Dear EBSA,

My name is Keefe Abbott. I want this to be short and direct. I don't want anyone making any decisions about my money and future except me, unless I directly choose for their assistance.

The answer is not for the American people, is not taking control of their money for them. The best thing for the American people is to teach them to properly plan for the future and manage their money.

It is the difference between giving a person a fish to eat or teaching that person to fish... feeding them for life!

Sincerely,
Keefe Abbott
