I oppose this rule because ESG investments are considered a way to improve returns and minimize risk over time. Fiduciaries should be able to consider whether or not companies have established diverse leadership teams, whether they foster inclusive or discriminatory workplaces, and whether they engage in a variety of other practices that may impact a company's performance. This rule-making would hinder financial managers from being able to do the bidding of those whose money is invested.