I would like to comment on the proposed changes to disallow options trading in IRA accounts. My wife and I have been selling options such as uncovered puts and covered calls to enhance my returns over the last 10 years in my SEP and IRA accounts. It is important to understand that the ability to provide option trades is paramount to providing some element of income in my retirement. I cannot receive any safer way to increase returns without this feature.

It is a safe way to produce returns because selling covered calls and uncovered puts on highly capital efficient companies is by far safer than any other method. By taking away this option, you decrease my chances greatly from realizing a better retirement.

Thank you
