General Comment

Please don't pass this proposed rule--the ability to perform safe options trades is one of our top safeguards as investors. We can use options to reduce our risks and acquire securities at better prices or to help smooth market volatility and generate income for our retirement by accepting income in exchange for a promise to buy securities than we can find right now--all with lower risk and NO risk of ruin.

There are marvelous sources of education available so that individual investors, like me, can go find the training they need to execute these are strategies.

Options are an important freedom, a form of free speech, and an important safety valve for our markets. Please defend our freedoms and do not pass this rule.
