General Comment

I trade options for a living and to know that I can't grow my retirement account without the use of options is ridiculous. When learning how to use options correctly it is far less risky than holding shares of stock. It bear markets like today the buy and hold investor gets crushed. With the proper use of options my retirement accounts continues to have a positive equity curve. I am adamantly against a rule change where we will not be able to utilize options in my retirement accounts. Thank you.
