General Comment

My concern is that employer sponsored 401 plans and IRA plans that have the socially responsible funds without having a lot of options can force an individual to invest in something they do not believe in simply because there are no other options. I feel that that mutual funds that promote social issues and not investment returns should not be allowed in specific retirement options in sponsored or limited 401 or IRA plans. Retirement should be for generating the optimum to maximum return for the retiree to build the proper retirement nest egg.

Thank you,
