This is an outrage to the publics few ways of attempting to secure, preserve, protect, and grow those funds which will be necessary for a secure retirement during times of increasing costs, increasing risks of a decline in overall economy. There are few ways of securing retirement funds today, and changing the rules will simply penalize and diminish attempts by hard working citizens to retire gracefully.

KF