

Work Plan for Activities under the April 2014 Joint Declaration
Concerning Public Communications
MEX 2003-1, MEX 2005-1, and MEX 2011-1
June 16, 2014

On April 3, 2014, the Secretaries of Labor of the United States and Mexico signed a Ministerial Consultations Joint Declaration in response to Public Communications MEX 2003-1, MEX 2005-1, and MEX 2011-1 under the North American Agreement on Labor Cooperation (NAALC) concerning H-2A and H-2B workers in the United States. The Joint Declaration directed the U.S. and Mexican National Administrative Offices (NAOs) to develop a work plan for carrying out educational and outreach activities to inform H-2A and H-2B workers and their employers in the United States about their rights and responsibilities within 60 days of its signing and to explore possible collaboration to facilitate efforts to combat unlawful recruitment practices.

In consultation with the U.S. Department of Labor's (DOL) Wage and Hour Division (WHD) and Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) as well as the Mexican and U.S. Embassies and Consulates in the United States and Mexico, and civil society organizations in both countries, including the submitters of the public communications, the U.S. and Mexican NAOs have developed the following work plan to carry out activities throughout the United States and Mexico. The activities are intended to educate Mexican workers on H-2A and H-2B visas about their rights under applicable U.S. labor laws and how to exercise them, as well as to provide compliance information to their employers.

Activities in the United States

Experts from WHD, joined by OSHA where applicable, will lead activities in strategic locations that will target H-2A and H-2B workers and employers in key sectors. The experts will present information to workers and will also be available to receive information from workers about their individual employment situations. Other organizations, including the National Labor Relations Board, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Legal Service Corporation grantees and other local legal services providers, state labor enforcement agencies, and local labor advocacy organizations, will also be invited to participate and share information at the events. Informational materials in Spanish on U.S. labor laws and how workers can exercise their labor rights, including how to file complaints, will be provided. DOL will coordinate with the Mexican Embassy and Consulates and civil society organizations to find appropriate venues for, and to disseminate information about, these activities. DOL and the Mexican Embassy and Consulates will coordinate on outreach and information dissemination for employers, including by reaching out to employer organizations.

The locations for, and sectors covered by, these activities were chosen based on: research on current H-2 worker populations; employer certification data from DOL's Employment and Training Administration's (ETA) Office of Foreign Labor Certification (OFLC) Public Disclosure Data, and OFLC's most recent annual report; DOL enforcement data; and consultations with the submitters of the public communications. The proposed activities are listed in the charts below, subject to change based on available resources and other relevant considerations, including availability of appropriate venues. DOL and the Mexican Embassy and Consulates will explore adding additional informational activities for employers, pending available resources and other relevant considerations.
