as a tsp participant, i am troubled that the people i seek advice from may have a financial incentive to roll my account into a fund or funds that they manage even though my expenses would be higher resulting in lower returns for me. there should be legal consequences for such actions.