General Comment

Please ensure that the public is protected with this proposed rule. Don't let the financial services industry weaken the rule. It's hard enough to plan for retirement without worrying that the financial advice we're given is not in our best interest. Too much is at stake!

Weakening the rule would only make ordinary Americans less trusting of the government and might discourage some from doing all they can to plan for a reasonable retirement. I need to know that my financial planner puts my interest and well being first, ahead of his need to maximize his income.
