Please continue to allow trading options in retirement accounts. I am a year old retiree who has been doing so for several years after receiving proper instruction on how to do so safely. This has added greatly to the value of my accounts, even though I have monthly withdrawals to supplement my income. Please note that the great majority of people who trade options in retirement accounts do so with proper education and are conservative in their approach. To not allow option trading in retirement accounts would be a GREAT hardship to many seniors who supplement their income in this way. Please hear us in this regard. Thank-you. Patricia Seamans
