Federal Registrar John smith,

Approaching retirement years, I want to make sure that workers’ and retirees’ savings are able to be wisely invested in safe, sustainable ways that promote solid returns, a strong/robust economy, and a healthy society and planet. To do such, it means ensuring that new, updated rules completely reverse the politically motivated Trump-era rules by eliminating every prohibition and/or burden that discourages retirement plans from considering climate impact, workplace safety, racial equity, and other important conditions that affect the long-term sustainability of the business.

Thank you for your time and consideration of my views on this matter.

Tracy Johnston
