Impact-at-Glance: US Pay Equity Laws & Salary History Question Bans

Locations

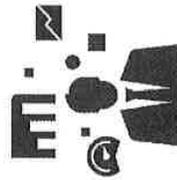

Various states and local municipalities have passed laws affecting comp practices. More coming...

Scope

Differences across legislation includes salary definition, prohibited and allowable actions, etc.

Risk

Litigation, fines*, reputation, competition, complexity of incremental compliance/change implementation

Actions

Requires one broad approach US wide with changes to policies, practices, communications, systems, mindsets, and behavior

*Grace period for fines varies by jurisdiction

Business Decision: One Approach US-Wide

Due to the varying laws and the risks of non-compliance with a fragmented approach, Oracle decided to do one uniform, US-wide rollout of changes.

- ✓ One System
- ✓ One Practice
- ✓ One Approach

Effective October 31, 2017

Re-frame manager/candidate compensation conversations:

- Focus on pay expectations, vs. actual pay history
- No Oracle employee or agent will ask a candidate for his/her current or past salary when hiring for a US work location
- Require more thorough documentation of job classification and pay decisions (starting pay, pay increases, retention pay increases, bonuses, and equity grants)

Supporting the New Legislation in the Hiring Process

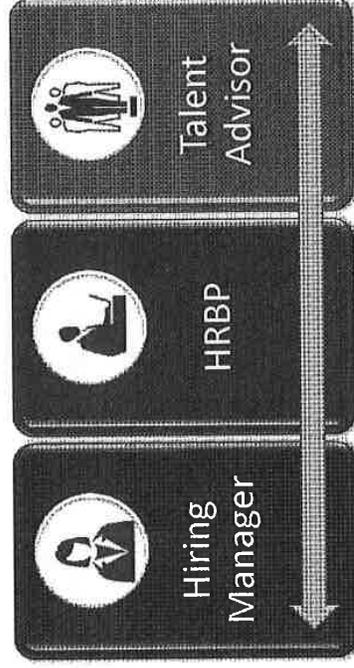

What is changing

- Only change is NOT asking candidates for current or prior salary
- Removed current salary field from offer form in iRecruitment (Sept. 23)
- Modified Candidate Profile Summary used by Talent Advisors for screening

Please support the change across the business—you are the advocate for this legislation

What is NOT changing

- Continue to ensure successful hiring through a strong partnership in the hiring process between Hiring Managers, HRBPs, and Talent Advisors

Reframing the Candidate Salary Question

What you used to say

- What is your current salary?
- In your current sales role, what are your annual earnings?
- Are there any other data points I should have as I move forward to obtain the appropriate approvals to make you an offer? (This might be considered prompting for a response to salary.)

What you can say now

- What are your expectations regarding salary?
- What is your expected Total Compensation?
- What is your current (or recent past) sales attainment percentage? How did you rank in sales compared to your peers?
- To meet your salary expectations, at what point (dollar-wise) would you accept our hiring offer? At what point might you reject an offer?
- What financial benefit would you forego in order to accept this role (e.g., unvested equity or a future bonus through a current employer)?

Next Steps

What we're working on to support adoption of this change

- Ongoing communication, training and tools for both HR and Managers

What you can do

- Support the change across the business – you are the advocate for positive change
- Identify updates needed: Are you aware of any documentation that indicates or requests the use of a candidate's prior salary?
 - If yes, identify and report this information via the HR-only OSN conversation to ensure the information is updated and revised to be consistent with Oracle's new approach
- Ask questions and share ideas within the HR-only OSN conversation
