Department of Labor,

I'm a relatively knowledgeable 59-year old investor, approaching a retirement in which I will have to keep working part time to make ends meet. Our current fiduciary rule helps me make the "leap of faith" that my money advisors are required to keep my needs paramount. Nothing about the fiduciary standard constrains financial advisers from providing broad-based investment advice to their clients—it would simply require them to do so with increased transparency and reduced conflicts of interest. I urge the Department of Labor to protect working people and retirees by fully implementing and enforcing the fiduciary rule.
