

DOL News Brief

March 1, 2012

Subscribe | Send Feedback | PDF Version

SHARE [social media icons]

Setting The Record 'Straight'

Secretary Solis took to the airwaves on Thursday to talk about the dangers of formaldehyde in hair straightening products.

In an interview on ABC's Good Morning America, Solis pushed back on misconceptions in the industry that Brazilian Blowout and similar products do not contain formaldehyde - which have been known to cause cancer. The Occupational Safety and Health Administration issued a hazard alert in April 2011 warning salon owners and workers of misleading information from manufacturers. In a January settlement with the California attorney general's office, the makers of Brazilian Blowout agreed to cease deceptive advertising of the products as formaldehyde-free, in addition to applying warning stickers to the products to inform stylists of the hazards and safe use guidelines.

- Watch the Segment
• Read OSHA's Hazard Alert
• Read the Blog Entry

Who's Minding Your Nest Egg? Borzi talks with Inside E Street

Getting the best possible financial advice can be challenging. There are things that workers can do now to protect their savings, and the Employee Benefits Security Administration is taking action to make sure that people saving for retirement get only the best advice available when they invest. Watch as Assistant Secretary of Labor for Employee Benefits Security Phyllis Borzi helps AARP's Inside E Street answer the question, "Who's Minding Your Nest Egg?"

- Watch the Segment

Helping Vets

What's Hot

CC2C Bus Tour: The Importance of Partnerships

Vice President Biden joined Labor Secretary Solis and Dr. Jill Biden at the last stop of the Community College to Career Bus Tour in Thomasville, N.C., last Friday. The trio visited a lab for automated manufacturing at the Davidson County Community College in Thomasville, and at the lab met with students, teachers and business leaders.

The college recently used federal grant money to create an advanced machining lab and a manufacturing technology program that is becoming a national model, and expanding, thanks to Labor Department funding. Solis and Dr. Biden kicked off the CC2C Bus Tour on Feb. 22 in Ohio, and made stops in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina. The tour highlighted successful partnerships between community colleges and local employers that are providing students - of all ages - with the skills they need to succeed in today's workplace. Over the course of the tour, Solis and Dr. Biden, who has been teaching in community colleges for 18 years, learned how Cincinnati State is training in-demand health-care workers and building a national model in the process; how a small community college in Southwestern Virginia helped entice a major employer to set up shop; and how a technical college is helping Ford Motor Co. re-tool its Louisville Assembly Plant and its Kentucky workforce. These partnerships pay off. In Tennessee, a growing automotive parts supplier has committed to hiring laid-off workers if they complete a special seven-week training program launched with a federal grant by Roane State Community College.

- View the Slideshows
• Read the Blog Posts
• Read the White House News Release
• Tell Us How Partnerships Benefitted You and Your Community

VP Announces $500 million for Community College Training Programs

Secretary Solis and Dr. Jill Biden were joined by Vice President Joe Biden at the end of their three-day, five-state bus tour to announce the availability of $500 million in a second round of the Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training grant program. Speaking at Davidson County Community College in North Carolina, VP Biden said that Deputy Secretary of Labor Seth Harris delivered the keynote address at the American Legion's 52nd Annual Conference on Tuesday. In addition, as part of the Legion's employment roundtable, Harris spoke about the department's veterans initiatives, including partnerships with the Departments of Defense and Veterans Affairs to ensure priority counseling and job training opportunities. The discussion included representatives from the American Legion, as well as members of the armed forces, the Department of Veterans Affairs, private employers such as NBC Universal, and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. The group explored ways the government can better provide services to unemployed and homeless veterans. Roundtable participants also spoke to values and the crucial role private-public partnerships play in addressing unemployment among returning service members and their families.

Manufacturing Staying Strong

Navistar International is showing what's possible in this new age for manufacturing. On Wednesday, Jay Williams, director of the administration's Office of Recovery for Auto Communities and Workers, traveled to Springfield, Ohio, to visit Navistar, which has recalled nearly 200 workers it previously laid off. Since December 2010, demand in Navistar products has led to a doubling of production in the company's Springfield assembly plant. In addition to bringing folks back on the job, the company recently announced plans to add 40 new jobs, including the first full-time union jobs since 1999. Navistar, producer of commercial trucks, school buses and diesel engines, is the perfect example of how building high-quality products efficiently can lead to good, well-paying American jobs.

- View the Slideshow

VETS Reaching Out To Employers, Job Seekers in Seattle

Ismael Ortiz, deputy assistant secretary of labor for the Veterans' Employment and Training Service, took part in a "Hire America's Heroes Career Day" for veterans held Feb. 24 in Seattle, Wash. Ortiz told the hundreds of veterans and participating employers in attendance about the these funds will help community colleges partner with local businesses to expand and improve education and career training programs which prepare workers with the skills those employers need. "Building a well-educated, high-skilled workforce is critical for the ongoing strengthening of our economy," said Solis. The Department of Labor awarded approximately $500 million in September 2011 in the first round of the program. Availability of additional funds will be announced later this year.

- Read the White House News Release
- Learn More about TAACCCT

News You Can Use

Talent Has No Boundaries

A nationwide webinar co-produced by the Departments of Labor and Defense was broadcast on Tuesday to highlight the Workforce Recruitment Program for College Students with Disabilities. Titled "Talent Has No Boundaries," the webinar reached more than 800 federal officials and was hosted as part of Executive Order 13548, which calls for increasing federal employment of individuals with disabilities. It provided guidance on how to search for talented employees, provide reasonable accommodations and publicize success stories. All federal agencies should consider WRP as a talent-rich pipeline for summer hiring, in addition to permanent employment goals. Questions and reported hires should be directed to Laureen Henderson at henderson.laureen@dol.gov.

- Learn more about the 2012 WRP

Q. What Can YOU Do? A. Win A PRIZE!

The Campaign for Disability Employment, a national collaborative effort funded by the department's Office of Disability Employment Policy, has announced the availability of prizes for the winners of the "What Can YOU do?" video contest. The campaign will recognize winners in up to three specific categories (general public, youth and employer), and the public will be encouraged to select those winners. First place winners in each of the three categories will be recognized and awarded an Apple iPad, and cash prizes will be awarded to second place winners in the general public and youth categories. The deadline to enter is March 30.

- Learn More About the Contest

DOL Updates African-American Labor Force Report

The Department of Labor published an update to "The African-American Labor Force in the Recovery" report this week. The report highlights a decline in the unemployment rate of African-American males, women and youth in January 2012, as well as a modest rebound in the labor force participation rate of African-American males, among other notable changes. Despite this progress, challenges remain, and the report catalogs recent efforts by the department and the Obama administration to improve labor market conditions for African-Americans and other struggling communities. In the coming months, the department will publish updates to its reports on Hispanics and women. A new report on the status of young workers in the labor force also will be issued.

- Read the Report
- Read the Other Labor Force Reports

EBSA Talks To Latinos About Health Care ... En Espaol!

The first Spanish-language health benefits benefits veterans bring to the workplace. Saying they bring discipline and multiple skill sets to every job and "will give you what you need to make your business successful," Ortiz added. "Our nation has a sacred obligation to help returning service personnel find good jobs and receive the benefits they are entitled to" and that the Labor Department is leading those efforts. The hiring fair was co-sponsored by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and included Amazon, IBM, Prudential, Target and Union Pacific Railroad.

OWCP Hosts Inter-Agency Outreach on FECA Initiatives

Workers' compensation and safety personnel gathered Tuesday at the Labor Department for a meeting hosted by the Office of Workers' Compensation Programs. Acting director of OWCP Gary Steinberg shared the uniformly positive results that agencies achieved in meeting "return-to-work" goals set forth in the president's POWER Initiative during fiscal year 2011. Steinberg also provided an update on the status of reform of the Federal Employees' Compensation Act being deliberated in Congress. Following his presentation, Technical Assistance Chief Julia A. Tritz led a team in demonstrating the new Employees' Compensation Operations and Management Portal, an online tool that will modernize the way FECA claims are administered. The meeting, held two to three times annually, provides an opportunity for the agency community to engage with OWCP leadership on activities and initiatives that have a direct impact on the agency's work.

- View the Presentation

Herrera Is New 'SecRep'

Secretary Solis has announced the appointment of Millie Herrera as her representative to the states of Florida, Georgia, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, North Carolina and South Carolina. Within the Department of Labor, secretary's representatives — also known as "SecReps" — serve as liaisons to state and local government officials and community stakeholders, and are responsible for amplifying key programs and initiatives of the department. Before joining the department, Herrera founded The Miami Group, which provided business and webinar held by the Employee Benefits Security Administration — in partnership with FamiliesUSA — took place Wednesday. "More than 13.7 million Latinos are in a health benefit plan through their job, but many do not know their rights when it comes to their health care and the federal laws to protect them and their coverage," said Secretary Solis in her welcoming remarks. The webinar provided practical information about how workers can maintain or obtain health coverage for their families when work or life changes — such as losing a job, getting married or having a baby — happen.

- View the Webinar
- Health Benefits Publications (Spanish)
- DOL Benefits Assistance (Spanish)

FMLA Advisor is Latest in 'elaws' Series

The Employment Laws Assistance for Workers and Small Businesses, or "elaws," advisors were developed by the Labor Department to help employers and employees understand federal employment laws and resources. The most recent advisor reflects updated regulations and amendments to the Family and Medical Leave Act. The online resource helps clarify which employers are required to provide FMLA leave as well as which employees to take such leave. Additionally, it outlines valid reasons for leave, employer and employee notice requirements, and other responsibilities under the law.

- View elaws Website
- Visit the FMLA Advisor
- Learn more about FMLA

EBSA Helping Women Plan For Retirement

Many women are unprepared for their long-term financial needs heading into retirement. But there are steps they can take now to ensure a more secure future. That was the message delivered to more than 100 attendees at the Employee Benefits Security Administration's retirement forum held Feb. 25 in Boston. According to Assistant Secretary of Labor for EBSA Phyllis C. Borzi, women are likely to contribute less to an employer-sponsored retirement plan during their career and, on average, earn less than men. Due to these challenges and their longer life expectancy, women could struggle to cover their living expenses throughout extended periods of their retirement. Borzi and other forum panelists, including experts in consumer protection and retirement law, offered attendees tools for retirement planning that they can use now to prevent hardship in later years. The forum was held in coordination with the Center for Retirement Research at Boston College.

- View the Slideshow
- Read About Women and Retirement Savings

Comment Period Extended for EBSA's MEWA Proposal

The Employee Benefits Security Administration has extended by two weeks the comment period on its proposed rule requiring multiple employer welfare arrangements to register with the department. Under the proposed rule, MEWAs must register prior to operating in a state or be subject to substantial penalties. This step will allow the department to track MEWAs as they move from state to state, and yield important information regarding potentially fraudulent arrangements. Interested parties now have until March strategic marketing consulting services to domestic and international companies as well as nonprofit organizations. She also has served in management positions with a variety of technology companies. Herrera has advocated for the rights of women, children, workers and immigrants for more than 15 years.

WHD Reaches Out To Asian Workers

A Forum for Asian Workers was hosted by the Wage and Hour Division's Northern New Jersey District Office and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's New York region on Feb. 28 in Palisades Park. The forum provided Asian workers from northern New Jersey with vital information about minimum wage, overtime and workplace safety and health protections. Korean, Chinese and Hindi-speaking representatives assisted nearly 30 attendees by answering questions and offering information relevant to all industries.

- View the Slideshow

Martinez Talks Technology at Disabilities Conference

Kathleen Martinez, assistant secretary of labor for disability employment policy, spoke Thursday at the 27th Annual International Technology and Persons with Disabilities Conference hosted by California State University, Northridge. She highlighted the Labor Department's efforts to promote the development and adoption of accessible workplace technology by employers, including progress on a related Office of Disability Employment Policy initiative. Additionally, she discussed "ePolicyWorks," an online collaborative workspace where members share information and resources, and can access organizational tools that support policymaking efforts to address employment barriers for people with disabilities.

- Learn more on Accessible Workplace Technology
- Visit ePolicyWorks

Shiu: Contractors Have Moral Imperative for Diversity in 19 to submit comments on the proposed rule via the Federal eRulemaking Portal at <http://www.regulations.gov> or electronic delivery to the agency at E-OHPSCAMEWARRegistration.EBSA@dol.gov.

Green Scene

Helping Women Find Green Jobs

The Department of Labor's Women's Bureau launched "Why Green is Your Color: A Woman's Guide to a Sustainable Career" at a roundtable in Portland, Oregon on Wednesday. Partners in the green economy, leaders representing tradeswomen and workers joined Labor Department officials for the roundtable discussion on women and green jobs. "We are looking forward to working with members of the workforce development and trades communities across the country to help women transition into higher paying jobs that serve as a pathway into the middle class," stated Betty Lock, regional administrator for the Women's Bureau. The guide is designed to help women find and keep higher paying jobs in the clean energy economy.

- View the Slideshow
- Find out More
- Read the Report

Around DOL

DOL Celebrates African-American History Month

In recognition of African-American History Month, the department's Civil Rights Center hosted an event honoring "Black Women in American History and Culture" on Tuesday. Special guest Barbara Arnwine, executive director of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, spoke to a packed room about accomplishments of black women throughout American history and her own personal experience as a voice for civil rights.

- View the Slideshow

Priority Status for Whistleblower Protection Program

As part of its efforts to strengthen employees' voices in the workplace, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration has announced a major restructuring of the Office of the Whistleblower Protection Program. The program now will report directly to the Office of the Assistant Secretary rather than to the agency's Directorate of Enforcement Programs. This move represents a significantly elevated priority status for whistleblower enforcement, which now will be overseen directly by Assistant Secretary of Labor for OSHA Dr. David Michaels.

- Read the News Release

DOL Working for You

WIA Putting California Back To Work

Upon becoming unemployed for the first time in 17 years, Joyce Billingsley dusted off her old resume and said she felt "like a dinosaur." But

Hiring

Being a federal contractor is a privilege that comes with the responsibility of providing equal employment opportunities for all job applicants and employees. Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs Director Patricia Shiu delivered this message to the Equal Employment Advisory Council's annual membership meeting on Thursday. Shiu informed the group that, over the last three years, OFCCP has successfully garnered job offers and back wages for tens of thousands of workers. With a focus on pay equity, the agency has changed the way it does business and, in so doing, is helping to close the pay gap for women. "This focus on wage-based discrimination is critical to closing the pay gap, which costs the average working woman about $380,000 over a lifetime of work and is even greater for women of color and women with disabilities," said Shiu.

Upcoming Deadlines & Events

Open Funding Opportunities

WB to Host Women Veterans Resource/Job Fair in Dallas

The Women's Bureau will sponsor a Women Veterans Resource/Job Fair on March 8 in Dallas to connect women veterans with resources, services and employment information. The free event will address issues such as reaching out to those who are homeless, at risk of becoming homeless and/or facing challenges in transitioning military work experiences into civilian jobs.

WB — Women Veterans Resource/Job Fair

- March 8 — Dallas, TX

EBSA — Voluntary Fiduciary Correction Program and Abandoned Plan Program Workshop

- March 20 \(AM\) — Detroit, MI
- March 20 \(PM\) — Detroit, MI

ETA — H-2B Final Rule Webinar

- March 14 — Online
- March 20 — Online
- March 27 — Online

MSHA — Spring Thaw Workshop

- March 6 — Bloomington, IL
- March 6 — Ontario, CA
- March 8 — Portland, ME
- March 12 — Denver, CO

thanks to funding from the Workforce Investment Act, she received personal counseling services and job training that led to an interview and, eventually, full-time employment. Billingsley visited the WorkSource Center in Canoga Park, Calif., which helped her update her resume by emphasizing her experience in administration in the insurance industry. Staff at the center also helped her look for and apply for jobs online. She landed a job with a local women-operated company that produces hair products for multi-ethnic women. The training program "changed my life tremendously and helped me get back on my feet," Billingsley said.

In Alabama, Ex-offender Turns Successful Business Owner

Phillip Gurley has become a successful small businessman in Alabama thanks to funding from the Employment and Training Administration aimed at reintegrating ex-offenders into society. After serving his time, Gurley was placed in skills training programs through the local Dannon Project, which provides mentoring, job training and employment help to non-violent individuals. Gurley worked a series of jobs, earned a college degree and even mentored other Dannon Project clients. He now runs a customer service company and is hoping to hire more workers in the future. Gurley said the help he received "opened my eyes to the fact that people do care and are willing to give you a chance if you prove you can do the job."

DOL in Action

Kuehne Chemical Fined for Workplace Hazards at Delaware Facility

South Kearny, N.J.-headquartered Kuehne Chemical Co. Inc. has been cited by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration for eight repeat and 13 serious safety and health violations at its Delaware City, Del., facility. Proposed penalties total $139,000 following an inspection that was initiated as part of OSHA's Site-Specific Targeting Program for industries with high injury and illness rates.

- Read the News Release

Continued Assistance for Hurricane Recovery Efforts in Puerto Rico

An $8,563,333 National Emergency Grant increment to continue cleanup and recovery efforts in the aftermath of Hurricane Irene, which struck Puerto Rico in August 2011, was announced by the U.S. Department of Labor.

- Read the News Release

US Postal Service Sued for Violating Whistleblower Protections

The Department of Labor has sued the U.S. Postal Service alleging discrimination and retaliation against a safety specialist at a Seattle Processing and Distribution Center who provided information to an employee wishing to file a safety complaint with the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. OSHA's investigation found that the Postal Service followed a pattern of adverse actions against the safety specialist, violating the whistleblower protection provisions of Section 11(c) of the

OFCCP — Aiding Vulnerable Populations/Communities; Filing Complaints

- March 19 — Salem, OR

OFCCP — Building Partnerships for the Community

- March 8 — Memphis, TN
- March 15 — Miami, FL
- March 15 — Memphis, TN
- March 22 — Memphis, TN

OFCCP — Building Veteran Partnerships

- March 21 — Jacksonville, FL

OFCCP — Collaboration Event

- March 21 — Bloomsburg, PA

OFCCP — Community Based Organizations Roundtable Collaboration

- March 14 — Pittsburgh, PA
- March 14 — Richmond, VA
- March 28 — Pittsburgh, PA
- March 28 — Richmond, VA

OFCCP — Compliance Assistance Seminar

- March 26 — San Francisco, CA

OFCCP — Compliance Assistance Seminar - Construction

- March 8 — Philadelphia, PA

OFCCP — Compliance Assistance Workshop - Filing Complaints with OFCCP

- March 8 — Portland, OR

OFCCP — Development of Written Affirmative Action Programs

- March 8 — Omaha, NE

OFCCP — National Origin Discrimination

- March 22 — Omaha, NE

OFCCP — The OFCCP Internet Applicant Recordkeeping Rule

- March 21 — Online

OFCCP — Operation Home Work Veterans EXPO

- March 15 — Stamford, CT

OFCCP — So You've Been Scheduled

- March 16 — Los Angeles, CA

OFCCP — Supply and Service

Occupational Safety and Health Act. The department is asking for a permanent injunction against the Postal Service to prevent future violations of the law, as well as payment to the safety specialist of lost wages and benefits, and compensatory damages for emotional distress.

- Read the News Release

Optimizing the H-2A Worker Program

In keeping with ongoing efforts to improve customer service and performance, the Labor Department announced several updates to the H-2A worker program, including modifications to the H-2A Employer Handbook, FAQs, and related materials from the Employment and Training Administration. The Wage and Hour Division made clarifying changes to its H-2A program materials, including workers' rights resources, fact sheets and workplace posters. Notices about the program updates were made Wednesday and will be published on March 2 in the Federal Register.

- Read the News Release
- Learn More About H-2A

Problem Mines Targeted by Federal Inspectors

Inspectors from the Mine Safety and Health Administration targeted 16 mines across the country during January's round of impact inspections. Among the mines visited last month was K and D Mining, Inc.'s Mine No. 17 in Harlan County, Ky. Inspectors found that the mine operator failed to properly maintain conveyer belts and allowed combustible materials to accumulate along the belt lines. Two of those belt lines had missing or stuck rollers, causing friction and creating the potential for an ignition. The mine operator also failed to comply with the roof control plan, which required the installation of additional roof support to protect miners from being injured by falling rock.

- Read the News Release

NY Restaurant Workers to Receive Nearly $765,000 in Back Wages

A chain of five Long Island, N.Y., Japanese restaurants and their president, Wen Chun Su, also known as Walter Su, have agreed to pay a total of $764,796 in back wages, liquidated damages and interest to 161 employees, according to the terms of a consent judgment that resolves a lawsuit filed by the Department of Labor. The suit resulted from an investigation by the Long Island District Office of the Wage and Hour Division, which found that, since 2008, Su and the restaurants had violated the Fair Labor Standards Act's minimum wage, overtime pay and record-keeping provisions. The Wage and Hour Division is seeking to locate all of the workers who are due back wages. Former employees are encouraged to contact the division's Westbury, N.Y., office at 516-338-1890.

- Read the News Release

Legal Action Taken Against San Antonio Lath & Plaster
The U.S. attorney's office in San Antonio has filed a complaint with the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Texas against San Antonio Lath & Plaster Inc. to collect $234,450 in delinquent fines assessed by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration for workplace safety violations. The company was issued 26 citations during the course of six inspections at various job sites in Texas between February 2007 and December 2010. The company failed to respond to orders of the independent Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission.

- Read the News Release

Florida Aluminum Fabricator Cited for Combustible Dust
Fritz Aluminum Services Inc. has been cited by the Occupational Safety and

AAP/Educational Seminar

- March 7 — Pittsburgh, PA

OFCCP — Supply and Service AAP Seminar for Small and New Contractors

- March 13 — Baltimore, MD

OFCCP — Workplace Accommodations

- March 15 — Omaha, NE

OLMS — Compliance Seminar

- March 8 — Fort Worth, TX
- March 8 — San Francisco, CA
- March 20 — Texarkana, AK
- March 21 — St. Louis, MO
- March 27 — Pittsburgh, PA
- March 28 — Pittsburgh, PA

OSHA — 7th Annual Central Alabama Construction Safety Conference and Expo

- March 22 — Montgomery, AL

OWCP — Town Hall Meetings to Assist Nuclear Weapons Workers

- March 14 — Amarillo, TX

WB — African-American Women in the Military: Past and Present

- March 10 — Kansas City, MO

Health Administration with 37 violations for exposing workers to a variety of safety and health hazards, including combustible dust accumulations, at the company's Eustis, Fla., facility. OSHA opened an inspection in September after receiving a complaint. Proposed penalties total $139,800. Due to repeat violations and the nature of the hazards, OSHA has placed Fritz Aluminum Services in its Severe Violator Enforcement Program.

- Read the News Release

Former West Virginia Union President Sentenced for Embezzlement

An Office of Labor-Management Standards embezzlement investigation has led to home confinement for a former West Virginia union official. Freda Hensley, former president of Steelworkers Local 8-14505 in West Logan, was sentenced to five years of probation, including six months of home confinement with electronic monitoring. She also was ordered to pay restitution of $36,489.68. Hensley pleaded guilty in October 2011 to embezzling from her union after an OLMS investigation found that she wrote 50 unauthorized checks to herself and two to her mother.

Yaskawa America Cited after Worker Suffers Burns

Wisconsin-based Yaskawa America Inc. has been cited by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration with six safety – including one willful – violations, after a worker suffered burns from an electrical shock on Sept. 15 at the company's Oak Creek manufacturing facility. Proposed penalties total $91,000. The company produces drives and motion control components for heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems. The willful violation is for allowing the worker to come in contact with exposed energized parts on testing equipment.

- Read the News Release

Follow USDOL on

- New on the Blog - On the Road to Better Jobs for America
<http://t.co/QsAgTTHn> about an hour ago
- DOL Deputy Secretary Seth Harris recently participated in a panel discussion about the Government Performance and...
<http://t.co/keNsO3YT> about 3 hours ago

Previous Issues | Follow us on Twitter | Subscribe | Send Feedback | Unsubscribe

U.S. Department of Labor, Frances Perkins Building, 200 Constitution Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20210
www.dol.gov | Telephone: 1-866-4-USA-DOL (1-866-487-2365) (1-866-487-2365) | TTY: 1-877-889-5627 | Contact Us