General Comment

What next? I have been selling covered calls in my IRA account to help with income in this days where one has difficulties making something out of the money one has scrimped and saved for during an entire lifetime of hard work.

Interest rates are kept artificially low, money markets don't pay anything, Bond income has dwindled, stocks are going crazy. Selling covered calls on a few stable stocks in my Ira account is just another way to earn some money. If I could work, I would to get extra income in the hopes to cover medical expenses that have skyrocketed with Obamacare. I have chronic fatigue and a few other problems that prevent me from working. Naturopathic doctors and treatment are not covered by Medicare. Do you want to squeeze blood out of a rock? Just stop meddling. Enough is enough.
