cost of buying the supplies, what it costs to prepare it, and there's no profit made and he can't lose money. There's no profit made. So that's what it's based on.
Q. How do you know there's no profit made?
A. I make sure he knows -- he knows the laws. He goes to meetings with me. He knows the laws.
Q. So you've told him that you can't make a profit off this?
A. Yes. And he's been told that at meetings and he understands that.
Q. What meetings are these?
A. Labor meetings that are held throughout the different counties that, you know, prior to the season beginning and there's meetings held.

Q. So he -- these are meetings with the US Department of Labor?

A. Yes.

Q. And he will come to those meetings?

A. Yes.

Q. Will he come with people from Sun Valley management?

A. With me.

Q. And he did this in 2015?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you ask him to come with you to this meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. Why, why did you ask him to come with you?

A. Because he's directly responsible for that.

Q. What do you mean for that?

A. For the meals. I want him to be aware of the rules and regulations.

Q. So how do you -- is he paid during the time that he comes to the meeting?

A. No.

Q. When does the meeting take place?

A. Yes. And he, yes, he keeps all his receipts, yes.

Q. And Sun Valley management has asked him to do that?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that you who asked him to do that?

A. Yes. It's brought up at the meetings that should there be an issue or a question, that's going to have -- that's required. That's the first thing they're going to ask for.

Q. And that is the meetings with the US Department of Labor?

A. Yes.

Q. So in addition to that, there have been other times when you told him, when you told Agustin that he should keep his receipts?

A. Yes.

Q. And has Sun Valley, anyone from Sun Valley Orchards asked to look at those receipts?

A. No.

Q. Never?

A. I don't think so. I haven't.

Q. Okay. So it seems like we have three things now, don't make a profit, don't sell the meals for more than a certain amount, keep your receipts. Is there anything else besides that that Sun Valley Orchards has told him to do with respect to the meals or the kitchen?

A. Just -- no, I don't think so.

Q. It seemed like you were about to say another thing.

A. No, I think that's it.

Q. Now, when did Agustin start being in charge of the kitchen?

A. 2015. Prior to that, he was still in charge of the kitchen, however, we -- yeah, 2015 that he was fully in charge of the kitchen.

Q. And why the change?

A. It just felt like us -- we had nothing to do with it anyway, so we just let him assume all responsibility.

Q. So what was it like before 2015?

A. The only difference was we paid the cooks. That is it. They got a paycheck from Sun Valley. Other than that, nothing changed.

Q. And you said that Agustin tells the workers about this bus?
A. Yes.
Q. Does he tell them about it at orientation?
A. Perhaps.
Q. Have you heard him tell the workers about it?
A. No.
Q. You assume he tells them?
A. Yes.
Q. Has anyone else from Sun Valley Orchards management told the workers?
A. No.
Q. Now, in the dining area, are other things sold other than the meals?
A. I don't know.
Q. Have you ever seen sodas being sold?
A. Mostly Gatorade. I don't know. I don't know of anything else. I mostly see Gatorades.
Q. Have you seen chips being sold?
A. Yes.
Q. Soap?

A. No.
Q. Do you know if Agustin kept receipts for these items?
A. I don't know.
Q. So you told him to keep receipts for the meal purchases?
A. Yes.
Q. But did you tell him to keep receipts for these purchases?
A. No.
Q. Why not?
A. Because by law, I'm required to keep the receipts for the meal plan that I provide, that Sun Valley Orchards offers the men on behalf of Sun Valley Orchards.
Q. So Sun Valley Orchards offers the meal plan, but not --
A. We offer it in the contract. It's known to them that we will, Sun Valley Orchards as a company has the means to provide a meal plan.
Q. And that is true for 2015?
A. Yes.
Q. So the guarantee is that Sun Valley Orchards in 2015 -- okay. Scratch it. I got background, but yeah, it was relatively quiet.

Q. I mean did that interfere with hearing?

A. I don't believe so.

Q. And have you told me everything about this meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. And so then the meeting ended, you said this and then what happened?

A. Well, I left and I believe Agustin went back out to the field and the guys just kind of hung out at the camp and waited to hear back from us when I found out what I had to do.

Q. And when did you see these workers next, if at all?

A. Maybe the next day when I brought all the forms there for them to sign and Agustin oversaw that they signed them. But I think I may have seen a few of the guys that day. I don't know that I saw them all. And then maybe the next day or maybe two days later.

Q. So the next day or two days later, you handed forms --

A. For them to sign that they were

A. I brought a bunch of pens and said I need you all to sign and left them there in the eating quarters right there and they were all gathered. They were all starting to come out to gather to sign. And again, not everybody was out there, but I did explain to a few guys, the guys that were out there that we could -- there was several boxes to check off as to why they were returning. And I explained to them, you know, I wasn't going to check the box that said they didn't want to do the work or whatever the box said, I forget the exact wording, because Theresa actually told me, explained to me that checking that box off might make it harder for the men in the future to get return work. So there was another box that said they want to return home to, I don't know if it said family emergency or they're homesick. I forget the exact word, but I explained to them, why, you know, you guys can check this box, but it's clear I'm not firing you. It's clear I need help. And I'm willing to train you guys and do what we got to do to get you guys out here and working. But that wasn't happening. So that it was clear I

Q. How long did this last, this conversation?
A. Five minutes.
Q. And what did the workers say back?
A. Nothing.
Q. And did you tell the workers they had to fill out these forms?
A. Well, it's required. I have to have proof as to why these guys are returning home prior to the end of their contract. I'm required to do that, yes.
Q. Did any of them not want to fill out a form?
A. No. In fact, I think a couple of guys shook my hand and thanked me.
Q. What were they thanking you for?
A. I'm not exactly sure, for giving them a chance. I don't -- I'm not exactly sure.
Q. And what happened next to these workers?
A. I don't remember the exact event -- sequence of events, but shortly thereafter, I believe they returned home.
Q. How did they get home?

Q. The forms that were given to the August and September workers, the workers that left in August and September.

A. Just whatever their, I'm sure they have a heading, whatever. I'm sure they're called something. It's just to determine their termination of work or whatever, whatever they're called.

Q. Termination of work forms.

A. Okay.

Q. What did Sun Valley Orchards do with the termination of work forms?

A. I'm sure Lisa filed them away.

Q. Were they ever given to anyone outside of Sun Valley Orchards?

A. No.

Q. How about the forms collected in May, the workers that departed in May, Sun Valley Orchards still has those?

A. Yes.

Q. Were they given to anyone outside of Sun Valley Orchards?

A. No. They may have been given to you guys. Copies may have been given to you guys.

Q. Why did Sun Valley Orchards ask the workers who left in August or September to fill out these work termination forms?

A. To cover, so I'm covered, to explain as to why they left.

Q. To protect against what?

A. Yeah, to protect against this, this lawsuit. I mean the fact is the guys left early. They voluntarily signed that they were voluntarily leaving. And the guys that left later in the season, they signed forms and they met their three-quarter guarantee. So after the three-quarter guarantee, as far as I'm concerned, we can nitpick it and all we want but, they met their three-quarter guarantee, period. We only had the forms and the documentation to back everything up. That's just how you do things nowadays.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Mr. Schulte, we requested in our document requests all documentation, communications concerning reason for departure. We would ask that the forms related to the termination forms we have been discussing, any e-mails about this or about the May or June workers with Theresa be given to us as soon as possible.

MR. SCHULTE: Okay. If we have them, we'll produce what's responsive.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. And these worker termination forms, did you hand them personally to the workers or did Agustin hand them to them or --

A. It was probably between both of us that we did it. I'm not exactly sure.

Q. Were any of the workers upset that they were being terminated?

A. I don't know. I mean -- I don't know.

Q. No one complained to you?

A. No. Not to me, no. And you're talking about the group that left towards the end of season?

Q. Yes, in August or September.

A. I don't believe so, no.

Q. So far we have been talking about two groups, the group that left in August or September and the group that left in May. Were

A. No, not that I know of, no.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: I would like to introduce Exhibit 11.

- - - - -

(E-mail dated 8/21/15 marked R. Marino Exhibit 11 for identification.)

- - - - -

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Do you recognize this document? Do you recognize this document?

A. Hold on, I'm looking at it, but I don't think so. No, I don't recognize it.

Q. All right, well, you see the cc line?

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you see that it says Lisa Justice and it has your name?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Is this --

A. But you're asking me if I recognize it. I don't recognize it. I'm sure I've maybe glanced at it.

Q. Well, does this look like the list of workers who were let go in -- that we have been just talking about?

A. I'm assuming it is, but I wouldn't know without looking and cross-referencing it with my records. But I'm going to assume it is, since you guys have it.

Q. Do you know who Warren Wicker is?

A. It's Theresa's husband.

Q. Have you interacted with him in the past?

A. Just on the phone once or twice. Not in the last couple of years.

Q. Well, all right. Well, if you don't recognize it, I'll take it back.

A. Can I look at it, so maybe I will recognize it?

Q. Sure, if you're still looking at it.

A. Like what are you asking me about it, if I recognize it and I don't at first glance, but furthermore, like what are you getting at about this document? Why is this an exhibit?

Q. Well, it looks like an e-mail from, I guess I should --

A. It is an e-mail from Warren to me. I see that.

Q. Was Sun Valley Orchards in the practice of notifying the government when workers were separated from Sun Valley Orchards?

A. That's required.

Q. And how does Sun Valley Orchards do that?

A. I call Theresa or whoever in her office that handles that or I e-mail them and tell them that they have to notify whoever they have to notify. That's part of the service that they provide. That's what their agency does.

Q. And would you send them, would you e-mail this organization the list of workers that were separating?

A. Lisa probably did, because this list looks like it's comes from our type of payroll system that we used. And she may have, you know, because I'm sure there's Heather, yeah, because the spelling is correct. I mean this had to come from some kind of a -- some kind of document that Lisa sent to them.

Q. And this reminds you of the payroll system that Sun Valley Orchards has?

A. It kind of does.
Q. Why does it remind you?
A. I'm just looking at the way it's, the format.
Q. What about the format?
A. Just the format, the way it, the font, the columns and things like that. It appears to be similar. It may not be directly. It may be something that Theresa uses. I'm not exactly sure.
Q. So you think the payroll records at Sun Valley Orchards may have had the same order, for example, of client name, process date, consulate, that kind of thing?
A. The process date. Okay. Now I'm looking at it. No, this is most likely something from her office, some kind of software that they use. Probably compiled from a list that Lisa sent them.
MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: Mr. Schulte, we would also ask for any documents or any e-mails exchanged between Sun Valley Orchards and this organization about the workers who were separated.

MR. SCHULTE: If there are any.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Do you know why this e-mail says, do you see where it says workers returned for personal reasons? Do you know why it says that when in fact the workers were let go?

A. I don't know why.

Q. If this e-mail refers to the workers we have been talking about, it's inaccurate in that statement, right?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection. There's no foundation that it does.

THE WITNESS: I'm not sure how to answer that anyway.

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:

Q. Okay. That's all I have about that exhibit. I think we agreed the workers who left who were separated in August or September did not leave for personal reasons?

A. Right. Crop loss or damage.

Q. So we talked a little bit before about the ETA, ETA Form 790 commonly referred to as a job order?

A. Okay.

addresses of each farm were correct, that the contract, all that stuff, there's a signature page for that that I reviewed and approved everything, so yes, I did.

Q. You did review it before signing it?

A. Yes. Yes.

Q. And at the time, did everything look accurate to you before you signed it, the forms?

A. Yes.

Q. And now in hindsight, were those forms accurate?

A. As far as job description and all?

Q. Were there any details in the job order for 2015 that now you think are inaccurate?

A. The -- I don't know what you call it, the clause, there was a portion of it that I don't know if it was clear on the use of the kitchen and the meal plan.

Q. And what was inaccurate about that?

A. Now it's all cleared up. It could have been skewed or misinterpreted that the guys were going to be just generally free-for-all in the kitchen, 100 guys making their own meals, when you could never have that. You could never build a kitchen big enough for that to happen. It's more spelled out. It's much more clear.

Q. And how did that -- why were the 2015 job orders written that way?

A. I don't think there's a particular reason. I just think it was an oversight.

Q. And that part of it, was that description about the kitchen and the meals, was that written?

A. That was revisited and reworded, but everything else in there is pretty much verbatim the same as it was.

Q. And what prompted you to or Sun Valley to reword that?

A. This problem.

Q. You're referring to the US Farm Labor investigation?

A. The lawsuit, yeah. Because of some miswording, we're all here today, a misunderstanding. Whatever you want to call it. Oversight.

Q. Do you think the wording in the 2015 job orders was misleading?

A. Do I think that directly? At the time, I didn't. Again, it was an oversight.
Q. What do you think now?
A. And that was the first time I ever had to do that. What do I think now? Hindsight is 20/20 as to what I think now. Do I think it's accurate as I sit here right now, no, that's why I changed it.
Q. So in hindsight, you think that the job orders for 2015 were inaccurate with respect to the kitchen and meal plan?
A. I guess you could say that, yes.
Q. I would like to introduce what -- can we mark this as Exhibit 12?

- - - - -

(ETA Form 790 Bates DOL01466 to 1485 marked R. Marino Exhibit 12 for identification.)

- - - - -

BY MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR:
Q. Take a look at that document and tell me if you recognize it. These documents are Bates stamped DOL01466 through DOL01485.
A. This is a new contract, this is the camp. It's our well. You know, we're going to house people in it and I -- we just take it upon ourselves to pay those.

Q. Is the bill separated between the charges for the kitchen versus for the other parts of the farm?

A. Yes. It has got its own electric meter. It's got its own fuel tank, it's own gas tank. When the plumber or electrician, whoever, carpenter comes to do repairs, they state it on there what it's for.

Q. Do you ever ask -- did Sun Valley Orchards ever ask Agustin Hernandez to reimburse it for these expenses?

A. No.

Q. Why not?

A. He's a respected employee and out of good faith I guess, just doing the right thing.

MR. HEYMAN-KANTOR: That's all I have.

BY MR. SCHULTE:

Q. Last round. In here, in the 2016 order that we talked about before, it says employers will furnish three meals a day, is

AGUSTIN HERNANDEZ, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Good morning. My name is Jason Glick. With me today is Jacob Heyman-Kantor and we represent the Secretary of Labor in the case called in re: Sun Valley Orchards, 2017-TAE-00003. And we represent the administrator of the Wage and Hour Division in the case called in re: Agustin Hernandez, 2017-MSP-00002.

Mr. Hernandez, as I'm sure Mr. Schulte has explained, I'm going to ask you some questions today. And it's very important that you respond verbally so that the court reporter will be able to record your answers.

A. I don't remember. It's a long time ago. About every year he told me that. Maybe, I don't know, since he start to be more focused on the job, he was like, I don't know, maybe ten years ago.

Q. Was anyone else from Sun Valley involved in determining who drove the vans?

A. No.

Q. And in 2015, were you in charge of meals at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you tell me about that?

A. Yes. When, when I knew that the H2 workers they were going to come to work. I talked to Russ about that, how we want to charge them. Because I hear in other camps that they got their own little camps, you know, and they cook their own meal. But like in this company, we have only one big kitchen. So, so for everybody to go and cook in that same facility is not, you know, it's a mess. It can't be. So he told me that we can, you know, keep the way we were doing, you know, charging the guys, collecting from the guys, but he told me to make, to be in charge for that and like

I, I talked to the guys about that when they first came, about, you know, everybody go in one kitchen and you know, it's not possible for them to cook everybody. So I hire the cookers, you know, the cookers in there and they, everybody agreed. They thought that was a good idea. And we, we keep, we kept doing that. So I, I charge, we charge -- I charge $80 a week. I collect the money from them. And then I am in charge for buying everything and pay the cookers.

Q. Did the meal plan work the same way in 2014?

A. Yes. No. No, no. The 2014 behind, they -- almost the same, but they pay less, because the company pays, used to pay the cookers, two persons in the kitchen. So they pay, they pay less money. They pay less money. But I was in charge for buying, went to the grocery store and you know, supply, buy all the supplies.

Q. When did the meal plan at Sun Valley start?

MR. SCHULTE: Objection to calling it a meal plan at Sun Valley.

THE WITNESS: I have been in the kitchen for quite a bit years and I have been doing like that every year. So it has been like, I don't know, over ten years.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. How did that arrangement start?

A. Again, since we start to get a lot of people, they didn't have the facilities to, for everybody to cook, so we have only one big kitchen. And always I talk to the guys about, you know, getting, getting, paying the kitchen or they can, you know, get food from outside.

Q. Did you discuss that arrangement with any of the Marinos?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Harry, Russ.

Q. Was that Russ?

A. Russ, Jr.

Q. When did you have that first conversation?

A. A long time ago. I think we started, we opened the kitchen, first opened the kitchen like in 1995 or six. I don't remember. Since we start doing that, you know, for the guys to pay, to pay me, to pay us -- to pay me for to cook the meals, a long time ago.

Q. And in those conversations with Sun Valley with the Marinos about the meal plan, what did you discuss?

A. Nothing, just about how much I was going to charge and that's it.

Q. Did they tell you that you should charge the workers?

A. No.

Q. Did you ask if you could charge the workers?

A. No, no, I didn't ask. I know that I have to collect the money to buy food.

Q. Who decided that there would be a charge to the workers for the meal plan?

A. Who decided? I think me. It was me, I talked to them and we both agree and I charge the guys.

Q. Who did you talk to?

A. I think at that time, it was Harry I think. Harry Marino.

Q. Did you talk about how much to charge the workers?

A. No. No, I don't think so. No.
Q. When did they pay you?
A. Some of them, they pay me at the end of day. And some of them, they pay me when the paycheck, when they get the check, paycheck.
Q. Did they pay you, for the workers that paid you after they received their paycheck, in 2015, did they pay you cash?
A. Yes.
Q. Did they pay you cash after they received their paycheck?
A. Yes, after they receive their paycheck.
Q. How did the workers in 2015 cash their paychecks?
A. Okay. Harry Marino come to the camp and he make us sign the receiving check, some signature check. I don't know, however you call it and they got the check and they sign it and they hand it to me, they hand the check to me. And I go, I go to the bank and I cash the check. The office at Sun Valley, they send, they e-mail to the bank, they make it easy. They send the list to the bank so when

I'm -- when I go for the pile of checks, they got the envelopes with the money. You know, with everybody's name. They check and they, I get all the envelopes and I bring it to the camp. When they finish, I hand the checks to everybody.

Q. Did you ever remove any money from the envelopes before giving the checks to the workers?

A. Never, never, never, no. I never do that. I never did it. I never would, no.

Q. How did the workers pay the $80 weekly fee for the meals?

A. Cash.

Q. When did they pay the cash?

A. On Friday, Friday. Friday afternoons.

Q. What day of the week did the workers receive the cashed Sun Valley checks?

A. Friday, Friday afternoons.

Q. Did you keep track of the workers that paid the 80-dollar weekly fee?

A. Yes.

Q. How did you keep track?

A. Okay. They send me a list from the it out. He asked me where I buy the sodas and I told him, I go to Sam's Club and that's it. And he told me, oh, I can find out. I don't keep receipts when I buy the sodas, no.

Q. Did you buy sodas at stores other than Sam's Club?

A. Yes.

Q. What stores?

A. There's a Mexican store in Bridgeton, New Jersey.

Q. Any other stores?

A. It can be different, different stores. Sometimes when I need something, maybe in the middle of the week, if we need something, we go to the Acme. We go to the Shop-Rite. It's different stores. But only little ones, but the biggest shops is in the Sam's Club and the Mexican stores in Bridgeton.

Q. How did you decide to charge one dollar per soda to the workers at Sun Valley in 2015?

A. How? Because I saw the -- I buy sodas at the store, I saw more or less the prices. I don't know. This is what I decided on.

Q. What was the price that you paid at Sam's Club for sodas in 2015?

A. It's like, I don't know, maybe -- I didn't do the math for a single soda, but a case, maybe 13, $14.

Q. How many sodas are in a case that costs 13 or $14?

A. I think 24. Twenty-four. Twenty-four. I think it's 24.

Q. And is that the price for a particular kind of soda?

A. No.

Q. So the Monsters, Red Bull, Coca-Cola, all cost 13 or $14 a case?

A. No, I'm talking about the sodas. The Monster costs like $32 a case, there's 24. The Red Bull I think costs 31, 30, 31 for a case of 24.

Q. What about the sweet breads that you sold in the fields, how much did those cost to purchase?

A. Like eight, eight dollars.

Q. For how many?

A. I think there's 12.

Q. Where did you purchase those sweet voluntary.

THE WITNESS: It's a voluntary note, you know, signing they're free to go.

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. What did the other workers say at the meeting?

A. I don't remember. I don't remember.

Q. Is there anything else you remember about the meeting?

A. Just that they didn't want to sign. They were like they didn't want to sign, because they were afraid that this, that this signature will affect them in the future with coming with another visa. And he said that no, he wasn't going to harm, harm them or, you know, yeah. Make any harm. But he was going to leave the notes and check the box whatever they feel more comfortable with English or Spanish.

Q. It was Russell Marino, Jr. who responded about the forms?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Russell Marino, Jr. bring those don't remember what they was, that day was, but they close week on Tuesday and they didn't work anymore. So they don't open a new week.

Q. What day of the week did the first meeting take place?

A. I'm not too sure. I think it was a Friday. I think it was Friday, because Harry Marino was there. I think he went to give us the check and he was, we let him know.

Q. What else happened between the time that you told all the workers some of them would have to go and the time that they actually got on the buses to leave?

A. Happened, a lot of things, like they stopped to talk and they were pretty upset. And I guess they called the federal inspector, the Department of Labor, because a couple of days later, they show up. I'm guessing. I'm not sure. I'm not saying that happened.

Q. Did any of the workers who were told they were being let go negotiate to ask for something more?

A. No.

Q. Who paid for the return pastries?

A. No.

Q. Is there anything in Exhibit 6 that refers to something that you sold to the workers that wasn't included in the weekly meal plan in 2015?

A. No.

Q. Is there anything in Exhibit 6 that you don't understand?

A. No.

MR. GLICK: Could you mark this as Exhibit 7, please?

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Mr. Hernandez, I'm showing you a document that I will refer to as Exhibit 7, which is Bates stamped DOL01422 and was attached as part of Exhibit E to our requests for admissions. Again, I'll refer to this as Exhibit 7. Mr. Hernandez, what is this document, Exhibit 7?

A. It's another shop receipt from a different store where I get the items.
Q. Is it a receipt from 2015?
A. Yes.
Q. How do you know?
A. Because it has the date. The date is there.
Q. What else do you recognize about this document?
A. Most of it.
Q. Is your name written on this document?
A. I don't see it, no. Yes. Yes, I'm sorry.
Q. And in Exhibit 6, of this document next to your name, there's a phone number, whose phone number is that?
A. I guess it's the store phone number, I guess. I never take notice of that.
Q. It's not your phone number?
A. No, no.
Q. I believe I may have misspoken when I referred to this document by number, but again, Exhibit 7, Mr. Hernandez, could you please see the typed number seven in the leftmost column?

A. Yes.

Q. Could you read to me what is to the right of the typed number seven in Exhibit 7?

A. It says, I didn't notice, but it says Coca-Cola lata.

Q. What else does it say on that line?

A. Five. Five 36 Coca-Cola lata.

Q. Does this line in Exhibit 7 mean that you purchased five cases of cans of Coca-Cola?

A. I buy some Coca-Cola through this guy, but I pay separate, not from the -- I pay separate receipt and I guess they mixed them there. I don't know. I didn't notice.

Q. Did you buy the five cases of cans of Coca-Cola described in Exhibit 7?

A. I don't remember. It was '15, I don't remember. I know I sometimes I used to buy Coca-Cola from them.

Q. And does Exhibit 7 indicate that the cases of Coca-Cola cans had 36 cans per case?

A. It says there, I don't know. They never sell me 36. I don't know. I'm not sure.

Q. Does Exhibit 7 say a different number of cans of Coca-Cola per case?

A. No, it says there, I think it's three, 36, I think.

Q. And each of the cases of Coca-Cola were $13?

A. It says there.

MR. SCHULTE: I just object that it looks like it's scratched out. I mean the document speaks for itself, but as far as trying to interpret what somebody else's handwriting is, there are a number of places where other numbers are scratched out or written over.

THE WITNESS: Yeah, that happened when I make the order and I very busy and they just deliver it and I'm not in the kitchen and they just give me the -- I trust, I trust the people and I pay them. I don't know.

JOSEPH MARINO, having been duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

- - - - -

BY MR. GLICK:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Marino.

A. Good morning.

Q. Thank you for bearing with us this morning as we resolved some of these matters, I appreciate you coming here today.

As I previously introduced myself, my name is Jason Glick. I represent the Secretary of Labor in Sun Valley Orchards, LLC, case number 2017-TAE-00003. And I represent the Administrator of the US Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division in a case called in re: Agustin Hernandez, case number 2017-MSP-00002.

And we're here today for the deposition of both yourself, Mr. Joseph Marino, and of the corporation, Sun Valley Orchards, LLC.

As I'm sure your counsel has explained, I'm going to ask you questions work on a given day --

A. Yes.

Q. -- what would the PET Tiger system show about that worker?

A. If he's not there and present to be scanned into a job for the day, he has no hours or work for the day.

Q. Is there any other information in PET Tiger for that worker on a day when he doesn't work?

A. I'm not understanding your question. I'll explain, workers get an ID card. They have a scanner and an iPad runs the software. You show up to work. You scan your ID. You scan your job, whatever it is you're doing for the day. It keeps track of it. If you're not there, there's nobody to scan. So I don't -- I'm not getting your question. It's very simple. You either show up for work or you don't.

Q. And when a worker doesn't show up for work, does Sun Valley record that in any other system?

A. No.

Q. Does Sun Valley record the reason that a worker doesn't show up for work on a given day?

A. No.

Q. In 2015, did Sun Valley record the reason that a worker didn't show up for work on a given day?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Who would know the answer to that question?

A. To what question?

Q. Who would know whether in 2015 if a worker didn't show up for work on a given day, the reason for the worker not showing up was tracked in some system?

A. What do you mean was tracked in some system? You're asking -- reask the question. I don't understand the question.

Q. Besides the PET Tiger, what kind of payroll software did Sun Valley use in 2015?

A. Famous actually prints the paychecks. Famous software is our operating system. PET Tiger is a third-party software system that collects the data that transfers to Famous to print the checks.

Q. So Famous is a system Sun Valley

his work history. It will generate reports and they got all the reports they wanted. It generates reports until you can't read them no more.

Q. What specific information would that work history show?

A. I don't know, whatever you ask it to show. I don't know. I don't use it. I don't use it. I just know that it can do it.

Q. Do you know if it can show the number of hours a worker worked in a particular day?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if it shows the reason why a worker didn't work a certain day?

A. Reask the question. I don't know why you keep going back to this, because it's -- like it's not relevant. Reask the question, because I don't understand it.

Q. PET Tiger can run reports?

A. Yes.

Q. Someone from Sun Valley can use PET Tiger to run a report?

A. Yes.

Q. That report would show information about work that the H-2A workers in 2015 did at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. That report would show -- that kind of report could show the number of hours that a given worker worked in 2015 at Sun Valley?

A. Yes.

Q. Could that report show any information about why a worker didn't work on a given day?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Who would know that?

A. No idea.

Q. If you wanted to find that out, who would you ask?

A. Russ.

Q. In 2015, did Sun Valley take any steps to determine whether any of its workers were owed money in relation to the three-quarters guarantee?

A. I don't understand your question.

Q. In 2015, did Sun Valley take any steps to figure out whether any workers had met the three-quarters guarantee?

A. I'm sorry, explain that again.

13. During 2015 Sun Valley qualified as an employer within the definition of 20 C.F.R. § 655.103(b).

14. During 2015, Agustin Hernandez was not an employer within the definition of 20 C.F.R. § 655.103(b).

The 2015 growing season at Sun Valley

15. Attached hereto as Joint Exhibit 5 is a chart listing the 96 H-2A workers and 51 domestic workers that Sun Valley employed during the 2015 growing season.

16. In the job orders, Sun Valley promised to pay these employees $11.29 per hour or at a piece rate, whichever was higher.

31. The top half of this form was in English and the bottom half was in Spanish.

32. The workers were instructed to retain the bottom half and return the top half.

[1] The parties dispute whether these workers employment ended because they were constructively discharged, terminated, or voluntarily quit.

[2] The parties also dispute the reasons that this worker stopped working at Sun Valley Orchards.

33. Attached as Joint Exhibit 8 are true and accurate copies of the English portions of the worker departure forms signed by Sun Valley workers around the time that their work was ending.

34. Attached as Joint Exhibit 9 is a true and accurate copy of a worker departure form, including English and Spanish portions, dated August 8, 2015.

35. Worker departure forms were distributed to H-2A workers who departed before the end of the season around the time that these workers' work ended.

Investigation by the Administrator and Subsequent Procedural History

36. During the 2015 growing season, the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor, including Wage Hour investigators John Crudup and Jose Perez, investigated Sun Valley to determine (among other things) whether the farm was in compliance with H-2A regulations.

37. During their investigation, Wage Hour inspected the housing facility and five Sun Valley buses, interviewed Sun Valley workers and drivers, and met with Sun Valley owners and with Agustin Hernandez.

38. On June 22, 2016, the Administrator issued a determination letter alleging that Sun Valley violated certain H-2A regulations and assessing $369,703.22 in back wages and $212,250.00 in civil money penalties ("CMPs") against Sun Valley.

39. On July 20, 2016, Sun Valley filed a timely hearing request.
