

After researching, the comment period is short in comparison to previous comment lengths on the same topic. The department's previous proposals to the application process had a 45-day comment period. A longer period is justified because these changes are far broader than those of 2010.