Why should my investment advisor/custodian/fiduciary have the right to use my money to support his/its eleemosynary/social/environmental interests. The job and fiduciary duty for the person investing my retirement money is to grow that money and keep it safe. How these two interests should be balanced is my decision in light of disclosures I receive about the investment objectives and strategies. It is not the job of my retirement fiduciary/custodian to decide what good causes my retirement money should support. That is my job to make those decisions with my money.

Thank you for your preliminary rules which basically take this approach. Please do not be influenced by the mob or social media shaming. They can not cancel the DOL.

Daniel MacIntyre