I am commenting on the proposed rule to stop trading options in IRa's. I have been doing this for several years and have seen no risks in doing so.

I am able to hedge via married puts; add income by covered calls and credit spreads etc. To stop me from doing this is ridiculous.

I see no more risks in trading options than the drop in the Dow this past week of 1000 points on the open and then recovering during the week.

In addition to this letter I am planning to send my comments to my congressional team and have them do everything to ensure this reg. does not occur.
