General Comment

This rule needs to not be passed. Many people, myself included, have taken the time to learn how to trade options and it has become a great tool for reducing portfolio risk while growing my assets. In addition, the informational tools provided by my broker allow me to research in order to make the best educated investments.