What’s New

Compensation limit. For 2008, the maximum compensation used for figuring contributions and benefits increases to $230,000. This amount increases to $245,000 in 2009.

Elective deferrals. The limit on elective deferrals remains $15,500 for 2008. This limit increases to $16,500 for 2009. These limits apply for participants in SARSEPs, 401(k) plans (excluding SIMPLE plans), and deferred compensation plans of state or local governments and tax-exempt organizations. The contribution limits are subject to cost-of-living increases after 2009.

SIMPLE plan salary reduction contributions. The limit on salary reduction contributions remains $10,500 for 2008. This limit increases to $11,500 in 2009.

Catch-up contributions. A plan can permit participants who are age 50 or over at the end of the calendar year to make catch-up contributions in addition to elective deferrals and SIMPLE plan salary reduction contributions. The catch-up contribution limitation for defined contribution plans other than SIMPLE plans remains $5,000 in 2008. This limit increases to $5,500 in 2009. The catch-up contribution limitation for SIMPLE plans remains $2,500 for 2008 and 2009.

The catch-up contributions a participant can make for a year cannot exceed the lesser of the following amounts:

• The catch-up contribution limit.

• The excess of the participant’s compensation over elective deferrals that are not catch-up contributions.

See “Catch-up contributions” under Contribution Limits and Limit on Elective Deferrals in chapters 3 and 4, respectively, for more information.

Required minimum distributions. Under the Worker, Retiree, and Employer Recovery Act of 2008, required minimum distributions (RMDs) for 2009 are waived for defined contribution plans and IRAs, including SEP-IRAs and SIMPLE IRAs. This change in RMDs does not apply to RMDs for 2008. For example, an RMD for 2008 that is not due until April 1, 2009, must still be made. See Distributions in chapters 2, 3, and 4.

Tax relief for Kansas disaster area. New rules provide for tax-favored withdrawals, repayments, and loans from certain retirement plans for qualified individuals who suffered an economic loss in the Kansas disaster area as a result of the tornadoes and storms that began on May 4, 2007. See Publication 4492-A, Information for Taxpayers Affected by the May 4, 2007, Kansas Storms and Tornadoes, for more information.

Tax relief for Midwestern disaster areas. New rules provide for tax-favored withdrawals, repayments, and loans from certain retirement plans for qualified individuals who suffered an economic loss in the Midwestern disaster areas as a result of severe storms, tornadoes, or flooding in the Midwestern disaster areas after May 19, 2008, and before August 1, 2008. See Publication 4492-B, Information for Affected Taxpayers in the Midwestern Disaster Areas, for more information.

Reporting requirements. Under the Pension Protection Act of 2006 (PPA), the Form 5500, Annual Return/Report of Employee Benefit Plan, requirements have been changed for pension benefit plans subject to the minimum funding requirements of Code section 412. Schedule B (Form 5500), Actuarial Information, is no longer available for filing for plan years begining on or after January 1, 2008, because it has been replaced for 2008 plan year filings by two collection vehicles, Schedule MB (Form 5500), Multiemployer Defined Benefit Plan and Certain Money Purchase Plan Actuarial Information; and Schedule SB (Form 5500), Single-Employer Defined Benefit Plan Actuarial Information. For more information, see Reporting Requirements in chapter 4.

Rollovers to Roth IRA. Beginning January 1, 2008, a distribution from a qualified retirement plan can be rolled over to a Roth IRA, subject to the restrictions that currently apply to a rollover from a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA. For additional information on rollovers, see Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

Rollover of Exxon Valdez settlement income. If you received qualified settlement income in connection with the Exxon Valdez litigation, you may roll over the amount received, or part of the amount received, to an eligible retirement plan. For more information, see Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

Reminders

Rollovers by nonspouse beneficiaries. Nonspouse designated beneficiaries may be able to make direct trustee-to-trustee transfers from eligible retirement plans of deceased employees to IRAs set up to receive such transfers. The transfer will be treated as an eligible rollover distribution and the receiving IRA will be treated as an inherited IRA.

Rollovers of after-tax contributions. Participants in a qualified plan or a section 403(b) plan can roll over after-tax contributions to another qualified plan or section 403(b) plan provided the rollover is made through a direct trustee-to-trustee transfer and the receiving plan separately accounts for the rollover.

Reporting requirements. Under the PPA, the requirements for filing annual returns with respect to one-participant retirement plans have been modified to ensure that such plans (and any other plans of the employer) with total assets of $250,000 or less as of the close of the plan year beginning on or after January 1, 2007, will not have to file a return for that year upon meeting the five conditions under Reporting Requirements in chapter 4.

Plans beginning on or before December 31, 2006, for which a Form 5500-EZ, Annual Return of One-Participant (Owners and Their Spouses) Retirement Plan, was required to be filed will not need to continue filling the Form 5500-EZ unless their total plan assets (for one or more one-participant plans, separately or together) exceed $250,000 at the close of the plan year beginning on or after January 1, 2007.

Qualified Roth contribution program. Your 401(k) plan may allow an employee to contribute to a qualified Roth contribution program. Under this program, an employee can designate all or a portion of his or her elective deferrals as after-tax Roth contributions.

Credit for startup costs. You may be able to claim a tax credit for part of the ordinary and necessary costs of starting a SEP, SIMPLE, or qualified plan. The credit equals 50% of the cost to set up and administer the plan and educate employees about the plan, up to a maximum of $500 per year for each of the first 3 years of the plan. You can choose to start claiming the credit in the tax year before the tax year in which the plan becomes effective.

You must have had 100 or fewer employees who received at least $5,000 in compensation from you for the preceding year. At least one participant must be a non-highly compensated employee. The employees generally cannot be substantially the same employees for whom contributions were made or benefits accrued under a plan of any of the following employers: the 3-tax-year period immediately before the first year to which the credit applies.

1. You.

2. A member of a controlled group that incudes you.

3. A predecessor of (1) or (2).

The credit is part of the general business credit, which can be carried back or forward to other tax years if it cannot be used in the current year. However, the part of the general business credit attributable to the small employer pension plan startup cost credit cannot be carried back to a tax year beginning before January 1, 2002. You cannot deduct the part of the startup costs equal to the credit claimed in a tax year, but you can choose not to claim the allowable credit for a tax year.

To take the credit, use Form 8881, Credit for Small Employer Pension Plan Startup Costs, and the instructions.

Retirement savings contributions credit. The retirement savings contribution credit, originally set to terminate after December 31, 2006, was made permanent in the PPA. Under the Act, retirement plan participants (including self-employed individuals) who make contributions to their plan may qualify for the retirement savings contributions credit. The amount of the credit is based on the contributions participants make and their credit rate. The maximum contribution eligible for the credit is $2,000. The credit rate can be as low as 10% or as high as 50%, depending on the participant’s adjusted gross income. The credit also depends on the partici-
- pant’s filing status. Form 8880, Credit for Quali-fied Retirement Savings Contributions, and the instructions explain how to claim the credit. In addition, the income limits for the credit are subject to indexing for inflation.

Photographs of missing children. The Internal Revenue Service is a proud partner with the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. Photographs of missing children selected by the Center may appear in this publication on pages that would otherwise be blank. You can help bring these children home by looking at the photographs and calling 1-800-THE-LOST (1-800-843-5678) if you recognize a child.

Introduction

This publication discusses retirement plans you can set up and maintain for yourself and your employees. In this publication, “you” refers to the employer. See chapter 1 for the definition of the term employer and the definitions of other terms used in this publication. This publication covers the following types of retirement plans:

• SEP (simplified employee pension) plans.

• SIMPLE (savings incentive match plan for employees) plans.

• Qualified plans (also called H.R. 10 plans or Keogh plans when covering self-employed individuals), including 401(k) plans.

• Defined benefit plans.

• Defined contribution plans.

• Money purchase plans.

• Profit-sharing plans.

• Employee stock ownership plans (ESOPs).

• 403(b) plans.

• 457 plans.

1Net earnings from self-employment must take the contribution into account. See Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals in chapters 2 and 4.
2Compensation is generally limited to $230,000 in 2008.
3Under a SIMPLE 401(k) plan, compensation is generally limited to $230,000 in 2008.
4Certain plans subject to Department of Labor rules have an earlier due date for salary reduction contributions.

What this publication does not cover. Although the purpose of this publication is to provide general information about retirement plans you can set up for your employees, it does not contain all the rules and exceptions that apply to these plans. You may also need professional help and guidance. Also, this publication does not cover all the rules that may be of interest to employees. For example, it does not cover the following topics:

- What type of plan to set up.
- How to set up a plan.
- How much you can contribute to a plan.
- How much of your contribution is deductible.
- How to treat certain distributions.
- How to report information about the plan to the IRS and your employees.
- Basic features of SEP, SIMPLE, and qualified plans. The key rules for SEP, SIMPLE, and qualified plans are outlined in Table 1.
- SEP plans. SEPs provide a simplified method for you to make contributions to a retirement plan for your employees. Instead of setting up a profit-sharing or money purchase plan with a trust, you can adopt a SEP agreement and make contributions directly to a traditional individual retirement account or a traditional individual retirement annuity (SEP-IRA) set up for yourself and each eligible employee.

SIMPLE plans. Generally, if you had 100 or fewer employees who received at least $5,000 in compensation last year, you can set up a SIMPLE plan. Under a SIMPLE plan, employees can choose to make salary reduction contributions rather than receiving these amounts as part of their regular pay. In addition, you will contribute matching or nonelective contributions. The two types of SIMPLE plans are the SIMPLE IRA plan and the SIMPLE 401(k) plan.

Qualified plans. The qualified plan rules are more complex than the SEP plan and SIMPLE plan rules. However, there are advantages to qualified plans, such as increased flexibility in designing plans and increased contribution and deduction limits in some cases.

Comments and suggestions. We welcome your comments about this publication and your suggestions for future editions. You can write to us at the following address:
Definitions You Need To Know

Certain terms used in this publication are defined below. The same term used in another publication may have a slightly different meaning.

Annual additions. Annual additions are the total of all your contributions in a year, employee contributions (not including rollovers), and forfeitures allocated to a participant’s account.

Annual benefits. Annual benefits are the benefits to be paid yearly in the form of a straight line annuity (with no extra benefits) under a plan to which employees do not contribute and under which no rollover contributions are made.

Business. A business is an activity in which a profit motive is present and economic activity is involved. Service as a newspaper carrier under age 18 or as a public official is not a business.

Common-law employee. A common-law employee is any individual who, under common law, would have the status of an employee. A leased employee can also be a common-law employee.

Earned income. Earned income is net earnings from personal services actually rendered by the employee’s tools, materials, and workplace, and can fire the employee.

Common law employees are not self-employed and cannot set up retirement plans for income from their work, even if that income is self-employment income for social security tax purposes. For example, common-law employees who are ministers, members of religious orders, full-time insurance salespeople, and U.S. citizens employed in the United States by foreign governments cannot set up retirement plans for their earnings from those employments, even though their earnings are treated as self-employment income.

Compensation. Compensation for plan allocations is the pay a participant received from you for personal services for a year. You can generally define compensation as including all the following payments.

1. Wages and salaries.
2. Fees for professional services.
3. Other amounts received (cash or noncash) for personal services actually rendered by an employee, including, but not limited to, the following items.
   a. Commissions and tips.
   b. Fringe benefits.
   c. Bonuses.

For a self-employed individual, compensation means the earned income, discussed later, of that individual.

Compensation generally includes amounts deferred in the following employee benefit plans. These amounts are elective deferrals.

1. Qualified cash or deferred arrangement (section 401(k) plan).
2. Salary reduction agreement to contribute to a tax-sheltered annuity (section 403(b) plan), a SIMPLE IRA plan, or a SARSEP.
3. Section 457 nonqualified deferred compensation plan.
4. Section 125 cafeteria plan.

However, an employer can choose to exclude elective deferrals under the above plans from the definition of compensation. The limit on elective deferrals is discussed in chapter 2 under Salary Reduction Simplified Employee Pension (SARSEP) and in chapter 4.

Other options. In figuring the compensation of a participant, you can treat any of the following amounts as the employee’s compensation:

1. The employee’s wages as defined for income tax withholding purposes.
2. The employee’s wages you report in box 1 of Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement.
3. The employee’s social security wages (including elective deferrals).

Compensation generally cannot include either of the following items.

1. Nontaxable reimbursements or other expense allowances.
2. Deferred compensation (other than elective deferrals).

Contribution. A contribution is an amount you pay into a plan for all those participating in the plan, including self-employed individuals. Limits apply to how much, under the contribution formula of the plan, can be contributed each year for a participant.

Deduction. A deduction is the plan contributions you can subtract from gross income on your federal income tax return. Limits apply to the amount deductible.

Earned income. Earned income is net earnings from self-employment, discussed later, from a business in which your services materially helped to produce the income.

You can also have earned income from property your personal efforts helped create, such as royalties from your books or inventions. Earned income includes net earnings from selling or otherwise disposing of the property, but it does not include capital gains. It includes income from licensing the use of property other than goodwill.

Earned income includes amounts received for services by self-employed members of recognized religious sects opposed to social security benefits who are exempt from self-employment tax.

If you have more than one business, but only one has a retirement plan, only the earned income from that business is considered for that plan.

Employer. An employer is generally any person for whom an individual performs or did perform any service, of whatever nature, as an employee. A sole proprietor is treated as his or her own employer for retirement plan purposes.
However, a partner is not an employer for retirement plan purposes. Instead, the partnership is treated as the employer of each partner.

Highly compensated employee

A highly compensated employee is an individual who:

- Owns more than 5% of the interest in your business at any time during the year or the preceding year, regardless of how much compensation that person earned or received.
- For the preceding year, received compensation from you of more than $100,000 (if the preceding year is 2009, $105,000 if the preceding year is 2008, and $110,000 if the preceding year is 2007), and, if you so choose, was in the top 20% of employees when ranked by compensation.

Leased employee

A leased employee who is not your common-law employee must generally be treated as your employee for retirement plan purposes if he or she does all the following:

- Provides services to you under an agreement between you and a leasing organization.
- Has performed services for you (or for you and related persons) substantially full time for at least 1 year.
- Performs services under your primary direction or control.

Exception

A leased employee is not treated as your employee if all the following conditions are met.

1. Leased employees are not more than 20% of your non-highly compensated workforce.
2. The employee is covered under the leasing organization's qualified pension plan.
3. The leasing organization's plan is a money purchase pension plan that has all the following provisions.
   - Immediate participation. (This requirement does not apply to any individual whose compensation from the leasing organization in each plan year during the 4-year period ending with the plan year is less than $1,000.)
   - Full and immediate vesting.
   - A nonintegrated employer contribution rate of at least 10% of compensation for each participant.

However, if the leased employee is your common-law employee, that employee will be your employee for all purposes, regardless of any pension plan of the leasing organization.

Net earnings from self-employment

Net earnings from self-employment do not include items excluded from gross income (or their related deductions) other than foreign earned income and foreign housing cost amounts.

For the deduction limits, earned income is net earnings from personal services performed for the business. You take into account the income tax deduction for one-half of self-employment tax and the deduction for contributions to the plan made on your behalf when figuring net earnings.

Net earnings include a partner's distributive share of partnership income or loss (other than separately stated items, such as capital gains and losses). It does not include income passed through to shareholders of S corporations. Guaranteed payments to limited partners are net earnings from self-employment if they are paid for services to or for the partnership. Distributions of other income or loss to limited partners are not net earnings from self-employment.

Qualified plan

A qualified plan is a retirement plan that offers a tax-favored way to save for retirement. You can deduct contributions made to the plan for your employees. Earnings on these contributions are generally tax free until distributed at retirement. Profits-sharing, money purchase, and defined benefit plans are qualified plans. A 401(k) plan is also a qualified plan.

Participant

A participant is an eligible employee who is covered by your retirement plan. See the discussions of the different types of plans for the definition of an employee eligible to participate in each type of plan.

Partner

A partner is an individual who shares ownership of an unincorporated trade or business with one or more persons. For retirement plans, a partner is treated as an employee of the partnership.

Self-employed individual

An individual in business for himself or herself, and whose business is not incorporated, is self-employed. Sole proprietors and partners are self-employed. Self-employment can include part-time work.

Not everyone who has net earnings from self-employment for social security tax purposes is self-employed for qualified plan purposes. See Common-law employee, earlier, to see Net earnings from self-employment on this page.

In addition, certain fishermen may be considered self-employed for setting up a qualified plan. See Publication 595, Capital Construction Fund for Commercial Fishermen, for the special rules used to determine whether fishermen are self-employed.

Sole proprietor

A sole proprietor is an individual who owns an unincorporated business by himself or herself, including a single member limited liability company that is treated as a disregarded entity for tax purposes. For retirement plans, a sole proprietor is treated as both an employer and an employee.

Chapter 2 Simplified Employee Pension (SEP)

A SEP is a written plan that allows you to make contributions toward your own retirement.
and your employees' retirement without getting involved in a more complex qualified plan. Under a SEP, you make the contributions to a traditional individual retirement arrangement (called a SEP-IRA) set up by or for each eligible employee. A SEP-IRA is owned and controlled by the employee, and you make contributions to the financial institution where the SEP-IRA is maintained. SEP-IRAs are set up for, at a minimum, each eligible employee (defined below). A SEP-IRA may have to be set up for a leased employee (defined in chapter 1), but does not need to be set up for excludable employees (defined later).

Eligible employee. An eligible employee is an individual who meets all the following requirements.
- Has reached age 21.
- Has worked for you in at least 3 of the last 5 years.
- Has received at least $500 in compensation from you in 2008. This amount increases to $550 in 2009.

You can use less restrictive participation requirements than those listed, but not more restrictive ones.

Excludable employees. The following employees can be excluded from coverage under a SEP.
- Employees covered by a union agreement and whose retirement benefits were bargained for in good faith by the employees' union and you.
- Nonresident alien employees who have received no U.S. source wages, salaries, or other personal services compensation from you. For more information about nonresident aliens, see Publication 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens.

The annual limits increase to $245,000 and $49,000, respectively, in 2009.

Flexible written agreement. You must execute a formal written agreement to provide benefits to all eligible employees. Under a SEP, you make the contributions to a traditional individual retirement arrangement (called a SEP-IRA) set up by or for each eligible employee. A SEP-IRA is owned and controlled by the employee, and you make contributions to the financial institution where the SEP-IRA is maintained. SEP-IRAs are set up for, at a minimum, each eligible employee (defined below). A SEP-IRA may have to be set up for a leased employee (defined in chapter 1), but does not need to be set up for excludable employees (defined later).

Eligible employee. An eligible employee is an individual who meets all the following requirements.
- Has reached age 21.
- Has worked for you in at least 3 of the last 5 years.
- Has received at least $500 in compensation from you in 2008. This amount increases to $550 in 2009.

You can use less restrictive participation requirements than those listed, but not more restrictive ones.

Excludable employees. The following employees can be excluded from coverage under a SEP.
- Employees covered by a union agreement and whose retirement benefits were bargained for in good faith by the employees' union and you.
- Nonresident alien employees who have received no U.S. source wages, salaries, or other personal services compensation from you. For more information about nonresident aliens, see Publication 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens.

The annual limits increase to $245,000 and $49,000, respectively, in 2009.

Flexible written agreement. You must execute a formal written agreement to provide benefits to all eligible employees under a SEP. You can satisfy the written agreement requirement by adopting an IRS model SEP using Form 5305-SEP. However, see When not to use Form 5305-SEP, below.

If you adopt an IRS model SEP using Form 5305-SEP, no prior IRS approval or determination letter is required. Keep the original form. Do not file it with the IRS. Also, using Form 5305-SEP will usually relieve you from filing annual retirement plan information returns with the IRS and the Department of Labor. See the Form 5305-SEP instructions for details. If you choose not to use Form 5305-SEP, you should seek professional advice in adopting a SEP.

When not to use Form 5305-SEP. You cannot use Form 5305-SEP if any of the following apply.
- The SEP rules permit you to contribute a limited amount of money each year to each employer's SEP-IRA. If you are self-employed, you can contribute to your own SEP-IRA. Contributions must be in the form of money (cash, check, or money order). You cannot contribute property. However, participants may be able to transfer or roll over certain property from one retirement plan to another. See Publication 590 for more information about rollovers.
- You do not have to make contributions every year. But if you make contributions, they must be based on a written allocation formula and must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees (defined in chapter 1). When you contribute, you must contribute to the SEP-IRAs of all participants who actually performed personal services during the year for which the contributions are made, including employees who die or terminate employment before the contributions are made.
- Contributions are deductible within limits, as discussed later, and generally are not taxable to the plan participants.

You may be able to claim a tax credit for part of the ordinary and the maximum contribution for an eligible employee. The credit generally does not include any contributions to the SEP. The SEP plan document will specify how the employer contribution is determined and how it will be allocated to participants.

Example. Your employee, Mary Plant, earned $21,000 for 2008. The maximum contribution you can make to her SEP-IRA is $5,250 (25% x $21,000). Contributions for yourself. The annual limits on your contributions to a common-law employee's SEP-IRA also apply to contributions you make to your own SEP-IRA. However, special rules apply when figuring your maximum deductible contribution. See Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals.

Annual compensation limit. You cannot consider the part of an employee's compensation over $230,000 when figuring your contribution limit for that employee. However, $46,000 is the maximum contribution for an eligible employee. These limits increase to $245,000 and $49,000, respectively, in 2009.

Example. Your employee, Susan Green, earned $210,000 for 2008. Because of the maximum contribution limit for 2008, you can only contribute $46,000 to her SEP-IRA. More than one plan. If you contribute to a defined contribution plan (defined in chapter 4), annual additions to an account are limited to the lesser of $46,000 or 100% of the participant's compensation. When you figure this limit, you must add your contributions to all defined contribution plans. Because a SEP is considered a defined contribution plan for this limit, your contributions to a SEP must be added to your contributions to other defined contribution plans.

Tax treatment of excess contributions. Excess contributions are your contributions to an employee's SEP-IRA (or to your own SEP-IRA) for 2008 that exceed the lesser of the following amounts:

- 25% of the employee's compensation (or, for you, 20% of your net earnings from self-employment).
- $46,000 ($49,000 in 2009).

Excess contributions are included in the employee's income for the year and are treated as contributions by the employee to his or her SEP-IRA. For more information on employee tax treatment of excess contributions, see chapter 1 in Publication 590.

Reporting on Form W-2. Do not include SEP contributions on your employee's Form W-2 unless contributions were made under a salary reduction arrangement (discussed later).

Deducting Contributions

Generally, you can deduct the contributions you make each year to each employee's SEP-IRA. If you are self-employed, you can deduct the contributions you make each year to your own SEP-IRA.

Deduction Limit for Contributions for Participants

The most you can deduct for your contributions to you or your employee's SEP-IRA is the lesser of the following amounts.

1. Your contributions (including any excess contributions carried over).
2. 25% of the compensation (limited to $230,000 per participant) paid to the participant during 2008 from the business that has the plan, not to exceed $46,000 per participant.

In 2009, the $230,000 and $46,000 amounts in (2) above increase to $245,000 and $49,000, respectively.

Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals

If you contribute to your own SEP-IRA, you must make a special computation to figure your maximum deduction for these contributions. When figuring the deduction for contributions made to your own SEP-IRA, compensation is your net earnings from self-employment (defined in chapter 1), which takes into account both the following deductions:

- The deduction for one-half of your self-employment tax.
- The deduction for contributions to your own SEP-IRA.

The deduction for contributions to your own SEP-IRA and your net earnings depend on each other. For this reason, you determine the deduction for contributions to your own SEP-IRA indirectly by reducing the contribution rate called for in your plan. To do this, use the Rate Table for Self-Employed or the Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed, whichever is appropriate for your plan's contribution rate, in chapter 5. Then figure your maximum deduction by using the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed in chapter 5.

Carryover of Excess SEP Contributions

If you made SEP contributions that are more than the deduction limit (nondeductible contributions), you can carry over and deduct the difference in later years. However, the carryover, along with the contributions made with the contribution plan, is subject to the deduction limit for that year. If you also contributed to a defined benefit plan, see Carrying Over Excess Contributions under Employer Deduction in chapter 4 for the carryover limit.

Excise tax. If you made nondeductible (excess) contributions to a SEP, you may be subject to a 10% excise tax. For information about the excise tax, see Excise Tax for Nondeductible (Excess) Contributions under Employer Deduction in chapter 4.

When To Deduct Contributions

When you can deduct contributions made for a year depends on the tax year on which the SEP is maintained.

- If the SEP is maintained on a calendar year basis, you deduct the yearly contributions on your tax return for the year within which the calendar year ends.
- If you file your tax return and maintain the SEP using a fiscal year or short tax year, you deduct contributions made for a year on your tax return for that year.

Example. You are a fiscal year taxpayer whose tax year ends June 30. You maintain a SEP on a calendar year basis. You deduct SEP contributions made for calendar year 2008 on your tax return for your tax year ending June 30, 2009.

Where To Deduct Contributions

Deduct the contributions you make for your common-law employees on your tax return. For example, sole proprietors deduct them on Schedule C (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Business, or Schedule F (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Farming; partnerships deduct them on Form 1065, U.S. Return of Partnership Income; and corporations deduct them on Form 1120, U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return, or Form 1120S, U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return for an S Corporation.

Sole proprietors and partners deduct contributions for themselves on line 28 of Form 1040, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. (If you are a partner, contributions for yourself are shown on the Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), Partner's Share of Income, Deductions, Credits, etc., you receive from the partnership.)

CAUTION

Remember that sole proprietors and partners can't deduct as a business expense contributions made to a SEP for themselves, only those made for their common-law employees.

Salary Reduction Simplified Employee Pension (SARSEP)

A SARSEP is a SEP set up before 1997 that includes a salary reduction arrangement. (See the Caution, next.) Under a SARSEP, your employees can choose to have you contribute part of their pay to their SEP-IRAs rather than receive it in cash. This contribution is called an "elective deferral" because employees choose (elect) to set aside the money, and they defer the tax on the money until it is distributed to them.

You are not allowed to set up a SARSEP after 1996. However, participants (including employees hired after 1996) in a SARSEP set up before 1997 can continue to have you contribute part of their pay to the plan. If you are interested in setting up a retirement plan that includes a salary reduction arrangement, see chapter 3.

Who can have a SARSEP? A SARSEP set up before 1997 is available to you and your eligible employees only if all the following requirements are met:

- At least 50% of your employees eligible to participate choose to make elective deferrals.
- You have 25 or fewer employees who were eligible to participate in the SEP at any time during the preceding year.
- The elective deferrals of the highly compensated employees meet the SARSEP ADP test.

SARSEP ADP test. Under the SARSEP ADP test, the amount deferred each year by each eligible highly compensated employee as a percentage of pay (the deferral percentage) cannot be more than 125% of the average deferral percentage (ADP) of all non-highly compensated employees eligible to participate. A highly compensated employee is defined in chapter 1.

Deferral percentage. The deferral percentage for an employee for a year is figured as follows:

The elective employer contributions (excluding certain catch-up contributions) paid to the SEP for the employee for the year was $230,000 in 2008.

The employee's compensation (limited to $230,000 in 2008) was $230,000 in 2008.

Chapter 2 Simplified Employee Pension (SEP)
The instructions for Form 5305A-SEP have a worksheet you can use to determine whether the elective deferrals of your highly compensated employees meet the SARSEP ADP test.

Employee compensation. For figuring the deferral percentage, compensation is generally the amount you pay to the employee for the year. Compensation includes the elective deferral and other amounts deferred in certain employee benefit plans. See Compensation in chapter 1. Elective deferrals under the SARSEP are included in figuring your employees’ deferral percentage even though they are not included in the income of your employees for income tax purposes.

Compensation of self-employed individuals. If you are self-employed, compensation is your net earnings from self-employment as defined in chapter 1.

Compensation does not include tax-free items (or deductions related to them) other than foreign earned income and housing cost amounts.

Choice not to treat deferrals as compensation. You can choose not to treat elective deferrals (and other amounts deferred in certain employee benefit plans) for a year as compensation under your SARSEP.

Limit on Elective Deferrals

The most a participant can choose to defer for calendar year 2008 is the lesser of the following amounts.

1. 25% of the participant’s compensation (limited to $230,000 of the participant’s compensation in 2008 and $245,000 in 2009).
2. $15,500 in 2008 and $16,500 in 2009.

The $15,500 and $16,500 limits apply to the total elective deferrals the employee makes for the year to a SEP and any of the following:

• Cash or deferred arrangement (section 401(k) plan).
• Salary reduction arrangement under a tax-sheltered annuity plan (section 403(b) plan).
• SIMPLE IRA plan.

Catch-up contributions. A SARSEP can permit participants who are age 50 or over at the end of the calendar year to also make catch-up contributions. The catch-up contribution limit for 2008 is $5,000. This limit increases to $5,500 in 2009. Elective deferrals are not treated as catch-up contributions for 2008 until they exceed the elective deferral limit (the lesser of 25% of compensation or $15,500), the SARSEP ADP test limit discussed earlier, or the plan limit (if any). However, the catch-up contribution a participant can make for a year cannot exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

• The catch-up contribution limit.
• The excess of the participant’s compensation over the elective deferrals that are not catch-up contributions.

Catch-up contributions are not subject to the elective deferral limit (the lesser of 25% of compensation or $15,500 in 2008).

Overall limit on SEP contributions. If you also make nonelective contributions to a SEP-IRA, the total of the nonelective and elective contributions to that SEP-IRA cannot exceed the lesser of 25% of the participant’s compensation or $46,000 for 2008 ($49,000 for 2009). The same rule applies to contributions you make to your own SEP-IRA. See Contribution Limits, earlier.

Figuring the elective deferral. For figuring the 25% limit on elective deferrals, compensation does not include SEP contributions, including elective deferrals or other amounts deferred in certain employee benefit plans.

Tax Treatment of Deferrals

Elective deferrals that are not more than the limits discussed earlier under Limit on Elective Deferrals are excluded from your employees’ wages subject to federal income tax in the year of deferral. However, these deferrals are included in wages for social security, Medicare, and federal unemployment (FUTA) tax.

Excess deferrals. For 2008, excess deferrals are the elective deferrals for the year that are more than the $15,500 limit discussed earlier. For a participant who is eligible to make catch-up contributions, excess deferrals are the elective deferrals that are more than $20,500. The treatment of excess deferrals made under a SARSEP is similar to the treatment of excess deferrals made under a qualified plan. See Treatment of Excess Deferrals under Elective Deferrals (401(a) Plans) in chapter 4.

Excess SEP contributions. Excess SEP contributions are elective deferrals of highly compensated employees that are more than the amount permitted under the SARSEP ADP test. You must notify your highly compensated employee within 2½ months after the end of the plan year of their excess SEP contributions. If you do not notify them within this time period, you must pay a 10% tax on the excess. For an explanation of the notification requirements, see Rev. Proc. 91-44, 1991-2 C.B. 733. If you adopted a SARSEP using Form 5305A-SEP, the notification requirements are explained in the instructions for that form.

Reporting on Form W-2. Do not include elective deferrals in the “Wages, tips, other compensation” box of Form W-2. You must, however, include them in the “Social security wages” and “Medicare wages and tips” boxes. You must also include them in box 12. Mark the “Retirement plan” checkbox in box 13. For more information, see the Form W-2 instructions.

Distributions (Withdrawals)

As an employer, you cannot prohibit distributions from a SEP-IRA. Also, you cannot make your contributions on the condition that any part of them must be kept in the account after you have made your contributions to the employee’s accounts.

Distributions are subject to IRA rules. Generally, you or your employee must begin to receive distributions from a SEP-IRA by April 1 of the first year after the calendar year in which you or your employee reaches age 70½. However, under the Worker, Retiree, and Employer Recovery Act of 2008, required minimum distributions for 2009 are waived for IRAs, including SEP-IRAs. For more information about IRA rules, including the tax treatment of distributions, rollovers, required distributions, and income tax withholding, see Publication 590.

Additional Taxes

The tax advantages of using SEP-IRAs for retirement savings can be offset by additional taxes that may be imposed for all the following actions:

• Making excess contributions.
• Making early withdrawals.
• Not making required withdrawals.

For information about these taxes, see chapter 1 in Publication 590. Also, a SEP-IRA may be disqualified, or an excise tax may apply, if the account is involved in a prohibited transaction, discussed next.

Prohibited transaction. If an employee improperly uses his or her SEP-IRA, such as by borrowing money from it, the employee has engaged in a prohibited transaction. In that case, the SEP-IRA will no longer qualify as an IRA. For a list of prohibited transactions, see Prohibited Transactions in chapter 4.

Effects on employee. If a SEP-IRA is disqualified because of a prohibited transaction, the assets in the account will be treated as having been distributed to the employee on the first day of the year in which the transaction occurred. The employee must include in income the fair market value of the assets (on the first day of the year) that is more than any cost basis in the account. Also, the employee may have to pay the additional tax for making early withdrawals.

Reporting and Disclosure Requirements

If you set up a SEP using Form 5305-SEP, you must give your eligible employees certain information about the SEP when you set it up. See Setting Up a SEP, earlier. Also, you must give your eligible employees a statement each year showing any contributions to their SEP-IRAs. You must also give them notice of any excess contributions. For details about other information you must give them, see the instructions for Form 5305-SEP or Form 5305A-SEP (for a salary reduction SEP).

Even if you did not use Form 5305-SEP or Form 5305A-SEP to set up your SEP, you must give your employees information similar to that described above. For more information, see the instructions for either Form 5305-SEP or Form 5305A-SEP.

As part of a 401(k) plan (SIMPLE 401(k) plan).

Many financial institutions will help you set up a SIMPLE plan.

3. SIMPLE Plans

SIMPLE IRA Plan

A SIMPLE IRA plan is a retirement plan that uses SIMPLE IRAs for each eligible employee. Under a SIMPLE IRA plan, a SIMPLE IRA must be set up for each eligible employee. For the definition of an eligible employee, see Who Can Participate in a SIMPLE IRA Plan, later.

Who Can Set Up a SIMPLE IRA Plan?

You can set up a SIMPLE IRA plan if you meet both the following requirements.

- You meet the employee limit.
- You do not maintain another qualified plan unless the other plan is for collective bargaining employees.

Employee limit. You can set up a SIMPLE IRA plan only if you had 100 or fewer employees who received $5,000 or more in compensation from you for the preceding year. Under this rule, you must take into account all employees employed at any time during the calendar year regardless of whether they are eligible to participate. Employees include self-employed individuals who received earned income and leased employees (defined in chapter 1).

Once you set up a SIMPLE IRA plan, you must continue to meet the 100-employee limit each year you maintain the plan.

Grace period for employers who cease to meet the 100-employee limit. If you maintain the SIMPLE IRA plan for at least 1 year and you cease to meet the 100-employee limit in a later year, you will be treated as meeting it for the 2 calendar years immediately following the calendar year for which you last met it.

A different rule applies if you do not meet the 100-employee limit because of an acquisition, disposition, or similar transaction. Under this rule, the SIMPLE IRA plan will be treated as meeting the 100-employee limit for the year of the transaction and the 2 following years if both the following conditions are satisfied.

- Coverage under the plan has not significantly changed during the grace period.
- The SIMPLE IRA plan would have continued to qualify after the transaction if you had remained a separate employer.

The grace period for acquisitions, dispositions, and similar transactions also applies if, because of these types of transactions, you do not meet the rules explained under Other qualified plan or Who Can Participate in a SIMPLE IRA Plan, below.

Other qualified plan. The SIMPLE IRA plan generally must be the only retirement plan to which you make contributions, or to which benefits accrue, for service in any year beginning with the year the SIMPLE IRA plan becomes effective.

Exception. If you maintain a qualified plan for collective bargaining employees, you are permitted to maintain a SIMPLE IRA plan for other employees.

Who Can Participate in a SIMPLE IRA Plan?

Eligible employee. Any employee who received at least $5,000 in compensation during any 2 years preceding the current calendar year and is reasonably expected to receive at least $5,000 during the current calendar year is eligible to participate. The term “employee” includes a self-employed individual who received earned income.

You can use less restrictive eligibility requirements (but not more restrictive ones) by eliminating or reducing the prior year compensation requirements, the current year compensation requirements, or both. For example, you can allow participation for employees who received at least $3,000 in compensation during any preceding calendar year. However, you cannot impose any other conditions for participating in a SIMPLE IRA plan.

Excludable employees. The following employees do not need to be covered under a SIMPLE IRA plan.

- Employees who are covered by a union agreement and whose retirement benefits were bargained for in good faith by the employees’ union and you.
- Nonresident alien employees who have received no U.S. source wages, salaries, or other personal services compensation from you.

Compensation. Compensation for employees is the total wages, tips, and other compensation paid by employers to employees subject to federal income tax withholding and the amounts paid for domestic service in a private home, local college club, or local chapter of a college fraternity or sorority. Compensation also includes the employee’s salary reduction contributions made under this plan and, if applicable, elective deferrals under a section 401(k) plan, a SARSEP, or a section 403(b) annuity contract and compensation deferred under a section 457 plan required to be reported by the employer on Form W-2. If you are self-employed, compensation is your net earnings from self-employment (line 4, Section A, or line 6, Section B, of Schedule SE (Form 1040)) before subtracting any contributions made to the SIMPLE IRA plan for yourself.

How To Set Up a SIMPLE IRA Plan

You can use Form 5304-SIMPLE or Form 5305-SIMPLE to set up a SIMPLE IRA plan. Each form is a model savings incentive match plan for employees (SIMPLE plan) document. Which form you use depends on whether you select a financial institution or your employees select the institution that will receive the contributions.

Use Form 5304-SIMPLE if you allow each plan participant to select the financial institution for receiving his or her SIMPLE IRA plan contributions. Use Form 5305-SIMPLE if you require that all contributions under the SIMPLE IRA plan be deposited initially at a designated financial institution.

The SIMPLE IRA plan is adopted when you have completed all appropriate boxes and blank the form and you (and the designated financial institution, if any) have signed it. Keep the original form. Do not file it with the IRS.

Other uses of the forms. If you set up a SIMPLE IRA plan using Form 5304-SIMPLE or Form 5305-SIMPLE, you can use the form to satisfy other requirements, including the following:

- Meeting employer notification requirements for the SIMPLE IRA plan. Page 3 of Form 5304-SIMPLE and Page 3 of Form 5305-SIMPLE contain a Model Notification to Eligible Employees that provides the necessary information to the employees.
- Maintaining the SIMPLE IRA plan records and proving you set up a SIMPLE IRA plan for employees.

Deadline for setting up a SIMPLE IRA plan. You can set up a SIMPLE IRA plan effective on any date from January 1 through October 1 of a year, provided you did not previously maintain a SIMPLE IRA plan. This requirement does not apply if you are a new employer that comes into existence after October 1 of the year the SIMPLE IRA plan is set up and you set up a SIMPLE IRA plan as soon as administratively feasible after your business comes into existence. If you previously maintained a SIMPLE IRA plan, you can set up a SIMPLE IRA plan effective only on January 1 of a year. A SIMPLE IRA plan may be set up using an effective date that is before the date you actually adopt the plan.

Setting up a SIMPLE IRA. SIMPLE IRAs are the individual retirement accounts or annuities into which the contributions are deposited. A SIMPLE IRA must be set up for each eligible employee. Forms 5305-S, SIMPLE Individual Retirement Trust Account, and 5305-SA, SIMPLE Individual Retirement Custodial Account, are model trust and custodial account documents the participant and the trustee (or custodian) can use for this purpose.

A SIMPLE IRA cannot be a Roth IRA. Contributions to a SIMPLE IRA will not affect the amount an individual can contribute to a Roth or traditional IRA.

Deadline for setting up a SIMPLE IRA. A SIMPLE IRA must be set up for an employee before the first date by which a contribution is required to be deposited into the employee’s IRA. See Time limits for contributing funds, later, under Contribution Limits.

Credit for startup costs. You may be able to claim a tax credit for part of the ordinary and necessary costs of starting a SIMPLE IRA plan that first became effective in 2008. For more information, see Credit for startup costs under Reminders, earlier.

Notification Requirement

If you adopt a SIMPLE IRA plan, you must notify each employee of the following information before the beginning of the election period.

1. The employee’s opportunity to make or change a salary reduction choice under a SIMPLE IRA plan.
2. Your decision to make either matching contributions or nonelective contributions (discussed later).
3. A summary description provided by the financial institution.
4. Written notice that his or her balance can be transferred without cost or penalty if they use a designated financial institution.

Election period. The election period is generally the 60-day period immediately preceding January 1 of a calendar year (November 2 to December 31 of the preceding calendar year). However, the dates of this period are modified if you set up a SIMPLE IRA plan in mid-year (for example, on July 1) or if the 60-day period falls before the first day an employee becomes eligible to participate in the SIMPLE IRA plan. A SIMPLE IRA plan can provide longer periods for permitting employees to enter into salary reduction agreements or to modify prior agreements. For example, a SIMPLE IRA plan can provide a 90-day election period instead of the 60-day period. Similarly, in addition to the 60-day period, a SIMPLE IRA plan can provide quarterly election periods during the 30 days before each calendar quarter, other than the first quarter of each year.

Contribution Limits

Contributions are made up of salary reduction contributions and employer contributions. You, as the employer, must make either matching contributions or nonelective contributions, defined later. No other contributions can be made to the SIMPLE IRA plan. These contributions, which you can deduct, must be made timely. See Time limits for contributing funds, later.

Salary reduction contributions. The amount the employee chooses to have you contribute to a SIMPLE IRA on his or her behalf cannot be more than $10,500 for 2008 or $11,500 for 2009. These contributions must be expressed as a percentage of the employee’s compensation unless you permit the employee to express them as a specific dollar amount. You cannot place restrictions on the contribution amount (such as limiting the contribution percentage), except to comply with the $10,500 ($11,500 for 2009) limit. If you or an employee participates in any other qualified plan during the year and you or your employee have salary reduction contributions (election deferrals) under those plans, the salary reduction contributions under a SIMPLE IRA plan also count toward the overall annual limit ($15,500 for 2008 and $16,500 for 2009) on exclusion of salary reduction contributions and deferrals.

Catch-up contributions. A SIMPLE IRA plan can permit participants who are age 50 or over at the end of the calendar year to also make catch-up contributions. The catch-up contribution limit for 2008 and 2009 for SIMPLE IRA plans is $2,500. Salary reduction contributions are not treated as catch-up contributions for 2008 until they exceed $10,500 ($11,500 for 2009). However, the catch-up contribution a participant can make for a year cannot exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

- The catch-up contribution limit.
- The excess of the participant’s compensation over the salary reduction contributions that are not catch-up contributions.

Employer matching contributions. You are generally required to match each employee’s salary reduction contributions on a dollar-for-dollar basis up to 3% of the employee’s compensation. This requirement does not apply if you make nonelective contributions as discussed later.

Example. In 2008, your employee, John Rose, earned $25,000 and chose to deferral 5% of his salary. Your net earnings from self-employment are $40,000, and you choose to contribute 10% of your earnings to your SIMPLE IRA. You make 3% matching contributions. The total contribution you make for John is $2,000, figured as follows.

Salary reduction contributions
$25,000 × .05 $1,250

Employer matching contribution
$25,000 × .03 $750

Total contributions
$2,000

The total contribution you make for yourself is $5,200, figured as follows.

Salary reduction contributions
$40,000 × .10 $4,000

Employer matching contribution
$40,000 × .05 $2,000

Total contributions
$6,000

Lower percentage. If you choose a matching contribution less than 3%, the percentage must be at least 1%. You must notify the employees of the lower match within a reasonable period of time before the 60-day election period (discussed earlier) for the calendar year. You cannot choose a percentage less than 3% for more than 2 years during the 5-year period that ends with (and includes) the year for which the choice is effective.

Nonelective contributions. Instead of matching contributions, you can choose to make nonelective contributions of 2% of compensation on behalf of each eligible employee who has at least $5,000 (or some lower amount you select) of compensation from you for the year. If you make this choice, you must make nonelective contributions whether or not the employee chooses to make salary reduction contributions. Only $230,000 of the employee’s compensation can be taken into account to figure the contribution limit in 2008. This amount increases to $245,000 for 2009.

If you choose this 2% contribution formula, you must notify the employees within a reasonable period of time before the 60-day election period (discussed earlier) for the calendar year.
Where To Deduct Contributions
Deduct the contributions you make for your common-law employees on your tax return. For example, sole proprietors deduct them on Schedule C (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Business, or Schedule F (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Farming; partnerships deduct them on Form 1065, U.S. Return of Partnership Income; and corporations deduct them on Form 1120, U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return, or Form 1120S, U.S. Income Tax Return for an S Corporation.

Sole proprietors and partners deduct contributions for themselves on line 28 of Form 1120, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. (If you are a partner, contributions for yourself are shown on the Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), Partner’s Share of Income, Deductions, Credits, etc., you receive from the partnership.)

Tax Treatment of Contributions
You can deduct your contributions and your employee’s contributions up to $2,500 for 2008. This amount does not increase in 2009. See Notice 98-4, 1998-1 C.B. 269.

SIMPLE 401(k) Plan
You can adopt a SIMPLE plan as part of a 401(k) plan if you meet the 100-employee limit as discussed earlier under SIMPLE IRA Plan. A SIMPLE 401(k) plan is a qualified retirement plan and generally must satisfy the rules discussed under Qualification Rules in chapter 4, including the required distribution rules. However, a SIMPLE 401(k) plan is not subject to the nondiscrimination and top-heavy rules discussed in chapter 4 if the plan meets the conditions listed below.

1. Under the plan, an employee can choose to have you make salary reduction contributions for the year to a trust in an amount expressed as a percentage of the employee’s compensation, but not more than $10,500 for 2008. This limit increases to $11,500 in 2009. If permitted under the plan, an employee who is age 50 or over can also make a catch-up contribution of up to $2,500 for 2008. This amount does not increase in 2009. See Catch-up contributions, earlier under Contribution Limits.

2. You must make either:
   a. Matching contributions up to 3% of compensation for the year, or
   b. Nonelective contributions of 2% of compensation on behalf of each eligible employee who has at least $5,000 of compensation from you for the year.

3. No other contributions can be made to the trust.

4. No contributions are made, and no benefits accrue, for services during the year under any other qualified retirement plan sponsored by you on behalf of any employee eligible to participate in the SIMPLE 401(k) plan.

5. The employee’s rights to any contributions are nonforfeitable.

More Information on SIMPLE IRA Plans
If you need more help to set up and maintain SIMPLE IRA plans, see the following IRS notice.

Notice 98-4.

SIMPLE Plans

Example 1.
In 2008, your employee, Jane Wood, earned $36,000 and chose to have you contribute 10% of her salary. Your net earnings from self-employment are $50,000, and you choose to contribute 10% of your earnings to your SIMPLE IRA. You make a 2% nonelective contribution. Both of you are under age 50. The total contribution you make for Jane is $4,320, figured as follows.

Salary reduction contributions
($36,000 x 0.10) ........................................ $3,600
2% nonelective contributions
($36,000 x 0.02) ...................................... 720
Total contributions ...................................... $4,320

The total contribution you make for yourself is $8,000, figured as follows.

Salary reduction contributions
($50,000 x 0.10) ........................................ $5,000
2% nonelective contributions
($50,000 x 0.02) ...................................... 1,000
Total contributions ...................................... $6,000

Time limits for contributing funds. You must make the salary reduction contributions to the SIMPLE IRA within 30 days after the end of the month in which the amounts would otherwise be payable to the employee in cash. You must make matching contributions or nonelective contributions by the due date (including extensions) for filing your federal income tax return for the year. Certain plans subject to Department of Labor rules may have an earlier due date for salary reduction contributions.

When To Deduct Contributions
You can deduct SIMPLE IRA contributions in the tax year within which the calendar year for which contributions were made ends. You can deduct contributions for a particular tax year if you are made for that tax year and are made by the due date (including extensions) of your federal income tax return for that year.

Example 1.
Your tax year is the fiscal year ending June 30. Contributions under a SIMPLE IRA plan for the calendar year 2008 (including contributions made in 2008 before July 1, 2008) are deductible in the tax year ending June 30, 2009.

Example 2.
You are a sole proprietor whose tax year is the calendar year. Contributions under a SIMPLE IRA plan for the calendar year 2008 (including contributions made in 2009 by April 15, 2009) are deductible in the 2008 tax year.

Defined Contribution Plan

A defined contribution plan provides an individual account for each participant in the plan. It provides benefits to a participant largely based on the amount contributed to that participant's account. Benefits are also affected by any income, expenses, gains, losses, and forfeitures of other accounts that may be allocated to an account. A defined contribution plan can be either a profit-sharing plan or a money purchase pension plan.

Profit-sharing plan

Although it is called a "profit-sharing plan", you do not actually have to make a business profit for the year in order to make a contribution (except for yourself if you are self-employed as discussed under "Self-employed Individual (later)". A profit-sharing plan can be set up to allow for discretionary employer contributions, meaning the amount contributed each year to the plan is not fixed. An employer may even make no contribution to the plan for a given year.

The plan must provide a definite formula for allocating the contribution among the participants and for distributing the accumulated funds to the employees after they reach a certain age, after a fixed number of years, or upon certain other occurrences.

In general, you can be more flexible in making contributions to a profit-sharing plan than to a money purchase pension plan (discussed next) or a defined benefit plan (discussed later).

Money purchase pension plan

Contributions to a money purchase pension plan are fixed and are not based on your business profits. For example, if the plan requires that contributions be 10% of the participants' compensation without regard to whether you have profits (or the self-employed person has earned income), the plan is a money purchase pension plan. This applies even though the compensation of a self-employed individual as a participant is based on earned income derived from business profits.

Defined Benefit Plan

A defined benefit plan is any plan that is not a defined contribution plan. Contributions to a defined benefit plan are based on what is needed to provide definitely determinable benefits to plan participants. Actuarial assumptions and computations are required to figure these contributions. Generally, you will need continuing professional help to have a defined benefit plan.

Qualification Rules

To qualify for the tax benefits available to qualified plans, a plan must meet certain requirements (qualification rules) of the tax law. Generally, unless you write your own plan, the financial institution that provided your plan will take the continuing responsibility for meeting qualification rules that are later changed. The following is a brief overview of important qualification rules that generally have not yet been discussed. It is not intended to be all-inclusive. See "Setting Up a Qualified Plan, later."
Generally, the following qualification rules also apply to a SIMPLE 401(k) retirement plan. A SIMPLE 401(k) plan is, however, not subject to the top-heavy plan rules and nondiscrimination rules if the plan satisfies the provisions discussed in chapter 3 under SIMPLE 401(k) Plan.

Plan assets must not be diverted. Your plan must make it impossible for its assets to be used for, or diverted to, purposes other than the benefit of employees and their beneficiaries. As a general rule, the assets cannot be diverted to the employer.

Minimum coverage requirement must be met. To be a qualified plan, a defined benefit plan must benefit at least the lesser of the following:

1. 50 employees.
2. The greater of:
   a. 40% of all employees, or
   b. Two employees.

If there is only one employee, the plan must benefit that employee.

Contributions or benefits must not discriminate. Under the plan, contributions or benefits to be provided must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees.

Contributions and benefits must not be more than certain limits. Your plan must not provide for contributions or benefits that are more than certain limits. The limits apply to the annual contributions and other additions to the account of a participant in a defined contribution plan and to the annual benefit payable to a participant in a defined benefit plan. These limits are discussed later in this chapter under Contributions.

Minimum vesting standard must be met. Your plan must satisfy certain requirements regarding when benefits vest. A benefit is vested (you have a fixed right to it) when it becomes nonforfeitable. A benefit is nonforfeitable if it cannot be lost upon the happening, or failure to happen, of any event. Special rules apply to forfeited benefit amounts. In defined contribution plans, forfeitures can be allocated to the accounts of remaining participants in a nondiscriminatory way, or they can be used to reduce your contributions.

Forfeitures under a defined benefit plan cannot be used to increase the benefits any employee would otherwise receive under the plan. Forfeitures must be used instead to reduce employer contributions.

Participation. In general, an employee must be allowed to participate in your plan if he or she meets both the following requirements:

• Has reached age 21.
• Has at least 1 year of service (2 years if the plan is not a 401(k) plan and provides that after not more than 2 years of service the employee has a nonforfeitable right to all his or her accrued benefit).

A plan cannot exclude an employee because he or she has reached a specified age.

Leased employee. A leased employee, defined in chapter 1, who performs services for you (recipient of the services) is treated as your employee for certain plan qualification rules. These rules include those in the following areas:

• Nondiscrimination in coverage, contributions, and benefits.
• Minimum age and service requirements.
• Vesting.
• Limits on contributions and benefits.
• Top-heavy plan requirements.

Contributions or benefits provided by the leasing organization for services performed for you are treated as provided by you.

Benefit payment must begin when required. Your plan must provide that, unless the participant chooses otherwise, the payment of benefits to the participant must begin within 60 days after the close of the latest of the following:

• The plan year in which the participant reaches the earlier of age 65 or the normal retirement age specified in the plan.
• The plan year in which the 10th anniversary of the year in which the participant began participating in the plan occurs.
• The plan year in which the participant separates from service.

Early retirement. Your plan can provide for payment of retirement benefits before the normal retirement age. If your plan offers an early retirement benefit, a participant who separates from service before satisfying the early retirement age requirement is entitled to that benefit if he or she meets both the following requirements:

• Satisfies the service requirement for the early retirement benefit.
• Separates from service with a nonforfeitable right to an accrued benefit. The benefit, which may be actuarially reduced, is payable when the early retirement age requirement is met.

Required minimum distributions. Special rules require minimum annual distributions from qualified plans, generally beginning after age 70½. See Required Distributions, under Distributions, later.

Survivor benefits. Defined benefit and money purchase pension plans must provide automatic survivor benefits in both the following forms:

• A qualified joint and survivor annuity for a vested participant who does not die before the annuity starting date.
• A qualified pre-retirement survivor annuity for a vested participant who dies before the annuity starting date and who has a surviving spouse.

The automatic survivor benefit also applies to any participant under a profit-sharing plan unless all the following conditions are met:

• The participant does not choose benefits in the form of a life annuity.
• The plan pays the full vested account balance to the participant’s surviving spouse (or other beneficiary if the surviving spouse consents or if there is no surviving spouse) if the participant dies.
• The plan is not a direct or indirect transfer of a plan that must provide automatic survivor benefits.

Loan secured by benefits. If survivor benefits are required for a spouse under a plan, he or she must consent to a loan that uses as security the accrued benefits in the plan.

Required Distributions

Distri- For distributions made on or after March 28, 2005, a plan must provide for the automatic rollover of any cash-out distribution of more than $1,000 to an individual retirement account, unless the participant chooses otherwise. A section 402(f) notice must be sent prior to a nonvoluntary cash-out of an eligible rollover distribution. See Section 402(f) Notice under Distributions, later, for more details.

Consolidation, merger, or transfer of assets or liabilities. Your plan must provide that, in the case of any merger or consolidation with, or transfer of assets or liabilities to, any other plan, each participant would (if the plan then terminated) receive a benefit equal to or more than the benefit he or she would have been entitled to just before the merger, etc. (If the plan had then terminated).

Chapter 4  Qualified Plans  Page 13
Benefits must not be assigned or alienated. Your plan must provide that its benefits cannot be assigned to or alienated from anyone other than plan participants or beneficiaries.

Exception for certain loans. A loan from the plan (not from a third party) to a participant or beneficiary is not treated as an assignment or alienation if the loan is secured by the participant's accrued nonforfeitable benefit and is exempt from the tax on prohibited transactions under section 4975(d)(1) or would be exempt if the participant were a disqualified person. A disqualified person is defined later in this chapter under Prohibited Transactions.

Exception for QDRO. Compliance with a QDRO (qualified domestic relations order) does not result in a prohibited assignment or alienation of benefits.

You may be entitled to an alternate payee under a QDRO before the participant attains age 59½, but the payee must receive the participant's accrued nonforfeitable benefit and is exempt from the tax on prohibited transactions under section 4975(d)(1) or would be exempt if the participant were a disqualified person. A disqualified person is defined later in this chapter.

No benefit reduction for social security increases. Your plan must not permit a benefit reduction for a post-separation increase in the social security benefit level or wage base for any participant or beneficiary who is receiving benefits under your plan, or who is separated from service and has nonforfeitable rights to benefits. This rule also applies to plans supplementing an individually designed plan.

Limit on Elective Deferrals. If your plan provides for elective deferrals, it must limit those deferrals to the amount in effect for that particular year. See Limit on Elective Deferrals, later in this chapter.

Top-heavy plan requirements. A top-heavy plan is one that mainly favors partners, sole proprietors, and other key employees. A plan is top-heavy for a plan year if, for the preceding plan year, the total value of accrued benefits or account balances of key employees is more than 60% of the total value of accrued benefits or account balances of all employees. Additional requirements apply to a top-heavy plan primarily to provide minimum benefits or contributions for non-key employees covered by the plan.

Most qualified plans, whether or not top-heavy, must contain provisions that meet the top-heavy requirements and will take effect in plan years in which the plans are top-heavy. These qualification requirements for top-heavy plans are explained in section 416 and its regulations.

SIMPLE and safe harbor 401(k) plan exception. The top-heavy plan requirements do not apply to SIMPLE 401(k) plans, discussed earlier in chapter 3, or to safe harbor 401(k) plans that consist solely of safe harbor contributions, discussed later in this chapter. QACAs (discussed later) also are not subject to top-heavy requirements.

Setting Up a Qualified Plan

There are two basic steps in setting up a qualified plan. First you adopt a written plan. Then you invest the plan assets.

You, the employer, are responsible for setting up and maintaining the plan.

- Set-up deadline. To take a deduction for contributions for a tax year, your plan must be set up (adopted) by the last day of that year (December 31 for calendar year employers).
- Credit for startup costs. You may be able to claim a tax credit for part of the ordinary and necessary costs of starting a qualified plan that first became effective in 2008. For more information, see Credit for startup costs under Re-minders, earlier.

Adapting a Written Plan

You must adopt a written plan. The plan can be an IRS-approved master or prototype plan offered by a sponsoring organization. Or it can be an individually designed plan.

Written plan requirement. To qualify, the plan you set up must be in writing and must be communicated to your employees. The plan’s provisions must be stated in the plan. It is not sufficient for the plan to merely refer to a requirement of the Internal Revenue Code.

Master or prototype plans. Most qualified plans follow a standard form of plan (a master or prototype plan) approved by the IRS. Master and prototype plans are plans made available by plan providers for adoption by employers (including self-employed individuals). Under a master plan, a single trust or custodial account is established, as part of the plan, for the joint use of all adopting employers. Under a prototype plan, a separate trust or custodial account is established for each employer.

Plan providers. The following organizations generally can provide IRS-approved master or prototype plans.

- Banks (including some savings and loan associations and federally insured credit unions).
- Trade or professional organizations.
- Insurance companies.
- Mutual funds.

Individually designed plan. If you prefer, you can set up an individually designed plan to meet specific needs. Although advance IRS approval is not required, you can apply for approval by paying a fee and requesting a determination letter. You may need professional help for this. See Rev. Proc. 2009-6, 2009-1 I.R.B. 189, available at www.irs.gov/ib/2009-01_IRB/ar11.html, that may help you decide whether to apply for approval.

Internal Revenue Bulletins are available at the IRS website at www.irs.gov. They are also available at most IRS offices and at certain libraries.

User fee. The fee mentioned earlier for requesting a determination letter does not apply to employers who have 100 or fewer employees who received at least $5,000 of compensation from the employer for the preceding year. At least one of them must be a non-highly compensated employee participating in the plan. The fee does not apply to requests made by the later of the following dates.

- The end of the 5th plan year the plan is in effect.
- The end of any remedial amendment period for the plan that begins within the first 5 plan years.

The request cannot be made by the sponsor of a prototype or similar plan the sponsor intends to market to participating employers.

Investing Plan Assets

In setting up a qualified plan, you arrange how the plan’s funds will be used to build its assets.

- You can establish a trust or custodial account to invest the funds.
- You, the trust, or the custodial account can buy an annuity contract from an insurance company. Life insurance can be included only if it is incidental to the retirement benefits.

You set up a trust by a legal instrument (written document). You may need professional help to do this.

You can set up a custodial account with a bank, savings and loan association, credit union, or other person who can act as the plan trustee.

You do not need a trust or custodial account, although you can request that the plan’s funds be invested in annuity contracts or face-account certificates. If anyone other than a trustee holds them, however, the contracts or certificates must state they are not transferable.

Other plan requirements. For information on other important plan requirements, see Qualifica-tion Rules, earlier in this chapter.
Minimum Funding Requirement

In general, if your plan is a money purchase pension plan or a defined benefit plan, you must actually pay enough into the plan to satisfy the minimum funding standard for each year. Determining the amount needed to satisfy the minimum funding standard for a defined benefit plan is complicated, and you should seek professional help in order to meet these contribution requirements. The amount is based on what should be contributed under the plan formula using actuarial assumptions and formulas. For information on this funding requirement, see section 412 and its regulations.

Quarterly installments of required contributions. If your plan is a defined benefit plan subject to the minimum funding requirements, you must make quarterly installment payments of the required contributions. If you do not pay the full installments timely, you may have to pay interest on any underpayment for the period of the underpayment.

Due dates. The due dates for the installments are 15 days after the end of each quarter. For a calendar-year plan, the installments are due April 15, July 15, October 15, and January 15 (of the following year).

Installment percentage. Each quarterly installment must be 25% of the required annual payment.

Extended period for making contributions. Additional contributions required to satisfy the minimum funding requirement for a plan year will be considered timely if made by 4½ months after the end of that year.

Contributions

A qualified plan is generally funded by your contributions. However, employees participating in the plan may be permitted to make contributions, and you may be permitted to make contributions on your own behalf. See “Employee Contributions” and “Elective Deferrals” later.

Contributions deadline. You can make deductible contributions for a tax year up to the due date of your return (plus extensions) for that year.

Self-employed individual. You can make contributions on behalf of yourself only if you have net earnings (compensation) from self-employment in the trade or business for which the plan was set up. Your net earnings must be from your personal services, not from your investments. If you have a net loss from self-employment, you cannot make contributions for yourself for the year, even if you can contribute for common-law employees based on their compensation.

Employer Contributions

There are certain limits on the contributions and other annual additions you can make each year for plan participants. There are also limits on the amount you can deduct. See Deduction Limits, later.

Limits on Contributions and Benefits

Your plan must provide that contributions or benefits cannot exceed certain limits. The limits differ depending on whether your plan is a defined contribution plan or a defined benefit plan.

Defined benefit plan. For 2008, the annual benefit for a participant under a defined benefit plan cannot exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

1. 100% of the participant’s average compensation for his or her highest 3 consecutive calendar years.
2. $185,000 ($195,000 for 2009).

Defined contribution plan. For 2008, a defined contribution plan’s annual contributions and other additions (excluding earnings) to the account of a participant cannot exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

1. 100% of the participant’s compensation.
2. $46,000 ($49,000 for 2009).

Catch-up contributions (discussed later under Limit on Elective Deferrals) are not subject to the above limit.

Employee Contributions

Participants may be permitted to make non-deductible contributions to a plan in addition to your contributions. Even though these employee contributions are not deductible, the earnings on them are tax free until distributed in later years. Also, these contributions must satisfy the nondiscrimination test of section 401(m). See Regulations sections 1.401(k)-2 and 1.401(m)-2 for further guidance relating to the nondiscrimination rules under sections 401(k) and 401(m).

When Contributions Are Considered Made

You generally apply your plan contributions to the year in which you make them. But you can apply them to the previous year if all the following requirements are met.

1. You make them by the due date of your tax return for the previous year (plus extensions).
2. The plan was established by the end of the previous year.
3. The plan treats the contributions as though it had received them on the last day of the previous year.
4. You do either of the following.
   a. You specify in writing to the plan administrator or trustee that the contributions apply to the previous year.
   b. You deduct the contributions on your tax return for the previous year. (A partnership shows contributions for partners on Schedule K (Form 1065), Partners’ Distributive Share Items.

Employer’s promissory note. Your promissory note made out to the plan is not a payment that qualifies for the deduction. Also, issuing this note is a prohibited transaction subject to tax. See Prohibited Transactions, later.

Employer Deduction

You can usually deduct, subject to limits, contributions you make to a qualified plan, including those made for your own retirement. The contributions (and earnings and gains on them) are generally tax free until distributed by the plan.

Deduction Limits

The deduction limit for your contributions to a qualified plan depends on the kind of plan you have.

Defined contribution plans. The deduction for contributions to a defined contribution plan (profit-sharing plan or money purchase pension plan) cannot be more than 25% of the compensation paid (or accrued) during the year to your eligible employees participating in the plan. If you are self-employed, you must reduce this limit in figuring the deduction for contributions you make for your own account. See Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals later.

When figuring the deduction limit, the following rules apply.

- Elective deferrals (discussed later) are not subject to the limit.
- Compensation includes elective deferrals.
- The maximum compensation that can be taken into account for each employee is $230,000.

Defined benefit plans. The deduction for contributions to a defined benefit plan is based on actuarial assumptions and computations. Consequently, an actuary must figure your deduction limit.

In figuring the deduction for contributions, you cannot take into account any contributions or benefits that are more than the limits discussed earlier under Limits on Contributions and Benefits. However, your deduction for contributions to a defined benefit plan can be as much as the plan’s unfunded current liability.

Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals

If you make contributions for yourself, you need to make a special computation to figure your maximum deduction for these contributions. Compensation is your net earnings from self-employment, defined in chapter 1. This definition takes into account both the following items.

- The deduction for one-half of your self-employment tax.
- The deduction for contributions on your behalf to the plan.

The deduction for your own contributions and your net earnings depend on each other. For this reason, you determine the deduction for your own contributions indirectly by reducing the contribution rate called for in your plan. To do this, use either the Rate Table for Self-Employed or the Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed in chapter 5. Then figure your maximum deduction by using the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed in chapter 5.

Where To Deduct Contributions

Deduct the contributions you make for your common-law employees on your tax return. For example, sole proprietors deduct them on Schedule C (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Business, or Schedule F (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Farming; partnerships deduct them on Form 1065, U.S. Return of Partnership Income; and corporations deduct them on Form 1120, U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return, or Form 1120S, U.S. Income Tax Return for an S Corporation.

Sol proprietors and partners deduct contributions for themselves on line 28 of Form 1040, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. (If you are a partner, contributions for yourself are shown on the Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), Partner's Share of Income, Deduction, Credits, etc., you get from the partnership.)

Carryover of Excess Contributions

If you contribute more to the plans than you can deduct for the year, you can carry over and deduct the difference in later years, combined with your contributions for those years. Your combined deduction in a later year is limited to 25% of the participating employees’ compensation for that year. For purposes of this limit, a SEP is treated as a profit-sharing (defined contribution) plan. However, this percentage limit must be reduced to figure your maximum deduction for contributions you make for yourself. See Deduction Limit for Self-Employed Individuals earlier. The amount you carry over and deduct may be subject to the excise tax discussed next.

Excise Tax for Nondeductible (Excess) Contributions

If you contribute more than your deduction limit to a retirement plan, you have made nondeductible contributions and you may be liable for an excise tax. In general, a 10% excise tax applies to nondeductible contributions made to qualified pension and profit-sharing plans and to SEPs.

Special rule for self-employed individuals. The 10% excise tax does not apply to any contribution made to meet the minimum funding requirements in a money purchase pension plan or a defined benefit plan. Even if that contribution is more than your earned income from the trade or business for which the plan is set up, the difference is not subject to this excise tax. See Minimum Funding Requirement, earlier.

Reporting the tax. You must report the tax on your nondeductible contributions on Form 5330. Form 5330 includes a computation of the tax. See the separate instructions for completing the form.

Elective Deferrals (401(k) Plans)

Your qualified plan can include a cash or deferred arrangement under which participants can choose to have you contribute part of their before-tax compensation to the plan rather than receive the compensation in cash. A plan with this type of arrangement is popularly known as a “401(k) plan.” (As a self-employed individual participating in the plan, you can contribute part of your before-tax net earnings from the business.) This contribution is called an “elective deferral” because participants choose (elect) to defer receipt of the money.

In general, a qualified plan can include a cash or deferred arrangement only if the qualified plan is one of the following plans.

- A profit-sharing plan.
- A money purchase pension plan in existence on June 27, 1974, that included a salary reduction arrangement on that date.

Note. For tax years beginning after December 31, 2005, a 401(k) plan may allow employees to contribute to a qualified Roth contribution program. For more details, see Qualified Roth Contribution Program, later.

Partnership. A partnership can have a 401(k) plan.

Restriction on conditions of participation. The plan cannot require, as a condition of participation, that an employee complete more than 1 year of service.

Matching contributions. If your plan permits, you can make matching contributions for an employee who makes an elective deferral to your 401(k) plan. For example, the plan might provide that you will contribute 50 cents for each dollar your participating employees choose to defer under your 401(k) plan.

Nonelective contributions. You can also make contributions (other than matching contributions) for your participating employees without giving them the choice to take cash instead. These are called nonelective contributions.

Employee compensation limit. No more than $230,000 of the employee’s compensation can be taken into account when figuring contributions other than elective deferrals in 2008. This limit increases to $245,000 in 2009.

SIMPLE 401(k) Plan. If you had 100 or fewer employees who earned $5,000 or more in compensation during the preceding year, you may be able to set up a SIMPLE 401(k) plan. A SIMPLE 401(k) plan is not subject to the nondiscrimination and top-heavy plan requirements discussed earlier under Qualification Rules. For details about SIMPLE 401(k) plans, see SIMPLE 401(k) Plan in chapter 3.

Distributions. Certain rules apply to distributions from 401(k) plans. See Distributions From 401(k) Plans, later.

Limit on Elective Deferrals

There is a limit on the amount an employee can defer each year under these plans. This limit applies without regard to community property laws. Your plan must provide that your employees cannot defer more than the limit that applies for a particular year. For 2008, the basic limit on elective deferrals is $16,500. This amount increases to $16,500 for 2009. This limit applies to all salary reduction contributions and elective deferrals. If, in conjunction with other plans, the deferral limit is exceeded, the difference is included in the employee’s gross income.
Catch-up contributions. A 401(k) plan can permit participants who are age 50 or over at the end of the calendar year to also make catch-up contributions. The catch-up contribution limit for 2008 is $5,000. This amount increases to $5,500 for 2009. Elective deferrals are not treated as catch-up contributions for 2008 until they exceed the $15,500 limit, the ADP test limit of section 401(k)(3), or the plan limit (if any). However, the catch-up contribution a participant can make for a year cannot exceed the lesser of the following amounts.

- The catch-up contribution limit.
- The excess of the participant’s compensation over the elective deferrals that are not catch-up contributions.

Treatment of contributions. Your contributions to your own 401(k) plan are generally deductible by you for the year they are contributed. Matching or nonelective contributions will not apply to the distribution.

Notice requirement. Under the terms of the EACA, employees must be given written notice of the terms of the EACA within a reasonable period of time after each plan year. The notice must be written in a manner calculated to be understood by the average employee and be sufficiently accurate and comprehensive in order to apprise the employee of their rights and obligations under the EACA. The notice must include an explanation of the employee’s right to elect not to have elective contributions made on his or her behalf, or to elect a different percentage, and the employee must be given a reasonable period of time after receipt of the notice, before the first elective contribution is made. The notice also must explain how contributions will be invested in the absence of an investment election by the employee.

Qualified automatic contribution arrangement. A qualified automatic contribution arrangement (QACA) is a new type of safe harbor automatic enrollment plan. It contains an automatic enrollment feature and mandatory employer contributions are required. If your plan includes a QACA, it will not be subject to the ADP test (discussed later) nor the top-heavy requirements (discussed earlier). Additionally, your plan will not be subject to the ACP test if certain additional requirements are met. Under a QACA, each employee who is eligible to participate in the plan will be treated as having elected to make elective deferral contributions equal to a certain default percentage of compensation. In order to not have default elective deferrals made, an employee must make an affirmative election specifying a deferral percentage (including zero, if desired). If an employee does not make an affirmative election, the default deferral percentage must meet the following conditions.

1. It must be applied uniformly.
2. It must not exceed 10%.
3. It must be at least 3% in the first plan year it applies to an employee and through the end of the following year.
4. It must increase to at least 4% in the following plan year.
5. It must increase to at least 5% in the following plan year.
6. It must increase to at least 6% in subsequent plan years.

Matching or nonelective contributions. Under the terms of the QACA, you must make either matching or nonelective contributions according to the following terms.

1. Matching contributions. You must match contributions on behalf of each non-highly compensated employee in the following amounts.
   - An amount equal to 100% of elective deferrals, up to 1% of compensation.
   - An amount equal to 50% of elective deferrals, from 1% up to 6% of compensation.
   - Other formulas may be used as long as they are at least as favorable to non-highly compensated employees. The rate of matching contributions for highly compensated employees, including yourself, must not exceed the rates for non-highly compensated employees.

2. Nonelective contributions. You must make nonelective contributions on behalf of every non-highly compensated employee eligible to participate in the plan, regardless of whether they elected to participate, in an amount equal to at least 3% of their compensation.

Vesting requirements. All accrued benefits attributed to matching or nonelective contributions under the QACA must be 100% vested for all employees who complete two years of service. These contributions are subject to special withdrawal restrictions, discussed later.

Notice requirements. Each employee eligible to participate in the QACA must receive written notice of their rights and obligations under the QACA, within a reasonable period of time before each plan year. The notice must be written in a manner calculated to be understood by the average employee, and it must be accurate and comprehensive. The notice must explain their right to elect not to have elective contributions made on their behalf, or to have contributions made at a different percentage than the default percentage. Additionally, if the QACA contains two or more investment options, the notice must explain how contributions will be invested in the absence of any investment election by the employees. The employees must have a reasonable period of time after receiving the notice to make such contribution and investment elections prior to the first contributions under the QACA.

Treatment of excess deferrals. If the total of an employee’s deferrals is more than the limit for 2008, the employee may have the difference (called an excess deferral) paid out of any of the plans that permit these distributions. He or she must notify the plan by April 15, 2009 (or an earlier date if required by law), of the amount to be paid from each plan. The plan must then pay the employee that amount by April 15, 2009.

Excess withdrawn by April 15. If the employee takes out the excess deferral by April 15, 2009, it is not reported again by including it in the employee’s gross income for 2009. However, any income earned on the excess deferral taken out is taxable in the year in which it is taken out. The distribution is not subject to the additional 10% tax on early distributions.

If the employee takes out part of the excess deferral and the income on it, the distribution is treated as made proportionately from the excess deferral and the income.
Even if the employee takes out the excess deferral by April 15, the amount will be considered for purposes of nondiscrimination testing requirements of the plan, unless the distributed amount is for a non-highly compensated employee who participates in only one employer’s 401(k) plan or plans.

Excess not withdrawn by April 15. If the employee does not take out the excess deferral by April 15, 2009, the excess, though taxable in 2008, is not included in the employee’s cost basis in figuring the taxable amount of any eventual benefits or distributions under the plan. In effect, an excess deferral left in the plan is taxed twice, once when contributed and again when distributed. Also, if the entire deferral is allowed to stay in the plan, the plan may not be a qualified plan.

Reporting corrective distributions on Form 1099-R. Report corrective distributions of excess deferrals (including any earnings) on Form 1099-R. For specific information about reporting corrective distributions, see the Instructions for Forms 1099-R and 5498.

Tax on excess contributions of highly compensated employees. The law provides tests to detect discrimination in a plan. If tests, such as the actual deferral percentage test (ADP test) (see section 401(k)(3)) and the actual contribution percentage test (ACP test) (see section 401(m)(2)), show that contributions for highly compensated employees are more than the test limits for these contributions, the employer may have to pay a 10% excise tax. Report the tax on Form 5330. The ADP test does not apply to a safe harbor 401(k) plan (discussed below) nor to a QACA. Also, the ACP test does not apply to these plans if certain additional requirements are met.

The tax for the year is 10% of the excess contributions for the plan year ending in your tax year. Excess contributions are elective deferrals, employee contributions, or employer matching or nonelective contributions that are more than the amount permitted under the ADP test or the ACP test.

See Regulations sections 1.401(k)-2 and 1.401(m)-2 for further guidance relating to the nondiscrimination rules under sections 401(k) and 401(m).

If the plan fails the ADP or ACP testing, and the failure is not corrected by the end of the next plan year, the plan can be disqualified.

Safe harbor 401(k) plan. If you meet the requirements for a safe harbor 401(k) plan, you do not have to satisfy the ADP test, nor the ACP test, if certain additional requirements are met. For your plan to be a safe harbor plan, you must meet the following conditions.

1. Matching or nonelective contributions. You must make matching or nonelective contributions according to one of the following formulas:

   a. Matching contributions. You must make matching contributions according to the following rules.

      i. You must contribute an amount equal to 100% of each non-highly compensated employee’s elective deferrals, up to 3% of their compensation.

      ii. You must contribute an amount equal to 50% of each non-highly compensated employee’s elective deferrals, from 3% up to 5% of their compensation.

      iii. The rate of matching contributions for highly compensated employees, including yourself, must not exceed the rates for non-highly compensated employees.

   b. Nonelective contributions. You must make nonelective contributions, without regard to whether the employee made elective deferrals, on behalf of all non-highly compensated employees eligible to participate in the plan, equal to at least 3% of the employee’s compensation.

   These mandatory matching and nonelective contributions must be immediately 100% vested and are subject to special withdrawal restrictions.

2. Notice requirement. You must give each eligible employee written notice of their rights and obligations with regard to contributions under the plan, within a reasonable period before the plan year.

   The other requirements for a 401(k) plan, including withdrawal and vesting rules, must also be met for your plan to qualify as a safe harbor 401(k) plan.

Qualified Roth Contribution Program

Under this program an eligible employee can designate all or a portion of his or her elective deferrals as Roth contributions. Elective deferrals designated as Roth contributions must be maintained in a separate Roth account. However, unlike other elective deferrals, designated Roth contributions are not excluded from employees’ gross income, but qualified distributions from a Roth account are excluded from employees’ gross income.

Elective Deferrals

Under a qualified Roth contribution program, the amount of elective deferrals that an employee may designate as a Roth contribution is limited to the maximum amount of elective deferrals attributable from gross income for the year ($15,500 for 2008, $20,500 if age 50 or over or $16,500 for 2009, $22,000 if age 50 or over) less the total amount of the employee’s elective deferrals not designated as Roth contributions.

Designated Roth deferrals are treated the same as pre-tax elective deferrals for most purposes, including:

- The annual individual elective deferral limit (total of all designated Roth contributions and traditional, pre-tax elective deferrals) — $15,500 for 2008 ($16,500 for 2009), with an additional $5,000 if age 50 or over ($5,500 for 2009),
- Determining the maximum employee and employer annual contributions—the lesser of 100% of compensation or $46,000 for 2008 ($49,000 for 2009) and subject to cost-of-living adjustment thereafter,
- Nondiscrimination testing,
- Required distributions, and
- Elective deferrals not taken into account for purposes of deduction limits.

Qualified Distributions

A qualified distribution is a distribution that is made after the employee’s nonexclusion period and:

- On or after the employee attains age 59 1/2,
- On account of the employee’s being disabled, or
- On or after the employee’s death.

An employee’s nonexclusion period for a plan is the 5-tax-year period beginning with the earlier of the following tax years:

- The first tax year in which the employee made a designated Roth contribution to the plan, or
- If a rollover contribution was made to the employee’s designated Roth account from a designated Roth account previously established for the employee under another plan, then the first tax year the employee made a designated Roth contribution to the previously established account.

Since 2006 was the first year an employee could make designated Roth contributions, the earliest a qualified distribution can be made is January 1, 2011.

Rollover. A distribution from a designated Roth account can only be rolled over to another designated Roth account or a Roth IRA. Rollover amounts do not apply toward the annual deferral limit.

Reporting Requirements

You must report a contribution to a Roth account on Form W-2 and a distribution from a Roth account on Form 1099-R. See the Form W-2 and 1099-R instructions for detailed information.

Distributions

Amounts paid to plan participants from a qualified plan are called distributions. Distributions may be nonperiodic, such as lump-sum distributions, or periodic, such as annuity payments. Also, certain loans may be treated as distributions. See Loans Treated as Distributions in Publication 575.

Required Distributions

A qualified plan must provide that each participant will either:
Contributions.

Distributions during a participant’s death.

See Publication 575 for the special rules covering distributions made after the death of a participant.

Distributions from 401(k) Plans

Generally, distributions cannot be made until one of the following occurs.

- The employee retires, dies, becomes disabled, or otherwise suffers a serious illness.
- The plan ends and no other defined contribution plan or similar plans are maintained or continued.
- A distribution is properly rolled over as discussed below.

Almost all distributions made after age 70 1/2 are taxable.

Note.

Distributions are required to be made by April 1 of the year following the year in which the participant reaches age 70 1/2.

A distribution from a designated Roth account will have a cost basis of the amount contributed to the account and earnings (if any).

Rollover of nontaxable amounts.

You may be able to roll over the nontaxable part of a distribution from a qualified plan.

Withholding requirement.

If, during a year, a distribution from a qualified plan is made, a recipient is subject to withholding.

Note.

More information about rollovers, see Rollovers in Pubs. 575 and 590.

Withholding requirement.

If, during a year, a qualified plan pays to a participant one or more eligible rollover distributions (defined earlier) that are reasonably expected to total $200 or more, the payor must withhold 20% of each payment to a participant.

Note.

More information about withholding, see Withholding in Pubs. 575 and 590.
If the distribution is not an eligible rollover distribution, defined earlier, the 20% withholding requirement does not apply. Other withholding rules apply to distributions such as long-term periodic distributions and required distributions (periodic or nonperiodic). However, the participant can still choose not to have tax withheld from these distributions. If the participant does not make this choice, the following withholding rules apply.

- For periodic distributions, withholding is based on their treatment as wages.
- For nonperiodic distributions, 10% of the taxable part is withheld.

Estimated tax payments. If no income tax is withheld or not enough tax is withheld, the recipient of a distribution may have to make estimated tax payments. For more information, see Withholding Tax and Estimated Tax in Publication 575.

Section 402(f) Notice. If a distribution is an eligible rollover distribution, as discussed earlier, you must provide a written notice to the recipient that explains the following rules regarding such distributions.

1. That the distribution may be directly transferred to an eligible retirement plan and information about which distributions are eligible for this direct transfer.
2. That tax will be withheld from the distribution if it is not directly transferred to an eligible retirement plan.
3. That the distribution will not be subject to tax if transferred to an eligible retirement plan within 60 days after the date the recipient receives the distribution.
4. Certain other rules that may be applicable.

Timing of notice. The notice generally must be provided no less than 30 days and no more than 180 days before the date of a distribution.

Method of notice. The written notice must be provided individually to each distributee of an eligible rollover distribution. Posting of the notice is not sufficient. However, the written requirement may be satisfied through the use of electronic media if certain additional conditions are met. See Regulations section 1.401(a)-21.

Tax on Early Distributions. If a distribution is made to an employee under the plan before he or she reaches age 59½, the employee may have to pay a 10% additional tax on the distribution. This tax applies to the amount received that the employee must include in income.

Exceptions. The 10% tax will not apply if distributions before age 59½ are made in any of the following circumstances:

- Made to a beneficiary (or to the estate of the employee) on or after the death of the employee.
- Made due to the employee having a qualifying disability.
- Made as part of a series of substantially equal periodic payments beginning after separation from service and made at least annually for the life or life expectancy of the employee or the joint lives or life expectancies of the employee and his or her designated beneficiary. (The payments under this exception, except in the case of death or disability, must continue for at least 5 years or until the employee reaches age 59½, whichever is the longer period.)
- Made to an employee after separation from service if the separation occurred during or after the calendar year in which the employee reached age 55.
- Made to an alternate payee under a QDRO.
- Made to an employee for medical care up to the amount allowable as a medical expense deduction (determined without regard to whether the employee itemizes deductions).
- Timely made to reduce excess contributions under a 401(k) plan.
- Timely made to reduce excess employee or matching employer contributions (excess aggregate contributions).
- Timely made to reduce excess elective deferrals.
- Made because of an IRS levy on the plan.
- Made as a qualified reservist distribution.
- Made as a permissible withdrawal from an EACA.

Reporting the tax. To report the tax on early distributions, file Form 5329, Additional Taxes on Qualified Plans (Including IRAs) and Other Tax-Favored Accounts. See the form instructions for more information.

Tax on Excess Benefits. If you are or have been a 5% owner of the business maintaining the plan, amounts you receive at any age that are more than the benefits subject to the additional tax is not eligible for the optional methods of figuring income tax on a lump-sum distribution. Other withholding methods are discussed under Lump-Sum Distributions in Publication 575.

Excise Tax on Reversion of Plan Assets. A 20% or 50% excise tax is generally imposed on the cash and fair market value of other property an employer receives directly or indirectly from a qualified plan. If you owe this tax, report it on Schedule I of Form 5330. See the form instructions for more information.

Notification of Significant Benefit Accrual Reduction. An employer or the plan will have to pay an excise tax if both the following occur:

- A defined benefit plan or money purchase pension plan is amended to provide for a significant reduction in the rate of future benefit accrual.
- The plan administrator fails to notify the affected individuals and the employee organizations representing them of the reduction in writing. Affected individuals are the participants and alternate payees whose rate of benefit accrual under the plan may reasonably be expected to be significantly reduced by the amendment.

A plan amendment that eliminates or reduces any early retirement benefit or retirement-type subsidy reduces the rate of future benefit accrual.

The notice must be written in a manner calculated to be understood by the average plan participant and must provide enough information to allow each individual to understand the effect of the plan amendment. It must be provided within a reasonable time before the amendment takes effect.

The tax is $100 per participant or alternate payee for each day the notice is late. It is imposed on the employer, or, in the case of a multi-employer plan, on the plan.

There are certain exceptions to, and limitations on, the tax. The tax does not apply in any of the following situations:

- The person liable for the tax was unaware of the failure and exercised reasonable diligence to meet the notice requirements.
- The person liable for the tax exercised reasonable diligence to meet the notice requirements and provided the notice within 30 days starting on the first date the person knew or should have known that the failure to provide notice existed.

If the person liable for the tax exercised reasonable diligence to meet the notice requirement, the tax cannot be more than $500,000 during the tax year. The tax can also be waived to the extent it would be excessive or unfair if the failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.
Prohibited Transactions

Prohibited transactions are transactions between the plan and a disqualified person that are prohibited by law. (However, see Exemption, below.) If you are a disqualified person who takes part in a prohibited transaction, you must pay a tax (discussed later).

Prohibited transactions generally include the following transactions.

1. A transfer of plan income or assets to, or use of them by or for the benefit of, a disqualified person.
2. Any act of a fiduciary by which he or she deals with plan income or assets in his or her own interest.
3. The receipt of consideration by a fiduciary for his or her own account from any party dealing with the plan in a transaction that involves plan income or assets.
4. Any of the following acts between the plan and a disqualified person.
   a. Selling, exchanging, or leasing property.
   b. Lending money or extending credit.
   c. Furnishing goods, services, or facilities.

Exemption. Certain transactions are exempt from being treated as prohibited transactions. For example, a prohibited transaction does not take place if you are a disqualified person and receive any benefit to which you are entitled as a plan participant or beneficiary. However, the benefit must be figured in the taxable period. If the transaction is corrected within this period, the IRS will abate, credit, or refund the 100% tax.

Tax on Prohibited Transactions

The initial tax on a prohibited transaction is 15% of the amount involved for each year (or part of a year) in the taxable period. If the transaction is not corrected within the taxable period, an additional tax of 100% of the amount involved is imposed. For information on correcting the transaction, see Correcting a prohibited transaction.

Reporting Requirements

You may have to file an annual return/report form by the last day of the 7th month after the plan year ends. See the following list of forms to choose the right form for your plan.

Form 5500-EZ. You can use Form 5500-EZ if the plan meets all the following conditions.

- The plan is a one-participant plan, as defined below.
- The plan meets the minimum coverage requirements of section 410(b) without being combined with any other plan you may have that covers other employees of your business.
- The plan only provides benefits for you, your spouse, or one or more partners and their spouses.
- The plan does not cover a business that is a member of an affiliated service group, a controlled group of corporations, or a group of businesses under common control.
- The plan does not cover a business that leases employees.

One-participant plan. Your plan is a one-participant plan if either of the following occurs.

- The plan covers only you (or you and your spouse) and you (or you and your spouse) own the entire business (whether incorporated or unincorporated).
The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

- The plan covers only one or more partners (or partner(s) and spouse(s)) in a business partnership.

Form 5500-EZ not required. If you meet the conditions mentioned above and your one-participant plan (or plans) had total assets of $250,000 or less at the end of the plan year, then you do not have to file Form 5500-EZ (or Form 5500) for that plan year. All plans should file a Form 5500-EZ (or Form 5500) for the final plan year to show that all plan assets have been distributed.

Example. You are a sole proprietor and your plan meets all the conditions for filing Form 5500-EZ. The total plan assets are more than $250,000. You should file Form 5500-EZ.

All one-participant plans should file Form 5500-EZ for their final plan year, even if the total plan assets have always been less than $100,000 for plans beginning on or before December 31, 2006, and $250,000 for plans beginning on or after January 1, 2007. The final plan year is the year in which distribution of all plan assets is completed.

Form 5500. If you do not meet the requirements for filing Form 5500-EZ, you must file Form 5500.

Schedule A (Form 5500), Insurance Information. If any plan benefits are provided by an insurance company, insurance service, or similar organization, complete and attach Schedule A (Form 5500) to Form 5500. Schedule A is not needed for a plan that covers only one of the following:

1. An individual or an individual and spouse who wholly own the trade or business, whether incorporated or unincorporated.
2. Partners in a partnership or the partners and their spouses.

Note. For the 2008 plan year, Schedule B (Form 5500), Actuarial Information, is no longer available for filing. Schedule B (Form 5500) has been replaced by two collection vehicles: Schedule MB (Form 5500), Multiemployer Defined Benefit Plan and Certain Money Purchase Plan Actuarial Information, and Schedule SB (Form 5500), Single-Employer Defined Benefit Plan Actuarial Information.

For most defined benefit plans, complete and attach Schedule MB (Form 5500) or Schedule SB (Form 5500) to Form 5500. For more information on these new schedules, see the Instructions for Form 5500.

Do not file Schedule A (Form 5500), Schedule MB (Form 5500), or Schedule SB (Form 5500) with Form 5500-EZ. However, filers of Form 5500-EZ must collect and retain a completed Schedule MB or a completed and signed Schedule SB, if applicable.

Form 5310. If you terminate your plan and are the plan sponsor or plan administrator, you can file Form 5310, Application for Determination for Terminating Plan. Your application must be accompanied by the appropriate user fee and Form 8717, User Fee for Employee Plan Determination, Opinion, and Advisory Letter Request.

More information. For more information about reporting requirements, see the forms and their instructions.

Note. For small plans with 25 or fewer participants, certain simplified filing choices may be available. See the Instructions for Form 5500.
Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed

Step 1
Enter your net profit from line 31, Schedule C (Form 1040); line 3, Schedule C-EZ (Form 1040); line 36, Schedule F (Form 1040); or box 14, code A*, Schedule K-1 (Form 1065).

Step 2
Enter your deduction for self-employment tax from line 27, Form 1040.

Step 3

Step 4
Enter your rate from the Rate Table for Self-Employed or Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed.

Step 5
Multiply step 3 by step 4.

Step 6
Multiply $230,000 by your plan contribution rate (not the reduced rate).

Step 7
Enter the smaller of step 5 or step 6.

Step 8
Contribution dollar limit. $46,000.

Step 9
Enter your allowable elective deferrals (including designated Roth contributions) made to your self-employed plan during 2008. Do not enter more than $15,500.

Step 10
Subtract step 9 from step 8.

Step 11
Subtract step 9 from step 3.

Step 12
Enter one-half of step 11.

Step 13
Enter the smaller of step 7, 10, or 12.

Step 14
Subtract step 13 from step 3.

Step 15
Enter the smaller of step 9 or step 14.

Step 16
Subtract step 15 from step 14.

Step 17
Enter your catch-up contributions (including designated Roth contributions), if any. Do not enter more than $5,000.

Step 18
Enter the smaller of step 16 or step 17.

Step 19
Add steps 13, 15, and 18.

Step 20
Enter the amount of designated Roth contributions included on lines 9 and 17.

Step 21
Subtract step 20 from step 19. This is your maximum deductible contribution.

Next: Enter this amount on line 28, Form 1040.

Table and Worksheets for the Self-Employed

As discussed in chapters 2 and 4, if you are self-employed, you must use the following rate table or rate worksheet and deduction worksheet to figure your deduction for contributions you made for yourself to a SEP-IRA or qualified plan.

First, use either the rate table or rate worksheet to find your reduced contribution rate. Then complete the deduction worksheet to figure your deduction for contributions.

The table and the worksheets in chapter 5 apply only to self-employed individuals who have only one defined contribution plan, such as a profit-sharing plan. A SEP plan is treated as a profit-sharing plan. However, do not use this worksheet for SAR-SEPs.

Rate table for self-employed. If your plan’s contribution rate is a whole percentage (for example, 12% rather than 12 1/2%), you cannot use the table on the next page to find your reduced contribution rate. Otherwise, use the rate worksheet provided below.

First, find your plan contribution rate (the contribution rate stated in your plan) in Column A of the table. Then read across to the rate under Column B. Enter the rate from Column B in step 4 of the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed on this page.

Example. You are a sole proprietor with no employees. If your plan’s contribution rate is 10% of a participant’s compensation, your rate is 0.090909. Enter this rate in step 4 of the Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed on this page.

Rate worksheet for self-employed. If your plan’s contribution rate is not a whole percentage (for example, 10 1/2%), you cannot use the Rate Table for Self-Employed. Use the following worksheet instead.

Rate Worksheet for Self-Employed

1) Plan contribution rate as a decimal
   (for example, 10 1/2% = 0.105)

2) Rate in line 1 plus 1 (for example, 0.105 + 1 = 1.105)

3) Self-employed rate as a decimal rounded to at least 3 decimal places
   (line 1 + line 2) (for example, 0.105 + 1.105 = 1.210)

Figuring your deduction. Now that you have your self-employed rate from either the rate table or rate worksheet, you can figure your maximum deduction for contributions for yourself by

The deduction for annual employer contributions (other than elective deferrals) to a SEP plan, a profit-sharing plan, or a money purchase plan cannot be more than 20% of your net earnings (figured without deducting contributions for yourself) from the business that has the plan.

Example

You are a sole proprietor with no employees. The terms of your plan provide that you contribute 81% (.085) of your compensation to your plan. Your net profit from line 31, Schedule C (Form 1040) is $200,000. You have no elective deferrals or catch-up contributions. Your self-employment tax deduction on line 27 of Form 1040 is $9,002. See the filled-in portions of both Schedule SE (Form 1040), Self-Employment Income, and Form 1040, later.

You figure your self-employed rate and maximum deduction for employer contributions you made for yourself as follows.

See the filled-in Deduction Worksheet for Self-Employed on this page.

Rate Table for Self-Employed

1. Plan contribution rate as a decimal (for example, 10%/ 1 = 0.10) | 0.085
2. Rate in line 1 plus 1 (for example, 0.105 + 1 = 1.105) | 1.085
3. Self-employed rate as a decimal rounded to at least 3 decimal places (line 1 ÷ line 2) (for example, 0.105 ÷ 1.105 = 0.095) | 0.078

How To Get Tax Help

You can get help with unresolved tax issues, order free publications and forms, ask tax questions, and get information from the IRS in sever- al ways. By selecting the method that is best for you, you will have quick and easy access to tax help.

Contacting your Taxpayer Advocate. The Taxpayer Advocate Service (TAS) is an inde- pendent organization within the IRS whose em- ployees assist taxpayers who are experiencing economic harm, who are seeking help in resolv- ing tax problems that have not been resolved through normal channels, or who believe that an IRS system or procedure is not working as it should.

You can contact the TAS by calling the TAS toll-free case intake line at 1-877-777-4778 or TTY/TDD 1-800-829-4059 to see if you are eligi- ble for assistance. You can also call or write to your local taxpayer advocate, whose phone number and address are listed in your local telephone directory and in Publication 1546, The Taxpayer Advocate Service – Your Voice at the IRS. You can file Form 911, Request for Taxpayer Advocate Service Assistance (And Appli- cation for Taxpayer Assistance Order), or ask an IRS employee to complete it on your behalf. For more information, go to www.irs.gov/advocate.

Taxpayer Advocacy Panel (TAP). The TAP listens to taxpayers, identifies taxpayer is- sues, and makes suggestions for improving IRS services and customer satisfaction. If you have suggestions for improvements, contact the TAP, toll free at 1-888-912-1227 or go to www.improverirs.org.

Low Income Taxpayer Clinics (LITCs). LITCs are independent organizations that pro- vide low income taxpayers with representation in federal tax controversies with the IRS for free or for a nominal charge. The clinics also provide tax education and outreach for taxpayers with limited English proficiency or who speak English as a second language. Publication 4134, Low Income Taxpayer Clinic List, provides informa- tion on clinics in your area. It is available at www.irs.gov or at your local IRS office.

Free tax services. To find out what services are available, get Publication 910, IRS Guide to Free Tax Services. It contains a list of free tax publications and describes other free tax infor- mation services, including tax education and assistance programs and a list of TeleTax top- ics. Accessible versions of IRS published prod- ucts are available on request in a variety of alternative formats for people with disabilities.

Internet. You can access the IRS web- site at www.irs.gov 24 hours a day, 7 days a week:

• E-file your return. Find out about commer- cial tax preparation and e-file services available free to eligible taxpayers.
• Check the status of your 2008 refund. Go to www.irs.gov and click on Where’s My Refund? Wait at least 72 hours after the IRS acknowledges receipt of your e-filed return, or 3 to 4 weeks after mailing a paper return. If you filed Form 8379 with your return, wait 14 weeks (11 weeks if you filed electronically). Have your 2008 tax return available so you can provide your social security number, your filing status, and the exact whole dollar amount of your refund.
• Download forms, instructions, and publica- tions.
• Order IRS products online.
• Research your tax questions online.
• Search publications online by topic or keyword.
• View Internal Revenue Bulletins (IRBs) published in the last few years.

• Figure your withholding allowances using the withholding calculator online at www. irs.gov/withholding.
• Determine if Form 6251 must be filed us- ing our Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT) Assistant.
• Sign up to receive local and national tax news by email.
• Get information on starting and operating a small business.

Phone. Many services are available by phone.

• Ordering forms, instructions, and publica- tions. Call 1-800-829-3676 to order cur- rent-year forms, instructions, and publications and prior-year forms and in- structions. You should receive your order within 10 days.
• Asking tax questions. Call the IRS with your tax questions at 1-800-829-1040.
• Retirement plan assistance. If you own a business and have questions about start- ing a pension plan, an existing plan, or filing Form 5500, call our Tax Exempt/ Government Entities Customer Account Services at 1-877-829-5500. Assistance is available Monday through Friday. If you have questions about a traditional or Roth IRA or any individual income tax issues, you should call 1-800-829-1040.

• Solving problems. You can get face-to-face help solving tax problems every business day in IRS Taxpayer As- sistance Centers. An employee can ex- plain IRS letters, request adjustments to your account, or help you set up a pay- ment plan. Call your local Taxpayer Assis- tance Center for an appointment. To find the number, go to www.irs.gov/localcontacts or look in the phone book under United States Govern- ment, Internal Revenue Service.

• TTY/TDD equipment. If you have access to TTY/TDD equipment, call 1-800-829-4059 to ask tax questions or to order forms and publications.
• TeleTax topics. Call 1-800-829-4477 to lis- ten to pre-recorded messages covering various tax topics.
• Refund information. To check the status of your 2008 refund, call 1-800-829-1954 during business hours or 1-800-829-4477 (automated refund information 24 hours a day, 7 days a week). Wait at least 72 hours after the IRS acknowledges receipt of your e-filed return, or 3 to 4 weeks after mailing a paper return. If you filed Form 8379 with your return, wait 14 weeks (11 weeks if you filed electronically). Have your 2008 tax return available so you can provide your social security number, your filing status, and the exact whole dollar amount of your refund. Refunds are sent out weekly on Fridays. If you check the status of your refund and are not given the date it will be issued, please wait until the next week before checking back.

• Other refund information. To check the status of a prior year refund or amended return refund, call 1-800-829-1954.

Evaluating the quality of our telephone serv- ices. To ensure that IRS representatives give accurate, courteous, and professional answers, we use several methods to evaluate the quality of our telephone services. One method is for a second IRS representative to listen in on or record random telephone calls. Another is to ask some callers to complete a short survey at the end of the call.

Walk-in. Many products and services are available on a walk-in basis.

• Products. You can walk in to many post offices, libraries, and IRS offices to pick up certain forms, instructions, and publica- tions. Some IRS offices, libraries, grocery stores, copy centers, city and county gov- ernment offices, credit unions, and office supply stores have a collection of products available to print from a CD or photocopy from reproducible proofs. Also, some IRS offices and libraries have the Internal Rev- enue Code, regulations, Internal Revenue Bulletins, and Cumulative Bulletins avail- able for research purposes.

• Services. You can walk in to your local Taxpayer Assistance Center every busi- ness day for personal, face-to-face tax help. An employee can explain IRS letters, request adjustments to your tax account, or help you set up a payment plan. If you need to resolve a tax problem, have ques- tions about how the tax law applies to your individual tax return, or you’re more com- fortable talking with someone in person, visit your local Taxpayer Assistance Center where you can spread out your records and talk with an IRS representative face-to-face. No appointment is necessary, but if you prefer, you can call your local Center and leave a message requesting an appointment to resolve a tax account issue. A representative will call you back within 2 business days to schedule an in-person appointment at your convenience. To find the number, go to www.
irs.gov/localcontacts or look in the phone codebook under United States Government, Internal Revenue Service.

Mail. You can send your order for forms, instructions, and publications to the address below. You should receive a response within 10 business days after your request is received.
