Notice:
I think RIN 1210-AB32 needs to be reviewed more by the common person with their own financial advisors. I mean the person who has only thousands invested needs time to review the proposed rules. Each person who owns even the very least amount in stocks, bonds, etc. needs to be able to trade these unhindered... even if they choose to pay a financial advisor to do so for them. The new or small investor needs all the flexibility he/she can get.

Thanks,
