If you want to offer people the option of putting their 401K's into govt. sponsored annuities, go to it. There are plenty of foolish people out there. However, do not even begin to think of making it mandatory in any way shape or form. My Social Security taxes are being funneled to support Wall Street's gambling and the big IOU that says I'll still collect when I retire is looking a bit shaky. I will not allow my 401K to be siphoned off to fund an out of control deficit. That's all that this is about. It is not about retirement security. I'll drain the account and spend the money before I let the govt. take what I have carefully saved all these years.
