Dear Sir,

I object to the inclusion of the provision in this proposed legislation to prohibit me from trading options in my retirement account. I understand how options work and need them for two reasons -

1. They allow me to make extra income by selling covered calls on the stocks that I own.
2. They allow me to buy protective puts on stocks that I own to protect me from downside losses.

I would prefer not to have to sell quality stocks that I believe in every time the market goes through a correction. Please consider removing this part of the legislation.

Thanks,
Carla Moore
