General Comment

Federal Registrar John smith,

Retirement accounts are, currently, tied inextricably to fossil fuels. If there's one thing that my Christian religion taught me, it is that what is below us is to be denied. Yet, to retire in this country, I have no choice but to further planet killing interests, to make the surface of the earth more like Hell. When I see churning machinery in the fields of Oklahoma, pulling up oil, or I see stacks with flames atop them, burning off the excess gas, I am transported to a vision of Hell, or for the secular, to a vision of Isengard. It is horrifying, and the goal of retirement should not further this comparison. Please let us stop!
