General Comment

My comment only addresses the controversial coverage of contraception.

I believe this coverage is critical to our society and especially to the more vulnerable among us. I believe the religious exemptions are adequate. I understand that some object to paying, through their premiums, the cost of healthcare coverage they oppose. However, such important guidelines are drafted collectively and with the collective good of our society in mind. Laws and guidelines that affect large numbers of people will rarely please everyone; it's one of the tradeoffs of living within a large organized society. Thank you for your hard work.
