Subject: New Fiduciary Rules for Brokers - IRA Investor - Cannot invest my money in what I want to invest in to limit my risk

The new fiduciary rules are not in my best interest.

I was trying to invest in an IRA. My broker could not invest my money the way I wanted it to be invested. I wanted to invest these funds in a short-term bond fund in order to protect these funds from a potential stock market correction. I am forced to allocate some of my money in the stock market. I did not want my funds exposed to the stock market.

Please reconsider these rules.
