To whom it may concern,

As an active investor who has worked since age 14 to diligently prepare for our retirement, I have read with disgust the government's attempt to "help" me in another area of my life with an idiotic set of regulations. This administration is out of control and rest assured, the American people are getting damned tired of efforts to control our lives and our hard earned savings.

I will resist this and every attempt to add more control where it does not belong in my life. Enough is enough. I suppose your regulatory efforts are aimed at making our investment activities as great as our health insurance has been helped by this out of control administration. Well we all know how that turned out - but wait, as federal employees, your healthcare was not impacted was it?

Will Obama and his team lie again and state: "If you like your brokers, you can keep them." Deceit is rampant across the Beltway and can no longer be tolerated. We, the tax paying American people, have had enough!
