

Overview

On June 21, 2021 the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) awarded 6 grants totaling $25.5 million to support young adults who were involved with the juvenile or adult criminal justice system. Young Adult Reentry Partnership (YARP-2) grants support partnerships with community colleges, the criminal justice system and employers, employer associations, unions providing training, or labor-management partnerships, that focus on occupations in industries with high local demand and offer these young adults living wages.

“The Biden-Harris administration is committed to creating more opportunities for justice-involved individuals to complete high school and college, enter apprenticeships and share the benefits as our economy continues to recover,” said Secretary of Labor Marty Walsh. “By investing in programs to prepare these individuals for job opportunities, the Labor Department is also investing in our communities and our families.”

YARP-2 grants aid recipients in strengthening their partnerships and link these young adults – from age 18 to 24 – with training, apprenticeships and employment in growth industries, as well as other opportunities that will lead to successful reentry into their communities.
