This TAA overview is designed to provide American Job Center partners, employers, case managers, participants, and the public with up-to-date program information and to facilitate the sharing of best practices to ensure participants achieve success.

The following info graphics show recent trends at different stages of TAA Program participation; the TAA petition and investigations process; and TAA participant training and employment results that are tracked within the first nine months after participants exit the program.

In addition, key program features are highlighted to show how specific benefits and services improve employment outcomes for TAA participants.

Below is the trend of median investigation time during the year ending with the current quarter:

To obtain TAA reemployment services and benefits a petition must be filed by a group of three or more workers; an employer of a group of workers; a certified or recognized union; a state employment security agency; an American Job Center Operator/Partner; or another Duly Authorized Representative. The U.S. Department of Labor's Office of Trade Adjustment Assistance (OTAA) will initiate an investigation when a complete petition is filed by any of these parties.

Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) Overview: Based on 7/1/2021 through 6/30/2022 (except where otherwise noted)

A petition may be filed by:

- Three or more workers in the same firm or subdivision
  - The workers' employer
  - A recognized union official or other duly authorized representative of such workers
  - American Job Center operators or partners (including state workforce agencies).
- The majority of petitions are filed by a state or local workforce representative.

After accepting a complete petition, OTAA will initiate an investigation to determine whether the group of workers covered by the petition meets the group eligibility requirements of the Trade Act.

Upon completing an investigation, OTAA will issue either an affirmative determination certifying the worker group as eligible to apply for TAA services and benefits if the workers are found to meet the statutory group eligibility criteria, or a negative determination denying the worker group certification if those criteria have not been met. OTAA may also terminate an investigation if it does not require a final determination.* The percentages of petitions certified, denied and terminated in the most recent quarter are as follows:

Petitions Filed by Petitioner Type

MIS Data for 7/1/2021 through 6/30/2022

Determinations by Determination Type

MIS Data for 7/1/2021 through 6/30/2022

*Investigations may be terminated because the petitioner requests withdrawal, the petition is invalid, there is an existing certification covering the group of workers, there is another investigation in process, a negative determination has been recently issued, or other reasons.

States are responsible for identifying the trade-affected workers covered by a certification, informing them of suitable training opportunities, reviewing such opportunities with the workers, providing additional information including time limits for applying for benefits and services, and advising and assisting workers as is required by the Trade Act, regulations, and operating instructions issued by the Department. Workers covered by a certified petition must establish individual eligibility for benefits and services. TAA offers a variety of benefits and services to support workers in their search for reemployment. This includes Trade Readjustment Allowance (TRA), training, Reemployment Trade Adjustment Assistance (RTAA), and job search and relocation allowances.

This program seeks to provide adversely affected workers with opportunities to obtain the skills, credentials, resources, and support necessary to become reemployed. Congress defined Primary Indicators of Performance (PIP) that serve as evaluation metrics for job training and employment programs. Find details about these indicators at: <https://www.dol.gov/agencies/eta/tradeact/practitioners/participant-reporting/performance>

There are some exclusions and caveats discussed in the indicator details.

Observation 1: Make a Plan

TAA participants must work with their case managers to make the most of benefits and services provided under the TAA program. After all, the purpose of employment and case management services is to provide workers the necessary information and support for them to achieve sustainable reemployment. For example, skill assessments must be geared towards evaluating whether the worker meets the TAA training criteria or matches up to specific career opportunities in the community. The individual employment plan must use and be guided by the results of the skill assessments. The employment plan should, in turn, lead to support for finding suitable employment and/or development of a training plan that addresses any skill gaps made evident by the assessments, including remedial or prerequisite training where appropriate.

More can be done to ensure participants use the benefits and services available to them and become reemployed.

Most TAA participants develop an Individual Employment Plan which establishes a “road map” to reach occupational and employment goals. These goals are based on an ind..

Observation 2: Get RTAA, If You Qualify

The RTAA benefit provides a wage supplement when workers making up to $50,000 annually accept certain new employment at a lower wage. RTAA payments may total 50% of the difference between adversely affected wages and new employment wages, with a maximum of $10,000 paid over a period of up to two years. RTAA recipients can work full time or work part time if they are enrolled in training. For more information on RTAA eligibility, please see TEGL No. 5-15, Change 1, Attachment A, Section H, located here:

Participants who participate in RTAA are more likely to retain their employment than those who do not.

The majority of participants aged 50 and older who exit from the TAA Program do not participate in RTAA. Although participation in RTAA is generally increasing, it remains an underutilized benefit and we encourage targeted outreach to eligible applicants.
