General Comment

Our retirements are not to be used for political purposes blindly, or under the disguise of some better option. Corporations are responsible as AGENTS to maintain their fiduciary duty to return profits on the investment, not use those investments for their political purposes. If this is allowed to change without shareholders knowledge, it is a kin to taking one's own weapon to shoot them in the back.

We as investors have a right to know our investments are under our control, not the control of a unknown, unseen few to change our country and this world for their targeted end. If they want that type of control, I suggest they start a business, find their own investors, and steal their funds to do their will.

If these practices are allowed persist, many who they claim to be supporting will unwillingly suffer.

The Bible is clear, the root of all evil is the love of money. Not money but the love of it. This is about power and control, and using innocent investors who rely on the income from these funds to subvert their will. This practice is ungodly, subversive, and according to ERISA illegal. Enforce ERISA. Hold these boards accountable.
