General Comment

To whom i t may concern:

If the US government or the current administration is considering any rules or laws to restrict the use of 401K or any private retirement savings I have invested in. My simple words are to keep your hands off my hard earned money and keep the current regulations unchanged. It is my opinion that if anything is considered and that the party whose idea is to change regulations to restrict use of private funds is none of their business. And if anyone should have any "smart ideas" about more government intervention should forfeit their retirement and benefits to the public as and example of fool hardedness.. History shown that more government intervention whether slowly or quickly sends a society down the road to socialism and governments run by an individual or a handful that have a say and no one to rebuke. In other words a dictatorship.
