General Comment

The Federal Government has done a miserable job of "managing" my required Social Security contributions and I do not believe the government needs to be in the retirement business at all. Just send me what I have paid in since I began working in 1973 and let me manage it for the remainder of my life. We all know that is not possible, since that and all other monies are spent or owed before they are collected. In regard to private pensions and savings, etc. They are private and the government has no right to touch them. Let me take care of myself. I don't need a baby sitter.
