General Comment

I support the Labor Department's proposed rule on ESG investing that would require financial advisors/managers to uphold their fiduciary responsibility and invest to maximize investor returns, not political agendas that may be out of step with investor values.

We live in an increasingly political and polarized climate, and, unfortunately, this climate has/is now infiltrating the investment market. Investors trust that their advisors/managers are working in their clients' best interests, not in the interest of political organizations or goals.

Thank you for your time. I hope to read that the proposed rule change is enacted into law.
