General Comment

Federal Registrar John smith,

I support the Department of Labor's revision of the Trump era rules that will give workers and retirees greater ability to choose sustainable investment options and ensure their retirement plan managers consider sustainability as well.

Fund managers should be able to take critical factors like racial equity, workers issues, and climate change into account and should be able to choose sustainable investments that provide good returns and support a safe and resilient economy.

Please give retirees and their retirement plans the power and flexibility to decide which investments fit their needs, without the burdens and restrictions of the Trump-era rules.

Thank you.
