this will confirm my support to repeal the dol fiduciary rule:

thirty plus years in this industry leads me to believe that:

-it will increase costs to investors to gain access to retirement services

-it will cause an increase in litigation

-it limits competition in our industry by promoting consolidation

-favors passive investments for all investors rather than an arms length, full disclosure agreement between the advisor and the investor.

-it affects the ability of many Americans to gain access to retirement plan products and services.

I support full disclosure of costs, loads, fees and compensation(soft or hard)

I do not support unwarranted interference between me and my client.

cordially,

alan l. kranitz clu,cHfc
