General Comment

I have been managing my own IRA accounts for over 10 years. It is an extremely important source of retirement income, particularly in this time of the Federal reserves interest rates at just about ZERO. Since retiring I have spent countless hours and days learning how to use the options market in a very low risk way. IT is the only way for me and countless others to enhance their retirement funds. I vehemently oppose any action taken that would keep me from using options in my IRAs because it would negatively affect my being able to "keep-up" with my families current standard of living. Thank you for the opportunity to give my side of this issues. Respectfully
