General Comment

Our retirement funds are all we have left after paying taxes for years and contributing our time and labour to society.

We therefore want to have our retirement funds managed in such a way that they are invested to benefit us financially, and not according to the latest ideological or social fad.

This administration should keep its hands to itself on this issue, and stop trying to tell professional managers, who have a fiduciary duty to us that the government neither seems to have nor even respects in others. Government interference in retirement fund investment policies is not needed nor wanted.
