To Whom It May Concern:

In response to the question of support for the government takeover of 401(k)s or other retirement accounts, my response is an emphatic "NO!!!" My money is mine to do with it what I will. You already get enough from me every year to spend on things I don't agree with. Perhaps this is someone's idea of a back-door way to pay for Obamacare. I can manage my own money thank you very much. Having the government molly-coddle the populace is no way to engender personal fiscal responsibility. But then I'd expect nothing less from a government that seems to have no grasp of basic economics anyway.

Respect property rights: hands off our retirement savings!
