General Comment

We should focus on empowering people not controlling them. Lets give them a world to look forward too - by respecting the environment and each other. People may not be the 'smartest' with managing money, so lets start teaching children in schools about how to mange money. If we need to save money in this country lets look at healthcare. It seems this idea is that seniors don't have enough money thus getting ill more? People get ill because they are being poisoned by our inadequate food supply that is full of man made ingredients that aren't even given time to be tested before entering the market. Cancer rates are skyrocketing and the healthcare that goes along with that is just disturbing. It had become an industry with no signs of stopping. Toto big to really care what the real goal is - to do no harm and to find the cause. Lets find a cause instead of a band aid.
