SOURCE DOCUMENTATION REQUIREMENTS FOR PROGRAM YEAR
(PY) 2010 NFJP DATA ELEMENT VALIDATION

This appendix presents the data elements to be validated with their associated WIASPR number, element definitions, valid values, federal validation sources, state/grantee sources, and validation instructions needed to perform data element validation. The federal sources are the generic, federally recommended source documentation. The "State/Grantee Sources" column can be used to enter grantee-specific versions of the federally approved documentation.

Two types of validation rules exist:

1. If the validation instruction cell says MATCH: Enter a checkmark in the box in the pass column if the data on the validation worksheet match the data in the source documentation. Enter a checkmark in the box in the fail column if the data on the worksheet do not match the data in the source documentation or if no source documentation is found. To match, the data on the worksheet must be the same as the data in the source documentation. For example, if the worksheet says a participant's date of birth is July 1, 1975, then the source documentation must also have July 1, 1975 as the birth date.

2. If the validation instruction says SUPPORT: Enter a checkmark in the box in the pass column if the data on the validation worksheet are supported by the data in the source documentation. Enter a checkmark in the box in the fail column if the data on the worksheet are not supported by the data in the source documentation or if no source documentation is found. To support, the data on the worksheet must be similar to the data in the source documentation. This instruction is used when information must be interpreted or processed before it can be applied to the participant's records. For example, source documentation can support farmworker status in different ways, by a code or narrative or other information.

For the most part, the definition of a particular source is clear. Grantees may, however, have questions about three sources—Grantee Management Information System (MIS), Self-Attestation, and Case Notes. Definitions for these three types of source documentation are:

1. MIS: Unless otherwise noted, MIS refers to specific, detailed information which supports an element that is stored in the grantee's information system. An indicator alone, such as a checkmark on a computer screen, is not acceptable source documentation. For example, a grantee's MIS is acceptable source documentation for date of exit if it identifies the last service received in addition to the date on which that service was received.
2. Self-Attestation: Self-attestation occurs when a participant states his or her status for a particular data element and then signs and dates a form acknowledging this status. The key elements for self-attestation are: (a) the participant identifying his or her status for permitted elements and (b) the signing and dating of a form attesting to this self-identification. The form and signature can be on paper or in the state management information system, with an online signature.
3. Case Notes: Case notes refer to either paper or electronic statements by the case manager that identifies, at a minimum, the following: a participant's status for a specific data element, the date on which the information was obtained, and the case manager who obtained the information.
