Advisers should play by the same rules

When you go to car lot, you don't necessarily expect the salesmen to put your financial interests first. Help roll over your 401k? Or deciding what to do with your retirement savings before the U.S. Department of Labor. Should an adviser help you put financial interests first? When you want an annuity or IRAs lump sum? Should you be governed by a higher legal standard than your car salesman?

That's the issue before the U.S. Department of Labor. Should an adviser help you put financial interests first? Help roll over your 401k? Or decide what to do with your retirement savings before the U.S. Department of Labor. Should an adviser help you put financial interests first? When you want an annuity or IRAs lump sum? Should you be governed by a higher legal standard than your car salesman?

When you go to a car lot, you don't necessarily expect the salesmen to put your financial interests first. Help roll over your 401k? Or deciding what to do with your retirement savings before the U.S. Department of Labor. Should an adviser help you put financial interests first? When you want an annuity or IRAs lump sum? Should you be governed by a higher legal standard than your car salesman?

When you go to a car lot, you don't necessarily expect the salesmen to put your financial interests first. Help roll over your 401k? Or deciding what to do with your retirement savings before the U.S. Department of Labor. Should an adviser help you put financial interests first? When you want an annuity or IRAs lump sum? Should you be governed by a higher legal standard than your car salesman?

When you go to a car lot, you don't necessarily expect the salesmen to put your financial interests first. Help roll over your 401k? Or deciding what to do with your retirement savings before the U.S. Department of Labor. Should an adviser help you put financial interests first? When you want an annuity or IRAs lump sum? Should you be governed by a higher legal standard than your car salesman?

When you go to a car lot, you don't necessarily expect the salesmen to put your financial interests first. Help roll over your 401k? Or deciding what to do with your retirement savings before the U.S. Department of Labor. Should an adviser help you put financial interests first? When you want an annuity or IRAs lump sum? Should you be governed by a higher legal standard than your car salesman?