

Your Financial Future Starts Now Webcast

April 27, 2021
2:00 pm – 3:30 pm ET

For college seniors about to graduate and new entrants to the workforce, it is an exciting time in your life. Congratulations! Now is also the time to get a good start on your financial life. Starting this new phase of your life highlights the need for understanding basic financial steps you can take like budgeting and managing debt. This is the key to your financial wellness now and in the future.

We know there are many financial demands you face. Some are immediate, like rent and student loan payments, and some are long-term goals, like saving for a home and/or retirement.

To help you get started, the U.S. Department of Labor, the U.S. Department of Education and the Federal Trade Commission, will provide information and tools for creating your own financial plan to manage your money. Take charge of your financial future – join us for discussions on student loans, budgeting, credit and credit scores, managing debt, setting financial goals, taking advantage of employee benefits, saving for retirement, and more.

Take steps to develop the knowledge and habits to achieve your financial goals and long-term financial health. Start now so you can do the things you want to do in the future. The first step is signing up for this free webcast today!

Please register for the webcast and the link for the event will be emailed to you.

Individuals with disabilities who need special accommodations please email golding.debra@dol.gov

The list of attendees will be available upon request. Please email golding.debra@dol.gov if you do not want your name shared.