

We Work for Workers.

We have rewarding career opportunities for just about anyone excited by our mission of providing good and safe jobs for all workers. We're looking for those with the skills to lead people and to manage projects. We're looking for team players, too. Are you a good communicator? Are you undaunted by a fast-paced, ever-changing work environment? Then there's a place for you at the U.S. Department of Labor.

Whether you've worked in the military, corporate world, manufacturing, academia and research, or in a non-profit setting, we believe your skills are transferable, and you'll find a challenging and rewarding career with us.

Our Model Employees.

We think our colleagues are all models of competence, confidence and commitment. So we've made them our models. Each person seen in this publication works at the U.S. Department of Labor. Workers are their business.

Workers are Our Business.

www.dol.gov

U.S. Department of Labor

Opportunities are Open.

Economists

Computer Specialists

Benefits Advisors

Auditors

Investigators

Engineers

Mine Safety Inspectors

Unemployment Insurance Program Specialists

Apprenticeship and Training Representatives

Workforce Development Specialists

Grants Management Specialists

Safety and Occupational Health Specialists

Workers' Compensation Claims Examiners

Veterans' Employment Program Specialists

Wage and Hour Investigators

Industrial Hygienists

Equal Opportunity Specialists

Human Resources Specialists

Criminal Investigators

Labor Investigators

Attorneys

A Good Job.

For 100 years, our mission has been to serve and protect American workers, prepare them for new and better jobs, and ensure the safety of America's workplace. It's a mission more important today than ever before. That's why we are center stage in the drive to maintain America's leadership in skills and productivity, and transform the greatest workforce on earth to the new paradigms of this 21st century.

We're about Good Jobs. Safe Jobs. Secure Jobs. Green Jobs.

Sound like the job for you?

Supportive Work Environment.

You'll find a supportive work environment where quality of life is a high priority. Flexible work schedule options, child care services, fitness centers, even civic minded volunteer initiatives---we've focused our attention on setting the standard for the model workplace.

In addition, federal employees enjoy a long list of benefits, including generous holiday and vacation leave, outstanding health care options and retirement programs.