General Comment

I've been enrolled at work in SRI funds for many years and can vouch that SRIs perform financially as well or better than funds that invest in fossil fuels and other destructive industries. I understand that through the Department of Labor, there is a new proposal to undermine the ability of 401(k) and other employee retirement and pension plans to invest in funds that consider social and environmental criteria. This is a terrible mistake and the Department of Labor should not be questioning the inclusion of SRI options in employer retirement plans. My seven great-grandchildren and I rely on your good faith effort to protect my financial decisions to promote renewable energy for a greener world... and to NOT subsidize or support fossil fuel companies with my hard earned retirement savings. Thank you. Barbara O'Farrell, New York City
