As a constituent who works in the financial investment industry, I wanted to share with you my comments regarding President Trump's memorandum ordering the DOL to reexamine the Fiduciary Rule:

On April 4, 2017, the Department of Labor (DOL) finalized the delay of the applicability date of its Fiduciary Rule (the Rule) to June 9, 2017 to conduct a study of the rule's impact per President Trump's February memorandum. While I appreciate the DOL delaying the implementation of the rule, it seems as though it may give in to pressure to repeal the rule from those who are unwilling to change the way they do things. This would be a grave mistake. For the longest time, I have wondered why a fiduciary standard has not been implemented across the industry. This rule is just the beginning - we need to include retail accounts too! Investors need to be protected in this constantly-changing industry, and this is the correct step to take in order to do so. No more delays - no repeal. We need to start taking action and doing so now. Every year we hear stories of investors being taken advantage of. This rule is a step in the right direction.

Sincerely,
