Subject: Delay in Rule Implementation

I am in strong agreement with the proposed delay. The Fiduciary Legislation was pushed through without significant input from the most impacted industries and proposes a solution that lacks a problem. Instead, it simply enhances the opportunity for expensive and counterproductive legal actions which will not help the consumer but will certainly fill the pockets of private action attorneys. The alleged goal of consumer protection is not served by excessive litigation.

Thank you,

Michael LaMarche
