General Comment

Any change or restriction on trading within an IRA or Roth IRA account is not necessary for those of us who have taken the time to learn proper options trading. I have grown my retirement account and I know that some option trades reduce risk, rather than increase it. Please do not change or limit the ability to trade options with in an IRA account. Some of us count on the proceeds of these trades to maintain our retirement lifestyle. Don't mess with a good thing.
